HUMAN ARTIFICIAL INSEMINATION

At the meeting of the House of Bishops in El Paso, Texas, you requested the Department of Christian Social Relations of the National Council to pursue a study of the subject of human artificial insemination and to report at the next meeting of the House of Bishops.

The Department of Christian Social Relations welcomed this charge and now wishes to make a progress report.

Our members have read the report on this subject prepared for the Archbishop of Canterbury and other literature. Out of our own discussions we defined the following procedural methods for the study:

1. At least two regional committees should be set up where representatives of the clergy and laity could discuss the subject in cooperation with Churchmen representing the medical, legal, and social work professions.
2. Literature and objective data of American experience should be secured.
3. If possible, our statement should be prepared as a supplementary commentary to the Archbishop's report so that they might be published together.
4. Either the report itself or an additional publication should treat the subject in such fashion that it would be readily useful to the clergy as a helpful guide in pastoral counselling.

In pursuing these procedures and goals we met with some unanticipated difficulties which slowed our progress. The Archbishop's report was out of print, and it has taken more time than expected to bring together Churchmen of the professional competence we need.

This subject is too important to be treated lightly, and rather than rush through a quick report for this meeting of the House of Bishops, we wish to make this progress report, to assure you that we will pursue the study more actively, and to request that you continue the charge to us for report at your next meeting.

Respectfully submitted,

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL
DEPARTMENT OF CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS
The Bishop of Minnesota, Chairman.
Almon R. Pepper, Director.

A STATEMENT OF THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS REGARDING HOLY COMMUNION AT ECUMENICAL GATHERINGS

At the General Convention of 1949 a resolution from the Diocese of Michigan requesting clarification of the policy to be followed "with reference to inter-communion with members of other Communions during conferences whose purpose is to further the Ecumenical Movement" was presented to the House of Bishops. The following statement, deliberately limited to such occasions, has been approved by the House of Bishops in response to this request.

We rejoice that in recent years long separated companies of people who accept Jesus Christ as God and Saviour have been seeking to overcome our unhappy divisions. He who is our High Priest prays that those whom the Father has given Him may be one as He and the Father are one. He calls all who confess Him to make His prayer our own. His prayer for us and our prayers in His name cannot be fully answered until we may kneel together to receive Holy Communion as one flock under one Shepherd. Indeed there is no full expression of Christian unity without that. No other level of united life and work can make up for the lack of it.

But the very fact that long separated companies of Christ's people are turning towards one another confronts us with new problems and perplexities. One of the happiest features of our unhappy times has been the drawing together of Christians of many traditions for mutual understanding, for fellowship, for shared service and shared witness and for mutual help. Exceptionally informed leaders, lay men and lay women, students and young people have all shared in this experience. At these gatherings there is often a deep experience of Christian fellowship in faith and prayer. The desire is increasingly felt to crown this experience by a shared act of Holy Communion. Yet just here we confront the most stubborn obstacles of deep conviction and here the distress of conscientious inability to unite is most deeply felt.

Holy Communion is the most sacred action of the Church as the Body of Christ. In it the Church as a body indwelt by the Holy Spirit celebrates before the eternal Father the self-offering of Christ for us and to us. In it we believe Christ is truly present and those who receive Him by faith and join their self-offering with His receive His life and power. Just because this is a sacred action of such high meaning our own Church and many other Churches have sought to insure that those who celebrate Holy Communion do so with the authority of the body whose action it is, and that those who share in it are informed of its meaning and are responsibly committed to the faith and fellowship of the Church in whose life it is so central.

While recognizing differences among us, our own Church has treasured jealously the due ordination and authorization of those who are permitted to celebrate Holy Communion. And we have sought, often very imperfectly, to guard against uninformed and irresponsible participation by the requirement of instruction and Confirmation before the granting of regular communicant status.

These considerations and many others confront us when we seek to move towards fuller unity with our separated brethren in Christ. It is a disservice to the cause of unity to imagine that our divisions are insurmountable, or to underestimate them by imagining that they are based only on habit or prejudice. This is supremely the case when it comes to the most painful division of all—in the Holy Sacrament. Our differences here—our differences within our own Communion, and our differences with those in other Communion—are not merely matters of words or vestments, but of fundamental questions of faith and order. To act as if these differences in principle do not exist makes the task of reunion harder. Our differences must be confronted alike in honesty and in brotherly love.

In the light of the considerations already mentioned, the practice of the ecumenical movement generally, as well as of our Anglican Churches around the world, has been not to plan "joint" Communion services at inter-church gatherings. By "joint" Communion services we mean services at which ministers of two or more separated Churches or Communion share in the celebration and administration of the sacrament. Churches, not conference committees, rightfully celebrate the Lord's Supper. Two or more Churches can only join through the shared action of their ministers in a "joint" Communion when they fully recognize and accept one another's ministries.

Within the ecumenical movement at its most responsible levels it has become common for the host Church in the place where a meeting in the interest of Christian unity is held to provide a celebration of the Holy Communion at which communicant members of other Churches participating in the conference are invited to receive the sacrament if their consciences permit. Bishops of the Anglican Communion have not infrequently been the celebrants at such services according to the use of our Book of Common Prayer.

We must recognize that in the ecumenical movement we are confronted by new problems and relationships with which the Rubrics and Canons of our Church have not been primarily concerned. In determining our course here we must weigh together the precious values in our own inheritance which we must seek to guard and our calling to give expression to our shared life in Christ with brothers of other traditions wherever it is found in sincerity and truth.

There may well be times, at gatherings for a responsible ecumenical purpose, when a Bishop of our Church within whose jurisdiction the meeting occurs will decide that for a particular occasion an invitation may properly be issued to all baptized communicant members of other Churches present to receive the Holy Communion at our Prayer Book celebration. As is recognized increasingly in the higher levels of the ecumenical movement, it is particularly important that on such occasions proper preparation for and interpretation of the sacrament shall be provided, with special emphasis on the note of penitence for our separation from each other. We are agreed that such an exception to our normal rule may properly be made by a Bishop in his own Diocese, where the general principles of this statement are understood.

We recognize that there will be times at such ecumenical meetings when members of our Church will be invited to receive Holy Communion at services of other Christian bodies. We do not generally encourage this participation. There may be members of our Church who in ecumenical settings and in accordance with their own individual consciences will receive Holy Communion in non-Episcopal services. They must realize that under the circumstances they are acting upon their own responsibility and are not committing their Church.

In making their decisions we hope that members of our Church will remember that we shall not have unity by wishing for it, but only by honestly and painfully facing the facts and the causes of disunity and solving them together in a straightforward way. The unity of our own Church family in this whole process is, we feel, an essential preliminary. If we, as individuals, are impatient with the limitations which disunity imposes on us, it is good that we should be impatient, and even better that we should remember our Lord's pain at our disunity and work all the harder to reach that agreement in mind and will which will make one communion and fellowship possible.

The House rose.

The Chair presented to the House, His Grace, the Most Reverend Walter Foster Barfoot, D.D., Archbishop of Edmonton and Primate of All Canada, who addressed the House.

THE PASTORAL LETTER

Issued by the House of Bishops, September 19, 1952

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

Once again we have met in the household of faith, to make our common plans and to gain strength from one another. We have met with thankful hearts, thankful for the unity which it has pleased God to establish among us, thankful for the work which lies ahead of us to do. Chiefly we are minded to give thanks for the renewed assurance that where we do our part, boldly and confidently, in straight-forward discipleship, God does not fail to give the increase. There is evidence of this on every hand. From one diocese after another come notable reports of adult confirmations, conversions, in numbers greater than ever recorded. Where the Church speaks thoughtfully and deeply, the world hears as, at least in our time, it has never heard before.

We note with thanksgiving the great numbers, especially of mature men, who now offer themselves for the ministry of the Church. There are not yet enough to meet the needs of our unprecedented expansion, and not enough of them are the sons of our own families; yet they are testimony to the power of God to call men through a Church which is clear and sharp in its witness to its faith. Again, we hear on all sides of the increasingly forthright discipleship of our lay people. In our day a man or a woman is not likely to profess the Christian faith unless he means business by it. We give thanks for all this. The Episcopal Church has never known a time when the work to be done was as clearly seen as it is now, or when there was greater evidence of the grace of God to fulfill what we begin in faith.

We feel also that with the thanksgiving there is and should be not a little disquiet and penitence. Many of our people ask themselves sincerely why, for all the millions of faithful Christians the world over, for all the centuries of witness, the power of Christianity has seemed sometimes to count for so little. Knowing as we do the power and truth of God, we wonder why the world seems so often unaffected and unmoved by Him. With half a world in rebellion against a faith which should have been a blessing to them, with nations living in fear and suspicion where God's peace should prevail, with man's best and most admirable skills turned to means of destruction, we are troubled to know what account we may give of our stewardship.

It does not answer the question simply to say that we wish the world were not like this, or to condemn the secular world for not being Christian. The Kingdom of God is not made out of dreams and wishes; the Kingdom comes only where the King's will is done. Therefore it is not enough simply to be superficially thankful or easily sorry. Self-examination and penitence are the sure doors of hope.

For what are we chiefly called to examine ourselves? In our time God expects at least these two things of His Church: that we shall discern the signs of the times, and that we shall bear clear and loyal witness in our generation. These we have not always done. We have not seen deeply enough the real needs and situation of men; we have not demonstrated the distinctive character of Christian discipleship. To the degree that we have failed, the world has dismissed us and our faith with a shrug. We are passed by as irrelevant people, pleasant and well-meaning, whose God is optional, whose faith has no bearing, one way or the other, on the real structure and meaning of life; and the world has gone about its work as if it made no difference whether there were a God or not.

Indeed, when we Christians act as if God were no more than the private concern of a trivial and unconverted Church, then the world is quite right in regarding Him as optional. In truth, what is really happening is what happens whenever God's Church fails him: He gets His work done by strangers who do not yield him praise.

The secular world is Judgment; first of all God's judgment on a Church which has not sought to understand His will clearly, nor to follow Him on His way. We must then, first of all, accept the judgment in penitence, and set about our task with the faith and hope which only penitence can give.

AN UNPRECEDENTED SEARCH FOR UNITY

What are the signs of the times which God expects us to discern? One is surely the unprecedented search for unity, both in the divided world and in the divided Church. The world sets about its task with the best means it has; and we pray God's blessing on those means, imperfect as they are. It is right that nations seek stronger and more enduring unity, and find the way to put behind them old and now meaningless nationalisms. For all the blessings which national life has brought us, the conception of absolute national sovereignty is an anachronism. In the words of a resolution of this Convention, "The only possible pathway to world peace lies through collective security." Indeed, with all thoughtful citizens, we pledge our support to the United Nations organization, and hope for its future development into a world federation open to all peoples, and capable of maintaining the peace.

But the world well says to us, Physician, heal thyself. With what power can a Church, complacent in its divisions, speak to a world which knows that division means death? What account can we give to God, Who gave us at the beginning a society where there was "neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free," Who gave us unity, that we might give it to the world? What account can we give now of that stewardship?

God does not expect us to be unfaithful to truth, nor does He ask that honest differences of conviction be compromised. Convictions are the surest pathway to truth; and history cannot be undone in a minute. But God does expect us to be unwavering and sincere in our own search for unity. We must refuse to accept as a final goal anything less than that His people shall be one, as the Son is with the Father. He expects us to discern the signs of the times; and the first of them is man's urgent and terrible need to be one.

THE RESTLESSNESS OF MULTITUDES

A second sign is the prodigious restlessness of multitudes on this earth who, in time past, have counted for little in human affairs, who now relentlessly work and fight for a wider freedom and a greater dignity than life has ever given them. This is the prime political reality of our time.

It may be that they are seeking more than man can ever fully have; it may be that they often choose bitter means which in the end will only cheat them of their hope; the fact of the awakening and struggle remains, in every part of the world; and it ill becomes those whom Christ called the "leaven in the lump" to be insensitive to the ferment around us. It is God's gift that men and women everywhere, beating against racial and national walls, should refuse to take for granted the unfair and arbitrary fortunes of history. Christians should be instant to hear and answer the protest against injustice and exploitation and discrimination, not because we idly pretend to pass judgment on history, but because it is of God that men should resent injustice.

We do well to reject, immediately and unconditionally, the persuasive half-truths of atheistic materialism. They are illusions as far as they are sincere at all; and can only end by destroying man himself. But they speak to real needs; and those who propose them are often more willing than we to share the injustices and misery which their brothers suffer. We who should be the first to know that we are what our brothers are, too often act and speak as if these protests were no concern of ours. Too often, again, we fail to read the signs of the times, or see that God is working His purposes out, using what rod of His anger He will.

AN INCREDIBLE INCREASE IN POWER

Still another sign, of greatest import, is the vast power which technical skill and the richness of the earth and the fathomless curiosity and inventiveness of man have made available to us. No man can tell what is impossible for us to do. The answers even to the immemorial problems of poverty and sickness and age seem to lie almost within our grasp.

That well-nigh incredible increase in power is not easy to fit into our inherited ways of life. It does not readily respond to our traditional moral controls. It has outrun the familiar Christian answers. Indeed they seem sometimes hopelessly irrelevant to the actual choices we are daily obliged to make.

We still speak of the dignity of work or of a man's vocation, for instance, when, for the great majority of men in industrial plants, those words seem to have little meaning. There may be dignity in our work, and God may really call us to do it; but it no longer suffices simply to use the words. So do we still speak of charity in a world which now imagines that its technical power and political ingenuity have somehow made charity obsolete. We still speak of freedom to a generation which hardly dares any more to believe that freedom means anything or is worth fighting for.

It is no wonder that we are a homesick generation, seeking to recapture a lost simplicity in life. We almost wish we did not know as much as we do. Like the scientists waiting for the first atomic explosion, we are torn between our expectation that the experiment would work and our prayer that by some miracle, it would fail, and we be set free from the problems it creates.

Nowhere is this uncertainty more apparent than in the plain choices of right and wrong. We have seen, with greatest pain and concern, a glowing carelessness with truth and ruthless disregard for honor, often even in the public life of the nation itself. Expediency and compromise seem to be master to many of our people. This is not simply human wickedness. It is that; but it also reflects deeper uncertainties, as to whether the ancient absolutes have any meaning in a world which knows so much about how to manage and contrive. Many a boy or girl, when most ready to be faced with great and fundamental moral issues, learns instead, in the market place or on the radio, that it is outmoded to believe in virtue or manliness any more. It is no wonder that he comes to believe that all truth is relative, and that the eternal fight to be free and true is really an illusion.

Yet with all the moral uncertainties and the uneasiness of spirit which our immense new powers awaken, still they are of God. The secular world and its skills is God's world. The problems and dilemmas with which our new powers confront us are part of our discipleship. God has answers for them, if we will but ask the right questions, in faith, and with honest minds. How often men have said to preachers that in our sermons we do not answer the questions which people really ask, or that we seem to talk about a different world than the one they know! We do well to ask whether we have discerned this sign aright.

What is the distinctive witness God expects us to bear? How shall we bear it?

Where we fail, we do so in taking the Church as an end instead of as a means; in forgetting that it is the one group in society which exists mainly for the sake of those who do not belong to it. A Church which concentrates on its own existence is doomed from the start. It will never see beyond itself. A Church which speaks of nothing except religion in the narrow, technical sense, has no mission to the secular world.

THE CHURCH: A FRONTIER COLONY

God is concerned, in this world, that "earth shall be fair and all its people one." That is His will, and the first concern of the Church and of true religion. The Church is a colony of that fairer and truer world, established on the frontier of this world. God has the right to expect of us that we hold ourselves to the standards of that truer world, and speak boldly as we ought to speak of what its demands and promises are.

It is then our first duty to expect the best and highest from ourselves. We must not say that we are better people than our brothers. "There is none right nor good save one, that is God." But we must say, and say it without hesitation, that the disciple who commits himself to God and loyally and bravely tries to follow Him, has a different life to live. His family will show the difference, in the heightening of its loyalties and its common joy.

A sense of vocation will touch and bless us all in families, with sons and daughters eager to welcome that ministry to which God may call them.

In our own personal discipline there will be a deeper sense of stewardship. Little or much, time, money, abilities, they are God's gifts and sacramental signs and means of His love. We will learn how to be masters of those gifts by making them serve God and man. This is true stewardship and true freedom. If we are ready to give more of ourselves, so will we be ready to expect greater things from God.

THE DISTINCTIVE LIFE OF THE DISCIPLE

Against the divided world again, the distinctive life of the disciple will be apparent. We will be more and more dissatisfied with lip-service to the cause of Christian unity, knowing that nothing is wholly real which is not local, taking the initiative among our own neighbors and in our own communities to act together in all matters save those on which our cardinal convictions compel us to act separately.

We will take a greater responsibility toward the wider disunity of mankind. As Christian citizens we will know that the world needs immense new freedom and courage to take the steps which lie ahead, and we will know that such freedom and courage cannot co-exist with fear. Therefore, we will be quick to do our duty when we vote and speak, to remember that God still reigns, that it is His world, and that our peace lies in His will. We will remember that the Christian citizen prays as well as votes; and we will help translate man's universal longing for peace into specific acts and seasons of prayer, most of all for those who choose to be our enemies.

Last of all, the disciple will remember his children, and will work and pray that they may inherit a world better for his discipleship. He will seek for them a world of principle, not of expediency. He will hope that they may expect the greatest things from their marriage and their home, knowing that the world expects too little. He will work that the unanswered questions of our society may be clearer for them, and they better trained to answer them. He will live so as to encourage them to believe in duty and in freedom, knowing that those are the most precious gifts life can ever give them.

With thanksgiving, then, for what God has done among us, with penitence because we have not always seen what He wills us to see, with hope in what He will yet lead us to see and to do, and with eagerness to take up the unfinished work of creation in which we are partners with God, "Be ye stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

The Bishop of Massachusetts spoke on the National Convention of Canterbury Clubs, and presented the following messages therefrom:

"We, students of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America in Convention assembled, believe that students today tend to relegate the Living Christ to an inferior position in their lives and to accept in His stead a comfortably nominal Christianity. We believe that unless man builds a society founded upon and permeated by the love for God under the Lordship of Christ, the result will be continued disintegration of society as evidenced in the current world situation.

"We believe that Christianity's answer to this current world situation, being the answer to all the problems of mankind, is the great love of God for man as revealed by the Life, Death, and Resurrection of Our Lord Jesus Christ and in the power of the Holy Spirit.

"We believe that our duty as Episcopal college and university students is to spread this gospel of redemptive love by seeking to know the Christ and to make Him known.

"We have established the National Canterbury Association to provide an opportunity for students to receive the teachings and life of Christ through the faith and practice of the Episcopal Church, and to witness in our colleges and universities to the Lordship of Christ over the whole life of mankind."

"PRO CHRISTO PER ECCLESIAM AD COLLEGIUM

January 5, 1951.

"To all Canterbury Clubs and other Episcopal student groups, to college chaplains and Bishops:

"Greetings from the National Canterbury Association!

"The National Episcopal Student Constituting Convention has completed its task and the National Canterbury Association is now a reality. We are looking toward a strong federation of clubs to act and to witness to the Lordship of Christ over the whole life of mankind. Delegates from all over the nation have returned to their Dioceses to tell college groups about the Association. You will be hearing more about this from your provincial representatives on the Executive Commission who will coordinate the work of the movement.

"May God's blessing and guidance be with all our efforts and may all that we do be to His glory and the welfare of His Church.

Sincerely,

JOHN MORRIS."

The Bishop of Massachusetts presented the following report on the matter of pre-enrollment in theological seminaries:

PRE-ENROLLMENT UNDER SELECTIVE SERVICE ACT

The Deans of the seminaries, at a meeting held on December 28th, 1950, discussed Public Law 759 and especially Section 6 (g), quoted as follows: "Students preparing for the ministry under the direction of recognized churches . . . who are satisfactorily pursuing full-time courses of instruction leading to their entrance into recognized theological or divinity schools in which they have been pre-enrolled shall be exempt from training and service."

The Deans agreed to take uniform action in regard to exemptions under this Act and that pre-enrollment should be granted only in exceptional cases under the following minimum conditions:

1. That the applicant be a postulant.
2. That the Seminary receive a letter from the applicant's Bishop containing a positive request for pre-enrollment.
3. That the Seminary receive a transcript of the applicant's college work covering at least two academic years.
4. That the applicant should undertake to pursue in college under the direction of the seminary faculty the course of studies recommended by the American Association of Theological Schools.

If an applicant meets these minimum conditions and the Seminary decides to grant him pre-enrollment, a certification letter should be issued in the form which follows:

"This is to certify that Mr. A..... B..... has applied for admission to The . . . Theological Seminary, that he has been pre-enrolled as a student therein, and that he will be admitted upon the satisfactory completion of the Seminary's entrance requirements."

(Signed).....

Dean.

Such certification letter should be accompanied by a written statement to the applicant that the Seminary does not consider itself bound by this action to admit the applicant at a future date, unless he then satisfies the faculty of his general fitness to undertake preparation for the ministry.

The Bishop of Virginia addressed the House on the matter of clergy salaries.

The matter of compulsory retirement of the clergy was taken from the Calendar, and the Bishop of Tennessee addressed the House on the subject, but no action was taken.

The Bishop of Chicago gave a vivid picture of his trip to Japan and the Philippines, citing much of the splendid work being done by the Church there.

The Bishop of Washington spoke on the World Council of Churches, and was followed by the Bishop of Bethlehem, on the National Council of Churches.

The Bishop of Newark addressed the House on the matter of the continued study by the Committee of the present Marriage Canon.

The Bishop of Newark presented the following matters relevant to the inclusion of ordained clergymen under the provisions of the Social Security Act:

1. What is or is not exercise of the ministry is not determined by whether the minister is or is not covered in a pension plan or whether a minister does or does not want coverage in the federal system.
2. Exercise of ministry can be duties performed for organizations outside the religious field, including secular organizations, as well as duties performed for organizations in the religious field.
  - e.g. The chaplain of a state institution, or of a non-Church home for the aged, or in the U. S. Armed Forces may justly consider he is exercising his ministry.
3. Exercise of ministry can be duties performed for organizations in the fields of education and social work, regardless of whether or not the organizations come within the administrative authority of a Church.
  - e.g. The headmaster of a boys' school or an administrator of a non-sectarian relief organization may justly consider he is exercising his ministry.
4. Exercise of ministry shall include the performance of administrative duties for religious organizations.
  - e.g. Administrators of religious boards and bureaus may justly consider they are exercising their ministry.
5. The test of whether the duties a minister is performing are duties which his Church has imposed upon him without choice on his part or are duties which he has taken up by his own choice is not a valid test of what is or is not exercise of the ministry. Many of the Churches are not authoritarian in the matter of placing their ministers.
6. The test of whether the duties a clergyman is performing may or may not be performed by a layman is not ordinarily a valid test of what is or is not exercise of the ministry. There are many duties which laymen can perform, but which when performed by a minister may justly be considered by him as exercise of his ministry, as for instance teaching in a theological school.

On motion of the Bishop of Newark, the following resolution was adopted:

Resolved, That the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America approves the foregoing statement with regard to the inclusion of ordained ministers in social security coverage, and directs that the statement be transmitted to the proper authorities in Washington.

On motion, the House adjourned.

THE PROVINCIAL ORGANIZATION OF THE CHURCH

Upon the invitation of the Presiding Bishop, the Presidents of the Provinces met for conference in El Paso, on Tuesday, January 9, 1951. The purpose of this conference was two-fold: (1) to discover how the different Provinces function, and (2) to discuss and evaluate the methods and procedures by which the Provinces might become more effective in promoting the life and welfare of the Church.

Generally speaking, the conference agreed that the Church's Provincial Organization is showing signs of growth toward a greater maturity and usefulness by reason of its adjustment to local need. In some Provinces, the trend is to relate Dioceses to the National Council more intimately, and to organize in terms of the administrative structure of the Council. In other Provinces, there is a trend toward selected areas of activity, such as the development of work in the college field.

More specifically, the conference revealed the general agreement about the increasing value of the Provincial Organization in the following ways:

1. By supplying for the Clergy and laity occasions for fellowship, instruction and inspiration.
2. By recognizing that, within the Church, problems exist that are peculiar to different sections of the country that are subject to local solutions by those who are most competent, by experience, to deal with them.
3. By admitting that the Provinces do not desire, at the present time, to have any additional authority or responsibility assigned to them beyond that which is already allowed under the existing Canon.
4. By offering, in the programs of the Synods, opportunities for intensive instruction in various phases of the Church's Program, through conference with the Executives of the National Council and other trained leaders.
5. In discussing how unity within a Province may be achieved, it was recognized that the intermingling of selected clergy and laymen has resulted in the breaking down of Diocesan isolationism and the development of a clearer understanding of common sectional problems that require joint action for their solution.
6. The conference agreed that the increased mobilization of men in the Armed Services, and the re-establishment of military installations in practically all parts of the country, will continue probably for years, to offer opportunities for Parishes, Dioceses, and Provinces to include the chaplains of their neighborhoods in the active fellowship of the Church.

It is the opinion of the Presidents of the Provinces that this unit of our Church's organization is capable of further enrichment as we continue to accumulate and share experiences in the practical functioning of the Province in the different areas of our Church and nation.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWIN A. PENICK.

THE PASTORAL LETTER

Issued by the House of Bishops, January 12, 1951

Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free.—GALATIANS 5:1.

Brethren, the minds of many are filled today with dread and gloom, for the future seems to hold for them little of hope, certitude, or peace. Since the attitude with which men face the future is itself a great factor in determining the future, we want in this letter to hold before all people teachings and insights of the Christian Faith which can enable us to stand firm and wise in a difficult day.

First, remember that the great periods of history to which we look with pride in Church and Nation have been those when God-fearing men stood fast in the face of adversity. We are not proud of the prodigal and cheap years in our history, and we are ashamed of the comfortable and half-hearted eras of the Church's life. We cherish in memory the men and women, who, with patience and wisdom, tolerance and courage, and an unflinching adherence to principle worked and fought to achieve our liberties, and by their resolution turned the direction of history.

Since we all share this heritage of patriots, martyrs, and prophets, what we should dread is not difficulty, but rather the continuation of so much that is cheap and irresponsible in our way of life. God in His Providence has called us, as He called our forefathers, to greatness; to play in our day for the sake of all mankind a leading role in the struggle for freedom. It will require of us the same dependence upon God and self-denial, wisdom and patience, tolerance and courage which others have shown before us. We are called to accept this role and to join hands with the mighty fellowship of free men across the ages. If we want a comfortable material future, no encouraging word can be spoken; if we want strength of soul in the company of brave and faithful men, we can make this a great age.

Second, remember that if the future is uncertain, that is no new thing. Washington, Lincoln, and Lee were not able to foresee in their time of testing what lay ahead. Their greatness consisted in their willingness to place the future in God's hands while they in obedience performed the immediate duties before them. Consider Washington's words, "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest may repair. The event is in the hands of God"; or Lincoln's words, "with firmness in the right, as God gives us to see the right"; or the words of the hymn, "Keep Thou my feet. I do not ask to see the distant scene; one step enough for me." These men placed themselves in the hands of God, fulfilled day by day—sometimes in darkness—their duties and responsibilities, and left the success or failure of their efforts to Providence.

The greatness of these men reveals an enervating gloom for what it is—faithlessness to God and our present responsibility. There is no man who cannot see his present duty, and to do it at this significant moment in history is a rare privilege given to us by God. Nothing can take the place in our life together of integrity and character, and we must remember in the fear of God that we are threatened not only by outward forces, but by any lack of responsibility from within. Every man who lives irresponsibly today, who seeks his own security or gain without counting the cost to others; every politician who plays recklessly on the present crisis for partisan advantage or his own advancement; every injustice in our common life, every hypocrisy in our democratic profession, weakens us and makes us less able to fulfill the role laid upon us. Even though we cannot see the pattern of the future, we can see the duties that lie at hand and the value of hard and self-denying work in the present. We, too, in our day by what we do, can help to shape the course of history.

In addition to the tasks directly before us in our daily lives God requires of us vital concern, in spite of all discouragements, for peace and a world order rising above the anarchy of nationalism; an outgoing compassion for any of God's children who are suffering and in need; imaginative efforts in the strengthening of our common defense; and personal and community service to the men and women in the Armed Services.

Away with gloomy doubt and faithless fear!
No arm so weak but may do service here.

Finally, we urge upon all men fervent prayer and a deeper understanding of the riches and gifts of the Christian Faith. Since ages of adversity reveal to men their deepest needs, it is becoming clear to an increasing number of people that no one can be inwardly secure unless he walk with God. In a day when other foundations are shaking, He alone is our strong Fortress and Friend. It is also becoming clear to an increasing number as they are shaken from comfortable assumptions that faith in God is the great source of the freedoms and values which are now threatened. Never in its history has the Church faced a greater task or opportunity.

The immediate and obvious enemy of western civilization is Russian Communism, but the deepest enemy is the godless materialism which bred the illusions and cynicism of Communism and weakens us now from within. Beneath much of our own life there are assumptions which must be fought by every member of the Church, for they are part of the total enemy we face. With the Communists there are members of all nations who share the following false and evil convictions:

1. This life is all there is; therefore, let's make the most of it, forgetful of any higher law.
2. Man's economic activity is his most important activity.
3. The more material things we possess, the happier we will be as a people.

Since there is an inner struggle for the soul of our world which crosses all frontiers, we must realize that no final victory can take place on the field of battle. Since ideas are not destroyed by guns, the only way to overcome a false view of life is by the militant preaching and living of a true view of life.

We write this not only with the hope that non-Church people will read and be led to a concern with the inner life of America and the world, but chiefly to impress Church people with the great significance of their responsibility. While the Communists sent their missionaries to the ends of the earth, there have been comfortable people who have said it made no difference what a man believed. The great freedom for which our ancestors fought has been for others a petty and negative thing—freedom from great convictions and discipline, freedom from zeal and sacrifice.

We are entering a new age in which we are called by our sovereign Lord to write a great chapter in His Church's militant history. We can become by His Grace and Power finer, deeper, and more obedient people. There is in our life with Christ in His Church comfort and strength in this world and comforting assurance to those who love Him of a world to come. There is in the midst of an uncertain world the comfort of Christ's presence with us and the divine assurance that the gates of hell shall not prevail against His Church. But we would remind all members of the Church that there is no assurance whatever that the Church will increase to be largely effective without the devotion, discipline, and zeal of its members. Only by apostolic missionary endeavor will Christianity again become the soul of this world. Our responsibility is to stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and to bear with power our witness in a sick world to God's saving and healing truth.

THE VERY REV. CLAUDE WILLARD SPROUE,

President of the House of Deputies, September 26, 1949 to September 8, 1952.

JOURNAL

SYMPHONY HALL
BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS
MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1952

This being the day designated by the previous Convention for holding the meeting of the General Convention, the Deputies-elect assembled in Symphony Hall, Boston, Mass.

At 11:00 a.m. the Secretary of the last House, the Rev. C. Rankin Barnes, D.D., called the House to order, read a passage of Holy Scripture, and led the House in prayer.

The credentials of those who attended as members-elect of the House of Deputies, having previously been received and recorded, the names were called and the following responded and took their seats. (See list on preceding pages.)

The Secretary declared that a quorum was present.

The first order of business was the election of the President of the House. The Secretary appointed the following Tellers:

The Rev. Bertram L. Smith, of Dallas.
The Rev. Jack R. Rountree, of East Carolina.
The Ven. Herbert S. Craig, of Maine.
The Rev. Robert J. Murphy, D.D., of Northern Indiana.
The Rev. John R. Bentley, of Texas.
Mr. Oscar M. Kilby, of Alabama.
Mr. Hugh R. Jones, of Central New York.
Mr. Philip E. James, of Louisiana.
Mr. James F. Hodges, of Olympia.
Mr. William C. Baird, of Western New York.

The Rev. Canon Donald H. Wattley, of Louisiana, nominated the Very Rev. Claude W. Sprouse, D.D., S.T.D., of West Missouri.

The foregoing nomination was seconded by the Rev. Charles D. Kean, of Missouri.

It was voted that the nominations be closed and that the Assistant Secretary cast the ballot. The Chair declared Dean Sprouse elected President of the House.

The Chair appointed Canon Wattley and the Rev. Mr. Kean to present Dean Sprouse to the House.

Dean Sprouse addressed the House, accepting his election as President. He said:

"You know how deeply I am honored. You know how deeply I sense the responsibility you have put on me.

"I could ask nothing more than that you would exercise the same patience, the same generous understanding as you showed me in San Francisco three years ago.

"There will be earnest debate here on a number of matters, but one great job of brethren like us meeting together is trying to push this world a little nearer the Kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. We pray that something we may do here will help to bring peace to this troubled world."

The President called for nominations for Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. Brooks, of New York, nominated the Rev. C. Rankin Barnes, D.D. The delegation from the Diocese of Los Angeles seconded the nomination. There being no further nominations the President cast the ballot, and declared the Rev. Dr. Barnes elected Secretary of the House.

The Secretary appointed as Assistant Secretaries the Rev. Charles H. Long, D.D., of Pennsylvania; the Rev. John G. Mills, of Los Angeles; and Mrs. Johanna L. Lally, of Long Island.

While the Secretary was announcing these appointments Dean Sprouse suffered a heart attack and collapsed on the stage. The Secretary called for a doctor, five doctors from the House at once responded, and reported the seriousness of the attack. The Secretary called the House to prayer, and while prayers were being said Dean Sprouse died at 11:55. The Bishop of West Missouri, having been summoned from the House of Bishops, recited prayers for the soul of Dean Sprouse and for the comfort of his wife and daughter who were present.

On motion, the House recessed until 2:30 p.m.

At 2:30 p.m. the Secretary called the House to order.

Canon Wattlely offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the House of Deputies of the 57th Triennial Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America is profoundly shocked and grieved by the sudden death of its beloved President, the Very Reverend Claude Willard Sprouse, D.D., S.T.D.;

That the House of Deputies will ever recall with thankfulness the courtesy and tireless effort with which its late President presided over its sessions at the 56th Triennial Convention;

That the House of Deputies records the fact that in the death of Dean Sprouse the whole Church has lost a noble Churchman and a humble Christian;

That the House of Deputies, depending upon the sure mercies of God, does by these presents commend the soul of its late President into His eternal keeping, through Jesus Christ our Lord and only Saviour;

That the House of Deputies extends to Mrs. Sprouse and the members of her family its sincerest Christian sympathy, believing that God, Who doeth all things well, will bear them in His everlasting arms.

The Committee has again met, and the various sub-committees are at work on the subjects assigned them. If any deputy has any matter which he feels should be brought to the attention of the Committee, he should present himself at the next meeting, which will be on Monday morning at 8:30 in the room under the Press Room.

The statistics of the past triennium are now being reviewed and will be presented in their entirety later in the Convention for acceptance and recording in the Journal. We wish now to state that, generally speaking, the reports are encouraging. Most outstanding is the fact that the number of members of our Church Schools has increased by nearly 100,000 during the past triennium and we now have more than a half million pupils in our Church Schools with 65,000 officers and teachers manning the Schools.

Another notable increase during the triennium has been in the number of ordinations. In 1951, 311 men were ordained to the priesthood and the total number of clergy rose to 6,412. There are now nearly 600 more clergy than were reported in 1949, the first notable increase in many years.

The number of members of the Church continues to increase. There are now one and two-thirds million communicants and close to two and one-half million baptized persons reported. All of these figures refer only to Continental United States. Outside the continent, we have 227,000 baptized members and 73,747 communicants.

The number of postulants and candidates for Holy Orders has reached a new high during this triennium, with nearly 600 candidates and 1,159 postulants. Both of these are double the numbers recorded 10 years ago.

Other information on statistics will be given in succeeding reports and the detailed figures are available for examination by any interested deputy, if he will apply to the Secretary of the Committee.

The report was received.

The Secretary read the following communication to the House of Deputies from the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, which was received:

The following action was taken by the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary in session on September 12, 1952, with the request that a copy be sent to the House of Bishops and to the House of Deputies:

The Woman's Auxiliary in Triennial Meeting assembled approves the summary sent out by the lay members of the Commission on Theological Education and urges the members of both Houses of the 1952 General Convention to take positive action to provide adequate funds for Theological Education and to formulate a program of recruitment for the ministry.

MARGARET M. SHERMAN, Executive Secretary.

The Secretary read the following communication from the Right Rev. Peter Zurawetzky, Secretary, Eastern Catholic Patriarchate of America:

1741 Washington Avenue,
New York 57, New York.

To the Convention of
The Protestant Episcopal Church,
Boston, Mass.

CHRIST IS AMONG US!

Dear Brethren:

This is to express our sincere condolence on behalf of the departure from us of our beloved leader, C. W. Sprouse; may God be gracious to him and grant him all he prayed for for so many years; and may He give you a worthy successor.

Lift up your hearts at this very serious moment and beseech the Almighty that He might give the world an understanding of our destiny and brotherly love. Impress upon the whole body of the Episcopal Church an idea that it is our duty to practice what we preach.

Though bodily far from you, we are with you spiritually not only today. In all our churches at every occasion we pray for unity of our churches.

With Christian greeting,

PETER ZURAWETZKY.

A certain amount of confusion has arisen in this House because of two stories appearing in The New York Times today and yesterday concerning the plans of the Joint Commission on Approaches to Unity for the next triennium. A word of explanation appears necessary.

After this House had voted the budget for the Joint Commission on Tuesday, and I had spoken to it saying that we hoped, and I underline the word hope, to resume conversations with the Presbyterians, the action was interpreted as meaning that such conversations are imminent. Yesterday afternoon I received a telephone call from the Rev. Dr. Eugene C. Blake, Stated Clerk of the Presbyterian Church, saying that this announcement, as quoted in the Times would reflect adversely on the conversations between the Northern and Southern Presbyterians.

I explained the matter to Dr. Blake and authorized him to state that our appropriation was to make possible such conversations when occasion afforded, since this Church has not departed from its intention to continue such conversations.

WHEREAS, The American Bible Society is distributing each year over 12,000,000 copies of the Holy Scriptures in over 150 different languages and dialects and also is issuing 35,000 embossed volumes or talking records for the Blind; and

WHEREAS, Among those who can read there is presently a great increase in demand for copies of the Word of God, but as yet less than one-third of the population of the world can read; and

WHEREAS, There are still about 1,000 languages or dialects in which no part of the Gospel has been published, although some part of the Holy Scriptures has already been translated into 1,049 of the more important languages and dialects, though as yet there are whole Bibles in only 195 and New Testaments in only 447, and these are in constant need of revision as languages and orthography change and develop; therefore be it

Arab Refugees

Col. Armstrong, of Kentucky, on the Second Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Joint Committee on National and International Problems:

WHEREAS, Almost a million Arabs were in 1948, without fault on their part, ruthlessly driven by the Israelis from their ancestral lands and homes in Israel; and

WHEREAS, Not only was no compensation paid them for this cruel displacement but, to compound the injury, their bank balances in Israeli banks were, and continue to be, frozen; and

WHEREAS, Said Arabs, now existing with most inadequate shelter, sustenance, clothing, health standards, and education for their children and being practically without employment, are being reduced to utter degradation and despair; and

WHEREAS, The United Nations, including the United States which also bears a heavy responsibility for these terrible conditions, have neither obtained nor made restitution in the premises; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the United Nations and to the President of the United States, the Secretary of State, and the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the United States Senate, and their successors in office in January, 1953, and that they be asked to undertake such measures as may be appropriate in order to correct this evil situation and ensure justice to these helpless people.

On motion of the Bishop of North Carolina, on the Seventh Day, on behalf of the Joint Committee on National and International Problems, the following report on Arab Refugees was adopted as expressing the sense of the House of Bishops:

The plight of the Arab refugee is tragic; his problem is assuredly the responsibility of the international community. Three years of palliative measures during which some sixty-six million dollars has been expended on the Arabs from Mandated Palestine has not solved the problem of these displaced persons. With the exception of Jordan no government has proclaimed their right to remain; and

WHEREAS, The Arab refugee problem is not insoluble, a program limited to relief, however, will only complete the demoralization of the displaced Arab. What is imperatively needed is a comprehensive program for their permanent resettlement in the Arab States, with the active cooperation of Iraq, Syria, and Jordan; and

WHEREAS, In addition to resettlement there should be carried forward a program for the development of natural resources of this region financed by international funds looking toward self-maintenance. For this purpose it is estimated that an initial sum of eight hundred million dollars should be provided by the Free World. One of the end results of such cooperative effort would be to put an end to the remnants of a feudalism which shackles any economic progress in this area of the world. Such a long range goal is a challenge both to the Middle Eastern States and the United Nations.

Your committee, believing profoundly in the responsibility of the international community to meet this problem cooperatively with the Arabs would recommend that this comprehensive proposal be transmitted to the United Nations for appropriate international action.

Canon 7, Sec. 4

The Rev. Dr. Scott, of Los Angeles, on the Second Day, presented the following request on behalf of the Board of Trustees of The Church Pension Fund, which was referred to the Committee on Canons:

Canon 7 carries the following clause:

Sec. 4. The pension system shall be so administered that no pension shall be allotted before there shall be in the hands of The Church Pension Fund sufficient funds to meet such pension.

The Board of Trustees of The Church Pension Fund recommends that this clause be amended by adding at the end the words "except as directed by General Convention in 1949."

This provision, in the Canon since its enactment in 1916, has meant that any pension has been fully supported at the time of granting by resources in the hands of the Trustees, and has not depended on future assessments to maintain it in force.

The provision has been one of the main sources of strength of the system.

General Convention in 1949, by resolution, authorized a very substantial increase in minimum pensions for those already retired and widowed as well as those retiring and widowed in the future, to be financed by an increase in assessment rate. Under this arrangement pensions are granted which depend in part for their continuance on future assessment income.

This departure from the provision of Section 4 has not weakened the system as evidenced by the continued full support of all the units of the Church in the payment of the higher assessment. Furthermore, the departure is a temporary one in that full compliance with Section 4 will again be attained in 20 to 25 years.

Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on the Third Day, presented Report No. 4 of the Committee on Canons, recommending the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that Canon 7, Sec. 4, be amended by adding at the end thereof the words: "except as directed by the General Convention of 1949."

Adopted by the House.

[Communicated to the House of Bishops by Message No. 12.]

Sec. 1 (a). The members of this Church shall be all persons who have received the sacrament of Holy Baptism in accordance with the Doctrine of this Church.

Canon 16, New Sec. 4 (Not Adopted)

Bishop McElwain, on the Seventh Day, on behalf of the Committee on Canons presented resolutions on "mixed marriages" which, after a motion to discharge the Committee had been defeated, were referred to the House members of the special Committee appointed at the Convention of 1949, the Bishop of Olympia, the Bishop of South Carolina and the Bishop of Western Massachusetts.

On motion of the Bishop of Olympia, the following recommendation was adopted:

The Episcopal members of the Joint Commission on Holy Matrimony to whom the matter of Churchmen and Mixed Marriages was referred, report as follows:

1. That the matter of marriage with Roman Catholics was, in their opinion, adequately covered by the Joint Resolution adopted by the General Convention in 1949;
2. That the proposed canonical legislation would only sharpen the problem of conscience involved in mixed marriage without a corresponding pastoral advantage;
3. That it would bind our Church and our people to the level of moral action as that now current in the Roman Catholic Church;
4. That therefore we recommend that the proposed amendments be not adopted, and further
5. That the attention of our people be called through appropriate means to the legislation already adopted by this Church.

[Communicated to the House of Deputies by Message No. 79.]

Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on the Seventh Day, presented Report No. 18 of the Committee on Canons, which was placed on the Calendar No. 22:

The Committee on Canons reports that it has considered the memorial from the Synod of the Province of the Pacific recommending an Amendment of Canon 18 as follows:

The 95th Convocation of the Missionary District of Arizona, meeting in Grace Church, Tucson, Arizona, February 14, 1952, voted to have the following communication sent to the next meeting of the Synod of the Eighth Province and to the General Convention of the Church for consideration as adoption for canon law of the Church:

Of regulations respecting Holy Matrimony: If a confirmed member of this Church shall arrange to marry a member of another religious body not affiliated with this Church, no pre-marital agreement shall be made orally, or in writing, for any unborn children of such marriage to be reared in another religious body.

A majority of the Committee presents the following resolution and recommends its adoption:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that a new section, to be numbered Section 4, be added to Canon 16, "Of Regulations Respecting the Laity", reading as follows:

Sec. 4. It shall be the duty of a member of this Church, intending to marry a member of another religious body, not affiliated with this Church, to refrain from entering into any pre-marital agreement, as a condition of such marriage, that the children of such intended marriage shall be brought up in the religious faith of any religious body other than this Church.

Item 22 being taken from the Calendar on the Eleventh Day, Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on behalf of the Committee on Canons, moved that the resolution be laid on the table. It was so voted.

Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on the Seventh Day, presented Report No. 19 of the Committee on Canons:

The Committee on Canons reports and recommends the adoption of the following corrective resolution:

Canon 26, Sec. 1 (b)

Dr. Wallis, of New Jersey, on the Second Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Canons:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that Canon 26 (of Postulants) Sec. 1 (b), be amended by inserting after the sentence in line 26 the following sentence:

The Bishop shall require a recommendation from the postulant's rector and vestry of the same character as that required of candidates in Canon 27, Sec. 1 (4).

Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on the Seventh Day, presented Report No. 21 of the Committee on Canons:

The Committee on Canons reports that it has reconsidered the resolution offered by Dr. Everett S. Wallis of New Jersey as follows:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that Canon 26 (Of Postulants) Sec. 1 (b), be amended by inserting after the sentence in line 26 the following sentence: "The Bishop shall require a recommendation from the Postulant's Rector and Vestry of the same character as that required of Candidates in Canon 27, Sec. 1 (4)."

After hearing argument in support of and opposition to the resolution and further consideration of the subject the Committee believes the following resolution preferable:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that Canon 26, Sec. 1 (b), be amended by adding in line 26 of said Section at the end of Clause (b) the following sentence:

"The Bishop may require from the Postulant's Rector and Vestry a certificate in the following words: To the Bishop of....., we, whose names are hereunder written, testify to our belief (based on personal knowledge or on evidence satisfactory to us) that A. B. is sober, honest, and godly, and that he is a communicant of this Church in good standing. We do furthermore declare that, in our opinion, he possesses such qualifications as fit him to be admitted a Postulant for Holy Orders."

Whenever such a recommendation is required a copy shall be filed with the Standing Committee of the Diocese or Council of Advice of the Missionary District.

The Committee calls the attention of the House to the fact that in the substitute submitted the provision for a recommendation is permissive and that it also provides for filing a copy with the Standing Committee or Council of Advice.

The House adopted the substitute proposed by the Committee.

Furthermore, in order to give assistance in determining the fitness of the man, the written advice of a qualified psychiatrist, and a Dean of a Seminary of this Church, both having personal knowledge of the man, must be presented to the Standing Committee, or Bishop's Committee. WHEREAS, The majority of the Standing Committee of the Diocese of Maryland believes that this Section as well as those Sections which precede Section 6, apply only to those who wish to receive Holy Orders without giving up their present Ministry and Communion, because all other cases of persons seeking Holy Orders are covered by Canons 26 to 35 inclusive, and requested the Convention of the Diocese of Maryland meeting in January, 1952, to memorialize General Convention to clarify the meaning of the said Section 6; and

The Committee recommends that the portion of the resolution with respect to the Constitution be referred to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution.

Adopted by the House.

[Communicated to the House of Bishops by Message No. 53.]

The matter of wording in Article X, lines 19-21, and Article XI, lines 10 and 11, of the Constitution was referred to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution.

The Rev. Dr. Fenn, of Maryland, on the Ninth Day, presented Report No. 8 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution:

The last paragraph of Message No. 33 from the House of Bishops requested that this House concur in certain unspecified corrections in the wording of Article X, lines 19-21 and Article XI, lines 10 and 11 of the Constitution.

The "corrections" evidently referred to would involve eliminating the words "not present" from the phrase "retired Bishops not present."

This suggestion was evidently made in anticipation of concurrence by this House in the Constitutional amendment adopted by the House of Bishops on second reading, the effect of which would have been to exclude retired Bishops from voting.

Since this House failed to concur with the House of Bishops on the amendment depriving retired Bishops of their vote, it is evident that no Constitutional amendment is necessary.

Your Committee therefore moves that this House do not concur in the suggestion contained in the last paragraph of Message No. 33 from the House of Bishops. Your Committee asks that it be discharged from further consideration of this matter.

The report of the Committee was accepted.

The House did not concur.

“unless the Bishop or Standing Committee shall have heard rumor, which he or they believe to be well founded, against the character of the Minister concerned, which would form a proper ground of canonical inquiry and presentment, in which case the Ecclesiastical Authority shall communicate the same to the Bishop or Standing Committee of the Diocese to whose jurisdiction the said Minister belongs;”

and by substituting therefor the following:

“unless the said Minister shall have conducted himself in such a way as to be liable to presentment under the provisions of Canon 53, in which case the Ecclesiastical Authority shall give notice of the same to the Bishop or Standing Committee of the Diocese to whose jurisdiction the said Minister belongs, exhibiting, with the information given, reasonable ground for presuming its truth;”

Sec. 2. If for any urgent reason a Rector or Minister as aforesaid, or the body authorized to elect a Rector in the Parish committed to his charge, shall desire a separation and dissolution of the pastoral relation, and the parties be not agreed respecting a separation and dissolution, notice in writing may be given by either party to the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary District.”

WHEREAS, Although this Cathedral Library may not at present, and may not even in the future, be able to offer a home to the whole of the Historical Society's Archives and Library without financial assistance for the erection of additional housing, a unification of the Washington Cathedral Library with that of the Historical Society may, nevertheless, materially lessen the cost of housing the Society's collection and of administering it for the good of the whole Church; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that a Committee of General Convention be appointed, consisting of two Bishops, two Presbyters and two laymen to confer with representatives of the Chapter of Washington Cathedral and with representatives of the Society for the purpose of exploring the possibilities of a unification of the two libraries, and of ways and means of securing financial resources sufficient for the proper housing and care of the Archives and Library of the Historical Society—this committee to report to the next General Convention.

WHEREAS, Several possibilities of a cooperative solution are now in prospect, among them the Washington Cathedral Library, the Bishop White House in Philadelphia, the General Theological Seminary Library, the De Lancey Divinity School building in Buffalo, all in addition to the existing connection with the Philadelphia Divinity School; now, therefore, be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that a Joint Committee of General Convention be appointed, consisting of two Bishops, two Presbyters and two laymen to cooperate with the Board of Managers of the Church Historical Society in working out a solution of the problem, and to report to the next General Convention.

WHEREAS, The Archives of the General Convention, the Archives of the National Council, and the Society's own valuable Collections are housed in over-crowded quarters which are not fireproof, and which are therefore hazardous to their safekeeping and efficient use; therefore, be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the 57th General Convention commends the Church Historical Society in its character as an official agency of the said Convention to the favorable consideration of all Churchmen; and be it further

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Managers of the Church Historical Society proceed by all proper means and with all possible

Church School Curriculum

The Rev. Mr. Moses, of South Florida, on the Third Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Christian Education:

WHEREAS, The Church Schools of our parishes and mission congregations are the principal means for education of the children of the Church; and

WHEREAS, The General Convention of the Church reconstituted the Department of Christian Education six years ago, and three years ago provided funds as requested for the work of that Department; and

WHEREAS, The reason for these actions by the General Convention was primarily to provide materials for use in our Church School; therefore, be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that General Convention hereby instructs the National Council to set up a Department of Christian Education which can and will prepare adequate and usable material for use in the teaching of our children in Church School Sunday by Sunday; and be it further

The Rev. Mr. Duncan, of South Florida, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Christian Education:

WHEREAS, General Convention at Philadelphia 1946 to satisfy a demand of the Church for a more comprehensive program of Christian Education did create a Department for this purpose; and

WHEREAS, General Convention at San Francisco 1949 to implement the program, did make available through adoption of the Program and Budget for the ensuing triennium the funds requested by the Department; and

WHEREAS, The Department, undoubtedly in all sincerity, has embarked upon its program with such zeal and enthusiasm that it appears to be attempting to carry out a program which is far away and beyond the limits contemplated by, we believe, a vast majority of the Bishops, Clergy and Laity of the Church; and

WHEREAS, We do not believe that the so-called mandate of the Church constituted a commission to:

1. Convert this Church;
  2. Condition the mind of the Church;
  3. Evangelize the Church;
- therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this Convention direct the Department of Christian Education of the National Council to proceed immediately in the production of the materials for a Church School curriculum for use in the Church Sunday Schools of the parishes and missions of our Church, and that this function receive priority over all else.

Moses respectively, both from the Diocese of South Florida, urging greater speed in the production of Church School teaching materials by the Department of Christian Education of the National Council.

Your Committee desires to express its complete confidence in the leadership and program of the Department of Christian Education, and while we recognize the wide-spread desire in the Church for the speediest publication of the new curriculum materials, we believe that the work which has been undertaken in the production of Church School materials will provide the Church with the needed tools, a number of which will appear during the coming triennium. We therefore ask to be discharged from further consideration of these two resolutions.

Item No. 16 being taken from the Calendar on the Eleventh Day, the Rev. Mr. Moses and the Rev. Mr. Duncan, of South Florida, withdrew their respective resolutions, and the former offered the following as a substitute, which was adopted:

WHEREAS, The parochial clergy, and the 62,877 teachers and officers working in these Sunday Schools need and deserve to have materials Sunday by Sunday to assist them in the teaching of these 543,167 children; and

WHEREAS, This need should be the concern of the whole Church; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this General Convention declares its recognition of this urgent need, and declares its desire to have this material prepared and made available for general use at the earliest possible moment, commensurate with the high standard of quality set by our Department of Christian Education.

The recommendation of the Committee was accepted, and the Committee was discharged from further consideration of the matter.

14. After serious consideration of the recommendation of the Rev. John C. The Diocese of Chicago, through the Bishop, the Suffragan Bishop, the Clerical and Lay Deputies, invite the General Convention of 1955 to meet in Chicago.

The Rev. Dr. Iddings Bell, of Chicago, in the name of the Bishop of Chicago and the deputation from the Diocese of Chicago, extended an invitation for the General Convention to meet in Chicago in 1955.

This invitation was referred to the Committee on Place of Meeting of the Next General Convention.

The Rev. Mr. Day, of Massachusetts, on the Ninth Day, presented the following Report of the Committee on the Meeting Place of the Next General Convention, which was adopted.

As you know, your Committee received two invitations, one from the city of Houston, the other from the city of Chicago. As you also know from a resolution of the Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary, there was a question raised as to the advisability of accepting the Houston invitation for 1955.

Your Committee met with Mr. Tellepsen, representing the Diocese of Texas and the city of Houston. I want to say—and I am sure I do so with the approval of all the members of your Committee—that we were deeply impressed, not simply by Mr. Tellepsen's enthusiasm and helpfulness in answering our questions, but by his Christian spirit and his vital concern to assist us in making a wise decision.

While we do not believe the invitation from Houston should be accepted for 1955, we hope that our fellow Churchmen in Houston and the Diocese of Texas will believe me when I express—I am sure on behalf not only of your Committee but the whole Convention—our great appreciation of Houston's invitation and our hope that at some later date it may be renewed and be accepted.

Therefore, your Committee moves the acceptance of the gracious invitation of the Diocese of Chicago.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the invitation to entertain the General Convention given by the Diocese of Chicago be accepted and that our next meeting be held in 1955 at Chicago, Illinois.

WHEREAS, This House acted in ignorance of these assurances; therefore be it

Resolved, That the privilege of the floor be granted to Bishop Quin that he may acquaint us with the plans which he and his associates in the Diocese had formulated to make possible a non-segregated Convention in Houston and that he may indicate to us the value for the progress of racial relations in Texas which he feels would result from our meeting in Houston, that certain members of this House then may have a basis for deciding whether to introduce a resolution changing the place of the 1955 Convention.

WHEREAS, In certain questionnaires in relation to the statistics of the Church there is a category known as "Parishes and Organized Missions"; and

WHEREAS, In the absence of definition by the General Convention of "a parish" or "an organized mission" it is quite obvious that the result of an addition of these as reported by the various dioceses is without any logical meaning; therefore be it

Mr. Dykman, of Long Island, on the Seventh Day, presented Report No. 17 of the Committee on Canons:

The Committee on Canons reports that it has considered the resolution offered by Mr. Scott, of Southwestern Virginia.

The sub-committee of the State of the Church appointed for the purpose has studied the form of the Parochial Report blank submitted to it by the National Council and has made its report to the committee as a whole. It is the considered opinion of the Committee on the State of the Church that, if approved by the Convention, a report in such a form as is recommended by the National Council will provide a more accurate means of recording the statistics of the Church and in offering the following resolution recommends its adoption:

WHEREAS, Canon 5 provides that General Convention shall adopt a blank form upon which each parish shall prepare the annual report of its vital statistics, its receipts and expenditures and a statement of its real property; and

WHEREAS, Revision of the report blank seems necessary in order to assure clarity in the placement of items and accuracy in reporting receipts and expenditures; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the present form be amended as recommended by the National Council, a copy of which is herewith attached, except that Item 19, "Clergy Pension Premium," be removed from the section "Current Expenses" and be lettered "L" as formerly, and that the succeeding items be re-lettered accordingly; and be it further

The Secretary of the House of Deputies, on the First Day, read the following letter from the Church Assembly of the Church of England, which was referred to the Joint Committee on National and International Problems:

"I have to inform you that the following resolution was passed by the Church Assembly at the Autumn Session held in November last:

“That this Assembly, in view of a recent statement in the House of Commons, is greatly perturbed by a deficiency which it believes to be common to the legislation of our two countries, in that there is no provision to compel soldiers to make paternity allowances for their illegitimate children by German mothers; and is earnestly requesting H.M. Government to initiate such legislation as is necessary to remedy this defect; and desires to notify the representative assembly of the Episcopal Church of the United States of America of the action it has taken.”

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that The Church Pension Fund be requested to give consideration (as they have already so generously done to widows and orphans, and even adopted children in the matter of pensions), to the mothers and sisters of unmarried clergy, who have served, faithfully and devotedly, (equally as wives) in the work of the several parishes and the general Church, and who have served for a long period of years in the same consecrated Church Service (as have the wives), for a minimum period of service to be determined by The Church Pension Fund, —(10 years or more),—and that, at the least they be not forgotten when death strikes down the Rector or Minister, but receive at least the death allotment of such sum as a widow receives, when the priest-in-service dies.

Pensions—Reduction of Age Limit

The Secretary of the House of Deputies, on the First Day, presented a Memorial from the Convention of the Diocese of Louisiana, requesting the reduction of the age limit for the eligibility for age benefits under The Church Pension Fund. The Memorial was referred to the Committee on The Church Pension Fund.

Mr. Adams, of California, on the Fourth Day, presented Report No. 4 of the Committee on The Church Pension Fund:

The Committee on The Church Pension Fund has considered the memorial of the Diocese of Louisiana, requesting that the age limit for eligibility for age benefits under the Pension Fund be reduced from age 68 to age 65. The committee recommends that this action not be taken for the following reasons:

The minimum age of 68 was originally selected for eligibility after careful study of many relevant factors. The system has worked successfully for 35 years. The financial burden which would be imposed by subtracting the assessments for 3 years, now payable from age 65 to age 68, coupled with the payment of pensions for 3 additional years, would require that assessments be increased by more than 20% to maintain present rates; or if present assessment rates were maintained, pensions would have to be reduced to less than 75% of present benefits. For these and other reasons, the committee recommends that it be discharged from further consideration of this memorial.

The report was accepted and the Committee was discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Permission to Use "Missionary Diocese" in Foreign Missionary Districts

Adopted by the House.

[Communicated to the House of Deputies by Message No. 92.]

Upon authorization by the Ordinary, the Holy Communion may be administered by Intinction; Provided, that opportunity shall always be given every communicant to receive the consecrated Bread and Wine in the accustomed manner.

[Communicated to the House of Deputies by Message No. 69.]

The following substitute for the above resolution, offered by the Bishop of Quincy, was not adopted:

In the Celebration of the Holy Communion, administration of the most blessed Blood of Christ from a common chalice, being Scriptural and having a symbolic meaning of great value, shall be the normal method of administration in this Church. "Upon authorization by the Ordinary, the Holy Communion may be administered by Intinction; provided, that opportunity shall always be given to every Communicant to receive the consecrated Bread and Wine separately in the accustomed manner."

It will be noted that in the last sentence the word "separately" has been inserted after the word "wine."

Item No. 43 being taken from the Calendar on the Tenth Day, being Report No. 13 of the Committee on the Prayer Book on Message No. 69 of the House of Bishops, the Rev. Dr. Suter, of New Hampshire, on behalf of the Committee on the Prayer Book, moved the amendment offered in its Report.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE ON PROGRAM AND BUDGET 1952

IN MEMORIAM

STEWART A. CUSHMAN

Many times a Deputy to the General Convention and a greatly valued member of the Program and Budget Committee, he was called suddenly on July 7th from the Church Militant.

Not only in his own Diocese of Chicago but also throughout the Church he was respected and loved. His knowledge of the whole work of the Church, and his gentle loving persuasiveness in presenting it to others won many to wider vision and fuller stewardship.

We record our gratitude for his life and example, which move us to a deeper devotion to our Blessed Lord and His Church.

May the blessing of God's Peace be upon him.

INTRODUCTION

The most important business that can come before this Convention is our united participation in the program which our Lord Jesus Christ Himself has given to His Church. That program originated not in your Committee, not in your National Council, but in the clear command of the Son of God: "All authority is given unto me in heaven and in earth. Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you; and, lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." That is a definite program. It means world-wide missions; the incorporation of men, women, and children into the sacramental life of the Church; their education in the Christian faith and fellowship and duty; and the application of Christian teaching to everyday life. Until God's Kingdom is consummated, that program is the primary business of the whole Church, and of the Church as a whole.

In the execution of that program, thank God, this Church of ours does not work alone. Other branches of the Anglican Communion, and other bodies of Christians are enlisted with us in the common task. But as an integral part of the One, Holy, Catholic, and Apostolic Church, our Church has a responsibility to our Lord Himself to accept and carry out a worthy share in the task He has given to the whole Church. We need constantly to remind ourselves that, whatever additional meanings history may have written into the terms, "Apostolic" meant originally, and still means, "missionary"; "Catholic" meant originally, and still means, "throughout the whole world"; and "Holy" meant originally, and still means, "dedicated to God and to the doing of His will"; and our Oneness, if it be a living unity, must express itself in going forward unitedly in obedience to His Command.

The program and budget now presented is surely the minimum share of our Lord's great program, which this Church of ours ought to undertake and carry out in each of the next three years. In preparing it we have had the benefit of a wealth of detailed and carefully arranged information provided by the officers of the National Council, and we wish to pay tribute to their thoroughness and accuracy. Many missionary bishops, department heads, and other leaders have given invaluable help. To each of these we express our sincere appreciation.

We believe that administrative personnel and expense at headquarters should be kept at the minimum consistent with effective staff work and as much as possible of our resources be applied to the actual work of evangelism, education, and social service. The program and budget which we are presenting clearly reflect this purpose.

The events of our own times and the facts of contemporary life furnish striking demonstration of the wisdom and urgency of our Lord's program and of that part of it represented by this report. For most of the details you are referred to the Report of the National Council for 1951 and the excellent brochure, entitled "The General Church Program," which have been put into the hands of each bishop and deputy. There are a few items to which special attention should be called.

HOME DEPARTMENT

We have given special attention to the provision of more adequate missionary salaries and travel allowances in domestic missionary districts.

In some of our missionary districts married clergy are endeavoring to live and support their families on as little as $2,100.00 a year, and out of that meager sum to pay most of the cost of operating an automobile between widely separated stations.

Therefore we have included a sum of $80,000.00 to be used by missionary bishops in consultation with the Home Department for the increase of salaries and travel allowances. We believe that where missionaries are required to use their own cars in serving the fields assigned to them, they should receive an adequate mileage allowance.

In the report of the Program and Budget Committee to General Convention in 1949, special attention was given to the need for new missionary work in areas, on the West coast and elsewhere, in which the population was increasing with great rapidity because of new industries and new opportunities. During the past triennium these population shifts have presented an increasingly urgent challenge to the Church. Through the far-sighted vision of the Presiding Bishop and the National Council, the Reconstruction and Advance funds earmarked for China, which cannot now be used there, amounting to $1,500,000.00, were set up as a revolving fund for loans to dioceses for the building of churches and parish houses in these areas, the funds to be repaid over a ten-year period. Thus, without diminishing the reserve funds for China, they have been invested to stimulate this vital advance in our own country, until the time they may be used for their original purpose.

College work is an important field, both of missionary extension and of leadership training. It is noteworthy that the program of the Episcopal Church is far more than student work. It includes faculty as well, and is designed to undergird secular education with the compelling motive and philosophy of the Christian Faith.

ARMED FORCES

The large expansion of the Armed Forces has required a corresponding increase in the number of chaplains and of the money necessary to pay their pension premiums and to supply them with Communion vessels, linens, vestments, and other essentials not provided by the Government; to furnish to the many thousands of Episcopalians in uniform the Prayer Books, Church War Crosses, and other tangible evidences that the Church follows them with her love and care. The considerable reserve fund which the Armed Forces Division carried over from the money raised during World War II is being exhausted; and the National Council has quite rightly put into its askings for each of the next three years a sum sufficient to provide for these needs.

OVERSEAS

.We cannot here review the entire overseas missionary field, though this has been carefully done by your committee. The increases in the budget are partly for advance work but chiefly for the more effective prosecution of existing work. One of the most important provisions is the setting up of a fund for the increase of salaries of native workers, and for their travel expense, since the needs of the native clergy have been brought strongly to our attention by many missionary bishops.

JAPAN

In Japan the Church faces a missionary opportunity unique in modern history. At the General Convention of 1949 attention was called to this, and the Church was asked to increase her efforts to meet that opportunity. Some progress has been made; but what we have done thus far is too little, and further delay may make what we shall do too late. The Nippon Sei Ko Kwai, formed many years ago by the union of our three missionary districts with seven others, which had been founded and supported by other branches of the Anglican Communion, emerged from the war with a solid core of loyal Japanese bishops, priests, and laity, but impoverished, confused, and with most of her churches and other buildings in ruins. She has welcomed gratefully the aid we have given in men and means and urgently calls on us to give more while the door of opportunity is still wide open. In response to that call, the National Council has made an increase in the asking for Japan, and your Committee has added $100,000 to that. This will make it possible to send more missionaries and to give timely aid to the Japanese Church, many of whose clergy have been forced to accept secular employment in order to supply their families with the simplest food and clothing, leaving only Sundays and spare time for their spiritual tasks. Our Presiding Bishop has appointed the Hon. Francis B. Sayre, devoted Churchman, wise and experienced statesman, to go to Japan as his personal representative to the Japanese Church and people.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

No work of the Church is more important than the Christian education of her own children and adults. Three years ago special priority was given in the program and budget to the Department of Christian Education. The recognition of the importance of this field has begun to bear abundant fruit in the life of the Church.

In the present budget we have provided $301,038 for this important department. This is about $30,000 less than the budget recommended by the National Council, but is some $23,000 more than the 1952 appropriation. In view of other urgent needs, we have not felt it possible to add new divisions or to expand some other divisions as much as requested. We have made increases in the Divisions of Leadership Training and Curriculum Development. We have also provided for an Assistant to the Director, to relieve the Director of many details and thus make possible the further development of this department.

CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

In the Department of Christian Social Relations, we have given special attention to the new Division of Urban-Industrial Church work, which we believe to be of great importance in helping to solve some of the problems that increasingly face city parishes. The budget provision of $81,549 is $25,000 more than the 1952 appropriation, and includes the salient features of the advance program described in the National Council brochure.

WORLD RELIEF

If the detailed story of what has been accomplished during the past three years in the resettlement of displaced persons, in aid to Anglican dioceses in the Middle East, to the Old Catholic Churches of Europe, the Orthodox Churches of Greece, Yugoslavia, and the Near East, in scholarships for young people who have fled from tyranny abroad and found refuge in America, and in other undertakings through Church World Service and other agencies could be told to all the people of the Church as it was told to this Convention, they would be stirred to new enthusiasm on behalf of World Relief. In the past triennium nearly $150,000 has been given through this channel to rehabilitation of the Church in Japan. We have therefore felt justified in transferring $50,000 a year from this item to specific work in Japan. But the need in other areas continues, and $400,000 remains in the budget for this purpose.

SPECIAL APPEALS

As we survey the program of the Church, we are met time and again with the urgent need for capital investment in new buildings, and repairs and modernization of Church institutions. One such appeal, on behalf of the American Church Institute for Negroes, was referred to the Program and Budget Committee by the National Council. Others have become apparent in interviews with missionary bishops and deans of seminaries.

We believe that the time has come when the General Convention must respond to these appeals, if the work of the Church is to move forward. We believe, too, that the Church is ready for such advance—indeed, that it is insistently demanded by clergy and laity alike, and that we cannot fail to heed that demand. We have therefore included in this report a resolution authorizing and directing the National Council, following an evaluation of the needs, to inaugurate and promote, during the coming triennium, a single campaign to meet the most urgent of these capital requirements, some of which we have listed as follows:

- Theological Seminaries in the United States
- St. Luke's Hospital, Manila
- Churches and Church institutions in Japan
- St. Just School, Puerto Rico
- American Church Institute for Negroes

We cannot say how large this appeal should be, nor what order of priority its items should have; but we are confident that the Church will respond generously to such an appeal, if made by our National Council with the authority of General Convention.

Nothing will so clearly demonstrate that the work of the Church is dynamic and forward-moving, as the successful conduct of this special campaign for capital needs in the missionary and educational program of the whole Church. We therefore commend it especially, not only to the bishops and deputies to General Convention, but to every member of the Church.

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Budget, in the amount of $5,929,043.38, submitted by the Joint Committee on Program and Budget, be adopted for 1953, subject to revision by the National Council in view of the response of the Dioceses and Districts to the Quotas assigned them under the authority of General Convention.

RESOLUTION No. 2

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Budget for 1954 and that for 1955 shall not exceed $5,929,043.38, or such sum in excess of this figure as may be made available by increased giving on the part of the Dioceses and Missionary Districts as reported at the February meeting of the National Council of any given year.

RESOLUTION No. 3

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the National Council be, and hereby is, instructed, before February 15 in each year of the triennium, to adjust the Budget in a sum reasonably within the total expectations plus other anticipated income, thus maintaining the pay-as-you-go principle throughout the triennium.

RESOLUTION No. 4

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that an appropriation of $2,500.00 for the triennium 1953, 1954, and 1955 be included in the Budget of General Convention for the work of the Joint Committee on Program and Budget.

RESOLUTION No. 5

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that undesignated legacies received by the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society should be used primarily for implementing advance work; and only in case of extreme emergency should any portion of them be used for recurring budget items, such portion not to exceed fifty (50) per cent of the total of undesignated legacies received.

RESOLUTION No. 6

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the National Council is hereby directed to continue and to expand its program of surveys in all missionary areas of the Church, making full use of the resources of the Unit of Research and Field Study, in order to increase the effectiveness of the work and to realize economies in administration.

RESOLUTION No. 7

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that in all matters of Budget revision, the National Council be urged to protect the missionary salary and travel items contained in the Budget for the next triennium, making them the last to suffer reduction.

RESOLUTION No. 8

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the National Council be instructed not to reduce the amount allocated to the Armed Forces Division unless, in the opinion of the National Council, the present emergency has abated sufficiently to warrant a reduction.

RESOLUTION No. 9

WHEREAS, The Budget of the Church for the triennium 1953-1955 provides only for the maintenance of the Church's current work, and not for urgent capital requirements, and

WHEREAS, This Church is ready, able and desirous to move forward in the extension of Christ's Kingdom by the provision of capital funds to meet long overdue and vital needs, therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this General Convention authorize and direct the National Council to inaugurate and promote, during the coming Triennium, a single campaign to meet the urgent capital requirements of the Church, taking into consideration the following:

Theological Seminaries in the United States

St. Luke's Hospital, Manila

Churches and Church institutions in Japan

St. Just School, Puerto Rico

American Church Institute for Negroes

and that the National Council determine and include the amounts required for approved projects and direct the raising and expenditure of these funds.

CONCLUSION

To make this program a reality requires more than the affirmative vote of the two Houses of the Convention, essential though that is. It requires also a large increase in the offering of life and money by all our people.

One of the urgent needs of the Church in every field of her activity is for more men and women of consecration and ability who will offer their lives for service as clergy and lay workers. Another is adequate support, by prayer and gifts, of those who thus offer themselves. We appeal to dioceses and parishes to treat their quotas not merely as goals to be reached, but as minima to be exceeded. We commend to all the people of the Church the old and tried biblical practice of tithing, not as a rigid law to be obeyed by all alike, but as a guide to help each individual to determine the proportion of his income which he will dedicate to Christ and His Church in regular, systematic, and sacrificial giving.

The matter with which we are concerned is not primarily financial, but educational and spiritual. The members of this Convention and others who share with us the responsibility of leadership have the duty and the high privilege to bring clearly and persuasively to the people of the Church the urgent and world-wide need for the redemption and abundant life which our Lord came to give, and His call to us to be His messengers and stewards. We must help our people to see, as we have seen through the stirring addresses to which we have listened here, behind the cold words and colder figures of the budget, men and women and children in dire need for food and clothing and in deeper need for the Bread of Life, and Christ Himself standing among them and saying: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

It is our high honor, as workers together with Him, to be the ministers of His grace not only in our own parishes and dioceses, but also in the world-wide work of the Church, and to call all His people to share that honor with us and to go forward in His strength to carry out His program.

Proportionate Representation in the House of Deputies

Dean Warnecke, of Newark, on the Second Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that Section 4 of Article I of the Constitution be referred to the Committee on Constitution for study and amendment to provide proportionate representation for the Dioceses in the House of Deputies of the General Convention.

The Rev. Dr. Fenn, of Maryland, on the Third Day, presented Report No. 2 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, of which sections 2 and 3 were referred back to the Committee as follows:

2. By a resolution adopted at the 32nd Synod of the Province of the Pacific, meeting at Salt Lake City, Utah this Convention was memorialized to give consideration "to some plan of proportionate representation for membership of the various dioceses and missionary districts in the General Convention."

We respectfully refer this Memorial back to the House with the suggestion that it should be sent to the Joint Commission on the Structure and Organization of the General Convention for consideration. We request that we be discharged from further consideration thereof.

3. A Memorial was received from the 103rd Annual Council of the Diocese of Texas in which it was recommended that "the desired end of decreasing the size of the House of Deputies be accomplished by providing for representation in this body on the basis of the numerical strength of the several dioceses" rather than by the reduction of the number of clerical and lay deputies from each diocese from the present number of four to three in each order.

Considering that it is not within the province of the Committee to originate legislation of the kind suggested, your Committee respectfully requests that this Memorial be referred to the Committee on Canons or the Joint Committee on Structure and Organization of the General Convention and that this Committee be discharged from further consideration thereof.

The Rev. Dr. Fenn, of Maryland, on the Fifth Day, presented Report No. 4 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, which was referred to the Committee on Expenses:

Your Committee has adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Memorials have been received from the 32nd Synod of the Province of the Pacific, the 103rd Annual Council meeting of the Diocese of Texas and the Very Rev. Frederick J. Warnecke, of New Jersey, requesting that study and consideration be given to a plan for proportionate representation of Dioceses in the House of Deputies; and

WHEREAS, It is quite impossible for this Committee, due to limitations of time and facilities to conduct, during Convention, such studies as are necessary to a proper consideration and presentation of these proposals;

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Joint Commission on the Structure and Organization of the General Convention be continued and that the sum of $1,200.00 be appropriated for its expenses: and that said Joint Commission be requested to study and consider the subject of said Memorials and report thereon to the next General Convention.

Item No. 5 being taken from the Calendar, on the Eleventh Day, being Report No. 4 of the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, the Rev. Dr. Fenn, of Maryland, for the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, asked to be discharged from further consideration of the matter.

WHEREAS, Christ's teaching is incompatible with every form of discrimination on color or race both domestic and international; and

WHEREAS, Almost every country today, including our own, is guilty in greater or less degree of mass racial or color discrimination; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this Convention affirm its conviction that no branch of the Christian Church can ever rest content with the practice of segregation along lines of racial difference, and that while recognizing the difficulties attending the application of this principle in special localities and situations, it urges the responsible authorities of all Church related schools, colleges and seminaries to labor unceasingly for the elimination of racial segregation in its faculty and student body, and to seek if need be for the amendment and repeal of local or state laws hindering this goal.

Mr. Cooper, of New Jersey, on the Third Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Christian Education:

WHEREAS, Unfavorable publicity was recently given in the public press to an incident wherein certain alleged applicants to an Episcopal Seminary known as the University of the South were denied admission on the basis of their color, as a result of which incident clerical members of the faculty have threatened to resign; and

WHEREAS, The loss of such students and of these members of the faculty would be deplorable in any event, and repugnant to the principles of the Christian Faith if brought about through, or resulting from, any discrimination based on the race or color of a child of God; now be it

WHEREAS, This Church has been disturbed and distressed by reports in the secular Church press concerning a controversy over admitting Negro students to one of her theological schools; and

WHEREAS, This House of Deputies, believing that the duly constituted authorities of any one of our Church institutions can deal better than we with its own specific affairs, wishes to express its sincere confidence in the Trustees and faculties of the University of the South and those immediately responsible for this and other Church institutions of higher learning and in their ability to solve their own special problems in a truly Christian spirit, and

WHEREAS, We recognize that although the two resolutions referred to us deal with specific situations, there is, however, a general principle involved which we wish to commend to the Church; and

WHEREAS, It is the clear duty of Christians to lead, rather than to follow, in seeking justice and equality of opportunity for all men, regardless of color or racial origin; therefore, be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Convention affirms its conviction that no branch of the Christian Church can rest content while injustices in the form of racial segregation obtain in parishes, schools and agencies under her control or associated with her; and that while recognizing the difficulties involved in the application of the principle in special localities and situations, it urges the responsible authorities of all Church related schools, colleges and seminaries to labor unceasingly for the elimination of injustice in the form of racial segregation in its faculty and student body.

Dean Day, of Kansas, on the Fifth Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Social Service:

As Christians and members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, we are mindful of the progress that has been made by the United Nations through the promulgation of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the acceptance of it, in principle, by the United States and other nations. There seems to be a growing awareness of the dignity and the sacredness of human personality. In the United States we recognize the noteworthy advances that have been made in the Nation's life in business, sports, education and religion. Attitudes opposed to basic Christian principles in regard to racial discrimination are yielding. Our Christian practice, however, has not caught up with our Christian conscience. We therefore, as a Church, should earnestly seek to free ourselves entirely from racial discrimination and segregation. We can strive to attain to this Christian ideal:

1. First, by working diligently for full participation in all the activities of the Church of all races and national groups.
2. Secondly, by striving to give equality to all races and national groups in all our Church organizations, local, diocesan, national and international.
3. Thirdly, by urging our Church educational institutions to study their policies and principles regarding race and other groupings.
4. Fourthly, by urging our people, clergy and laity alike, to support and work for such legislation against discrimination in industry and business, as will enable us to have a clear conscience in regard to our brethren of other races.

Because we believe that God is the Father of all races and that we are His children in one great family; that the personality of every human being is sacred; because we, as a Church, teach and preach that opportunities for fellowship and service, for personal growth and for freedom are inherent rights of every individual, and because we believe that our Church should demonstrate these principles within our own organization by practicing that which we preach and teach, be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that to discriminate against any person upon the basis of race is both unfair and unChristian and, be it further

Resolved, That, as sincere followers of our Lord, it is our responsibility both individually and collectively to help free the world and more particularly our own nation and Church from the evils of racial discrimination and segregation. Be it further

Resolved, That to deny any person equal rights because of the accident of his birth is neither honest democracy nor good religion.

The Rev. Mr. Rex, of Central New York, on the Ninth Day, presented Report No. 5 of the Committee on Social Service, which was placed on the Calendar No. 41.

Item 41 being taken from the Calendar on the Tenth Day, the Rev. Mr. Rex, of Central New York, on behalf of the Committee on Social Service, requested permission to withdraw its report on

The ordination data for years prior to about 25 years ago are incomplete and in some particulars inaccurate. The Recorder renews its suggestion of three years ago that considerable research should be undertaken among old records in view of the historical importance of completeness. This would require an appropriation of $3,000.00 by General Convention, to be used in the triennium for a competent research worker.

The Rev. Dr. Munds, of Delaware, on the Eighth Day, presented Report No. 6 of the Committee on Expenses. The Committee did not approve the appropriation of $3,000.00 to The Church Pension Fund as Recorder to make a statistical study of early ordinations.

Resolved, That the House of Clerical and Lay Deputies acknowledges its great debt to the Joint Commission on Social Reconstruction for their inspiring and informative Report, and recommends to the Provincial Synods, Diocesan Conventions and Parishes the careful and prayerful study of their findings and resolutions.

Resolved, That the vast importance of the matters in this Report and their bearing on the future of the human race are evident and that Christians cannot be indifferent to the political, social and economic problems so presented, but the Church ought not to attempt to dictate the manner in which the secular authorities perform their task, provided they approach it honestly and in the spirit of Christian charity towards all men.

Resolved, That while this House disclaims the purpose to take sides in any controversy whose solution is within the province of secular authorities and subject to honest differences of opinion, yet this House affirms its belief that all controversies both religious and secular should be approached only in the spirit of our Lord's teaching, as contained particularly in such of His sayings as, "It is more blessed to give than to receive;" "Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness;" "Do unto all men as ye would they should do unto you."

Resolved, That these teachings of our Lord, being manifestly opposed to the seeking of personal, class, sectional, racial or national advantage at others' expense, and being opposed to the unfair or unjust treatment of any class or group, and to aggression by force in any form, are sufficient if applied in practice for the reduction of the numerous and grievous ills with which our land and the whole world are now afflicted, and that the first consideration of all persons in positions of authority or as leaders of public opinion as to matters of public policy or governmental action, should be given to the question of their conformity with the principles of Christianity as proclaimed by our Divine Master.

The House of Bishops, on the Third Day, adopted the following resolutions:

1. WHEREAS, The very life of the Church depends upon an adequate supply of clergy and upon their being fully equipped for their high vocation, and consequently upon the Church's support of its Seminaries; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that the General Convention expresses its approval of the Report of the Joint Commission on Theological Education, and recommends it to the attention of the trustees of the Church's Seminaries, to the National Council and to the clergy and laity of the whole Church.

2. WHEREAS, A survey of the financial condition of the Seminaries of the Church indicates a continued crucial need for financial support; and

WHEREAS, The offerings made for the support of the Seminaries in response to the appeal of Theological Education Sunday, though increasingly generous, are as yet helping to meet only minimal needs for current operational costs; and

WHEREAS, Many parishes and missions of the Church have as yet not shared in the Theological Education Sunday offering; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that the General Convention calls upon every parish and mission of the Church to observe Theological Education Sunday, as well as to take an offering on that day, or a day locally designated as an alternate day, for the support of the Seminaries of the Church.

3. WHEREAS, Scholarship funds of dioceses, societies and Seminaries are inadequate to the need, and too heavy a financial burden is often placed on theological students, particularly on married students and their wives; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that dioceses, missionary districts and local churches are urged to give more adequate aid to their postulants and candidates; and be it further

The Rev. Dr. Munds, of Delaware, on the Eighth Day, presented Report No. 13 of the Committee on Expenses, which was adopted:

1. WHEREAS, The Report of the Joint Commission on Theological Education convincingly presents the great need of the Church for an increase in the supply of clergy; and

WHEREAS, All our Seminaries need more money for current expenses and for expanding and/or improving their faculties, plants and facilities; and

WHEREAS, Major expansions of the facilities in most of the older Seminaries of the Church are at present deemed unwise or impractical; and

WHEREAS, The best judgment available encourages the establishment or expansion of Seminaries in strategic locations in areas of the country at a far distance from the older existing Seminaries, two such areas being the Far West and the Southwest; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the General Convention heartily endorses promotional efforts for the increased financial support for all our Seminaries and especially for the expansion of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, and for the Seminary of the Southwest; and also endorses the extension of promotional campaigns in behalf of these two institutions both regionally and throughout the Church.

2. WHEREAS, The tasks laid upon the Joint Commission on Theological Education and its Executive Committee have been greatly increased by

1. The need for continued accurate surveys of the Church's clergy shortage and for awakening our Church to a greater awareness of the seriousness of the problem;

2. The necessity for conducting promotional activities for the support of theological education, particularly Church-wide promotion of Theological Education Sunday, by way of a corporate agency of the Church, to supplement the efforts of our Seminaries, and

3. The need for adequate secretarial assistance in continued studies of the clergy shortage and of ways to meet it, in administering corporate promotional activities, and in collecting and distributing the Theological Education Sunday offerings, particularly when undesignated; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that the Committee on Expenses be authorized to place on its budget the sum of $15,000.00 for the next triennium, to be applied on the expenses of the Joint Commission on Theological Education.

Trade Barriers

The Bishop of North Carolina, on the Seventh Day, reporting for the Joint Committee on National and International Problems, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

WHEREAS, There is a growing trend in this country to raise trade barriers against foreign goods, as manifested by such development as (a) the restrictive amendments to the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, (b) a sharp rise in applications under the "escape clause" provisions of the Trade Agreement Act by domestic products to eliminate foreign competition, and (c) the passage of legislation, such as Section 104 of the Defense Production Act and other pending legislative proposals, directed to the erection of restrictive barriers against imports; and

WHEREAS, A restrictive trade policy will prevent the efficient use of the manpower, skills and resources of the free world, impede the fulfillment of the point IV program and impair the security objectives of the United States and the free world; and

WHEREAS, Seven countries allied with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have already made formal representations to our Government protesting the prospective impact of restrictive trade measures on the joint defense effort; and

WHEREAS, A restrictive trade policy is discriminatory in its operation and tends to provoke retaliation and to undermine the unity of the free world and create obstacles to freedom, a stable peace, and a sound social order; and

WHEREAS, A stable world peace cannot be built upon economic discrimination and warfare; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that this Convention consistently opposes measures and legislation calculated to heighten trade barriers or to increase trade discrimination among the free peoples of the earth since these serve only to stimulate the building of economic warfare and thus to develop international hostilities between free nations and peoples who must make common cause and stand firmly together in the present world struggle against the enemies of human freedom.

Underdeveloped Territories

WHEREAS, The Western World now possesses the necessary resources, the scientific knowledge and the power of organized technological assistance effectively to elevate living standards, to reduce or eliminate preventable disease and to organize and establish widespread popular education in such areas both through the activities of the United Nations and through the coordinated efforts of separate governments administering such territories; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that we earnestly urge the making of a determined attack upon this world problem of desperate need in all underdeveloped territories, and that we promote and support every practicable effort to build up in such areas the political, economic, social and educational foundations necessary for the achievement of human freedom: no Christian has a right to ignore this profound problem: existing conditions violate Christ's teaching of human brotherhood, and spell world catastrophe if allowed during the coming decades to go uncorrected.

WHEREAS, Earlier world conditions, such as made for national isolation and the promotion of selfish national interests in many parts of the world, have now been eclipsed by new conditions resulting from modern commerce, revolutionized facilities for transportation and communication, and world scale military activities, so that the most acute present day economic and social problems are worldwide in their impact and require solution on an international scale; and

WHEREAS, Under existing present day conditions the only possible pathway to world peace lies through collective security; and

WHEREAS, The United Nations system offers the only organized machinery in existence for the practical attainment of collective world security; therefore be it

The Bishop of North Carolina, on the Seventh Day, reporting for the Joint Committee on National and International Problems, presented the following resolution, which was adopted:

WHEREAS, Christian teaching is sharp and unequivocal that man must develop methods of settling differences and antagonisms by other than physical conflict; and

WHEREAS, It is becoming clearer that in these days of atom bombs nations cannot continue the way of war and survive; and

WHEREAS, Modern armament has become such a preposterous economic drain on every country forced to depend upon armed national defense that human progress in social, economic and educational fields is being seriously hindered or halted; and

WHEREAS, A balanced reduction of the world's armed forces and armaments if shared proportionately by all would not increase the risk of any one nation but would immeasurably reduce the risk for all and at the same time open up to each immense avenues of social, economic and educational advance; and

WHEREAS, The goal of disarmament is not to regulate but to assist in preventing war by relaxing that factor of tension and fear created by armaments; and

WHEREAS, The United States on many occasions has declared its readiness and desire to participate in a comprehensive disarmament program which would ensure under effective international controls and safeguards a balanced reduction in the armed forces and armaments of the world and the elimination of massed armed forces and weapons of destruction; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church endorses the present efforts of the U. N. Disarmament Commission to achieve a comprehensive balanced and effective disarmament program which will reduce the burden of armaments, the danger of war and the fear of aggression, and supports every practical effort to achieve it.

Urban Church—Joint Commission on

The Secretary, on the Second Day, read the following Memorial from the Convention of the Diocese of Kentucky, which was referred to the Committee on Social Service:

The Diocesan Convention of the Diocese of Kentucky convening at Christ Church Cathedral, Louisville, respectfully represents to the General Convention that while the Church has for years thought primarily of missionary work in terms of overseas unchurched lands and sparsely settled areas of continental United States, many dioceses include increasingly populated areas in our cities which vitally affect our national life and where the Church should have an active ministry but is handicapped by lack of funds and the magnitude of the problem; Wherefore it asks that a Joint Commission on the Urban Church be established and an item placed in the budget for the next triennium for the expenses which the Commission will incur.

The Rev. Mr. Rex, of Central New York, on the Sixth Day, presented Report No. 4 of the Committee on Social Service:

Your committee has considered the memorial from the Diocese of Kentucky concerning the formation of a Joint Commission on the Urban Church and putting an item in the budget for its expenses.

Your Committee believes that since the Department of Christian Social Relations of the National Council is suggesting that a Division of Urban-Industrial Church Work be formed within the Department of Christian Social Relations and that the necessary funds be appropriated for developing the program suggested by the Department that this will accomplish the intent of the memorial from the Diocese of Kentucky.

We therefore request that we be excused from further consideration of the matter.

The report was accepted and the Committee discharged from further consideration of the subject.

Vivisection

The Rev. Dr. Berger, of Maryland, on the Second Day, on behalf of a priest of that Diocese, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Social Service:

WHEREAS, We hold the Medical Profession in such high esteem that we would defend it against all undeserved reproach; and

WHEREAS, We appreciate the fruitful knowledge obtained by humane research in the best medical laboratories; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church advocate and urge a unanimous movement to have all Medical Research Laboratories to adopt the humane schedule which has been in practice for many years by the Harvard Medical School, namely that—

“No operation on animals shall be made except with the sanction of the Director of the Laboratory, who holds himself responsible for the importance of the problems studied and for the propriety of the procedures used in the solution of these problems.

“In any operation likely to cause greater discomfort than that attending anesthetization, the animal shall first be rendered incapable of perceiving pain and shall be maintained in that condition until the operation is ended.

“Exceptions to this rule will be made by the Director alone and then only when anesthesia would defeat the object of the experiment. In such cases an anesthetic shall be used so far as possible and may be discontinued only so long as is absolutely essential for the necessary observations.

“At the conclusion of the experiment the animal shall be killed painlessly.”

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that this resolution in full be inscribed upon the proceedings of this General Convention; and that this action be given the widest publicity in our country, through the medium of both the religious and secular press.

The Rev. Mr. Rex, of Central New York, on the Sixth Day, presented Report No. 3 of the Committee on Social Service, which was adopted:

Your Committee has considered the resolution offered by the Rev. Charles Edward Berger, Th.D., a member of the deputation from the Diocese of Maryland, on behalf of a Priest of that Diocese, on the matter of having the General Convention go on record urging all Medical Research Laboratories to adopt a certain humane schedule in relation to the practice of vivisection.

Your committee asks to be excused from further consideration of this matter upon which it feels incompetent to make a judgment.

The report was accepted and the Committee discharged from further consideration of the subject.

War—Divergent Attitudes Toward

The Secretary, on the Fourth Day, read the following letter from the Episcopal Pacifist Fellowship, which was referred to the Joint Committee on National and International Problems:

September 2, 1952.

The Rev. C. Rankin Barnes, D.D.,
Secretary to the House of Deputies,
General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the U.S.A.

At the concluding session on Friday, August 29, of the Annual Meeting and Four-Day Conference of the Episcopal Pacifist Fellowship held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn., from August 26 to 29, 1952, the following two resolutions, addressed to General Convention, were passed unanimously:

1. WHEREAS, The first assembly of the World Council of Churches, meeting in Amsterdam in 1948, confessed that although Christians are one in proclaiming to all mankind that "war as a method of settling international disputes is incompatible with the teachings and example of our Lord Jesus Christ," they are nevertheless divided on the question of actual participation in war; and

WHEREAS, The World Council urged upon all Christians the duty of wrestling continuously with the difficulties raised by these conflicting opinions and of praying humbly for God's guidance; therefore, be it

Resolved, That this Convention, acknowledging with penitence the existence of the same unhappy division within our own communion, urge all the members of this Church,

1. to seek through study, conference and prayer, a clearer understanding of the will of God with regard to war; and

2. to endeavor to come to a common mind in Christ; and further

Resolved, That it request the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church to inaugurate such study and to make available materials for this purpose.

2. Believing that under God all things are possible, and that if we surely trust in His defense, we need not fear the power of any adversary, we petition our Church to urge the United Nations to enter upon negotiations on a new level of faith and courage, and never to abandon the search for a solution—without further bloodshed—to the conflict in Korea.

Sincerely yours,

ELEANOR EATON, General Secretary.

The Bishop of North Carolina, reporting for the Joint Committee on National and International Problems on the Seventh Day, offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, The first assembly of the World Council of Churches, meeting in Amsterdam in 1948, confessed that although Christians are one in proclaiming to all mankind that "war as a method of settling international disputes is incompatible with the teachings and example of our Lord Jesus Christ," they are nevertheless divided on the question of actual participation in war; and

WHEREAS, The World Council urged upon all Christians the duty of wrestling continuously with the difficulties raised by these conflicting opinions and of praying humbly for God's guidance; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that this Convention, acknowledging with penitence the existence of the same unhappy division within our own communion, urge all members of this Church,

1. To seek through study, conference and prayer, a clearer understanding of the will of God with regard to war, and endeavor to come to a common mind in Christ; and

2. That it request the National Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church to make available materials for the purpose of such study.

[Communicated to the House of Deputies by Message No. 65.]

The House of Deputies concurred in the foregoing Message on the Tenth Day.

World Relief

The Rev. Mr. Duncan, of South Florida, on the Third Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Joint Committee on Program and Budget:

WHEREAS, During the past triennium, funds for World Relief have been included in the Missionary Budget of the Church, thereby increasing the quotas given to the Dioceses and therefore to the congregations; therefore be it

Resolved, That the item for World Relief not be included in the Missionary Budget of the Church, and made the object of a special appeal.

The Secretary, on the Fifth Day, read Report No. 7 of the Joint Committee on Program and Budget:

The Program and Budget Committee advises that it has received the subject on World Relief, and that in the opinion of the Committee this is a proper matter for inclusion in the budget, and that, therefore, we ask to be discharged from further consideration of the matter.

The report was accepted and the Committee was discharged from further consideration of the subject.

The Rev. Mr. Duncan, of South Florida, on the Third Day, presented the following resolution, which was referred to the Joint Committee on National and International Problems:

WHEREAS, The Diocese of South Florida realizes the responsibility of the Church to aid, in Christ's Name, suffering humanity to the best of its ability; and

WHEREAS, We believe that our first responsibility is to our brothers within the Anglican Communion, the Orthodox and Old Catholic Churches, with whom we are in communion; and

WHEREAS, Reports from Europe and Korea from our Chaplains, and from appeals published in the Church Press have revealed that these needs have not been met through Church World Service; and

WHEREAS, Out of the Church's offering for World Relief in the amount of $1,602,297.28, three-fifths of this money received, or $948,820 was used for relief work through agencies of interdenominational character; and

WHEREAS, It is the sense of the Diocese of South Florida that the use of three-fifths of relief funds for agencies and work outside of those Churches which are in communion with us is not a just nor equitable proportion in the distribution of these funds; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Bishop concurring, that the General Convention direct the Department of Christian Social Relations to secure assurances from Church World Service that our Anglican, Orthodox, and Old Catholic brethren will receive equitable consideration out of funds contributed by this Church, and be it further

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that in relief work the needs of Anglicans, Orthodox and Old Catholics throughout the world receive primary consideration.

The House of Bishops, on the Seventh Day, voted to discharge the Joint Committee on National and International Problems from further consideration of the foregoing resolution.

APPENDIX 1

REPORT OF THE AMERICAN CHURCH INSTITUTE FOR NEGROES

Our report to the General Convention of 1949 necessarily followed the reorganization of the Institute so closely that little opportunity had existed to observe the results of that development. Now with three years of actual operation under the new organization it is our pleasure and satisfaction to record it as a most gratifying development in the long experience of the Institute. The Institute is better able to meet the challenges of the changing trends in education for the Negro people in the areas where the schools are located.

The major problem shortly to confront these schools and colleges is to raise them to still higher standards. We may also face the need of accommodating a rising enrollment of students.

The United States Office of Education has prepared a report on facilities required to meet this test based on studies of the high postwar birth rate. The report indicates that the proportion of students enrolled in non-public schools will increase.

Another and more immediate influence which will affect college enrollments is the enactment by the Congress of The Veterans' Readjustment Assistance Act of 1952—an extension of the "G. I. Bill of Rights" first adopted in 1945. It is estimated that 225,000 veterans of the Korean war will be eligible to enter colleges this fall with Government assistance. Educators generally agree that Congress has taken an important step towards equalizing educational opportunities by passing this legislation.

Competent authorities have estimated that the peak influx of students under the new bill will come in the fall of 1953 and remain fairly constant thereafter for several years. The change providing for direct payment of the benefits to students enrolling under the Act of 1952 encourages a belief that colleges with modest scales of fees, tuition and other charges will probably attract a larger proportion of the veterans seeking advanced educational opportunities. Schools and colleges partially or entirely supported by denominational bodies fall naturally into this classification.

Negro education has made great advances in the South in recent years although in seventeen states segregation is still a matter of law while the attitude of the people has shown a phenomenal change in this respect. But despite the admission of Negro students on the graduate level to universities formerly open only to white students, the situation while gradually showing improvement, is far from completely satisfactory as a Christian ideal. Over 8,000,000 Negroes still reside in that part of the nation where segregation laws are in force in varying degrees. If the majority of the children of these families are to receive any elementary, secondary or collegiate education they must attend some type of separate institution since it is obviously impossible for many reasons, one being financial, for those families to send many qualified students to institutions in other sections of the country.

Our segregated institutions currently exist as Negro schools because there is need to provide opportunity for education; not to support segregation but because of segregation; and that those young Negro people who attend them can have as fine an educational opportunity in a Christian atmosphere as is possible to obtain. Moreover, in the future when segregation no longer prevails, these colleges will be known as good, capably administered institutions open to all who can qualify for enrollment without regard to race and regardless of the auspices under which they are then conducted.

To this end the policy of the Church should be one seeking to improve and develop these schools and colleges now operating in the South to the maximum degree of efficiency while simultaneously acquiring and improving the personnel in accordance with the highest academic standards.

The American Church Institute for Negroes is dedicated to the furtherance of these principles and earnestly solicits the support of all peoples to their attainment. Our programs of the past and those for the future have been designed to advance these objectives in the interests of good citizenship and to develop a Christian relationship among mankind.

This report is respectfully submitted on behalf of the Board of Trustees of The American Church Institute for Negroes consisting of: Miss Florence O. Alexander, Jackson, Miss.; the Rev. Roelif H. Brooks, D.D., New York, N. Y.; the Rev. Robert R. Brown, Richmond, Va.; Mr. C. McD. Davis, Wilmington, N. C.; Mr. Harry G. Haskell, Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Henry W. ## APPENDIX 2

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE FOR THE ANGLICAN CONGRESS

LAMBETH CONFERENCE ACTION

In its report to the 1948 Lambeth Conference, Committee IV upon the Anglican Communion stated:

"The Committee in their review of the Anglican Communion today, and while noting the rapidly changing conditions of the world, believe that for the future cohesion of the Church, something more than the Lambeth Conference is needed. The Pan-Anglican Congress in 1908 was a great inspiration and strength to many of the cooperating Churches. The problems both of expense and time of another such Conference have not been overlooked. But in spite of these and other difficulties the proposal is warmly approved because it would be of great educational value to the clergy and laity alike, many of whom find it difficult to see our Church in its world-wide significance. It would also provide the opportunity for closer collaboration of the Churches on larger issues of policy and development. This would be the case particularly where missionary areas are concerned.

"We recommend that there be proposed to the Churches of the Anglican Communion a Congress of Representative Bishops, Priests, and Lay persons of all dioceses or missionary districts of the Anglican Communion, to be held preferably in June, 1953, to witness to our common faith and to confer on matters of common interest."

Thereafter, the Lambeth Conference adopted Resolution No. 87:

"The Conference welcomes the suggestion that a Congress representative of the Anglican Communion be held if possible in June, 1953, and respectfully requests the President to take steps toward this end."

GENERAL CONVENTION ACTION

The 1949 General Convention adopted the following resolution:

"WHEREAS, The 1948 Lambeth Conference as recorded in its Resolution 87 welcomes the suggestion that a Pan-Anglican Congress be held in 1953 at which Bishops, Priests and Lay persons of all Dioceses or Missionary Districts of the Anglican Communion might gather to witness to our common faith and to confer on matters of common interest; be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that in the name of General Convention, an invitation for such a Pan-Anglican Congress to meet in the United States in 1953 be extended, by the Presiding Bishop through the Archbishop of Canterbury, to all Dioceses and Missionary Districts of the Anglican Communion, and also that a Joint Committee of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and two lay persons be appointed to make the necessary arrangements, should such invitation meet with general acceptance."

A Joint Committee was appointed consisting of Bishop Gray of Connecticut, Bishop Pardue of Pittsburgh, the Rev. Dr. Frederic S. Fleming, the Rev. Dr. A. Vincent Bennett, Mr. Robert T. McCracken, Mrs. Gulian Lansing.

Subsequently, Bishop Pardue, the Rev. Dr. Fleming and Mrs. Lansing resigned, being replaced by Bishop Carruthers of South Carolina, the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, Jr., and Mrs. James S. McCulloh.

JOINT COMMITTEE ACTION

Bishop Gray was elected Chairman, and the Rev. Dr. Fleming, Vice-Chairman (being succeeded in that office by the Rev. Dr. John V. Butler, Jr.). Mr. Robert T. McCracken was elected Secretary.

Effective October 4, 1951, the Rev. Richard Elting, III, of Meriden, Conn., was appointed Assistant to the Chairman.

While the General Convention adopted the name "Pan-Anglican Congress of 1953", it has been found advisable, following a conference with the Presiding Bishop and the Archbishop of Canterbury, to alter the name to that of "Anglican Congress" and to set the date as August, 1954, to conform with the changed dates of the World Council of Churches, since many delegates of the Anglican Congress will also be attending the World Council of Churches session in Evanston, Ill., afterwards.

Eight meetings of the Committee have been held. At each the Chairman presided and a majority of the Committee were present.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

The Bishop of South Carolina was appointed Chairman of the Program Committee and the following were appointed by the various sections of the Anglican Communion to represent the Church in their area:

PLACE AND DATE OF CONGRESS

Upon invitation of the Bishop and Diocese of Minnesota, the Presiding Bishop has appointed Minneapolis, Minn., as the place of the Congress, and the date has been set for August 7 to 16, 1954.

PLANS

Notice of tentative plans for the Congress have been sent to all Bishops of the Anglican Communion and, in accordance with the recommendation of the 1951 meeting of the House of Bishops, efforts are being made to have the various dioceses and missionary districts of our Church in the United States serve as hosts and sponsors of delegations from the other sections of the Anglican Communion.

PARTICIPATION

It is planned that the Bishop or Bishops, one Priest and one lay person from each diocese and missionary district will be invited to come as delegates. In addition, others may be present (but not participating) in sessions to the extent of the capacity of the places in which the Congress may meet.

FINANCES

The work of the Committee so far has been financed by a grant from the Discretionary Fund of the Presiding Bishop, by a contribution from Trinity Parish, New York, and by members of the Committee, no funds having been provided for the work of the Joint Committee by General Convention or the National Council. Needless to say, the Congress will entail large costs if it is to be a success. This cost has been made lighter by the great generosity of the Diocese of Minnesota and the people of the city of Minneapolis; but your Joint Committee hopes that in addition to the heavy burden of detailed work carried on by its members there will not be laid upon it the sole responsibility for raising necessary funds.

BUDGET

We have adopted a tentative budget as follows:

Anticipated Disbursements:

Speakers (those who are not delegates), travel and incidental expenses.....	$ 5,000.00
Publicity (includes estimated cost of press, radio and television coverage of the Congress; and also pre-Congress publicity) .....	15,000.00
Program Committee (operating expenses) .....	1,000.00
Assistant to the Chairman (Salary and travel expenses) ....	2,500.00
Printing (secretarial services, etc. including the printed report of the Congress) .....	10,000.00
Delegates, assistance for travel for approximately 250 people (this figure is in addition to aid to be received by the delegates from the several sponsoring dioceses) .....	100,000.00
Miscellaneous (expenses relative to music, exhibits, entertainment, pageantry, local transportation, public address systems, etc. incidental to the Congress) .....	8,000.00
Contingency Fund .....	8,500.00

Total $150,000.00

Anticipated Receipts:

General Convention Assessment .....	$ 50,000.00
Contributions .....	100,000.00
	Total $150,000.00

The Joint Committee on Arrangements for the Anglican Congress of 1954 recommends the adoption of the following resolutions by General Convention:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the General Convention authorizes and directs its Committee on Expenses to make provision in the amount of $50,000, through assessments of $25,000 in 1953 and $25,000 in 1954, towards the support of the budget of the Anglican Congress previously authorized by this Convention, such monies to be expended under the direction of the General Convention's Committee on the Anglican Congress, for the work of the Congress.

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that this General Convention authorizes the Presiding Bishop and the President of the House of Deputies to appoint a Solicitations Sub-Committee for the budget of the Anglican Congress, which Sub-Committee shall consist of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and two lay persons; and further authorizes the Solicitations Sub-Committee so appointed to appeal to the Church for contributions towards the budget of the Congress.

At its meeting in April, 1952 the National Council of the Church adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That the National Council endorses the request of the Committee on the Anglican Congress made to the General Convention to authorize its Committee on Expenses to make provision in the amount of $50,000, through assessments of $25,000 in 1953 and $25,000 in 1954, towards the support of the budget of the Congress.

APPENDIX 3

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON CHURCH
 ARCHITECTURE AND THE ALLIED ARTS

Architecture, someone has said, is "frozen music," which is simply a recognition of the fact that the appeal to and through the eye gate is as important and effective as that to the ear—a now well recognized principle of psychology and pedagogy. A church should appear unmistakably a church, and both inside and out should arouse in the observer the sentiment of our familiar versicle, "The Lord is in his holy temple; let all the earth keep silence before him." It is such an aim as this that dominates the thinking and planning of your Commission on Architecture.

In many respects this past triennium has been the most interesting and creative in the life of the Commission. Attendance at meetings has been excellent and enthusiastic, and plans made, if carried through, should do much to improve the architecture of the Church in the days to come.

The Commission is composed not only of interested bishops and other clergy but also laymen, mostly architects, who are among the top men in their profession. They are extremely busy men whose time is valuable and the Church is fortunate in having such men willing to give so much of their time and thought to the service of the Church.

Because of the limited number of meetings most of the work is done through committees and by correspondence. A great many inquiries are received, to which the Chairman and other members reply to the best of their ability. There is, however, great need for personal counselling on specific problems, but such is rarely possible under present circumstances. There is also need for literature, of which we have practically nothing, so that we have long been dependent for this on the Interdenominational Bureau of Architecture, whose Director has always been most cooperative and helpful. But, it is neither a dignified nor effective arrangement for our Church to be so dependent on this organization. Our own Commission should be adequately equipped for this task. So far as expert and interested personnel is concerned we are so equipped and feel able to discharge a task worthy of the best traditions of our Church, but to do so will require more adequate financing.

The several committees of the Commission are now at work on the following subjects:

1. The possibility of holding architectural competitions in one or more of our universities for plans and designs for a small Episcopal church.
2. The development of a program of courses or lectures on Church architecture and the arts in our Theological Seminaries. The Seminaries are anxious for this and the students eager but the problem is to find volunteer lecturers, since no funds are available even for expenses. We should be most grateful if several people in various parts of the country could take on this most important educational work at the student level.
3. The encouragement of dioceses to form architectural and art committees. At the present time such committees are active in 37 dioceses.
4. A study of prefabricated churches, chapels and parish houses.
5. The Commission's exhibit at the 1952 General Convention.

The resolution constituting this Commission, passed by the General Convention of 1919, contains the following paragraph:

"The Commission shall be authorized to prepare a hand-book under the direction of one or more experts, which shall contain a brief statement of the essential principles of some of the leading styles of church architecture, with illustrations of the best examples of those types which prove to be most suitable to the various conditions found in city, town, village and country parishes. This hand-book shall be furnished at as low a price as possible to the Diocesan Commissions, which in turn shall furnish it to the clergy and interested laymen of the parishes and missions throughout the Church."

We are glad to announce that at long last the hand-book has now appeared. It deals with the following subjects:

- Philosophy of Architecture.
- History and Development of the Architectural Styles.
- The Architect—His Services and Value.
- Financing.
- The Allied Arts.
- Dimensional Requirements.
- Bibliography.

Through the kind cooperation of the Seabury Press, this book is being published at no expense to the Commission or the Church with the hope that sufficient sales may be made to defray the cost. It is the work of men who are experts in their various fields and is made as detailed and specific as possible in so short a compass, with the hope that it may be found practically helpful to the clergy and building committees.

The chief present need of the Commission is more funds if it is to carry out its program. Of recent years it has neither asked nor received any grant from the General Convention. For the past two trienniums it has been financed through royalties on the Church Flag. Now that most churches are provided with flags the income from this source has declined almost to the vanishing point, so that we are compelled to ask a modest grant from the General Convention for the continuance of our work.

Your Commission offers the following resolutions:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the report of the Joint Commission on Church Architecture and the Allied Arts be accepted, and that the Commission be continued.

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the sum of $3,000.00 be appropriated to the Joint Commission on Church Architecture and the Allied Arts for the continuance and development of its work during the ensuing triennium.

APPENDIX 4

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS ON CHURCH ARMY IN U.S.A.

This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the establishment of Church Army in the U.S.A. Founded in England in 1882 by Prebendary Wilson Carlisle, in the Church of England, it was brought to America in 1925 and was constituted a society within the Protestant Episcopal Church of America on December 13, 1927. Its first headquarters were in the Diocesan House, New York, through the generous sponsorship of the Rt. Rev. William T. Manning, D.D., Bishop of New York.

A significant award was conferred this year by Church Army when Mr. Samuel Thorne, President of the Board of Trustees, and Miss Lucy Kent, Associates' Secretary, received the Wilson Carlisle Award for twenty-five years of service in behalf of Church Army, U.S.A.

This past triennium has been of great significance, for it marked the official recognition of Church Army as a Cooperating Agency of National Council. From the budget of the Church, $10,000.00 per annum was allotted, thus enabling Church Army to balance its own budget, and to expand its program for a training center.

In 1951, Captain William C. Johnson resigned as National Director, and Captain Robert Jones was elected to take his place. Captain Jones, who had served for some years in Tennessee and Michigan and had had wide experience in rural work, immediately undertook the task of evaluating needs, and developing programs and policies.

The objectives of Church Army have been re-defined as follows: "To provide the Bishops and Clergy of the Episcopal Church with an informed and well trained corps of the laity for Christian Service and witness as lay teachers, missionaries and evangelists." This program would require a somewhat different type of training than has been undertaken in the past. The Training Center in Cincinnati owed much to the Bishop of Southern Ohio and his Diocese, and the contribution which was made there has been responsible for keeping Church Army alive. However, the need seemed to be for a Training Center especially suited to the needs of Church Army. The National Board of Church Army requested the help of the Parishfield Community in meeting this need for a Church Army Training Center designed to develop and expand the lay witness and service of Church Army.

Parishfield is a Community in Brighton, Michigan, established in 1948 for the training of laity. It has been functioning under the auspices of the Diocese of Michigan in the development and extension of the role of laymen in the Church. The Parishfield Community agreed to undertake the training of Church Army workers, with the permission of the Bishop and Executive Council of the Diocese of Michigan, with the understanding that Church Army would provide facilities and budget for the training program.

In actual practice Church Army workers have too often served in the capacity of substitute clergy and failed to develop other possibilities of lay service and witness which the Church needs. It is the intention of Church Army by its new training program to extend and develop its ministry in creative ways which will fulfill its real potential for lay service in the Church. Previously the emphasis and atmosphere of Church Army training has been that of a seminary for the preparation of clergy. What is not generally understood is that the training of the laity to function as laity is different from the training of men for the ordained ministry. In any program of training for laity, there are certain basic elements. These parallel seminary training. On the other hand, laymen must be trained to fulfill their unique role as laymen of the Church in order to make their peculiar contribution to the total functioning of the Body of Christ.

Thus, Church Army is planning three full years of intensive training in a place set apart for laity. The first year will be basic and in no important way different from that of lay workers in general. The second year will be devoted to full-time field work under supervision. The third year will involve a second year of residence in the Parishfield Community for additional training in the Christian life. This would mean important additions to the teaching and guidance responsibilities of Parishfield in its training program.

The field supervisor and the member of the Parishfield Community in charge of the training program (the Director of the Training Center at Parishfield is the Rev. Gibson Winters, age 36, who holds a B.D. from the Episcopal Theological School and a Ph.D. in social relations from Harvard University) would have to devote full time to this training program in so far as it includes men in their third year of training. The expansion of the training program facilities at Parishfield to include Church Army recruits in their first year would make such expansion most desirable, but the third year of training would make it absolutely essential. Cadets who had qualified for going on in Church Army through their basic training and year of field work would now be given intensive training in the basic material to which they had been introduced in their first year, and in the more specialized responsibilities which would fall to them as full-time lay workers. The emphases in this training would depend inevitably upon the particular callings for which the Cadets are fitted, but all Cadets in their third year would receive work in preaching, evangelism, the formation of prayer and study groups and pastoral work.

In addition to this specialized training, further specialization would be envisioned as far as particular Cadets are ready to undertake special work in rural, industrial, unchurched and institutional areas of the Church's work.

At the conclusion of this third year of training, Cadets would be ready for commissioning and placement.

Thus, Church Army has launched a new venture which I believe the House of Bishops will approve most cordially. Hardly a Convention meets which does not stress the need for a better trained laity to undertake many missionary tasks which otherwise could not be done: and now is a period of great opportunity.

Bishop Emrich has written this endorsement of the Parishfield experiment: "It is with real pleasure that I welcome the move of the Church Army Training Center to Parishfield in the Diocese of Michigan. I believe it is a sound move for both the Church Army and Parishfield since they are groups whose great concern is ministry of the laity."

In order to meet the physical needs for this expanded program, the Trustees of Church Army, U.S.A., have launched a campaign to secure a Silver Jubilee Fund of approximately $83,000.00 to care for the building of:

1. An expandable dormitory-classroom for immediate housing of twelve cadets and the remodeling of an existing house at Parishfield to accommodate the Director of the Training Center.
2. To purchase and equip two mobile Evangelistic Trailer Units, to be used in census and survey work, preaching missions and rural and urban evangelism.
3. To purchase a station wagon for much needed use in the Training Center.

WILLIAM P. REMINGTON.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION TO STUDY CLERGY PENSION PLANS AND CLERICAL SALARIES

Your Joint Commission to Study Clergy Pension Plans and Clerical Salaries submits its report herein.

The Joint Commission was appointed in 1949, pursuant to resolutions of General Convention. (See Journal, 1949, pp. 292-3.) It was directed to study during the current triennium and report to the next General Convention its recommendations with respect to the following:

1. The matters raised by the El Paso Committee with reference to pensions for clergy, their widows and orphans, and with reference to alternate methods for the development of such pensions and of estates for the clergy.
2. The question of possible payment by clergymen of a portion of the premiums now paid by the parish.
3. The question of a possible method of equalizing the amounts of pensions paid to clergy on retirement.
4. The proposals of the Rev. Theodore Bell for the classification of the beneficiaries of the Fund as between married and unmarried priests and older and younger widows.
5. The question of clerical salaries, including the advisability of recommending the establishment by canon of the principle of a minimum salary for the clergy of the Church.

Appointments to the Joint Commission were made as follows:

The Rt. Rev. Frederick D. Goodwin, D.D. (Virginia)
 The Rt. Rev. James Wilson Hunter, D.D. (Wyoming)
 The Rt. Rev. Reginald Mallett, D.D. (Northern Indiana)
 The Rev. Theodore Bell (California)

The Rev. E. Frank Salmon, D.D. (Pennsylvania)
 The Rev. William G. Wright (New Mexico and Southwest Texas)
 Clifford C. Cowin (Ohio)
 William H. Darnour (Quincy)
 Dudley Gale (Tennessee)
 Ernest W. Greene (Washington)
 B. Allston Moore (South Carolina)
 Frank E. Punderson (Western Massachusetts)

Two members resigned for reasons of health:

The Rev. Frank E. Salmon, D.D.
 Dudley Gale.

Replacements were appointed, as follows:

The Rev. Heber W. Becker (Harrisburg)
 Jule M. Hannaford, Jr. (Minnesota)

Bishop Goodwin was elected Chairman, Clifford C. Cowin, Vice-Chairman, and Ernest W. Greene, Secretary.

Three full-scale meetings of the Joint Commission were held in addition to two meetings of subcommittees and the preparation and circulation of memoranda and statistics covering various intensive studies of the assigned subjects.

ASSIGNMENTS, SUMMARY OF FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS.

A. The El Paso Plan.

1. Your Joint Commission, after study, recommends as follows:

a. The continuation of group coverage upon a basis which will provide an assured pension, in a certain number of dollars per annum for the retired clergyman, for the clergyman who may be prematurely disabled, for the widow of a clergyman, and for the orphan or dependent children of a clergyman.

b. The continuation as per Canon 7 of The Church Pension Fund. Pursuant to such Canon the Pension Fund is so administered that no pension shall be allotted before there shall be adequate provision, upon an actuarial basis, to provide for such pension.

2. The El Paso Plan would:

a. Substitute a new Church Investment Company with employed investment fund managers for The Church Pension Fund as presently constituted.

b. Create an individual estate for each participating clergyman who is still in active service, utilizing for that purpose not only the proceeds of future assessments, but also all present assets of The Church Pension Fund with the exception of the amounts of money which would be required to continue until liquidation of the pensions which are presently being paid. Such individual estate would consist of shares in the Church Investment Company. A portion of such shares would be used at the time of retirement to purchase an annuity for the clergyman in the amount obtainable with the net proceeds of such shares, and the remaining shares would be delivered to the retiring clergyman.

- c. Provide no predetermined amount of pension or income in retirement.
- d. Eliminate pensions for widows, dependent children and orphans of clergy.
- e. Provide for the prematurely disabled clergyman only the share estate in the Church Investment Fund which he had accumulated up to the time he became disabled.
- f. Depend in considerable part upon common stocks in a diversified portfolio.

Recommendation

Your Joint Commission therefore recommends that the El Paso Plan be not adopted.

B. Alternate Methods of Developing Estates or Supplementary Retirement Income for the Clergy.

1. Your Joint Commission, after study, believes that it would be improper for the Church to engage in the investment business for the benefit of individuals or to furnish investment advice to individuals.
2. The Joint Commission, after study, believes that The Church Pension Fund is doing all that it can, consistent with the limitations involved as to safety of funds and its commitments. Nevertheless, the Commission equally believes that the pension payments, while providing a firm foundation for retirement, are inadequate to maintain a fair standard of living for a retired clergyman and his wife and family.
3. Various forms of insurance and annuity policies which provide an opportunity for sound and systematic estate building are available to the clergy.
4. The Commission, after study, believes that sound means of supplementing income, over and above payments from The Church Pension Fund as set forth by that organization, pursuant to actions of General Convention, are, and should be the continuing concern of the several dioceses, missionary districts and parishes.
5. The Commission, in the course of its studies, discussed the possibility that legislative action in the future may amend the Social Security Act to cover clergymen in the exercise of their ministry. Such action does not now appear to be in prospect.

Recommendation

In view of the fact that the studies of this Joint Commission have convinced it that present pensions are inadequate and that further consideration and changing conditions may provide a means of attaining this objective, it is unanimously recommended that a Joint Commission be appointed to continue the study of clergy pensions and salaries during the next triennium, and to report its recommendations to the next General Convention.

C. The Possible Payment by Clergymen of a Portion of the Premiums Now Paid by the Parishes.

Recommendation

This Joint Commission, after study, believes that clergymen, in view of their ordained status, should not be subject to compulsory premium payments to The Church Pension Fund and so recommends.

D. The Question of a Possible Method of Equalizing the Amounts of Pensions Paid to Clergy on Retirement.

1. The Joint Commission, after study, believes that the principle of relating pensions to stipends and years of ministry, undergirded by fair minimum pensions, should not be changed. That principle continues to be as fully valid as it was when General Convention reached that conclusion in the course of establishing the Pension Fund.

Recommendation

The equalization of all pensions is not recommended.

E. The Proposals of the Rev. Theodore Bell for the Classification of Beneficiaries of the Fund as Between Married and Unmarried Priests and Older and Younger Widows.

1. This Joint Commission believes that the protection provided at present by The Church Pension Fund on the group basis is greater than it would be on any individual basis.

Recommendation

That there be no change in the amount of pension for retired clergy with respect to the marital status of such retired clergy. It is likewise recommended that there be no difference in the pension of a widow because of her age.

F. Extension of Death Grant to Other Than Widows of Clergymen Who Die in Active Service.

The Joint Commission requested the Trustees of The Church Pension Fund to review their policy which heretofore has provided the Death Grant only for widows of clergymen who die in active service.

On May 8, 1951, the Executive Vice President of The Church Pension Fund notified the Joint Commission that the Trustees had taken action as follows:

1. Authorization that the immediate death grant to widows shall henceforth include $500.00 to the widow of a clergyman who dies after retiring on pension, provided, that there shall not have been more than a period of six months between the time when the clergyman gave up his active ministry and the time he began receiving his pension.

2. Adoption of a resolution re-affirming the restriction of the administration of The Church Pension Fund to provision for the retired and disabled clergy, and the widows and minor orphan children of clergy.

G. The Question of Clerical Salaries, Including the Advisability of Recommending the Establishment by Canon of the Principle of a Minimum Salary for the Clergy of the Church.

1. Your Joint Commission, after study, does not suggest canonical action with respect to minimum salaries.

Recommendations

This Joint Commission recommends as follows:

1. That Bishops and parish vestries give constant and earnest attention to the clerical salaries for which they are responsible; reviewing them frequently and taking all expenses into consideration.

2. That those whose salaries are under consideration be called into confidential conference by diocesan authorities and vestries so that a sufficient figure, based on facts arrived at from the ground up and not from the top down, may be determined.

3. That the matter of furnishing a full allowance for automobile expense, apart from the cash salary figure, be carefully considered.

II

MATERIAL PERTINENT TO THE SUBJECTS ASSIGNED TO THIS JOINT COMMISSION

The Church Pension Fund came into being because of the concern of the Church for its superannuated clergy, for the prematurely disabled clergyman and for the widows and minor orphan or dependent children of deceased clergymen. It provides group coverage upon a sound actuarial basis with assured amounts of annuity payments to its designated beneficiaries. The amounts of pensions are related to average salaries and years of service, undergirded by minimum pensions.

The Joint Commission recognizes and accepts the position of the Trustees of The Church Pension Fund that the Fund differs from the generality of trust funds, in that such trust funds undertake to deliver to beneficiaries whatever income good and faithful trusteeship may produce, whereas The Church Pension Fund must return to its beneficiaries specific numbers of dollars at future dates.

The Church Pension Fund does not undertake to build estates for individual clergymen. It does provide for group coverage with the amounts of payments assured under sound actuarial and investment policies.

No part of the premium assessed to parishes, congregations and missions by The Church Pension Fund is to be paid by the clergy. The Fund was founded upon this principle, and your Joint Commission believes that the reasons for the Church placing the responsibility of paying the pension assessments wholly on the parishes and other stipend-paying units, without contribution by the clergy serving them, continue to be fully as valid now as they were when the Fund was established.

Your Joint Commission, after three years of study, does not recommend the adoption of the El Paso Plan because that Plan is not in accord with the principles hereinabove set forth. It would abolish group coverage and build an estate for the individual clergyman, thus leaving widows and orphan and dependent minor children without pension protection. Further, it would change radically the nature and investment policies of The Church Pension Fund and would thereby subject the retired clergy to the hazards of uncertain and fluctuating income, due to primary dependence of the proposed Church Investment Fund on investments in common stocks.

Your Joint Commission, while it can not recommend the adoption of the El Paso Plan, is equally satisfied, after three years of study, that the present pension payments are inadequate to maintain, of themselves, a fair living standard for a retired clergyman and his wife and family.

The Commission has concluded that The Church Pension Fund is doing all that it can, consistent with the limitations involved, to preserve the safety of the Fund and its commitments. The present scale of pension payments, with the fixed minima, provides a firm foundation for living in retirement, but should be supplemented by other income wherever such supplementation is feasible.

Your Joint Commission has considered, as alternate to the El Paso Plan, whether the Church could undertake to attempt to provide for such supplementary income in retirement, over and above the provisions of The Church Pension Fund. This, of course, might be accomplished by a separate Investment Fund or Trust based upon voluntary contributions of the clergy, or by centralized investment of such contributions in the hope of high yield. The Trustees of The Church Pension Fund will not handle such a fund, being convinced that they can not properly do so. This Joint Commission believes that it would be improper for the Church to engage in the investment business for the benefit of individuals, or to furnish investment advice to individuals. Opportunities now are open to the clergy for investment of any savings in life insurance, annuities, equities, or in shares of investment trusts. However, there is need for help and guidance in many instances.

This Commission recommends that the several Dioceses, Missionary Districts and parishes continue and increase their efforts towards meeting the responsibility of the Church for the welfare of the clergy over and above the sums provided under The Church Pension Fund for pensions as set forth by that organization pursuant to actions of General Convention.

In the course of studying the pension problems of the Church the matter of Social Security was brought up, and it seemed, at least, to be germane to the work of the Commission. The Social Security Act exempts ordained clergymen, in the exercise of their ministry. There appears to be no imminent possibility that the Act will be amended so as to cover the clergy.

Some of the pros and cons with respect to possible Social Security coverage of the clergy in the future, which were expressed by various members of the Joint Commission, were as follows:

In Favor:

1. Retired clergy, their widows and orphans, need the extra income which would be provided by Social Security.
2. Social Security would provide differential benefits—higher for man and wife than for bachelor or widower.
3. The "Church and State" issue is not a factor in the viewpoint of some.
4. The allegedly high return in benefits on the amounts of Social Security taxes.

Against:

1. Status of clergy re-classification, by statute, as "Employees."
2. Possibly an "entering wedge" of State control of the clergy.
3. The danger to the tax exempt status of churches.
4. Compulsory tax payments by the clergy.
5. Optional coverage would actually be temporary.
6. If any are covered, all should be covered, otherwise there would be great confusion.
7. High aggregate cost when added to Pension Fund premiums.
8. Social Security taxes will increase in the future.
9. Clergy presently retired would not benefit.
10. Uncertainty as to amount of taxes and amount of benefits in future since both are subject to change by legislative action.

The question of a possible method of equalizing the amount of pensions paid to clergy on retirement has been studied.

This Joint Commission feels that it cannot recommend equalization of all clergy pensions, and that there is no valid reason for such equalization, which would disregard all variations of circumstances among retired clergy with respect to environment and other conditions of their former service and of their situation in retirement. The considerations with respect to equalization of all pensions were well expressed in the Preliminary Report of the Joint Commission on the Support of the Clergy (Pensions) in 1913, as follows:

"The flat pension is unjust, except in a static fund, because it bears no relation to the amount of contributions . . . The cost of living varies in different sections of the Union, and in different communities in the same section; and a man should be able to live in retirement in the same neighborhood and among the same friends where his active life was passed . . . The conclusive reason is that a pension system is the mere shadow which attends the conditions of active service . . . It is unwise to institute such a sweeping change as equal financial return in what is only an ancillary service, and leave the unequal conditions still existing in the substantial service. Reforms, if needed, should begin there . . . The Commission is decidedly of the opinion that on both theoretical and practical grounds a national pension system can hardly be successfully instituted or conducted that would so totally disregard the present organization of the Church as would be involved in a plan providing for flat pensions."

The proposals for classification of beneficiaries, with higher pensions for married clergymen than for widowers or bachelors; higher pensions for younger than for older widows; and for higher premiums to provide for such differential pensions, were all studied.

Your Joint Commission believes that the protection provided by the Pension Fund on the group actuarial basis is greater than it would be on any individual basis, and, therefore, there should be no differentials because of marital status in the pensions of retired clergymen, nor should there be differentials based on age in the pensions of widows. The Commission believes, further, that, under present-day conditions, it would be impossible to secure the support of all parishes—100 per cent of the Church—for pension premiums higher than 15 per cent.

By vote of the 1949 General Convention the resolution offered by Bishop Davis, asking consideration of the advisability of establishing minimum salaries for the Clergy by canonical action of the General Convention, was referred to this Commission on the Study of Clergy Pension Plans and Clerical Salaries. Such reference was undoubtedly made because of the close relation between salaries and pensions. In the full and ideal operation of our Pension Fund system it might truly be said—"as goes the salary, so goes the pension."

Yet when we come to consider the relation of General Convention to pensions and to salaries, we find fundamental differences. With the operation of the pension system, the General Convention has everything to do. The Convention established the Pension Fund by canon; it fixes premium rates by canon; it elects the trustees as prescribed by canon, and may by canon set forth general principles affecting the operation of the pension system.

In regard to salaries, however, the General Convention now has little direct responsibility. No canon can raise or lower salaries of parish clergymen, or prescribe penalties for failure to carry out salary agreements. Your Commission feels that this responsibility for clerical salaries should continue to rest primarily with diocesan authorities, as far as they are responsible, in whole or in part for the salaries of the missionary clergy, and with parish vestries. Conditions vary so greatly from diocese to diocese, and from district to district that no common standard, even a minimum one, would be realistic or effective if embodied in the Canons of the General Church.

Yet so great is the interest in and concern for the salaries of the clergy of the Church felt by this Joint Commission, especially in these days when the cost of living is advancing so ruthlessly, that this Commission desires to present the following pertinent facts to the General Convention and, through proper means of publicity, to the Church at large so that the mind and conscience of our Church people may be informed. It is easy to assume that a clergyman can get along on the old salary figure just because he has been doing so, and has managed to keep up a fairly decent appearance for himself and his family; or to feel rather comfortable when it can be said; "We increased the rector's salary this year," when the increase may not have been as great as the increased cost of living.

However, it would be entirely unfair to suggest a general indifference throughout the Church in the matter of clerical salaries. Quite the contrary is true. At the meeting of the House of Bishops in El Paso in January, 1951, your Commission was given the opportunity to present an interim report on clerical salaries. Partly, we feel as a result of this report and the subsequent publicity given this subject in the Church papers, and more particularly because of the inevitable increase of attention that has been given this matter of adequate salaries by vestries and diocesan officials as living costs have steadily advanced, there has been a gratifying increase in salaries in most dioceses and missionary districts this past year, as the following figures, furnished by The Church Pension Fund, show. These figures deal with the average of the Median Cash Stipends for the 89 jurisdictions in continental America. Clergy normally have the use of parish-owned rectories or are given cash rental allowances, neither of which is included in this study.

Date	Average Median Cash Salaries
January 1, 1940 .....	$2,426.00
November 1, 1950 .....	3,220.00	(El Paso report)
December 31, 1951 .....	3,483.00	(Latest figures)

An average increase in the past 14 months of $263.00.

When examined jurisdiction by jurisdiction the figures show that in the past fourteen months:

- 66 have increased the median salary figure
- 16 have remained unchanged
- 7 have decreased

In submitting the list of median salaries jurisdiction by jurisdiction, the Executive Vice President of The Church Pension Fund makes this interesting observation; "It is notable that of the fifteen Dioceses with $4,000.00 or over median, ten are Southern. The Texas Dioceses do well by their men. Very notable is the bell-wether Mississippi at $5,000.00."

Are these salaries, even those which have been increased in the past year, adequate for the proper level of living for our clergymen? Remember that the median cash salary figure used for each Diocese or Missionary District means that in that particular jurisdiction there are as many salaries below that figure as there are above. It is the one-half below the median figure with which we must be primarily concerned. Are those clergy, one-half of the total in each jurisdiction who receive less than the median salary figure, receiving a living wage? Where shall we go for comparison? The Bureau of Labor Statistics presents the following figures for "a modest but adequate" level of living for a City Worker's Family budget for a man and wife and two minor children—from $3,500.00 in the South to $3,930.00 in Washington, D.C. This does include rental allowance but does not include automobile expense. There are hundreds of our Clergy whose salaries are below these figures. Are we willing to let them remain so?

The Joint Commission is keenly aware of the limited value to be derived from dealing with average and median figures when the salaries, which are our only concern, deal with people—our clergy living under very varying circumstances. The only value of the above figures is to show a general trend, whether good or bad, and to invite the authorities in each jurisdiction and each parish to study its own situation in the light of the general trend. The Joint Commission has the figures, as furnished by The Church Pension Fund, which will show an increase, a static condition or a decrease for each of the 89 continental jurisdictions, and will be glad to give this information to the proper persons as it has already been given confidentially to each of the Bishops for his jurisdiction.

It is very evident that salary changes can be properly judged only in the light of the increased cost of living, or the relative purchasing power of the dollar. In this field the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which is universally accepted as authoritative, shows that the average cost of living index for 1940 was 100.2, for 1950 it was 171.2 and for 1951 it was 185.9. A little simple arithmetic will show that the average median salary increase of $263.00 as noted above for the past fourteen months, representing a cash salary increase of 8 per cent, is not as great as the percentage increase of the cost of living which for the year 1950 figures at 8½ per cent. Again it should be emphasized that these are general figures and can only represent trends; but each situation should be examined in the light of these trends.

There are two important factors that should be emphasized in studying the clergyman's cost of living under modern conditions; automobile expense and income taxes. Specifically, automobile expense has long been one of the most important factors, the latter has only recently become a formidable item. The cost of automobile ownership and operation, including depreciation, insurance, taxes, repairs as well as cost of gasoline and oil, has been figured carefully in the Runzheimer Plan of Automobile Standard Allowance, a plan used by many large companies in figuring mileage allowance. Since these figures vary from section to section, a member of our Joint Commission has arranged these figures to approximate the situation in each of the provincial areas of our Church.

How Much Money to Operate a Car?

The following operating costs are computed for a new Chevrolet sedan traded in after 2½ years service, or 45,000 miles, whichever comes first. Costs include depreciation, comprehensive insurance, property damage and public liability insurance, license, etc.

	Annual Fixed Cost	Per mile Operation	Annual Costs
			5,000 miles	10,000 miles	18,000 miles
Province I .....	$539	plus 3.1¢ per mile	$694	$849	$1,098
Province II .....	566	3.0	716	866	1,106
Province III .....	508	3.2	668	828	1,084
Province IV .....	503	3.4	673	843	1,115
Province V .....	521	3.2	681	841	1,097
Province VI .....	514	3.8	704	894	1,200
Province VII .....	515	3.4	685	855	1,127
Province VIII .....	548	3.6	728	908	1,196
Average .....	$527	3.3¢	$693	$860	$1,128

In the light of these figures do vestries realize that when they allow, for example, $600.00 for automobile expense for a clergyman who drives 18,000 miles a year in his work, they are requiring him to take more than $400.00 from his salary to cover the balance of the necessary automobile costs?

Only in the past very few years has the item of income tax become an important one in the average clergyman's budget. This is of course true of most citizens of this economic bracket and, in respect to this, the parson deserves no special consideration. But since we are examining the clergyman's salary budget, the following example may well be borne in mind. Assuming the case of a clergyman with a wife and two minor children, with his entire income represented by his salary, and with deductible contributions, etc. of 10 per cent, the federal income tax on a salary of $4,000.00 was $35.20 for the year 1940, and $240.00 for the year 1951.

In concluding this section of the report on clerical salaries we would again emphasize our realization of the fact that what is here presented is couched in most general terms, in terms of averages and medians. Yet with the wide range of median salary figures, $5,000.00 in Mississippi to $2,700.00 in a mid-country diocese, with greatly varying methods by which travel allowances are made, with fuel costs a very weighty factor in a large part of the country and almost negligible in some dioceses of the South, these and many other variants have made it necessary for a report on the whole situation to be in most general terms. We can only show the general trends, only give the large outline and leave to Bishops and vestries the responsibility of filling in the local details.

In the matter of clerical salaries, we suggest no canonical action. We do press for vigorous recommendation on three points:

1. That Bishops, other diocesan authorities and parish vestries continue to give constant and earnest attention to the clerical salaries for which they are responsible; reviewing them frequently, and taking all factors, particularly full automobile expense allowance, into consideration.

2. That those whose salaries are under consideration be called into confidential conference by diocesan authorities and vestries, so that a sufficient figure, based on facts arrived at from the ground up, not from the top down, may be determined.

3. That the matter of furnishing a full allowance for automobile expense, apart from the cash salary figure, be carefully considered.

SUMMARY OF RECOMMENDATIONS

Your Joint Commission, after study, offers its recommendations as follows:

1. That the El Paso Plan be not adopted.
2. That the Church should not engage in the investment business for the benefit of individuals, and should not furnish investment advice to individuals.
3. That other sound means of supplementing the income of retired clergymen, over and above payments from The Church Pension Fund, as set forth by that organization pursuant to actions of General Convention, should be the continuing concern of the several dioceses, missionary districts, and parishes.
4. That clergymen, in view of their ordained status, should not be subject to compulsory premium payments to The Church Pension Fund.
5. That all pensions should not be equalized in amount.

6. That there be no change in the amount of pension for retired clergy with respect to the marital status of such retired clergy. That there be no difference in the pension of a widow because of her age.

7. That there be no canonical action with respect to minimum salaries.

8. That Bishops and parish vestries give constant and earnest attention to the clerical salaries for which they are responsible; reviewing them frequently, and taking all factors, particularly full automobile allowance, into consideration.

9. That those whose salaries are under consideration be called into confidential conference by diocesan authorities and vestries, so that a sufficient figure, based on facts arrived at from the ground up, not from the top down, may be determined.

10. That a Joint Commission be appointed to continue the study of clergy pensions and salaries during the next triennium and to report its recommendations to the next General Convention. Your Joint Commission believes that this recommendation is most important in view of the fact that its studies have convinced it that present pensions are inadequate, and that further consideration and changing conditions may provide a means of ameliorating this situation.

The Rev. William G. Wright disagrees with the action and recommendation hereinabove reported with respect to the El Paso Plan.

The Rev. Theodore Bell and Mr. Clifford C. Cowin, being in disagreement with the majority of the Joint Commission with respect to Social Security, have submitted a Minority Report which is appended hereto.

MINORITY REPORT IN RESPECT TO SOCIAL SECURITY

The Joint Commission is unanimous in the opinion that a way must be found to supplement the present inadequate scale of clergy pensions but no plan has been found acceptable to the majority of the Commission. The undersigned members, a minority, are persuaded that there is sufficient possibility that optional inclusion of the clergy under Federal Old Age and Survivors Insurance of the Social Security Program may satisfy this need to justify continued study of this proposal during the next triennium.

APPENDIX

The following excerpts from the "Preliminary Report of the Joint Commission on the Support of the Clergy (Pensions) July, 1913, (Constituted by the General Convention of 1910. Rt. Rev. William Lawrence, Bishop of Massachusetts, Chairman)" are of current interest because that report sets forth the principles upon which General Convention based its action in establishing The Church Pension Fund.

Pensions had been paid in individual cases, but without any orderly procedure or national plan, for many years prior to 1913. As of that year there were nearly fifty separate societies, national, state and Diocesan, with discordant rules, or no rules at all. "As a result, the liberality of the laity is perplexed by conflicting appeals, the Clergy and their families have no feeling of security for future provision, many Clergy fail to share in the pension disbursement, and those to whom pension annuities are granted are generally compelled to ask for such annuities as a favor, instead of receiving them as a right. The annuities are in nearly all cases inadequate to a decent livelihood.

"The General Clergy Relief Fund, incorporated in 1855, is administered by seven trustees elected by the General Convention. The permanent fund in 1910 was about $450,000. For the triennial period ending in 1910 the fund disbursed about $235,000, which would give an average annual disbursement of $78,334. The total number of beneficiaries for the triennial period was 634. Assuming that this number remained constant during each of the three years, the average annual grant to each beneficiary, including widows and orphans, would have been $123.55. The data collected by the Commission from the Clergy indicated that the average annual grant received by the Clergy themselves from the fund was $261.51.

"The total pension and relief disbursement is reported to the Commission as aggregating annually $222,908. Such an amount, although large, is not an adequate pension expenditure for a body of 5,678 Clergy and their families.

"All annuities should be granted under fixed rules, not only in order that every Clergyman may receive his pension provision without sacrifice of dignity and that all suspicion of partiality be removed from the pension administration, but in order that the Church may know exactly what its pension budget will be, and may provide resources which will meet that expense.

"The Commission is clearly of the opinion that the pension system of the Church cannot be confined to superannuation alone, but, must also provide against total disability at any age, and must take care of widows and minor orphans. This makes the family the basic principle of the pension system, which is peculiarly appropriate in the Church. Only through such an extended provision is the entire problem solved, and the necessity for appeals to charity obviated.

"On the other hand, the Commission cannot admit an obligation to extend the benefits beyond the classes enumerated above.

"No set of men is good enough to determine arbitrarily what an aged employee shall live on; no man is bad enough to be forced to undergo the humiliation of accepting such capricious bounty. . . . The Commission unhesitatingly considers it the duty of the Church to make all pension grants under fixed and known rules.

"In the system recommended by the Commission to the Church absolute security exists to a beneficiary once granted an annuity because the money to pay the annuity will be in the hands of the Trustees when the grant is made.

"The flat pension is unjust, except in a static fund, because it bears no relation to the amount of contributions. . . . The cost of living varies in different sections of the Union and in different communities in the same section; and a man should be able to live in retirement in the same neighborhood and among the same friends where his active life was passed. A widow often cannot change her residence. . . . The conclusive reason is that a pension system is the mere shadow which attends the conditions of active service. The Clerical status as such is not provided for financially by the Church during active service; each Clergyman receives a varying stipend from his Parish or other ecclesiastical body. It is unwise to institute such a sweeping change as equal financial return in what is only an ancillary service, and leave the unequal conditions still existing in the substantial service. Reforms, if needed, should begin there.

"The Commission is decidedly of the opinion that upon both theoretical and practical grounds a national pension system can hardly be successfully instituted or conducted that would so totally disregard the present organization of the Church as would be involved in a plan providing for flat pensions.

"The Commission, therefore . . . believes that the retiring allowance for Clergy should be based upon a combination of average stipend and length of active service, upon a ratio which on the one hand will not unduly burden the Church or tempt to retirement, and on the other hand, provide for a priest whose active stipend has been a modest one. It thinks the ideal should be half pay. . . . By taking the total stipend (since ordination) as the basis, the Church will be relieved of extra burdens due to late ordination, or sudden late calls to large stipends, and an elderly Clergyman, on the other hand, who does not wish to retire altogether, will feel free to lay down too heavy burdens for lighter ones without unduly diminishing his pension provision.

"The most usual age of ordination is 28. Retirement ought not, as a rule, in such a calling as that of the Clergy, take place before age 68. A retiring allowance of one and one quarter percent for each year of service would, therefore, give, to those following this usual course, half pay.

"Sometimes . . . the (industrial) corporation either invites or compels its employees to make contributions to a (pension) fund. . . . These systems are really self saving plans.

"They are inapplicable to the Church. A government or corporation can place the making of contributions in its contract of employment . . . and the government or corporation can dismiss an employee for failing to make contributions. . . . But the Clergy are ordained to a status, not an employment: their stipends are paid by organizations over which the control of the national Church is strictly limited. . . . To depose a Priest for other causes than heterodoxy or bad morals would be likewise impossible. So that, entirely apart from the economic question as to whether the Clergy could bear a self saving contributory system, its compulsory institution, either by Canonical or legal means, seems impractical."

JOINT COMMISSION TO STUDY THE PLACEMENT OF THE CLERGY

Your Commission begs leave to submit the following report. We make this statement, not so much as an apology as a statement of fact. It is very difficult for a Commission composed of members from the far corners of this country to meet when no appropriation has been made to cover expenses of such a meeting. However, we have had frequent correspondence and have held one meeting. We felt that the field of study given us was that of finding the way to get the right man in the right place and the right place for the right man. To this end we present the following two resolutions and two recommendations.

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the National Council be requested to establish in its offices a separate bureau for clergy placement which shall function under the direction of the Presiding Bishop, and to provide for payment of the expense of the same from National Council administration funds. The bureau shall endeavor to supply parishes and other agencies of the Church and clergymen and lay workers respectively with information concerning opportunities for services and those available for such services.

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that a Commission on Clergy Placement be continued and that $1,500.00 be appropriated for its expenses during the triennium.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. We urge that priority be given to the placing of Chaplains coming out of Service in parishes commensurate with those they left to enter the Service.

2. Since the whole problem of clergy placement is made more difficult by the dire shortage of clergy in our Church, we believe that this shortage can be greatly relieved if General Convention will recommend that dioceses, missionary districts, clergy and laity wage an earnest campaign of recruiting men for the Ministry.

APPENDIX 7

REPORT OF JOINT COMMITTEE TO SUPERVISE
PUBLICATION OF SUPPLEMENT TO ANNOTATED EDITION OF CONSTITUTION AND CANONS

Your Committee is happy to report considerable progress on its assignment. Early in 1951 the Rev. H. Kearney Jones, of Maryland, who had previously volunteered his services as compiler of the proposed Supplement to Dr. White's book, informed the chairman that he was obliged to discontinue the work and the Committee had to make a completely new start. After several unsuccessful attempts to secure another author had been made, Mr. Jackson A. Dykman, Chancellor of the Diocese of Long Island, and a member of the Committee, generously volunteered to undertake the work.

The original plan had been to prepare and publish a supplement to Dr. E. A. White's Constitution and Canons Governing the Protestant Episcopal Church, Annotated. The Supplement would have begun with the General Convention of 1925, Dr. White's book having been published in 1924. However, it was found that such a Supplement would be impractical for several specific reasons. If a Supplement only were printed it would immediately raise a demand for the original book which could not be met without reprinting it. The Supplement would be of little value without the original volume. Further, as the numbering of the Canons has been changed it would have been difficult to follow the history of a Canon through the two books. For these reasons it was decided that a revision of Dr. White's book would be infinitely preferable to the preparation and publication of a Supplement, and the reprinting of the original volume. The Committee concluded that the thing needed is a new book, incorporating large sections of Dr. White's material and bringing all the material up to date.

Mr. Dykman has devoted a substantial part of his time during the past fifteen months to this project with the result that the manuscript, excepting for that part to cover this 1952 General Convention, is now complete and is in process of being typed. It is to be read by members of the Committee and others, and should be ready for publication before the end of this year.

Tentative estimates from publishers indicate that approximately $15,000.00 will be necessary to lay down in the shipping room a thousand bound copies of the book. While this amount is in excess of the figure we originally had in mind, it is certainly far less than would be required for publication of a Supplement and reprinting Dr. White's volume. The Committee believes that the book will be of great value and use to bishops, chancellors, General Church and Diocesan Committees on Constitution and Canons, and Theological Seminaries. It is of the opinion that a considerable number of the books can be sold immediately upon publication. As a result the net amount expended by the General Convention would be correspondingly reduced.

The Committee recommends the adoption of the following resolutions:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Joint Committee to Supervise Publication of Supplement to Annotated Edition of Constitution and Canons be continued, with instructions to prepare a revised edition of Dr. White's book, and in cooperation with the Secretary of the House of Deputies to arrange for its publication; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that General Convention appropriate for such publication the sum of $15,000.00, such item to be placed in the budget of General Convention for the coming triennium, and that the Joint Committee be authorized to have one thousand copies bound and sold at a price to be agreed upon with the publisher.

APPENDIX 9

REPORT OF THE ADVISORY COMMISSION ON THE WORK OF DEACONESSES

As reported at the meeting of the House of Bishops in El Paso, the Advisory Commission is proceeding with the plan to establish a Central House for Deaconesses—both as a Training School for Candidates and as a center for the work of the Deaconess Order with provision for those on furlough from the field.

We had some assurances that the Woman's Auxiliary would greatly assist in the purchase of a proper house which two years or more ago could have been bought for from $30,000 to $35,000.

A U.T.O. grant for the purchase of property could not be obtained at that time since there was not sufficient assurance that such a House could be maintained and had the financial backing of the National Church.

We made a somewhat limited appeal for funds throughout the Church and though individual contributions have been generally in small amounts, yet the total number of contributors has been quite large and many gifts have come from Woman's Guilds. The total obtained by August 28 is $6,466.26.

Meanwhile property prices have continued to rise so that probably nothing suitable can be obtained for less than $40,000.

Through a benefactor in Chicago we have received and placed in storage a quantity of good furniture which will be of great help. The funds in hand will have to be used in setting up the House and program and will provide additional necessary equipment.

Before the Woman's Auxiliary will give further consideration to our request for a grant to purchase the House, it will be necessary to have the promise of help from the Budget of the National Church toward maintenance. We are confident that through student fees, gifts and scholarship grants we can provide for food and teaching costs.

We shall need help for the salary of the Deaconess in charge and for such items as heat, repairs and service wages.

In the name of the Commission we have a request now before the Joint Committee on Budget and Program for a grant this triennium of $10,000.00 a year. We are certain that some further expression of approval of our general program from this House will be of great help in obtaining favorable action upon this request, as well as a grant from the Woman's Auxiliary toward the purchase of the House.

We have continued our efforts to cultivate vocations by having a Deaconess at Daniel Baker College, Texas. We have two candidates of superior quality now studying, temporarily, in England until we have the Central House established, and we have several other candidates in prospect. We also have the prospect of assistance to provide a field worker to promote vocations as soon as we can offer training to prospective candidates.

We believe we can expect to show worthwhile results by the next General Convention and so beseech your commendation and support in order that we may continue and extend this wonderful ministry of service of women in the Church.

We all know the great need of trained workers and leaders in our expanding fields and particularly in Religious Education—which need will increase as the program of our Department of Christian Education comes into fuller expression. We believe we shall have in the Central House for Deaconesses one important means of meeting these needs.

We therefore hope most sincerely that this House will record its continued approval and support of the work of this Advisory Commission on Deaconesses and commend the plan for the establishment of the proposed Central House.

Resolved, That this House records its approval and support of the plan of the Advisory Commission to establish a Central House for Deaconesses and commends its support.

WALLACE E. CONKLING.

APPENDIX 11

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON ECUMENICAL RELATIONS
OUR ASSIGNED TASK

This has been a significant triennium in the ecumenical relations of the Protestant Episcopal Church and in world-wide Christianity, with many new and vital actions to stimulate and solidify the ecumenical movement, both at home and abroad.

Following the mandate of the last General Convention, this newly appointed Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations, replacing the Joint Commission on Faith and Order, has tried to keep in touch with all activities and advances of the ecumenical movement, and to become a part of whatever seemed to be our shared responsibility. All the way from the planning for and final merging of twelve cooperative interdenominational agencies (see Appendix 3) into the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America, to the preparatory work for and final meeting of the Third World Conference on Faith and Order, held in Lund, Sweden, August 15-28, 1952, the Joint Commission has sought to keep informed as to the complex flow of ecumenical business and to represent the Episcopal Church as ably as possible.

Since the Joint Commission can meet only once a year because of the travel involved, an Executive Committee was appointed and close relations have been maintained with the Committee on Ecumenical Relations appointed by our National Council which meets four times a year. Also a special publicity committee has been active in carrying out the instructions of the last General Convention, "to see that the Church is kept informed of progress in this field."

THE NATIONAL COUNCIL OF THE CHURCHES OF CHRIST IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

On December 2, 1950, in the city of Cleveland, in the midst of a paralyzing blizzard, the National Council of Churches was constituted and the new machinery for Christian cooperation in the United States began its complex operation. With only a limited experience so far, there are still problems of drawing together the many interests represented without taking away the freedom of the merged agencies; and patience will be needed for a few years more before all the parts become integrated into a smoothly operating whole.

The Episcopal Church is fully represented on the General Board, at the Biennial meetings of the General Assembly, and on all the Divisions, Departments, Commissions and Committees; for, in addition to our 29 officially appointed delegates to the N.C.C., at least 153 other Episcopalians are serving on one or more of these 108 working units. While it is practically impossible to keep in close touch with all of these groups, yet the Joint Commission has written to each of these individual workers, and has asked for direct report of any matters of major importance for passing on to the whole Church.

The most important single body is the General Board. Our Church was signally honored when our Presiding Bishop was elected the first President of the N.C.C. He has proved to be a wise, popular and effective leader in the developing strategy of this united agency for Christian cooperation. Our representatives on the General Board have been conscious of the problems which arise when the General Board has expressed judgment on issues such as the appointment of a representative of our government to the Vatican or Universal Military Training. They have been in accord with the principle which has prevailed from the inception of the N.C.C., namely, that minority opinion be safeguarded and always publicized, and that both sides of the question be clearly stated so that the rights of the minority are protected at all times. Since no pronouncements have been made by our Church on some of these debated questions, our representatives have had to use their best wisdom and judgment in each case. They are of opinion that while the N.C.C. is forbidden by its Constitution to make pronouncements on matters of faith and order, it should be allowed to make statements on issues of moral or religious witness and to publish study materials and pamphlets in these areas.

A request for comments or suggestions was included in the letter sent to each of the Episcopalians, clerical and lay, who serve on committees of the N.C.C. In more than a hundred replies, the only criticisms were of minor administrative details, and many expressed their hearty approval of our Church's participation, several speaking especially of the earnestness and seriousness with which lay representatives, men and women, have addressed themselves to the task.

Provision has been made for our full representation at the next Biennial meeting, to be held in Denver, Colo., December 9-12, 1952.

REPORT FROM OUR REPRESENTATIVES ON THE GENERAL BOARD

Our representatives on the General Board contribute the following special report:

"Since December 1950 when the National Council of Churches was formally brought into being by a Constituting Convention in Cleveland, there have been five meetings of the General Board. This is the executive body that supervises procedure and carries out the purposes of the National Council between the biennial sessions. Four places on this Board of 125 members were assigned to the Episcopal Church, and Bishop Sterrett, Bishop Sturtevant, the Rev. Dr. John S. Higgins and Mr. Thomas B. K. Ringe, were elected by our own National Council as our representatives. They have attended the meetings as indicated:

Jan. 17, 1951 New York: Bishop Sterrett, Mr. Ringe.

Mar. 28, 1951 New York: Bishop Sterrett, Bishop Sturtevant, Dr. Higgins, Mr. Ringe.

Sept. 19, 1951 New York: Bishop Sterrett, Dr. Higgins, Mr. Ringe.

Nov. 28, 1951 Atlanta: Bishop Sterrett, Mr. Ringe, Bishop Carpenter.

"Much of the time of the Board has been devoted to organization and procedures, discussions as to the responsibilities and inter-relation of departments and commissions, and the interpretation of by-laws and regulations. When one considers the scope and the complexity of activities and services of the twelve combined agencies, it will at once be clear, we think, that this was inevitable, especially during the first year. Indeed, the more we become familiar with the proportions of the task facing and well accomplished by the Planning Committee, the greater is our admiration for this group and our surprise that so many organizational problems were foreseen and wisely met.

"At present one of the gravest issues before the Board centers in the question of the right of a department or division to publish statements or reports without first submitting them to and securing approval of the General Board. There is every reason to believe that this can and will be solved in such a way as to be just to the competent leadership in such divisions, while making clear a distinction between such pronouncements and those of the General Board, which are supposed, to the best of our ability, to represent the view of the constituting Churches.

"Some have felt that the number employed could be reduced in the interest of economy and without impairing the Council's services; and others have expressed the hope that officials could find phraseology in pronouncements that would be more sensitive to our Church's position. We find that careful studies continue as to ways of avoiding duplication and eliminating unnecessary expense, and we are encouraged by the eagerness of our neighbors to understand our point of view and to find more comprehensive language, just as we in turn realize the difficulty involved in such a search.

"One hundred and eighty-two Churchmen and Churchwomen are serving as members of the varied working units of the National Council. This gives some idea of the way in which members of our own Communion are sharing in this enterprise—some as members of the staff, others as heads and members of divisions and departments, all rendering valuable service in many capacities.

"We share whole-heartedly in the view expressed by so many in our wide fellowship that the leadership of our Presiding Bishop and his willingness to give generously of his time have gone far in assuring a good start in these early years and in keeping us on the right path.

"As your representatives we feel that where General Convention has taken definite action clearly bearing on any question before the General Board or Biennial Assembly, it is our duty to support that position. The Constitution of the National Council of Churches provides that a delegation can ask that its vote be recorded in the negative if action taken should be contrary to the position of its Communion. In our judgment, that would rarely be necessary.

"Where General Convention has taken no action, our position has been that we are free to use our own judgment, trying, of course, to speak and vote in harmony with what we regard as the Church's point of view. Such decisions were required during the last year, for example, with reference to the President's proposal to appoint an Ambassador to the Vatican, where our three representatives present voted for the statement of the National Council. Another problem of unusual difficulty in which earnest Christians have strong convictions and different points of view involved the proposal for Universal Military Training. In that instance our delegation was divided. In neither case had General Convention expressed an opinion.

"It is probable that other equally important issues will come before your delegation, whoever they may be, in the next triennium. We, and they, would like to know whether General Convention wishes to give us definite instructions on any of these matters. Unless we are so instructed or guided by a definite position of our own Communion, we hope we are right in assuming that it is our responsibility to vote and act in accordance with our own convictions."

THE WORLD COUNCIL OF CHURCHES SINCE 1949

While the set-up of the World Council of Churches is not quite so complex as that of the N.C.C., there are still many areas of this work requiring our constant concern and best representation. Again, as directed by the resolutions of last General Convention, we have tried to follow through on all matters referred from the First Assembly at Amsterdam in 1948 to the member Churches for "serious consideration and appropriate action," and to see that the Episcopal Church carried its rightful share of the work of the World Council, particularly with reference to the Commission on Faith and Order. We have seen to it that the appointed delegates from our Church, or properly accredited substitutes, attended all meetings, including those of the Conference of U.S.A. Member Churches, the Central Committee, the Commission on Faith and Order, and the various other committees and commissions; and that the work done at each meeting was reported through the Church press.

Special attention has been given to documents issued by the World Council on which the comments of the member Churches were requested. These have been studied and discussed by the Joint Commission, and replies sent to the Council:

The Church, the Churches and the World Council of Churches.

A statement by the Central Committee at its 1950 meeting in Toronto, clearing away some false interpretations of the nature of the Council (for example, that it might tend to become a "super" Church), and defining the positive principles on which it stands.

The Calling of the Church to Mission and to Unity.

An attempt to show the inter-relation of the areas of concern of the International Missionary Council and of the World Council, now officially "in association with" each other.

The First Report of the Advisory Commission on the Theme of the Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches.

A statement formulated by an international group of scholars, appointed by the Central Committee, submitted to the member Churches for criticism and constructive suggestions.

Since there is never sufficient time at General Convention to give serious consideration to such documents, the Joint Commission has served as our agency for doing this, and for making whatever contribution we can in response.

The biggest single event of the triennium, within the framework of the World Council of Churches, was the Third World Conference on Faith and Order held in Lund, Sweden, August 15-28, 1952. The delegates from our Church to this meeting, elected by our National Council, were Bishop Bayne, Bishop Dun, the Rev. Professor Powel M. Dawley, Canon Theodore O. Wedel, and Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse. They will make a supplemental report to this General Convention at some appropriate time.

Several important contributions have been made to Faith and Order by members of our Joint Commission. Bishop Dun and Mr. Morehouse attended the meeting of the Commission in August, 1951, when the final plans were made for Lund, Bishop Dun being chairman of the committee on the Conference program. Dr. Tomkins is the Associate Secretary for America of the Faith and Order Commission, and has been constantly busy with the preparations for the Lund Conference. Dr. Kennedy was chosen by the Committee on Promotion of Faith and Order Studies, appointed by the Conference of U.S.A. Member Churches, to write a preliminary study guide for clergy and laity on the subjects to be considered at Lund. This booklet, "Exploring Paths of Church Unity," was used widely and went into three printings. He was also appointed by the same committee to attend the Conference with specific responsibility for interpreting it to lay people generally. Canon Wedel is a member of the World Council's Study Department and took part in its meeting last summer.

The next meeting of the Central Committee of the World Council of Churches will be held in Lucknow, India, from the last of December, 1952, to early January, 1953. The Second Assembly of the World Council of Churches will be held in Evanston, Illinois, in August, 1954. The Episcopal Church will be represented at both these meetings.

REPORT OF REPRESENTATIVES ON THE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF THE WORLD COUNCIL

The World Council of Churches now includes 158 independently organized member Churches. The larger number of these member Churches are concentrated in Europe, the United Kingdom and Eire, North America, Asia and Australasia, with a smaller number in Africa, the Near East and South America. In terms of confessions or Church-families the larger number are Reformed, Lutheran, Methodist, Anglican, Baptist, with a smaller number from Orthodox Churches, United Churches, Congregational, Disciples, Old Catholic, Friends, Moravians and other traditions.

The chief organ of the Council between Assemblies is the Central Committee, which has met each summer since the first Assembly in Amsterdam in 1948. Two representatives of the Episcopal Church are regular members of the Central Committee. Bishop Dun has attended all of these meetings. When Mr. Charles P. Taft has been unable to attend Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse has substituted for him. The Faith and Order Commission, which is an integral part of the World Council, has also met regularly in conjunction with the Central Committee. Bishop Dun, Mr. Morehouse and the Rev. Dr. Floyd W. Tomkins, American Secretary for Faith and Order, have regularly attended these meetings. We have been represented regularly in the meetings of the Conference of U.S.A. Member Churches of the W.C.C. and of its Executive Committee. Our Church is also ably represented on a number of the special Commissions and Committees of the W.C.C.

At the time this report is written plans are fully made for the Third World Conference on Faith and Order, meeting at Lund in Sweden, August 15-28, 1952. Our Church will be represented by Bishop Bayne, Bishop Dun, the Rev. Canon Theodore O. Wedel, the Rev. Professor Powel M. Dawley, and Mr. Clifford P. Morehouse. This Conference will represent another stage in the "conversation between the Churches" initiated by the action of our own General Convention so many years ago.

With a view to strengthening the ties between the Churches of the West and the younger Churches of the East, the next meeting of the Central Committee will be held in India in December, 1952, and January, 1953. The importance of a strong representation from the Churches of the West at this meeting is greatly stressed by the officers and leaders of the Council.

Plans are well advanced for the Second Assembly of the W.C.C. to be held in Evanston, Illinois, in the summer of 1954.

When the W.C.C. came into being at Amsterdam in 1948 the representatives of the member Churches declared, "We intend to stay together." All the activities of the W.C.C. are manifestations of that intention. In large conferences and small, in committees and commissions, representatives of these many separated companies of Christ's people are trying to understand one another, to seek together the unity God wills for us, to wrestle together with the problems and tasks which Christians face in every part of our troubled and divided world.

One of the most impressive and heartening expressions of this will to "stay together" has been the help which Christians in more favored areas have been giving to their brethren in desperate material and spiritual need. Much of this has been directed or coordinated by the World Council's Department of Interchurch Aid and Service to Refugees. This aid totalled over fourteen million dollars in 1949, over ten million in 1950 and over nine million in 1951. In the last year more than half was spent to assist refugees. As has been said, "If we grow tired of refugees, we must remember that they grow tired, too." In this ministry and in the support of this Department of the W.C.C. our Church has taken an honorable though a modest part.

The best leadership in the W.C.C. rejoices in what we have been granted, but presses on towards a fuller unity to which God calls us. As Bishop Newbigin, of the Church of South India, said at Rolle, "The W.C.C. is a wonderful gift of God to which we have full loyalty. Let us, however, beware lest this, which is not a Church, becomes a substitute. Here we are not centered around the Word and the Sacrament, but around the committee table, the report, the administrative machine . . . A council of Churches can only be something which exists in order to disappear."

The World Council of Churches is not perfect. The great Roman Catholic community stands outside of it by its own decision. Increasingly it is true that only by prayer can we penetrate to our Christian brethren behind the Iron Curtain and the Bamboo Curtain. Only slowly does the awareness of our deep oneness in Christ penetrate down into the local life of the member Churches. But this is what God has granted us now, and it is good. Those of us who have been privileged to share in it are not always sure of what we have done for it; but we are sure of what it has done for us. And the Message of Amsterdam still speaks our best conviction when it says, "Our coming together to form a World Council will be in vain unless Christians and Christian congregations everywhere commit themselves to the Lord of the Church in a new effort to seek together, where they live, to be His witnesses and servants among their neighbors."

OTHER RESPONSIBILITIES AND WORK OF THE JOINT COMMISSION

Channeling Information to the Church. To keep the Church informed in all ecumenical matters, the Joint Commission appointed a publicity committee under Dr. Kennedy, which has arranged for reports and feature articles in the Church papers, both national and diocesan. It has also been zealous in arranging for addresses and study courses on the Ecumenical Movement at diocesan conventions and provincial synods as well as at summer conferences both diocesan and provincial. The study booklet on Faith and Order has been widely publicized throughout the Church, especially by the Youth Department and the Woman's Auxiliary. Information on opportunities for theological students to attend study courses at the Ecumenical Institute near Geneva and at other places has been sent to our Seminaries, with good response.

Need for an Ecumenical Secretary. Our Joint Commission has increasingly recognized that a scattered body meeting once a year and without staff cannot provide for the many administrative relationships and responsibilities arising out of the membership of our Church in the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches. The responsibility for assuring proper representation, for keeping in touch with our representatives and for transmitting routine and urgent communications and materials from the N.C.C. and the W.C.C. to the appropriate agencies of our Church is quite beyond our competence as a Commission of the General Convention. Therefore, the Commission has recommended to the Presiding Bishop that a staff officer of our own National Council be designated as a special assistant to him and the Council in these relationships. We are glad to report that the Rev. Dr. James W. Kennedy has been appointed as a part-time assistant for these purposes, with a title still to be determined.

FINANCIAL OBLIGATIONS AND SUPPORT

During the first triennium of its existence the Commission sought to provide in its budget not only for the direct expenses of the Commission itself, but also for the essential travel expenses of those representing us in the meetings and committees and agencies of the N.C.C. and the W.C.C. As will be seen from the appended financial report, about $13,000 of the total of $16,000 provided for the Commission in the last General Convention Budget has been used for this purpose. It has become apparent that provision for the costs of our representation in these ecumenical organizations is properly an administrative expense of our National Council, rather than a Commission expense. Therefore, with the approval of the Presiding Bishop and our National Council, the Convention will be asked to adopt an item in the Church's Program Budget for the expenses of our representatives. The Commission will ask from the General Convention Budget only such an amount as is needed to provide for the functioning of the Commission itself.

Our Church's direct support of the work of the N.C.C. and of the W.C.C. is, of course, distinct from the provision for our own representatives in these bodies. Our apportioned share in providing for the budget of the W.C.C. in 1951 was $28,000, and we are happy to report that this was paid in full. Our Church's contribution to the general administration budget of the N.C.C. was $21,150 in 1951, but our apportioned share was $36,200.

Since the Commission is convinced that a sense of participation in these memberships will be brought home to our parishes and people by direct contributions to the N.C.C. and the W.C.C., even though modest, we have sent an appeal to our parishes and missions for special direct support. As a result, the following amounts have been contributed to the World Council:

			Jan.-Apr.
Parishes contributing .....	193	188	137
Amount contributed .....	$2,841.97	$4,711.20	$2,196.94

In this connection we may note that a special effort is being made by the World Council to encourage the observance of Whitsunday as a focal point of ecumenical concern, with opportunity for giving to the support of the work of the N.C.C. and the W.C.C. at that season.

One of the largest sums in our National Church budget is for overseas relief and refugee work, which is being coordinated through Church World Service, now an agency of the N.C.C., and the Department of Inter-Church Aid and Service to Refugees of the W.C.C. at Geneva. The amounts disbursed are as follows:

1952 .....	508,200.00

Though approximately one-third of these sums went to Orthodox Churches and to Anglican Dioceses overseas for their relief and refugee work, and about one-ninth was administered through our own Department of Christian Social Relations, yet over one-half was administered through the agency of the W.C.C. and the N.C.C. in programs of relief and re-settlement that would have been beyond the capacity of our Church acting alone. Surely here is practical demonstration of what cooperation can accomplish in Christian service.

LOOKING AHEAD

It is impossible to compress into a limited report to General Convention the impressive story of all phases of the work now going on all over the world as an expression of the Ecumenical Movement. Literature will be available at the Ecumenical Relations Exhibit Booth in the lobby of Symphony Hall for those who want a more complete picture. We have barely indicated the trends of our responsibility and but briefly presented the concern of your Joint Commission in discharging its task as outlined by the last General Convention. Our plea to the bishops and deputies is to back up the work to which we are committed, to see that the dioceses and parishes are kept informed, and, as the Message from Amsterdam put it, to "give ourselves to those tasks which lie to our hands, and so set up signs that men may see."

Under God's guidance the Ecumenical Movement has grown in spirit and activity beyond the most optimistic expectation, but the cooperative movement among the Churches of the world cannot continue as the special interest or hobby of a small group. Interest and participation must be widespread and the parish church is the essential unit. We hope that all parishes will continue in or join this movement in which Churches around the world have pledged themselves to stay together.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Your Joint Commission recommends the adoption of the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations be continued, with responsibility for furthering the cooperation of this Church with the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and with the World Council of Churches.

2. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the sum of $1,000.00 per annum for the years 1953, 1954, and 1955 be included in the budget of General Convention for the expenses of the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations.

3. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the parishes and missions of this Church are urged to make use of the available material about the Ecumenical Movement, and to engage in such cooperative actions as will further understanding and promote ecumenical ideals in their respective communities.

4. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the story of the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches be presented to all congregations on some appropriate Sunday, if possible on Whitsunday, and that an offering be taken or budgetary provision be made for the support of cooperative Christian work.

5. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the observance of the Week of Prayer for the Unity of Christendom, January 18 to 25, be commended to the clergy and people of this Church.

REPORT ON FORWARD MOVEMENT PUBLICATIONS

The story of the origin and the work of the Forward Movement has been so amply recorded in previous General Convention Reports, that it is scarcely necessary to do more here than to recall the facts (1) that the organization is now eighteen years old, having been created in 1934 in Atlantic City by the appointment of a Joint Commission "to cooperate with the National Council in a Forward Movement to reinvigorate and rehabilitate the work of the Church"; and (2) that in 1940, by action of the General Convention at Kansas City, the Commission was discontinued and the Forward Movement left free to continue on its own under the supervision of the Presiding Bishop who later appointed a small Committee to act on his behalf and under his direction. The chairman of this Committee is the Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, D. D., Bishop of Southern Ohio. The operating staff consists of the editor and his secretary, a business manager and a treasurer—both serving on a voluntary basis—with ten young women in the business department to take care of the orders for literature.

From the beginning, devotional and instructive literature has been the chief concern of the Movement, and of this, the now universally known booklet, FORWARD day-by-day, has been the principal item. No praise can be too high for the original editor, Canon Gilbert P. Symons, to whose imagination and skill this invaluable publication owes its existence. Ever since the first issue in October, 1935, approximately 400,000 copies have been issued five times a year, covering each of the Church seasons, with two for Trinity; and the geographical spread of it continues. The Church in Canada is responsible for the distribution of some 17,000 copies of each issue, and many readers there order directly from us. FORWARD day-by-day is, indeed, now known all over the world, and its value as an aid to the spiritual life cannot be overestimated. The letters we are constantly receiving from grateful readers is encouraging proof of that. Our output of FORWARD day-by-day from 1935 to 1952 has reached the grand total of approximately thirty-five million copies.

In addition to FORWARD day-by-day, the Movement, in the course of its eighteen years, has produced a steady supply of booklets of all kinds for the help and guidance of Church people; and our present aim is to provide all the literature necessary for a well stocked Church Tract-rack, small pamphlets covering all aspects of the Christian faith and the Christian life. We have now some eighty titles and are continually adding others. Many of the earlier ones are out of print and others have been revised to bring them up to date. An order blank giving the complete list is sent to the Clergy with each issue of FORWARD day-by-day and may be had on request. By way of encouraging the use of the Tract-rack in our churches we have had special ones made in different sizes to suit any situation. Our experience has taught us that such racks are of enormous value as evangelistic and educational agencies. We have received letters from abroad from people who had come across our pamphlets in this way when visiting this country.

All through the last war, the Forward Movement set itself to help meet the need for religious literature in the Armed Forces, by producing large quantities of our publications as fast as possible; and these were provided to chaplains free of charge. Upwards of 1,600,000 pieces were distributed in this way; and the U.S. Navy adopted the Wayside Hymnal in a special edition so made and packed as to remain afloat and undamaged in sea-water.

What was done all through the war we have continued to do during the occupation in Europe and the conflict in Korea, distributing through the Executive Secretary of the Armed Forces Division of the National Council. And we shall keep this up, of course, as long as the need lasts, even in peace time.

It may be added here, that besides this provision of free literature to our chaplains in the Armed Forces we have recently begun to extend this favor to chaplains to prisons and other institutions; we also supply Candidates for the ministry in their senior year with a sampling of our stock, so that they will have material for setting up a Tract-rack as soon as they go to their parishes. One noteworthy gift of ours is a copy of FORWARD day-by-day in a special issue six times a year in Braille for the blind whenever an application is made to us for it, and also a copy of the Communion Office with Collects, Epistles and Gospels. Over and above these, we have a very large number of readers abroad who for one reason or another cannot pay for their FORWARD at the present time, and these are also on our free list. In all this, we have been greatly helped by generous contributions for the purpose from our readers, and we are always grateful for their help.

In 1951 we began to bring out a special sort of FORWARD for Youth—FORWARD YOUTH, written for Youth, to take the place of the old Youth Edition of FORWARD day-by-day. This is issued three times a year: Lent, July-August and October-November, in collaboration with the Youth Division of the National Council.

When we first began we depended, of necessity, for financial assistance upon the National Council, but after a year or two—thanks to the larger sale of our literature and to the unflagging zeal of our business managers—we were able to release the National Council and to pay our own way. But we are a non-profit organization, and have never charged more for our publications than necessary to keep us from falling into the "red". In this we have been assisted by our many friends who have written for us—bishops, priests, laymen and lay women—without remuneration or even the reward of having their name mentioned. Only for the past two or three years have we been able to remedy this situation by giving our authors an honorarium sufficient at least to cover typing and postage costs. And even now we maintain our old policy of anonymity for FORWARD day-by-day. Incidentally, this, for various reasons, has seemed to be a wise procedure to all concerned; and since our writers are drawn from all schools of thought in the Church, there may be something to be gained from reading their contributions without identification.

Three items of considerable expense are the sampling of each new issue of FORWARD day-by-day and other occasional titles to all our active clergy, the pre-paying of postage on orders, and a heavy correspondence for which most enquirers fail to send stamps for reply. Nor do all the letters received have to do with our literature—far from it. People write for advice, prayer, guidance, answers to questions about belief and conduct and so forth. We gladly reply to them all, and hope that by doing so we are strengthening the ministry of our publications.

One thing is certain, the type of ministry being performed by Forward Movement Publications is not only helping to meet the need of countless souls for light and leading, but also serves to promote the purpose for which it was originally founded, "to reinvigorate the life and to rehabilitate the work of the Church".

It may be of interest to note that since February, 1950, when the present editor was appointed, thirty-one new publications have been added to our list, and that more than nine million individual pieces of literature have been distributed. A word, also, may be said about our new title. "Forward Movement Publications" seemed to express our purpose and work better than "Forward Movement", merely. After 1940 that title was really a misnomer, and the value of our new title is that it indicates both our origin and what we are engaged in.

In conclusion, I must express my gratitude to all the members of the staff for their devoted and unflinching support, particularly to Mr. Harold D. Ballyeart, the business manager; and to the Presiding Bishop and Bishop Hobson for their friendly encouragement. To my good friend and predecessor, Canon Symons, I am indebted beyond anything I can say. He was the "wise master builder": he laid the foundation. He labored, and I have entered into his labors. My fervent prayer is that my work may be worthy of what he began.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY STRUCTURE AND ORGANIZATION OF THE GENERAL CONVENTION

The Joint Committee to Study Structure and Organization of the General Convention, consisting of Bishop Heistand of Harrisburg, Chairman; Bishop Walters of San Joaquin; Bishop Barth, Coadjutor of Tennessee; the Rev. Killian A. Stimpson, D.D., of Milwaukee; the Very Rev. Albert R. Stuart, D.D., of Louisiana; the Very Rev. Sidney E. Sweet, D.D., of Missouri; David E. Bronson of Minnesota; Edward F. Colcock of Olympia, and Walter S. Rowe of Southern Ohio, has held two meetings, one in St. Louis, Mo., November 15, 1950, and the other in Chicago, Ill., November 13-14, 1951. It has given careful consideration to the many resolutions and recommendations submitted to the Committee at the General Convention held in San Francisco in 1949 and since that time.

In considering these resolutions and recommendations the Committee found that many contain provisions similar in nature, which indicates a wide interest in certain desired changes in the structure and organization of the General Convention.

We now present the resolutions which the Joint Committee on Structure and Organization recommends for adoption by the General Convention, in the order in which we recommend that they be considered.

1. As indicated by the correspondence received by this Committee, as well as a resolution presented by the Rev. John C. Leffler, D.D., Chairman of the Local Committee on Arrangements for the General Convention held in San Francisco in 1949, the committee is of the opinion that as General Convention is a convention of the whole Church the costs of the same should be assumed by the whole Church rather than by the entertaining diocese. We therefore submit the following resolutions and recommend their adoption:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Treasurer of General Convention be instructed to pay the host diocese each triennium the costs incurred by it in entertaining General Convention, not to exceed, however, the sum of $50,000.00 in any such case; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that General Convention adopt a practice of rotating its meetings among the eight Provinces, the order of such rotation to be determined by General Convention.

2. The Committee, aware of the added cost to the Church, as indicated in Resolution 1, along with the added cost as indicated in Resolution 3, submits the following resolutions, and recommends their adoption by General Convention:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that Canon 1, Sec. 6, be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 6. In order that the contingent expenses of the General Convention, and the stipend of the Presiding Bishop, together with the necessary expenses of his office, and Church Pension Fund assessments, may be defrayed, it shall be the duty of the several Diocesan Conventions and of the Convocations of the several Missionary Districts to forward to the Treasurer of General Convention annually, on the first Monday of January, as to each Diocese and Missionary District a payment equal to the product obtained by multiplying a sum not to exceed 10 cents by the number of communicants in that Diocese or Missionary District, as such number shall be determined from the last preceding report to the Diocese or Missionary District of communicants in the several parishes and missions thereof, accompanying such remittance with a certificate of the total number of communicants so determined in the Diocese or Missionary District. The amount of such assessment per communicant within the foregoing limits shall be determined by the Committee on Expenses.

3. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Treasurer of General Convention shall determine the distance in miles by the most direct method of travel between the city in which General Convention is to be held and the See City of each Diocese and Missionary District, other than the host Diocese, and shall remit to each Diocese and Missionary District (other than the host Diocese), on or before July 1 of each year of a session of General Convention a sum equal to the product obtained by multiplying 5 cents by twice the mileage so determined for such Diocese or Missionary District for the number of Bishops in such Diocese or Missionary District and the number of Deputies to which such Diocese or Missionary District is entitled. Amounts so remitted shall be used by the Diocese or Missionary District solely for the travel expenses of its Bishops and Deputies, and each Diocese and Missionary District shall account to the Treasurer of General Convention on or before January 1 following each session of General Convention for amounts so spent, returning with such report any portion thereof not so expended.

4. Many of the letters and recommendations referred to the Committee indicate a rather general feeling that the House of Deputies has become unduly large, thus militating against the expeditious dispatch of business. Therefore the Committee begs to submit the following resolution for adoption:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that Sec. 1 of Canon 1 be amended by adding a new Sub-section, to be designated Sub-section (b), the present Sub-section (b) and later Sub-sections to be re-lettered accordingly, such new Sub-section to read as follows:

(b). Pursuant to the provisions of Section 4 of Article I of the Constitution, the Church in each Diocese which has been admitted to union with the General Convention shall be entitled to representation in the House of Deputies by three Presbyters, canonically resident in the Diocese, and three Laymen, communicants of this Church having domicile in the Diocese.

5. The Committee considered the proposal made to it that the practice established by the House of Deputies at San Francisco of having a special committee certify the minutes daily, rather than to have daily reading of the Journal, be continued. The Committee believes that this proposal has already been acted upon by the last session of that House which changed its Rules of Order by making the Committee on Unfinished Business the committee for certifying the minutes and by providing in the Order of Business for the report of the Committee on Certification of the Minutes as an alternative for the reading of the Journal. This Committee, therefore, asks that it be discharged from further consideration of this proposal.

6. After considering a recommendation from the Diocese of Bethlehem referring to the appointment or continuance of Joint Committees or Commissions, your Committee submits the following resolution, and asks for its adoption by this Convention:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Joint Rules as to Joint Committees be amended by adding a new rule, to be numbered 11, the same to read as follows:

11. No motion for the appointment or continuance of a Joint Committee or Joint Commission shall be acted upon in either House until the same has been referred to the Joint Standing Committee on Committees and Commissions and such Joint Standing Committee shall have made its report thereon.

7. The Joint Committee on Structure and Organization is of the opinion that an ad interim Joint Committee, to be known as the Joint Committee on Constitution and Canons, should be appointed, this Committee to receive, collate and originate recommendations for amendments to the Constitution and Canons. We therefore recommend the following resolution, and ask for its adoption by this Convention:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that a Joint Committee, consisting of three Bishops, three Presbyters and three laymen, be appointed to study proposed changes in the Constitution and Canons, and to receive, collate and originate recommendations with respect thereto. All proposals for amendments to the Constitution or for changes in the Canons made between sessions of General Convention shall be referred to the Joint Committee for study, collation, recommendation and report.

The report of the Joint Committee shall be referred immediately upon the convening of a session of General Convention to the appropriate committees of each House on Amendments to the Constitution and Canons for consideration by such committees.

Any proposal for the amendment of the Constitution or for the enactment or amendment of any Canon presented at any session of General Convention which has not been presented to the Joint Committee at least three months prior to the convening of the Convention shall be referred to the Joint Committee for report at the next following session of General Convention, unless the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution or the Committee on Canons of the House in which such proposal originates recommends action thereon at the then session and such recommendation is approved by a majority vote of such House.

8. The Committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the last sentence of the 4th paragraph of Section 4 of Article I of the Constitution be amended to read as follows:

No action of either order shall pass in the affirmative unless it receives the majority of all votes cast and unless the sum of all affirmative votes shall exceed the sum of other votes by at least one whole vote. An equally divided vote of a Diocese or Missionary District in either order shall be counted as one-half a vote in that order in favor and one-half a vote in that order against the proposed action except only that in the case of a proposal to amend the Constitution or to revise the Prayer Book such a divided vote shall be counted as a vote against the proposed amendment or revision.

9. It is the considered opinion of the Committee that resolutions included in the reports of Joint Commissions and Joint Committees affecting revisions in the Canons as well as in the procedure of General Convention should be heard and considered by both Houses of Convention. Therefore, we submit the following resolution, and request its adoption by each House:

Resolved, That the Rules of Order of this House be amended by adding thereto a new Rule, to be numbered . . . , reading as follows:

The Reports of all Joint Commissions and Joint Committees shall be received by title on the opening day of the Convention, and all resolutions contained therein requiring reference shall be forthwith referred to the appropriate committees, but each such committee to which a resolution is referred shall make report thereon to this House only at the time the report of such Joint Commission or Commission is made the order of business, and then only after the resolution in question has been presented to the Convention for its consideration.

10. The Committee recommends the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that Joint Rule as to Joint Committees No. 3 be amended to read as follows:

3. The Secretaries of both Houses, in accordance with present practice, shall, not later than the month of January following the meeting of General Convention, notify the members of the respective Houses who have appointments upon Joint Commissions and Joint Committees of such appointment and their duty to present a report to the next Convention; and shall remind them one year prior to the opening day of Convention of this duty; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that Joint Rule as to Joint Committees No. 4 be amended by striking out the words "at least twelve weeks" and substituting therefor the words "by the first of January."

11. The Committee recommends the adoption, by the House of Deputies, of the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the House of Deputies provide for and send to each Deputy a form on which may be listed his special skills and abilities. This information to be made available to the President of the House of Deputies to assist him in making committee appointments.

12. The Committee approves and heartily recommends the practice of some Bishops in having a pre-convention meeting of elected Deputies and diocesan leaders, including former Deputies, to discuss questions, issues and procedure to come before Convention. The Committee urges the extension of this practice throughout the Church.

13. The Committee has given careful study to the resolution of the National Youth Convention dealing with a proposed change of date for the General Convention, and while we are sympathetic to this request, the Committee is of the opinion that the customary dates of General Convention should not be changed to an earlier time.

14. After serious consideration of the recommendation of the Rev. John C. Leffler, D.D., of the Diocese of California that the National Council be instructed to employ a paid Convention Manager to assist the host Diocese in making arrangements and providing facilities for session of General Convention, the Committee recommends that the employment of a Convention Manager be left to the host Diocese.

There has been no change in the original membership of the Committee.

Expenditures of this Committee: travel expenses of members of the Committee in attending meetings of the Committee, $1,043.97.

If this Joint Committee is to be continued, we respectfully ask for an allocation of $1,200.00.

Respectfully submitted,

APPENDIX 14

REPORT OF THE TRUSTEES OF THE GENERAL THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY

The Board of Trustees of the General Theological Seminary submits herewith copies of the Proceedings of the Board for the past three years in fulfilment of the provision of Article II of the Constitution of the Seminary. Actions of the Board in administration of the affairs of the Seminary are set forth in these Proceedings. In addition, the Board submits the following report upon the state of the institution and matters connected therewith.

Enrolment of students has reached the highest peak in the 143 years of the Seminary's operation. In 1949-50 it was 182; in 1950-51, 218; and in 1951-52, 217. The number of ordinands enrolled in those years was 135, 175 and 179 respectively. Both in total enrolment and in number of undergraduate students the Seminary is at maximum capacity. Classroom, dormitory and other facilities are taxed to the utmost, as are also the strength and endurance of faculty members. In the judgment of the Faculty it is gravely to be questioned whether an institution of greater size could possibly fulfil the manifold and subtle requirements of proper instruction, training and personal guidance involved in the preparation of men for Holy Orders in the Episcopal Church. Yet the volume of applications for admission does not promise to slacken as markedly as was expected; nor can we anticipate either that the demand for greater numbers of ordinands will diminish or that expansion of facilities for training them in the Church at large will lessen the pressure upon us in the near future. The General Theological Seminary is prepared to maintain operations at substantially their present level if that is necessary, even though the conviction is being borne in upon us that an undergraduate student body of about 150 men is our optimum, especially when proper consideration is given to our responsibility for maintenance of a serious program of graduate studies in theology.

Applications for entrance in each of the past three years have been considerably beyond our capacity. This had made necessary a careful assessment of responsibility with respect to admissions. An effort has been made to secure a balanced geographical representation of our Church, and to guard against any narrow emphasis in cultural or ecclesiastical background of men admitted. Where possible in the light of other factors a certain priority has been given men on a basis of age, especially when deferment of preparation has been occasioned by military service. College records have been scrutinized closely for balance in academic preparation for theological study and the work of the ministry as well as for evidence of scholastic achievement and aptitude, always, however, with an awareness of the temptation of a community of scholars to give disproportionate weight to this one factor. Wherever possible, personal conference with members of the Admissions Committee of the Faculty has given an additional and most valuable basis for judgment.

The Seminary has been forced to discriminate carefully among its applicants. In some cases admittance has been refused to men who would have been welcomed except for the one fact that they made too many to handle. It must be reported, however, that in a not inconsiderable proportion of rejections, records, letters of reference or personal conferences have raised real doubts about the promise of fitness for the work of the ministry of the men concerned. Too large a proportion also of men accepted in seminary prove inadequate to the demands in one way or another. Mediocrity of personal endowment, inadequate or perverse motivation, immaturity, emotional instability and lack of touch with the realities of religion and of life are too frequently marked in men seeking to be prepared for ordination. Since the point of maintenance of an institution for that preparation is the provision of fit persons for the ministry, the whole matter of selection by the Church of those who are to be ordained is a proper concern of the Board of Trustees of the General Theological Seminary.

In dealing with a human being under sense of vocation at all we are invading sacred precincts; still more when there is conviction that calling is to the inner ministry of God's Church. The young man who believes that God wants him to give his life to service as a priest of the Church, and who is ready and eager to respond to the call, demands the most reverent consideration. Yet when that is recognized, and regard paid to the awful responsibility of human tampering with the working of God's Holy Spirit, it must be maintained, in the words of a great theologian and educator, that "it still remains for the Church to give the vocation of the ministry to those whom she chooses and considers most fitted for her work."

Our Church has set up elaborate machinery of selection, defining its standards and requirements carefully, and providing for a wide distribution of responsibility in oversight of men and judgment upon them as they proceed from their first intimation of their inclination to the parish priest on through the stages of Postulancy, Candidacy, training, examination and certification, to the laying on of hands by the Bishop. Implicit in the whole scheme, as indeed in the Ordinal itself, is a denial that any man may claim acceptance as a right on the basis of personal desire and conviction, however sincere or strong. The Church sets terms of service and criteria of fitness for it, and charges her established authorities with the duty of assessment of men's qualification under those terms.

No such system can perfectly guarantee good results in an area where inevitably fallible human judgment has so large a place all along the line. As a system of machinery ours seems to be adequate, and it presents parish clergy and vestries, Standing Committees, Examining Chaplains and Diocesan Bishops with a burden of responsibility as intimate and critical as any they bear; namely, on the one hand to follow closely, to encourage and support, young men of promise through a process that often seems formidable but can be known as itself joyful fulfilment of vocation, and on the other to dissuade at as early a stage as possible those who lack promise of fitness, and to dissuade them decisively, in such a manner that rejection for Holy Orders is recognized as acceptance for true Christian vocation.

The last is most difficult. The pressure of local sentiment is great. There is a real shortage of clergy, and filling of vacant parishes and missions, and the summons to Macedonian areas are urgent matters. It is easy to be persuaded that unlikely human material with good will and pious intention is capable of transformation by time and experience into effective service somewhere in the ministry. It is appalling to risk interference with any individual's destiny and even frustration of the Spirit's work by our human decisions. It is tempting for each responsible agency to hope that another, somewhere along the line, will really grasp the nettle of the doubtful case and deal with it.

But the very delicacy of these problems is a measure of the necessity of facing them realistically and dealing with them patiently. "Can the blind guide the blind?" is a question that never needed asking more than it does now. Intelligence, professional competence, spiritual sensitiveness, imaginative human understanding, moral stature, capacity to endure joyfully were never more at a premium as characteristics of the clergy than in these times. And it is an intolerable suggestion that they are more needed in some areas, less in others, of the Church's life and work. No need for numbers can justify any one of the Church's agencies of selection in failing to reckon the cost in personal tragedy and public harm which can result from acceptance of men incapable of meeting the demands of the Church's ministry.

It would seem that undue reliance is sometimes placed upon the seminary as a "screening" instrument in the cases of those men who prepare for ordination in the normal way. The Canons now quite properly require certification of their students by the faculties of the Church's seminaries before Candidacy and before Ordination. But entrance upon theological studies, in the terms of Canon 26. Sec. 5, is already a long way down the road of personal commitment and support by ecclesiastical authority, and turning aside becomes more and more difficult at every stage. Moreover, while the seminary does afford important tests of a man's capacities under sustained observation, it has certain significant limitations, aside from the fact that faculties also are composed of fallible human beings. An educational institution is an artificial, protective and supportive environment, with its restricted age group and its highly organized life of limited immediate range and focus. That a man should successfully meet the demands of seminary life does not necessarily promise, therefore, capacity for faithful endurance of the conditions and performance of the tasks of the Christian teacher, pastor, priest in the infinitely varied circumstances in which the ministry must be exercised. The Church is wise in requiring other judgment than the seminary's even upon each man's intellectual fitness, and it is not for form's sake that the Canons require a variety of clerical and lay testimony to the general qualifications of men for the ministry. The seminaries rightly have a due share in responsibility for eliminating the unfit, but they can best fulfil their proper function and devote their energies toward healthy purposes for the Church when such are reduced to a minimum among those approved for theological study.

The Church, her bishops, parish clergy, college chaplains and her lay people have as a constant obligation a discriminating effort to stimulate vocations to her ministry among young men. It is a sign of health and promise that so many of those seeking Holy Orders—probably at least 50 per cent—come out of the ministries or the life of other Churches or from a background of contemporary paganism; but it is not a sign of soundness in work with our own young people that the Episcopal Church is so largely dependent, for the filling up the numbers of clergy, upon outside sources. For many years to come the Church will need a high rate of accession to the ministry. That those ordained should come from a healthy background, be known as men of stable and sound personal endowment, rightly motivated and equipped with the best learning and training the Church can afford, is the best guarantee that they will form a corps of men ready both in body and soul to accomplish cheerfully those things that God requires of the stewards of His mysteries.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON THE HISTORICAL MAGAZINE

With this, its Seventh Triennial Report to the General Convention, HISTORICAL MAGAZINE may be said to have "come of age," for with the December, 1952 issue it will have completed its 21st year and 21st volume of continuous publication.

The September, 1952 Number witnessed the publication of a total of over 8,000 pages of history and biography in less than 21 years. During its first decade, the Magazine published an average of 345 pages per year; during its second decade, 423 pages per year. In its last five complete years, 1947-1951, or Volumes XVI-XX inclusive, it averaged 459 pages per year.

At the beginning of its 20th volume (1951), it received encomiums from two of its weekly contemporaries, as follows:

"The Church HISTORICAL MAGAZINE [is] one of the foremost journals of scholarship in Christendom."—Editorial in The Witness, January 25, 1951.

"We congratulate the Historical Magazine of the Episcopal Church . . . upon the 20th anniversary of that scholarly periodical. It is a publication of which Churchmen may well be proud—even though, alas, too few of them subscribe to it.

"The Historical Magazine, published by a Joint Commission of General Convention, is one of two official Church periodicals, the other being Forth. It was established in 1931, largely as the result of the vision of the late Dr. E. Clowes Chorley, and has been published quarterly thereafter. During that time it has provided a wealth of historical material of permanent value, and has greatly stimulated research and writing in the field of Church history. To date it has published 7,192 pages of history and biography; but it is the quality of its contents rather than the quantity that deserves special commendation. It is not too much to say that the Historical Magazine is a rich treasury of the memories of the Church's past, and a keen stimulus to even greater achievements in its future."—Editorial in The Living Church, April 8, 1951.

HISTORICAL MAGAZINE is still the only journal of its kind published throughout the Anglican Communion.

SPECIAL NUMBERS DURING THE TRIENNIUM

Seven special numbers have been published during the triennium. Each has made notable contributions to the general subject of its title, and each has won commendation.

"The Church in the XVIIIth Century" (December, 1949), 137 pp.

[The first essay in this number commemorated the 150th anniversary of the founding of the (English) Church Missionary Society (C.M.S.), which has had, and still has, an exceptional part in the expansion of the Anglican Communion.]

"The Anglican Communion Number" (September, 1950), 122 pp.

"The S.P.G. 250th Anniversary Number, 1701-1951" (June, 1951), 124 pp. Edited by Professor Frank J. Klingberg, Associate Editor.

"The Journal of the Reverend George Keith, 1702-1704" (December, 1951), 157 pp. Edited by the late Dr. Edgar L. Pennington, Associate Editor and Historiographer of the Church. [George Keith symbolizes the turning point in the planting of the Anglican Church in the American colonies.]

"The Caroline Divines Number" (March, 1952), 190 pp.

[This was made possible by a generous gift from the Rev. Frederic S. Fleming, D.D., Rector of the Parish of Trinity Church in the City of New York, and now Rector Emeritus.]

"The General Convention Number" (June, 1952), 106 pp.

[The history of four General Conventions—1877, 1880, 1904, and 1919—is expounded. The last one, that of 1919, was a turning point in the history of the Church.]

"Planting the Prayer Book in Colonial Massachusetts, with an Epilogue, 1797-1952" (September, 1952), 121 pp.
 [This was entirely written by the Rev. Thomas E. Jessett, M.A., and its publication was made possible by generous gifts from the Bishops of Massachusetts and of Western Massachusetts.]

WIDE COVERAGE IN TIME AND SUBJECTS

The titles of the above seven special numbers indicate the wide coverage of the Magazine in both time and subjects treated, but they by no means tell the whole story. In addition to the history of various mission fields, both regional and parochial history have been well represented; Church music and the Prayer Book have been dealt with; biographies of bishops, presbyters, and laymen have appeared—often the best and most complete which are available; and many other aspects of Church history too numerous to detail in this report.

The Review section of the Magazine has been greatly strengthened during the past triennium. A total of 164 titles have been reviewed with such thoroughness as they deserved, and they have been published in ten point, readable type.

It must ever be remembered that no editor and no contributor of essay or review receives any financial compensation for his work. For all it is a labor of love. This being so, the number of individual contributors of essays or reviews during the past triennium is most impressive, especially in view of the fact that several contributed more than one each. The total number of contributors has been 68, classified as follows: Bishops, 5; Presbyters, 39; Laymen, 19; Laywomen, 5. These figures substantiate the statement of The Living Church, quoted above, that HISTORICAL MAGAZINE "has greatly stimulated research and writing in the field of Church history." As a matter of fact, the Editors are now embarrassed by the large number of articles submitted to them for publication, and often two or three years must elapse before they can be published. All of which is evidence, if evidence were needed, of the growing usefulness of the Magazine in the intellectual life of the Church, and of its indispensable role if the Church's historiography is to be what it should be.

There was a time, not so many years ago, when the study of the history of our American Church was shockingly neglected in some of our theological seminaries. To the best of our knowledge, this is no longer true. At least four professors of Church history have told us that HISTORICAL MAGAZINE is indispensable to the teaching of American Church history. Certainly every candidate for Holy Orders ought to have a thoroughly sound knowledge of the history of the Church to which he expects to give the best years of his life.

NECROLOGY

NEW EDITORS

In 1949, the Joint Commission elected the Rev. Canon Walter H. Stowe, S.T.D., as Editor-in-Chief of the Magazine in succession to Dr. Chorley. Dr. Stowe has been closely associated with the Magazine since 1934, and for most of the intervening years until 1949 as Managing Editor.

In 1952, the Commission unanimously elected as Associate Editors: (1) The Rev. William Wilson Manross, Ph.D., Librarian of the Church Historical Society, and author of A History of the American Episcopal Church, (2nd edition, New York, 1950) and The Episcopal Church, 1800-1840: A Study in Church Life (New York, 1938); and (2) Professor Richard G. Salomon, Ph.D., Professor of Church History, Bexley Hall, Kenyon College—the only layman to occupy such a chair in any of our theological seminaries. Both gentlemen have been valued contributors to the pages of the Magazine.

HISTORICAL MAGAZINE now has a full complement of eight Associate Editors.

REPORT OF THE CHURCH HISTORICAL SOCIETY

The Church Historical Society, as "the official agency of the General Convention for the collection, preservation, and safe-keeping of records and historical documents connected with the life and development" of this Church, is faced with a crisis. The Managers of the Society, who include six officers of the General Convention—the Presiding Bishop of the Church, the President of the House of Deputies, the Secretary of the House of Bishops, the Secretary of the House of Deputies, the Historiographer of the Church, and the Treasurer of the General Convention—would be recreant to their trust if they did not make this clear to the General Convention.

The nature of this crisis has been well stated in an editorial in The Living Church of recent date—April 27, 1952:

"General Convention Archives

"Recently we paid an enjoyable visit to the Philadelphia Divinity School, where we had the privilege of addressing the student body at Evensong in their lovely chapel. We were also shown about the buildings and grounds by our gracious host, Dean Gifford, who told us something of the future plans for development and expansion.

"Underneath the chapel, however, we met with an appalling sight. Here were the official archives of General Convention and of the National Council, together with valuable collections of books, periodicals, and papers of the Church Historical Society, so packed in that they filled every available crann,, including the wash room. Not only does this overcrowding present a fire hazard, but it makes priceless documents inaccessible and subject to deterioration and the risk of loss. Among them are books and papers belonging to Bishop Seabury, the first American bishop, and other relics of historic value.

"General Convention should make adequate provision for the preservation, classification, and safe-keeping of these records. They should be in a fire-proof building, properly filed and catalogued. And the more important ones should be micro-filmed and safely stored, in case of damage to the originals.

"At the 1949 General Convention, a resolution was offered to authorize the Church Historical Society to appeal to the Church for $100,000, or whatever sum might prove necessary, to provide adequate quarters for these important archives and historic documents and records. The proposal was given no serious consideration, and the resolution was lost.

"We think the National Council or the General Convention should give this matter immediate and serious consideration. Perhaps the Episcopal Church Foundation could appropriate a substantial share of the cost of erecting an adequate building for these archives, and the rest might be raised by private subscription. Or the General Convention might appropriate the necessary funds for the provision of adequate quarters, cataloguing, and micro-filming.

"If the Church does not make proper provision for the preservation of its vital records, it is likely to find some day that they have been lost, through fire, flood, or other contingency. Then it would be too late to take action. The time to do so is right now."

INCREASING DEMANDS FOR SERVICE FROM THE SOCIETY

In spite of the serious and critical handicaps under which the Archives of the General Convention, the Archives of the National Council, and the Society's own collections are housed, the demands for service from the Society are constantly increasing. Some pertinent statistics will show this—taken from the annual reports of the Librarian, the Rev. Dr. William Wilson Manross.

INQUIRIES FOR HISTORICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL DATA. For the three years, 1949-1951, a total of 857 was received, of which 628 were by mail and 129 by telephone. The total for the one year, 1951, was 348, an increase of 124 over 1950.

The Rev. Thomas E. Jessett, in the preface to his work, "Planting the Prayer Book in Colonial Massachusetts," published in Historical Magazine (September, 1952), states: "To no one am I more indebted for valuable help than to Dr. William W. Manross." Mr. Jessett wrote this work in Seattle, Washington—3,000 miles away from Dr. Manross and the Society's Library.

VISITORS. A total of 412 persons visited the Library during the three years, 1949-1951. In 1951, there were 164 visitors—an increase of 63 over the year 1949.

PHOTOSTATS SUPPLIED. "Photostats of manuscripts in our various collections have been supplied to a number of libraries and individuals. The importance of these collections for serious researchers in Church history, particularly during the 19th century, cannot be too strongly emphasized."

During the triennium, help has been given to a representative of Life Magazine in preparing a picture story of the Episcopal Church which may yet appear in a future issue of it.

BOOKS LOANED total 445 for the three years, 1949-1951. This is a valuable service to students and writers in all parts of the country.

ACCESSIONS

BOOKS AND PAMPHLETS. By gift and by purchase, 522 volumes have been added to the Library, besides current periodicals, diocesan journals, etc. Expenditures for acquisitions during the three years, 1949-1951, have totaled $839.00. Limited funds still prevent our purchasing as many books as we ought.

MANUSCRIPT COLLECTIONS. Many gifts of valuable manuscripts have been received during the triennium from different individuals, too numerous to detail here, but they have been reported in the annual issues of The Historiographer, 1950, 1951, 1952. Two notable manuscript collections must, however, be mentioned.

The Ellen Sitgreaves Vail Motter Collection of Bishops' Letters. This collection, mentioned in our Third Triennial Report (1949), has been greatly increased in number and value through the gift of 129 additional items, making a total of some 312. The bulk of the collection consists of letters of American bishops, contemporaries of Bishop Thomas H. Vail of Kansas. Some of them throw light on the Ritualistic controversy, the Jardine case, the Reformed Episcopal Church, and the ideas and emotions current at the time.

The Andrew Forest Muir Collection is the gift of Andrew Forest Muir, Ph.D., of the Department of History, the Episcopal College of the Southwest, Brownwood, Texas. It includes 519 letters and documents, seven separate signatures, seven portraits, one manuscript sermon, and 17 clippings. "The list of writers reads like a roster of leading bishops and other clergy of the Anglican Communion during the 19th century, with a few from the 18th, and several from the present century."

PUBLICATIONS

The General Convention of 1949 (Journal, 1949, pp. 254-255) requested the Society to publish

BARNES, C. RANKIN, The General Convention: Offices and Officers, 1785-1950 (1951, No. 33) pp. viii, 148, illustrated; and appropriated $1,500.00 as "a subsidy . . . towards the cost of publication." This request was complied with, the volume appeared in 1951, has been well received by the Church and has been favorably reviewed as "the first attempt at such a compilation . . . and a very successful one"—the verdict of Bishop Walter H. Gray of Connecticut in Forth Magazine.

Three other bound volumes were published during the triennium:

McCULLOCH, SAMUEL CLYDE (editor), British Humanitarianism: Essays Honoring Frank J. Klingberg (1950, No. 32), pp. x, 254.

DE MILLE, GEORGE E., The Catholic Movement in the American Episcopal Church (2nd edition, 1950, No. 12), pp. x, 220. (The first edition was published in 1941.)

BROCHURES

Since the General Convention of 1949, one brochure has been reprinted and three new ones have been added to the list.

MULLER, JAMES ARTHUR, Who Wrote the New Prayers in the Prayer Book? (2nd edition, 1949, No. 20). The first edition was published in 1946.

MARSHALL, JOHN SEDBERRY, The Genius and Mission of the Episcopal Church (1949, No. 31).

REPORT OF THE STANDING LITURGICAL COMMISSION

I. NEW MEMBERS AND MEETINGS

Since the last meeting of General Convention there have been several changes in the membership of the Standing Liturgical Commission, due to the death or resignation of former members.

We record, with sorrow, the death of the Rev. Henry McF. B. Ogilby, of Massachusetts, the former Secretary of the Commission.

The following new members have been appointed: The Rt. Rev. Goodrich R. Fenner, D.D., of Kansas; the Rev. Churchill J. Gibson, D.D., of Virginia; the Rev. Walter Williams, of Colorado, Executive Secretary of the Leadership Training Division of the Department of Christian Education of the National Council; the Rev. Morton C. Stone, of New York; and Mr. Spencer Ervin, of Pennsylvania, President of the American Church Union.

At the first meeting after General Convention the Rev. Bayard H. Jones, D.D. was elected Vice Chairman, and the Rev. Morton C. Stone, Secretary.

Three annual meetings of the Commission have been held, with full attendance, and two meetings of the Planning Committee. Much work has been done by correspondence.

II. MATTERS REFERRED BY GENERAL CONVENTION

1. Change of Name. Although the words "the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America" appear on the title page of the Book of Common Prayer, your Commission believes that the consideration of any proposal to change the name of this Church is a constitutional rather than liturgical matter, and is not included in the purpose for which the Commission was formed. Therefore no action has been taken, and this matter is referred back to General Convention, without recommendation.

2. Intinction. The Commission was directed to prepare and issue instructions concerning the methods of administering the Holy Communion by Intinction, and to report to the General Convention of 1952. This report has been completed, and has been printed and issued separately from this general report.

3. Portuguese Prayer Book. A new version of the Book of Common Prayer in Portuguese, for use in our Missionary Districts in Brazil, was referred to the Liturgical Commission by the General Convention of 1949.

As the original draft of this translation showed a number of alterations of the text, the Custodian of the Book of Common Prayer was unable to certify it as in conformity with the Standard Book, and the National Council declined to appropriate funds for printing it. Irrespective of whether the proposed changes were desirable or not, the restrictions imposed by our Constitution apply to its use "in all the Dioceses and Missionary Districts of this Church"; and Canon 21 interprets this as applying to translations as well, requiring of them the Custodian's certificate of conformity to the Standard. Therefore the only solution was to bring this translation into conformity in all respects. This has been done, and the Portuguese book has been duly certified and printed. This version is in fact a most distinguished literary translation, deserving to rank with the highest examples of the historic liturgies.

Yet this experience raises the question as to whether it is altogether desirable to impose an absolute uniformity upon our missionary dependencies, where, as the Preface to our own Prayer Book intimates, "local circumstances" may sometimes "require" some modification. For instance the Portuguese draft wished to omit the "giving away of the Bride" at a wedding, a ceremony of strictly Teutonic origin, which gives rise only to bewilderment in any Latin country.

The Church of England finds it possible to permit an all but complete autonomy to its overseas Missionary Dioceses. Thus the Church of India substitutes a necklace, the Indian symbol of the married state, for the Western wedding ring. It is the opinion of the Liturgical Commission that the granting of some measure of autonomy in the sphere of public worship in our foreign Missionary Districts would be a desirable step toward the up-building of future National Churches. We recommend further study of the constitutional and canonical principles involved.

III. GENERAL INQUIRIES AND REQUESTS

1. Revised Standard Version of the Bible. The Revised Standard Version of the New Testament, issued in 1946, was authorized by Canon for reading at Morning and Evening Prayer. The Old Testament in the same version has now been completed, and the whole Bible will soon be issued. Inquiries have come to the Commission in regard to authorizing the use of the Revised Standard Version of the whole Bible. The Commission recommends that General Convention give such authorization, and that the Canon on "Translations of the Bible" be amended accordingly.

2. Lay Readers. The Liturgical Commission calls to the attention of the General Convention the fact that the provisions of Canon 50, defining the services which may be used by a Lay Reader, have not kept step with the development of the Book of Common Prayer in its last two revisions.

Section 3 of this Canon now directs: "He shall read only the Morning and Evening Prayer (omitting the Absolution), the Litany, the Offices of Instruction, and the Office for the Burial of the Dead."

This form of statement dates from 1904. But it was not until 1946 that the Canon was made to include the Offices of Instruction, which were new services, constituted out of the matter of the old Catechism, in the Prayer Book of 1928. And the Penitential Office has not been authorized yet, although it originated in the revision of 1892, and is quite as appropriate for use by a Lay Reader as Morning and Evening Prayer, or the Litany.

Moreover, the Canon has continued the permission for a Lay Reader to use the Office for the Burial of the Dead, which has been allowed ever since a Canon on Lay Readers was first enacted in 1871, without taking account of the fact that the Revision of 1928 added to each of the two parts of the Burial Office a Benediction in the declaratory form which may properly be used only by a Priest. The underlying principle here was explicitly recognized in this Canon from 1871 until 1904, by directing a Lay Reader to omit all Benedictions as well as Absolutions from the services which he took. It was an oversight, which should be repaired at the next revision, that the Prayer Book of 1928 failed to provide alternative endings for these divisions of the Burial Office, in the form of prayers which would be suitable for use by anyone who is not a Priest. But pending such revision, this Canon should not allow a Lay Reader to use the Burial Office without modifying these Benedictions to such precatory forms as are proper for a layman to use.

In addition, the Liturgical Commission considers that the present direction to the Lay Reader to omit the Absolution at Morning and Evening Prayer is not quite sufficient. In a natural desire to preserve the accustomed rhythm of the service, some Lay Readers are in the habit of substituting a penitential Collect for the omitted Absolution. This practice is not, however, contemplated by the Canon or the Rubrics. Moreover, it is not really useful, since the General Confession is itself a prayer for forgiveness, and does not gain any greater force by having another prayer for forgiveness appended to it. The Canon should state clearly what is now actually, but seemingly insufficiently, implied, that nothing shall be substituted at this point.

The Commission has also approved a suggestion which has reached us from a large number of quarters, that a duly qualified Lay Reader may be appointed to read the Epistle in the Order for Holy Communion.

This would not be an innovation, but a continuation of a very ancient custom. While the proclamation of the Holy Gospel has always been restricted to those in Holy Orders, the early liturgies appointed any other Lessons at the Eucharist to be read by laymen in the Minor Order of Readers. It was in accord with this old tradition that the Church of England, both before and after the Reformation, has been wont to allow the Epistle to be read by the Parish Clerk, as necessity might require. There appears to be a fairly widespread desire in this country to follow this precedent, restrained by the fact that our Canon does not explicitly authorize it. It would be perfectly simple to add this permission.

The Commission will offer a Resolution for the amendment of the Canon, embodying these recommendations.

3. The Book of Offices. Various inquiries have been made concerning available forms for the Admission of Lay Readers to their office, for the Reception into Communion of those Confirmed in the Roman Catholic Church, and for the Blessing of Civil Marriages.

The Commission desires to call attention to the fact that these forms are included in The Book of Offices, authorized by General Convention, and completely revised in 1949. This new edition includes: the Admission to Communion; the Blessing of Married Persons; the Order for the Adoption of Children; the Form for the Setting Apart of Deaconesses; the Installation of a Bishop; the Admission of Lay Ministers, including Readers, Acolytes, Choristers, Sacristans, Teachers, and Vestrymen; a Litany for the Church; the Founding of a Church, including Breaking Ground and Laying the Cornerstone; the Opening of a Church before its consecration; the Benediction of Church Ornaments; and the Blessing of Houses, both homes and other buildings.

In the two printings of this revised book the Church Hymnal Corporation reports that up to December, 1951, 2,874 copies had been sold. This means that less than half of the clergy have copies. The Commission feels that all the clergy should have The Book of Offices. Some of its services are found in other Anglican Prayer Books. An extensive use would help to decide whether any of these services should be included in our Prayer Book at a future revision.

IV. THE PRAYER BOOK STUDIES

In commemoration of the fourth centenary of the Prayer Book of 1549, the last General Convention directed the Liturgical Commission to prepare and publish a series of Prayer Book Studies on the various offices of the Prayer Book, looking toward future revision.

Owing to changes in the membership of the Commission, this work has taken some time to get started. The publication of any study involves the careful evaluation of the many suggestions made to the Commission, the study of the matter in the light of liturgical history, and several tentative revisions of the proposed text before publication.

Three Studies have been made and published. The first dealt with Baptism and Confirmation. The second, bound up with the first, considered the Liturgical Lectionary, namely the Epistles and Gospels read at Holy Communion. The third, recently published, is on the Ministration to the Sick.

The Church Hymnal Corporation reports of the first two studies, published in June, 1950, 2,246 copies have been sold, and of the third, published in September, 1951, 1,748 copies have been sold. Again, the Commission feels that all clergy should have copies of the Prayer Book Studies.

Other studies are in an advanced state of preparation. All studies may be obtained direct from the Church Hymnal Corporation at cost price. They are advertised periodically in Protection Points issued to all the clergy by The Church Pension Fund.

V. DIOCESAN REPORTS ON REVISION

The last General Convention requested that the Dioceses state whether they approved or disapproved of revision of the Book of Common Prayer at this time.

The Liturgical Commission, at the time this report was printed, had received statements from only thirteen dioceses. Bethlehem, Western Michigan, Northern Indiana, Fond du Lac, Quincy, Albany, Maine, Milwaukee, Long Island, and New Jersey, voted against revision now. A similar negative resolution was introduced in the New York convention of 1951 but was defeated, though no other action was taken. Michigan and Los Angeles voted in favor of revision now.

In this connection the Liturgical Commission desires to quote from the Preface to the Prayer Book Studies, as follows: "The Standing Liturgical Commission is not, however, proposing any immediate revision. On the contrary, we believe that there ought to be a period of study and discussion, to acquaint the Church at large with the principles and issues involved, in order that eventual action may be taken intelligently, and if possible without consuming so much of the time of our supreme legislative synod."

Your Commission, therefore, recommends that it be allowed to complete the Prayer Book Studies. This will take a minimum of three years, and possibly six years.

We also recommend that General Convention request the National Council, through its Departments of Promotion and Christian Education, to work out a program for furthering the individual and group study by the Church at large of the Prayer Book Studies as they are issued. If such study groups would send in their findings, the Commission would be better able to revise the proposed services to reflect more closely the mind of the Church.

VI. FINANCES

The last General Convention appropriated $2,000.00 as an underwriting fund to guarantee the Church Hymnal Corporation against loss in the publication of the Prayer Book Studies. The Commission is glad to report that the Prayer Book Studies so far issued have paid for themselves, and we are able to return the $2,000.00 to General Convention. As it is impossible to tell what may happen with the rising costs of publication, the Commission requests General Convention to appropriate $1,000.00 for this publication for the next triennium.

The last General Convention also appropriated $1,200.00 for the regular expenses of the Commission. This includes travelling expenses for the members, board and lodging at the meetings, and secretarial supplies. This fund proved to be quite inadequate. With the ex officio membership of the Custodian of the Prayer Book, we now have ten members. Moreover, all the members now attend the meetings, which was not so before. In spite of the fact that some members did not turn in expense accounts, we did not have enough money to pay for the last meeting, and the Presiding Bishop came to our rescue with a special gift. This ought not to be necessary. The Commission, therefore, asks for an increase in this fund to $2,500.00 for the triennium. This is only an increase of $300.00 in our total askings, over the funds granted last time. A detailed financial statement is appended to this report.

VII. RESOLUTIONS

APPENDIX 18

REPORT OF THE STANDING LITURGICAL COMMISSION
ON INTINCTION

The administration of the Holy Communion by the method of intinction has been a subject of general concern in the Church for almost a half century. Two Lambeth Conferences, those of 1908 and 1948, have discussed and passed reports and resolutions on intinction, and the problem has received some attention from our own General Conventions ever since 1913. To date, however, no precise regulations governing the practice of intinction have received the Church's official sanction. Meanwhile the use of intinction in various methods of administration has steadily increased in many of our parishes; and the conscience of many devout churchmen, both those favorable and those unfavorable to the practice, has been disturbed and confused by the lack of a definite policy with respect to it which has behind it the authority of the whole Church.

With a view towards clarifying the issues raised by intinction, our bishops sought the advice and counsel of other bishops of the Anglican Communion at the Lambeth Conference assembled in 1948. The resolutions of this Conference were reaffirmed by our General Convention in 1949, and further implemented by additional resolutions looking towards a commonly accepted policy with regard to intinction in our Church. We quote herewith in full the joint resolution passed by both Houses of General Convention in 1949:

WHEREAS, The Lambeth Conference of 1948, to which had been referred from this Church the question of permitting the administration of the Holy Communion by the method of Intinction, passed the following resolution, viz.,

The Conference affirms that the giving of Communion in both kinds is according to the example and precept of our Lord, was the practice of the whole Catholic Church for twelve centuries, has remained the practice of the Orthodox Churches, and has been universally upheld by the teaching and practice of the Anglican Communion since the Reformation. The Conference holds that administration from a common chalice, being scriptural and having a symbolic meaning of great value, should continue to be the normal method of administration in the Anglican Communion; but it is of opinion that there is no objection to administration of both kinds by the method of intinction where conditions require it, and that any part of the Anglican Communion by provincial regulation according to its own constitutional procedure has liberty to sanction administration by intinction as an optional alternative to the traditional method, and that the methods of intinction to be adopted or permitted should not be left to the discretion of individual priests; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that the above resolutions are affirmed as the teaching of this Church; and be it further

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that a bishop having jurisdiction may authorize intinction as an alternative method of administration, provided, however, that the chalice shall in no case be withheld from any communicant of this Church who desires to receive in the manner now provided by the Prayer Book; and be it further

Resolved, The House of Deputies concurring, that the Standing Liturgical Commission be and hereby is directed to prepare and issue instructions concerning the methods of administration by intinction, and to report to the General Convention of 1952 on the practice of intinction.<sup>1</sup>

Pursuant to the above resolution, the Standing Liturgical Commission herewith makes its report to the General Convention of 1952. This report will consider the subject of intinction as follows: I. A brief survey of the use of intinction in the history of the Church; II. An analysis of the present extent of the practice of intinction in the Episcopal Church, based upon a questionnaire sent to all bishops having jurisdiction in the United States and its possessions overseas; and III. Recommendations for regularizing the practice of intinction by the legislative action of General Convention, in accordance with the resolutions of the Lambeth Conference of 1948 and of General Convention of 1949.

I

THE HISTORY OF INTINCTION

Intinction as a method of administering the consecrated species of Holy Communion is not a novel development of recent times, but has had a long history. To obtain the widest perspective of the practice, one should consider all the various ways employed during the centuries for communicating the faithful in the Sacrament. We shall limit this discussion, however, to

In one way or another, debate over the propriety of intinction has invariably made appeal to our Lord's institution of the Sacrament, and specifically to the manner whereby the apostles received the Cup from the Lord's hands at the Last Supper. Yet it is a well-known fact that Biblical scholars today, both Jewish and Christian, are not of one mind respecting the ancient Jewish customs obtaining with regard to participation in the Cup of Blessing at sacred meals, such as the Last Supper of our Lord with His disciples. The rabbinical teaching, preserved in the Mishnah, generally forbade for hygienic reasons the practice of drinking from a common cup on such occasions. Instead, each member of the family or religious group was provided with individual beakers, into which were poured the contents of the Cup of Blessing when it was passed around the table after the blessing said over it by the head of the company. The unity of group participation in the Cup of Blessing was considered to be sufficiently realized by virtue of the one blessing said over the Cup and by the fact that all drank of the contents of the one Cup, even though each person did so out of his or her own individual beaker.<sup>2</sup>

It is generally conceded that evidence drawn from the Mishnah and Talmud cannot always be strictly applied to Jewish practice in the period prior to the fall of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. Hence it cannot be used as necessarily applicable to the time of our Lord's life. Many scholars believe that the number of pilgrims who resorted to Jerusalem for the great festivals, such as Passover, before the destruction of the city in 70 A.D., would have made the provision of individual beakers for every person celebrating the sacred meals not only impractical but also impossible. Unfortunately the New Testament itself does not provide us with a clear-cut answer to the question. By a strict reading of the text, Mark 14:23 (followed by Matthew 26:27) implies the use of a common cup for drinking the sacred wine; Luke 22:17 suggests the use of individual beakers.<sup>3</sup>

There is no question, of course, in the Jewish sources of any custom of intinction. All that is claimed is the evidence of a definite scruple on the part of Jewish authorities against the practice of drinking out of a common cup—and this, too, for hygienic reasons. In any event, the Gentile Christians from the apostolic age onwards had no such scruples, and the evidence of Christian practice in the early centuries is unanimous with respect to the use of a common cup for administering the consecrated wine to the people.

For many centuries, the Eastern Orthodox Churches have employed a method of intinction in administering Holy Communion. The consecrated bread, steeped in consecrated wine, is placed in the mouth of the communicant by means of a spoon. This custom, however, cannot claim a tradition of great antiquity. The earliest reference to this practice comes from the middle of the eleventh century in a controversial work of Cardinal Humbert against the errors of the Eastern (i.e., Greek) Church.<sup>4</sup> No explanation is given in this work, however, either of the origin or the reason for the Eastern practice. We do possess what appears to be a reference to the usage in the communion of the sick in a work of St. Sophronius of Jerusalem (d. 638).<sup>5</sup> But we do not know whether the Eastern use of intinction is derived from practices developed for sick communions or not. Nor can it be said with certainty that when the practice of intinction appears in the Western Church it is a borrowing from the East. It may well be that the Eastern Church derived the usage from the West; though there is no indication that the Western Church ever administered the intincted host by means of a spoon. At least this much is clear—the Easterners did not adopt intinction for hygienic reasons. It is possible that its purpose was of a more practical nature—namely, the greater ease in administering communion to infants. For in the Eastern Churches, where both Baptism and Confirmation are administered together to infant children, there has been a constant tradition of administering Holy Communion to infants also.

The earliest reference to intinction in the West comes from Spain, the Third Council of Braga held in the year 675. Canon 2 of this council forbids the practice of intinction on the grounds that it is contrary to the Lord's usage at the Last Supper. The curious statement is made that, whereas the Lord gave the two sacred species separately to the apostles, He gave only an intincted sop to the traitor Judas.<sup>6</sup> This canon was taken up into later medieval codifications, beginning with the so-called Isidorean or False Decretals of the ninth century, and thence passing to such distinguished canonical collections as those of Burchard of Worms, Ivo of Chartres, and Gratian. With Burchard the canon appears in an expanded form and is attributed (quite erroneously) to Pope Julius I (337-52). By its inclusion in the Decretum of Gratian (ca. 1150), the canon became part of the official law of the Roman Church, and has remained such ever since his time.<sup>7</sup>

The practice of intinction was not easily ruled out of use, however, and many prominent medieval churchmen came forward to defend and promote it. Regino of Prum (d. 915), citing an otherwise unknown council of Tours, recommended the reservation of intincted hosts for the communion of the sick<sup>8</sup>; while John of Avranches (d. 1079) maintained that, though the clergy should not receive communion by intinction, "it was permissible to communicate the people with intincted bread, not by reason of authority, but because of the greatest necessity lest the Blood of Christ be spilled."<sup>9</sup> Intinction was the regular method of communion in the great monastery of Cluny, despite the prohibition of a council at Clermont (1095) which allowed the practice only "for necessity or for caution."<sup>10</sup> Similarly Pope Paschal II in a letter to Abbot Pontius of Cluny forbade the use of intinction "except for infants and the sick, who cannot otherwise absorb the bread."<sup>11</sup> All the extant service books of the Celtic Church, and also many missals of the Ambrosian rite, current in North Italy, provide forms for administering communion by intinction; though it is probable that they were employed only in the communions of the sick.

Scholastic theologians of the twelfth century debated the subject of intinction, generally in connection with the developing doctrine of Concomitance. William of Champeaux (d. 1122) dismissed as a "frivolous reason" the canonical association of intinction with the sop given to Judas, and argued for the reception of the whole Christ under either species separately or both species by intinction.<sup>12</sup> Robert Pulleyn (d. 1150) on the other hand did not accept the doctrine of Concomitance, and decried the practice of intinction, except for the communion of the sick, as contrary to the Lord's institution.<sup>13</sup> Hugh of St. Victor (1096-1141) was aware that the sop given to Judas was not the consecrated species of bread and wine, but took refuge behind the canon law in opposition to intinction.<sup>14</sup> So likewise did Innocent III in his famous treatise On the Sacred Mystery of the Altar, written before his elevation to the papacy in 1198. A strong advocate of Concomitance, Innocent insisted that the intincted sop was not given to Judas as a communion, but only as a sign pointing out the traitor.<sup>15</sup>

In England the practice of intinction had a stout defender in the person of Ernulph, Bishop of Rochester (1115-24). In one of his letters to a friend Lambert, he admits that intinction was a development of "recent growth," but insists that our Lord left to His Church many matters concerning the administration of the sacraments for its discretionary decision. With no little irony, he points out that if intinction is banned because of the sop given to Judas, then the Kiss of Peace in the Mass should also be banned since Judas kissed his Lord as a sign of his betrayal. Ernulph's prime defense of intinction, like that of so many of his contemporaries, was basically practical, i.e., fear of defilement of the chalice either by the beards and mustaches customarily worn by the men of the time, or by the hazard of spilling the consecrated wine when pouring it into the mouths of communicants.<sup>16</sup> But Ernulph's position on intinction did not meet with much favor. At a council held in Westminster, May 18, 1175, the English bishops passed a canon prohibiting intinction on the same grounds as those given in the Western canon law.<sup>17</sup>

With the final acceptance by the medieval Church of the doctrine of Concomitance, and along with it the gradual withdrawal from the laity of any participation in the chalice, the interest pro and con in intinction as a method of communion ceased having any significance. Thomas Aquinas' treatment of the subject may be taken as the last significant discussion of the theme. Thomas sums up all the familiar arguments, noting that "the greatest reverence and caution are called for, lest anything happen which is unworthy of so great a mystery. Now this could especially happen in receiving the Blood, for, if incautiously handled, it might easily be spilt." But he goes on to say that the perfection of the Sacrament is not in its use by the faithful, but in its consecration, that the priest offers and receives on behalf of all, and that Christ is fully contained under either species. Therefore, intinction is unnecessary.<sup>18</sup>

Various theories have been propounded to explain the origin and spread of intinction in the usage of the medieval Church. According to some, it arose first in connection with the communion of the sick. Others see the suggestion of it in the ceremony of the commixture at the Mass; still others have proposed the ceremony of consecration by commixture in the Mass of the Presanctified on Good Friday. But it is certain that the attraction of intinction was the result of the precautions taken to secure the chalice from accidental spilling or defilement. This was particularly true after the seventh century, when it became customary to administer the sacred species to the mouth of the communicant, rather than into his hands. It is equally certain that intinction ceased to be employed by the thirteenth century, when the chalice was withdrawn from the communion of the faithful, and the doctrine of Concomitance was firmly established. The opposition of church authorities to the practice was due in large measure to their interpretation of the ceremonial of the Last Supper of the Lord. One must also reckon with the objection of Westerners to the customs of the Eastern Church, even though there is no clear indication that the Eastern Church initiated the practice of intinction. Yet medieval canonists recognized the legitimacy of intinction in the communion of infants and of the sick, as well as in cases where accidents to the chalice might otherwise be unavoidable.<sup>19</sup>

The restoration of the chalice in the communion of the people at the time of the Reformation did not entail any consideration of intinction as an expedient method of administration of the sacramental species. The Reformers, like the early medieval canonists, assumed that the Body and Blood of the Lord should be given to the faithful separately, as our Lord administered them to His disciples in the Upper Room. The intention of the rubrics of the Book of Common Prayer is quite clear. Both elements of the Sacrament were to be delivered separately into the hands of the communicants. This has been the unaltered and unquestioned tradition of Anglicanism ever since the Reformation. The revival of intinction in the Anglican Communion in modern times has been due to circumstances quite unforeseen in the sixteenth century; namely, the rise of the modern science of bacteriology. Preventive medicine and public health, not historical or theological considerations, have brought the problem of intinction again to the fore.

The use of intinction in our own times began to be revived in connection with the communion of the sick, and particularly in sanatoria and other places for the treatment of tubercular disease. The warning of medicine against the infectious diseases conveyed by public, common drinking cups was followed in due course by legal prohibitions against their use in all the states. This crusade in the interest of public health could not be ignored by Christian people, with the result that many devout churchmen began to have serious scruples respecting the propriety and safety of the common chalice in Holy Communion. Many of the Protestant denominations met the situation by resorting to the use of individual cups for the administration of the Sacrament. This method found little favor in our own communion; but gradually parishes here and there began to adopt the method of intinction as practiced in tuberculosis camps and sanatoria.

The practice was already sufficiently widespread to come to the attention of the bishops assembled in Lambeth Conference in 1908. A committee, headed by the late Bishop Paget of Oxford, reported to the Conference that they,

. . . having received the help of important testimony with high medical authority, believe that, save in extraordinary circumstances, the risk of infection being conveyed by the chalice is far less than that which is constantly and unhesitatingly incurred in the circumstances and intercourse of daily life. . . . Your Committee believe that it is not necessary, on the ground of any dread of such risk, to make any change in the

received manner of administration; that it would be unwise to recognize and encourage by such a change an alarm which should be met by the exercise of common-sense.<sup>20</sup>

Thus the matter was allowed to rest. But at our General Convention in 1913, a committee on the Use of the Cup in the Holy Communion made a more detailed report on the subject of intinction, as well as of the use of individual cups. The Committee definitely rejected the latter expedient as "awkward and unseemly and distasteful"; though it noted that the symbolism of unity preserved by the chalice should be considered along with "the complete abandonment in the Church of the symbolism of the single loaf, which in the institution is quite as strongly emphasized as the one cup." The Committee offered as a declaration of principles: (1) there was no reason to authorize any general change in the usage obtaining in the Church; (2) the proper care of the Communion vessels would meet all reasonable needs; and (3) "that for emergencies arising in special cases the Bishops are in our judgment competent to provide in their several Dioceses without resorting to the use of individual cups, or without doing anything which may impair the Sacrament according to its original institution and the order of the Church."<sup>21</sup>

This report was too vague to be of much help in meeting the situation. Meanwhile the growth of intinction was becoming more marked, particularly after the influenza epidemic of the First World War. In March, 1917, Bishop William Lawrence of Massachusetts publicly authorized the use of intinction in the parishes of his diocese, the first bishop to take this step.<sup>22</sup> At the General Convention of 1922 a Joint Commission of five bishops, five presbyters and five laymen was appointed to report to the following Convention on intinction. This Commission reaffirmed the positions taken in the report of 1913, but added that specific action should be taken for authorization, when necessity requires, of either intinction or communion in one kind. The Commission reached no agreement, however, as to the proper method of intinction; but stated that "it would seem wise to leave the determination of the method to be employed to the Bishops, each in his own Diocese." This report was adopted.<sup>23</sup>

In the meantime the General Convention was considering the revision of the Prayer Book. In its report to the Convention of 1919, the Joint Commission on the Revision of the Prayer Book had proposed the following rubric:

When for any reason it is deemed inadvisable to use the common cup in the administration, the Bishop may authorize the Priest to use the method of intinction.

This rubric was amended in 1925 to read:

Any Bishop may, under proper conditions, authorize the administration of the Holy Communion by intinction, in which case both sentences of administration shall be said.

At the final vote on the revised Prayer Book in the 1928 Convention, however, this rubric was eliminated by vote of the House of Deputies.<sup>24</sup> Thus

THE PRESENT SITUATION

It is clear from the foregoing brief summary that the practice of intinction in the Church is not only growing in extent, but that a variety of methods in its administration has developed from want of an officially recommended use. The first task of the Standing Liturgical Commission, under direction of General Convention of 1949, has been to ascertain so far as possible the actual situation that obtains at present throughout the Church. To this end a questionnaire was sent to all bishops having jurisdiction in the United States and territorial possessions. The Commission wishes to express its sincere thanks for the prompt and almost unanimous response of the bishops to this inquiry. Reports were received from ninety dioceses and missionary districts.

Thirty-nine diocesan bishops reported that they had authorized the use of intinction, and sixteen others stated that they had given permission for its use upon special request. We also asked them to give us an estimate of the extent of the use of intinction in their dioceses, either with or without their express authorization. The results may be tabulated as follows:

Number of Dioceses	Extent of use
8.....	Widely used (50 per cent of parishes or more)
10.....	Commonly used (25-50 per cent of parishes)
25.....	In a few places (5 to 10 parishes)
16.....	In two or three parishes
7.....	In one parish
13.....	None

In one missionary district, the bishop reported that four-fifths of the parishes afforded intinction because of the widespread prevalence of tuberculosis in the area. It should be borne in mind, however, that in the parishes which employ intinction, not all the communicants, and in most cases not even the majority of communicants, receive by intinction. Nonetheless the extent of the use of intinction is impressive. And another interesting item which came out of this survey was the fact that the use of intinction is not confined to any one area of the Church or to any particular "school of churchmanship." Its use is spread over the whole country and cuts across partisan divisions.

The Commission also asked the bishops what method or methods of intinction they had authorized or permitted. Sixteen reported that they had not specified any particular method, though several expressed their personal preferences. Where specific permissions or recommendations were made the following results were obtained:

A. Intinction by the communicant, either in the common cup or in a special chalice:

- 10 bishops specify this method.
- 4 bishops recommend it.

B. Intinction by the priest, with wafer placed to the lips of the communicant:

- 12 bishops specify this method.
- 1 bishop recommends it.
- 3 bishops oppose it.
- 6 bishops personally prefer it, though they have not officially authorized intinction.

C. Intinction by the priest, with wafer placed in the hand of the communicant:

- 15 bishops specify this method.
- 3 bishops oppose it.

The statistics given above might be taken as indicative of the fact that method A (intinction by the communicant) is the least favored method. But this is not actually the case. For in those dioceses where intinction is most widely practiced this appears to be the preferred method, at least in the great majority of them. In only one diocese, where the bishop reported the use of intinction in 50 per cent or more of the parishes, was method A forbidden. In this case method C was authorized. In four instances where intinction was widely used the bishops recommended method A. Similarly, of the several bishops who reported their own personal practice in the parish ministry, three said that they had used method A, one had used method B, and two had used method C.

One other inquiry was made by the Commission: namely, whether the clergy employ a common cup in administering by intinction, or use a special chalice for this purpose only. In the vast majority of the reports received, the use of a special chalice was favored, whatever the method of intinction employed. The use of the common cup for intinction was for the most part confined to those parishes where few individuals receive by intinction. A third practice, in use in some parishes, was noted. Those who communicate by intinction make their communion first, from the common cup, then the other communicants receive their communion in the traditional manner. This method, though it is allowed by some bishops, is strongly opposed by others; and no bishop recommended or favored this usage.

The results of this survey made by the Commission may be summarized as follows:

1. The practice of intinction is at present so widespread in the Church that any effort by official authority to suppress it would create serious spiritual and mental anguish to numbers of devout communicants.
2. The three methods of intinction now in common use in the Church are all employed so extensively that none of them can at the present time be considered as a generally favored norm for the practice. And all three methods have strong proponents and opponents of their respective usages.
3. The use of a special chalice for the purpose of intinction is most generally preferred and is more and more being accepted, especially in parishes where intinction, by whatever method, is a regular practice of numbers of communicants.

III

RECOMMENDATIONS

The Standing Liturgical Commission desires to express its unanimous agreement that intinction should not only be officially authorized by our Church as a legitimate method of administering the Holy Communion, but also that its use should be subject to regulation by episcopal authority. The strong conviction and scruple which many of our people have against the use of the common Cup should be accepted forthrightly and sympathetically. The fear of infection from the common Cup is a serious deterrent to their devout and wholesome participation in Holy Communion when administered in the traditional manner. We cannot afford to deny the privileges of the Lord's Table to communicants who are spiritually and morally prepared to receive them, but who desire to receive them in a way that does no violence to their honestly held convictions concerning the essential unity of scientific and religious truths. Because hygienic considerations are the basis of the modern revival of intinction, it may properly be said that in authorizing the use of it the Church is exercising its time-honored and established right of dispensing, and extending a method long-used and universally accepted in the communion of the sick.

We recognize that in the extension of the practice of intinction other motives and causes have come into consideration than those of a purely hygienic nature. Many communicants who have no conscious fear of infection from the common Cup feel no less a certain aesthetic repugnance to its use. Some who advocate the practice of intinction bring forward certain practical advantages, notably the shortening of the time necessary to the administration of communion. Such considerations do not seem to the Commission to be of great importance, as compared with the basic hygienic purpose of intinction. But they play a part in the total explanation of why the custom of intinction has been steadily increasing in the Church.

We heartily sympathize with those of our fellowship who cannot but feel some repugnance to the practice of intinction, not only because it is untraditional, but also because it appears to them to be awkward and unseemly. At the same time we must understand and sympathize with the sentiments and scruples of those who find the traditional manner of receiving communion equally repugnant to conviction and taste, and for whom the reception of communion by intinction is meaningful and reverent. We believe that Christian charity and mutual forbearance must prevail in this matter. Both those who favor and those who disfavor intinction should respect the integrity of conscience of one another so that we all may "hold the faith in unity of spirit, in the bond of peace." Reverence is an attitude of mind and heart. There is no irreverence in God's sight where no irreverence is intended. The essential thing is not the outward method but the inward reality—the direct communion of our Lord Jesus Christ with all those who are His own. Holy Communion is realized in its fulness and entirety whether the sacred elements of His Body and Blood are received separately, or together.

Because the spirit of unity within our Church's fellowship is of such primary importance, the Commission believes that one practice now common in many parishes where intinction is employed should be definitely discouraged and abandoned. This is the custom of having all communicants who receive by intinction come to the altar rail first, or at least at a time separate from others in the congregation who receive by the traditional method. This usage has arisen no doubt out of very practical considerations. In some instances only one chalice has been available; or the priest, having no assistance in the administration of the Sacrament, has found it awkward to deliver the consecrated wine in two different ways at one and the same rail of receiving communicants. But these practical difficulties are easily surmounted by other methods of administering intinction, which do not divide the congregation so visibly and obviously into two separate groups or types of communicants. We should avoid every appearance and suggestion of disunity in our congregations, the more especially at what is above all our Holy Sacrament of unity, reconciliation and peace.

With respect to the three methods of intinction, outlined in section II of this report, the Commission has found it difficult to make decisions of preference among them. Not only do all three methods have strong advocates as well as opponents, but to rule out any one of them would create no little disruption in the devotional habits of many of our people that have behind them long and meaningful use. In weighing the pros and cons of all three methods, we have thought it only fair and proper to give particular attention to the views of those bishops and clergy who have had the most extensive experience in the use of intinction. The results of our deliberations, based upon careful analysis of the survey that we have made, have brought us to the following conclusions:

1. Method A: Intinction of the wafer by the communicant in a small, shallow chalice, especially designed for the purpose, is the most preferable usage.
2. Method B: Intinction of the wafer by the priest who then places it to the lips or on the tongue of the communicant is also a permissible method. A small chalice should also be used in this method, but if necessity require, the priest may intinct the wafer in the common Cup.
3. Method C: Intinction of the wafer by the priest, who then places it in the hand of the communicant, is the least desirable method. In this case a small chalice for the purpose of intinction is also preferable to the use of the common Cup.

We should explain these preferences of method as listed as follows:

Method A: Intinction by the communicant. We have already noted that this method is preferred by the great majority of those who have had the widest experience with intinction, in many instances after experiment with various methods. It conforms most closely to the literal wording of the rubrics in the Prayer Book that direct the minister to deliver both kinds separately into the hands of the communicant. We readily admit that there was no intention in the minds of those who wrote these rubrics of any practice of intinction. But it remains no less true that by this method both the Bread and the Cup are offered separately to the communicants—if need be, into their hands. This method also has the practical advantage of ease in administration on the part of the priest; for he can readily, without delay or awkwardness, administer the Cup in whatever way the communicant prefers. Those who have had experience in carrying two cups, the large common cup and the small intinction chalice, have found it a simple and commodious means of administration; and in many instances two individuals, kneeling side by side but employing different ways of reception, can be communicated at one and the same time. Thus the time consumed in administering communions may be considerably shortened.

Two objections to this method are commonly raised. One is that it has no basis in tradition, and that it virtually amounts to self-communication by the laity. We freely grant that this is a modern, and as such, novel method of intinction. But we do not believe that it is proper to speak of it as self-communication by the laity. (Even so, self-communication by the laity was a common practice of the Ante-Nicene Church.) Both elements are actually delivered to the laity by the priest. If the layman wishes to withhold his reception of the Bread until such time as he can conveniently and reverently dip it in the Cup, he should be trusted to do this in all good conscience and decency. We believe that our laity are sufficiently instructed in the proper meaning of the Sacrament and the reverence due to it that we need not fear any misuse by them of the Bread delivered into their hands. In the medieval Church, when much superstition respecting the consecrated Host was current, it was very wise for the authorities of the Church to withhold the consecrated Bread from the hands of communicants. But we cannot honestly maintain that the same caution is needed today.

The other and more serious objection to this method is the observation that many laity are inexpert in dipping the Bread discreetly in the Cup, with the result that frequently their fingers are dipped into the sacred Wine also. This objection can only be maintained, of course, where the large common Cup is used for intinction; it does not apply at all to cases where a small, shallow chalice is used for the intinction of the Bread. For this very reason the Commission recommends the use of such a small chalice. On the other hand, it should be remarked that a layman who makes the mistake of moistening his fingers as well as the Bread with the consecrated Wine, because of inexpertness in the method, is not deliberately irreverent, nor is he likely to make the same mistake more than once or twice. In one diocese reporting to the Commission, the bishop and clergy have sought to avoid this accident by recommending the use of a wafer oblong in shape. They report that where this has been adopted the result "is proving very satisfactory."

Method B: Intinction by the priest with wafer placed to the lips of the communicant. This method also has very strong advocates, including some who have also had wide personal and pastoral experience with intinction. It has behind it the weight of tradition, and also, to a certain degree, the example of the Eastern Orthodox Church. It is easy to administer, with this exception—the priest cannot carry two chalices at once. If all those kneeling at the altar rail at one time receive by intinction, he can carry both paten and chalice in one hand, and thus administer the intincted wafer readily with the other. But if those kneeling at the altar rail receive in different ways, he must, if he is using a special chalice for intinction, have an assistant carry the extra chalice. Otherwise he has no hand free to intinct the wafer for the communicant.

The objection to this method is twofold. To some, both clergy and laity, the method is unseemly. But this attitude is probably due to the fact that ever since the Reformation our Communion has had no experience comparable to that of the Roman Church of administering the Sacrament directly to the mouth of the lay recipient. Our people who receive their communion in this way can be as clumsy and inexpert as those who dip the Bread into the Cup. More serious is the objection that this method does not meet the primary purpose of intinction, namely, hygienic safety. Even though the priest is sufficiently expert in the method so that his fingers never touch the lips or tongue of the communicant, he cannot escape the breath of the communicant on his fingers. And we know that many infectious bacteria are communicated by the breath no less than by the saliva of the mouth.

We should also point out that if this method of intinction is authorized, there must be some specific revision or addition to the rubrics of the Prayer Book. Particularly, if the two species are delivered simultaneously, there must be an alteration in the Words of Administration now provided by the Prayer Book. At the conclusion of this report we shall make proposal for such revision. Though the Commission does not consider this method the most desirable or preferable mode of intinction, we are not prepared to recommend that it be discontinued. For we recognize that many churchmen who use intinction, and many of our bishops who are called upon to authorize intinction, cannot in good conscience accept any other method than this one.

Method C: Intinction by the priest with wafer placed in the hand of the communicant. This method is a compromise between methods A and B. On the one hand it seeks to avoid the difficulties of and objections to intinction by the communicant himself. On the other hand it attempts to remain as close as possible to the norm of administration provided by the Prayer Book and of long usage in Anglicanism, whereby both species are delivered into the hands of the communicants. Though this method has been specified by more bishops than either of the other two methods, our survey has shown that with the exception of one diocese, the method is authorized specifically in those dioceses where intinction is practiced to a very limited extent.

The method has certain real advantages. It is hygienically safe. It places responsibility for care in administration upon the priest, and to this extent it conforms to tradition. It is no more awkward to administer than method B; and at the same time it comes nearer to a literal observance of the present rubrics of the Prayer Book. Over against these advantages must be set the very positive and strongly expressed objections of several bishops who responded to the Commission's survey. With these objections the Commission is frank to say that it is in accord. The placing of a moist wafer in the hand of a communicant is untidy. The wafer is, of course, very absorbent, and no liquid from the chalice ever drops from an intincted wafer. But unless the wafer is moistened ever so slightly with the wine, so slightly that there is little of the taste of the wine sensible to the communicant, it commonly happens that the communicant finds he must lick his hand in consuming the intincted wafer. For the moisture of the intincted wafer almost invariably clings to the hand.

While the Commission does not wish to go on record as recommending that this method be discontinued at once, we do believe that it should not be further encouraged. And we believe that either of the other methods is less likely to afford accidental, and of course unintentional, want of caution in administering the sacred contents of the Chalice.

There has been to date no little concern in some quarters of the Church respecting the legality of intinction, particularly as regards the rubrics of the Book of Common Prayer. The interpretation of these rubrics made on several occasions by our Commission—namely, that intinction by the communicant is permissible under the rubrics—has received vigorous opposition. Even the action of General Convention, in allowing the Bishops under proper conditions to authorize intinction, has been held to be a direct violation of the constitutional and rubrical law of the Church. In order to clarify this issue, and remove all doubts as to the constitutionality of the action of the General Convention, the Standing Liturgical Commission herewith proposes to the General Convention of 1952 the following addition to the rubrics of the Prayer Book. Its adoption should be according to the procedures laid down in the Constitution and Canons of our Church for due revision of the Book of Common Prayer:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the following insertion be made in the Book of Common Prayer on page 85, after the present General Rubrics and before The Exhortations:

¶ Any Communicant who so desires may receive the Sacrament in both kinds simultaneously by Intinction, in such manner as is authorized by the Ordinary; Provided, that opportunity shall always be given to every Communicant to receive the consecrated Bread and Wine separately in the accustomed manner.

¶ When the Sacrament is administered in both kinds simultaneously by Intinction, it shall suffice for the Minister who delivereth the Sacrament to say,

THE Body and Blood of our Lord Jesus Christ, which were given for thee, preserve thy body and soul unto everlasting life. Take this in remembrance that Christ died for thee, and feed on him in thy heart by faith, with thanksgiving.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION TO REPORT RECOMMENDATIONS AS TO AMENDMENTS TO CANONS ON HOLY MATRIMONY.

At its first meeting the Commission organized by the election of the Right Reverend the Bishop of Newark as Chairman and the Reverend Gregory Mabry of Long Island as Secretary. The names of eleven of the original members of the Commission and the Reverend James S. Allen, appointed in the place of the Right Reverend Edward R. Welles, resigned, are appended.

A detailed statement of the expenses of the Commission is also appended. The estimate of the requirements for the coming triennium is $500.00.

The General Convention of 1949 gave a brief and definitely limited directive to this Commission. Three years earlier there had been a complete revision of the Canons respecting Holy Matrimony. Its purpose was the substitution of a pastoral for a purely legalistic approach to the consideration of problems arising in connection with this divine institution. In 1949 it was the belief of General Convention that insufficient time had elapsed to determine the adequacy of the new Canons in maintaining the doctrine of the Church that Christian marriage is a physical, spiritual and mystical union of a man and a woman created by their mutual consent of heart, mind and will thereto, a Holy Estate of God, and in intention lifelong. (Canon 18, Sec. 2 (b).)

In obedience to the directive of the Convention of 1949, our Commission has sought to discover whether further experience with the Canon has revealed the need or the possibility of its improvement by amendments at this time.

A comprehensive questionnaire was addressed to the diocesan bishops to ascertain from them whether in the discharge of their responsibility placed upon them by the Canons, they believed that serious defects exist which should now be corrected. Replies were received from all but three of the bishops. A second questionnaire was sent to diocesan chancellors asking their opinion as to the proper construction of the much discussed phrase, "to exist or to have existed" (Canon 18, Sec. 2 (b)), in determining the marital status in the eyes of the Church of persons whose previous marriage has been terminated by the decree of a civil court. The chancellors were further asked for suggestions in any direction as to appropriate amendments of the Canons. Replies were received from a great majority of the chancellors.

The experience of civil courts proves the difficulty of choosing language allowing but one interpretation. A certain variety of opinion exists as to the propriety of assuming that defects of personality apparently arising only after marriage must have been latent at the time of the marriage, so that impediments may be said to have existed which establish the marriage as null and void ab initio. There seems to be little demand for altering the present language of the Canon in spite of its possible ambiguity. Twenty-two of the chancellors suggested amendments in other directions, ranging all the way from outright repeal of the Canon to simple amendments seeking clarification. The great majority of the chancellors either made no suggestions or definitely stated that they felt the Canons should not now be amended.

The bishops appear to be almost unanimous in desiring no substantial amendment to the Canons at present. Among them, as among the chancellors, there exist some differences of interpretation. There is, however, no ground for fear that in any of our dioceses the position of the Church as to the sacramental nature of Christian marriage is being jeopardized.

The Commission believes that the replies from bishops and chancellors indicate a general desire to allow the Canons to stand substantially in their present form. We therefore recommend no amendments for your consideration at this time.

Our conclusion, however, should not be mistaken for belief on our part that the present Canons are incapable of improvement. Hastily drafted in the midst of the busy session of the 1946 Convention, they contain infelicities of expression which careful editing would remove. Since this does not involve changes in the substance of the Canons, it would seem that the editing should be undertaken by the committees on Canons of the two Houses of General Convention. Our Commission, if continued, will naturally be willing to give its full cooperation. We believe, however, that if for at least another triennium the Canons are retained as they now stand, the further experience of diocesan authorities will enable the Church to act more wisely and with greater unanimity than would now be likely.

Several of the chancellors have expressed the opinion that the principal weakness of the Canons is the lack of authorized facilities through which to obtain crystallization of thought leading to increasingly reasonable uniformity of interpretation. One of them calls attention to the fact that General Convention has enacted a Canon which affects the Church as a whole, yet its interpretation is left to each bishop of the Church without any central body to guide him. He cites by way of analogy the chaotic situation in which we would find ourselves if Congress were to pass laws which without courts could be only advisory, to be enforced by the Governor of each State according to his mood and interpretation. Obviously no Commission of General Convention should be given the authority of a court, nor should any Commission desire it. It is, however, our opinion that this Commission, if it be continued, may be of service to the Church as a clearing house for the experience of bishops and chancellors. Possible defects in the Canons could be pointed out, one at a time, and, through a gradual process, procedures would be perfected and stabilized.

The only task assigned to us was the suggestion of amendments to the Canons. More urgent than their amendment or revision is definite and widespread knowledge, not only of their content, but also of the teaching of the Church upon which they are based. The Canon requires that parties desiring to contract a marriage shall under normal circumstances signify their intention to the minister at least three days before the service of solemnization. Presumably this is to give him the opportunity to fulfil the further canonical requirement that he shall have instructed them as to the nature of Holy Matrimony. In his interviews with them he is to require them to sign a declaration (Canon 17, Sec. 3) which briefly summarizes the doctrine of the Church on Holy Matrimony and their assent to this doctrine.

It may be that Canon Law itself ought to go no further, but it is obvious that such instruction as is required by Canon is often both too little and too late. It is our conviction that the solution of marital difficulties which beset society today lies in fuller instruction long before a marriage takes place. To provide in brief convenient form a statement of the substance of the teaching and practice of the Church as contained in its Canons, the Commission prepared a pamphlet Marriage in the Episcopal Church, and this was published for the Commission by the Forward Movement in 1951. It includes brief but searching questions which persons should ask themselves when contemplating marriage. A responsibility rests upon the bishops and through them upon the other clergy of the Church to provide courses of instruction which set forward Christian ideals of marriage, of home and family life. Such instruction should begin in Church schools and continue in young peoples' groups, in Confirmation classes, in Lenten forums and in summer conferences. The faithful pastor will also feel a responsibility to give to those whom he has married more than usual attention during the early months of their marriage. Many marriages are needlessly broken for lack of wise counsel and advice.

It is proper that the Canons should set forth the requirements for marriage. It is proper that they should provide a procedure by which, taking into consideration the godly discipline both of justice and of mercy, the bishop shall give judgments as to the marital status of an active member of this Church in good standing. More fundamental is the pastoral care of souls who through the grace of God have entered into the holy estate of Matrimony discreetly, advisedly, soberly and in the fear of God, that they may ever remain in perfect love and peace together and live according to His laws.

We offer the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, The House . . . concurring, that the Joint Commission to Report Recommendations as to Amendments to Canons on Holy Matrimony be continued, to continue a study of the adequacy of the present Canons, to act in an advisory capacity to any who may seek its counsel, to serve as a clearing house for the exchange of information as to procedures under the Canons, and to encourage more adequate instruction on the nature of Christian marriage.

2. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Committee of the House of Bishops on Amendments to Canons and Constitution, and the Committee of the House of Deputies on Canons, be requested, in cooperation with this Commission, to prepare for submission to the next General Convention such editorial alterations in Canons 16, 17 and 18 as may be needed to correct infelicities of expression.

3. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the sum of $500.00 be appropriated for the expenses of the Commission during the next triennium.

APPENDIX 20

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON CHURCH MUSIC

Five meetings of the Commission have been held during the triennium for the purpose of developing the program outlined by the Commission in its tenth report to the General Convention of 1949.

The Commission has, with the cooperation of Columbia Records, Inc., prepared recordings which demonstrate the proper rendition of portions of the service music found in the appendix to The Hymnal 1940. Both Anglican and Plainsong settings have been employed for the music of the Holy Communion and of the Offices. The Plainsong was prepared by students at General Theological Seminary under the direction of Ray Francis Brown. The Anglican settings were prepared by a small choir of mixed voices directed by Harold Wells Gilbert of Philadelphia, Pa. This recording is issued with the approval of the Commission, under whose instruction the music was prepared.

It is the belief of the Commission that such recordings may well be used by the choirmasters of small churches and missions to present to their singers the proper method of chanting in speech rhythm which the pointing in the Hymnal appendix is designed to achieve. The recording was announced for release by Columbia for June 1, 1952. It will be added to that firm's catalogue of recorded music.

A second objective which the Commission has achieved is the preparation of brochures dealing with the music for weddings and funerals. These both set forth the standards to be followed in the music for these offices and also contain lists of recommended organ, choir and solo music for such occasions. Considerable delay has been experienced in having these printed but the work is now being done at Seabury Press.

The Commission earnestly recommends that the clergy of the Church study these but that, with reference to the wedding music, they obtain copies to present to prospective brides so that they may be guided in their selection of music.

A third list, of music suitable for the services of the Church, is in preparation. This brochure presents a difficult task because of the large literature of published canticles, communion offices, masses (the technical title of a form of musical composition) and anthems. The constant release of new compositions creates continuous revision. It is expected that this list too will be available by the time of Convention. It is also recommended that such a revised list, as set forth above, should be issued at least once every three years.

These brochures constitute the first step in the revision of the Report of the Joint Commission on Church Music of 1922 which set forth the standards of Church Music and which has been the guide of the Commission during the intervening years. Further work on this revision should be undertaken during the next triennium.

The Commission has undertaken the creation of a School of Church Music during the triennium, with members of the Commission serving as volunteer faculty. The concept of this school is one that will authoritatively set forth the standards of good church music, chanting, organ accompaniment, and the relation of music to the worship of the Church. Since it is not designed to compete with existing conferences, it is moved each year to a different locale.

The first session was held in August, 1951 at Seabury-Western Theological Seminary, Evanston, Ill., with an enrollment of 55 organists and choirmasters from 19 dioceses of the Church. The School paid for itself from registration fees. Monies advanced by the Treasurer of General Convention for setting up the School were refunded to him. The School of 1952 is scheduled for August at Houston, Texas.

The Joint Commission will, for the first time, operate a booth in the exhibitions at General Convention, in which there will be on display copies of recommended music, recordings and the brochures prepared by the Commission. Members of the Commission will be in charge and be prepared to make recommendations and answer questions.

There is much to be done. The repeated evidence of a return to much that is unworthy in the field of church music makes imperative the republishing of the Standards set forth in 1922. The success of the School indicates that further efforts should be made in that direction. We therefore submit the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the eleventh report of the Joint Commission on Church Music be accepted; that the Commission be continued; and that the sum of $1,500.00 be allotted to it for its work during the next triennium.

THE GENERAL CHURCH PROGRAM AS PROPOSED

HIS IMPELLING TASK

In the following pages the National Council, in accordance with the Canon, presents a program for the next triennium first to the chosen representatives of the Church in General Convention. Then after action by the General Convention, the authorized Program will be presented to the entire membership of the Church. I therefore ask for thoughtful and detailed study of these important pages. More than that, behind and in and through these cold figures, I trust that you will feel the imperative of God's call to the Church and the warmth of the need of men, women, boys, and girls throughout the world for the saving Gospel of Jesus Christ.

The total figure presented is approximately the same as that adopted in San Francisco in 1949, with the addition of funds for the Armed Forces Division which did not appear in the budget of three years ago as there were resources remaining from the former Army and Navy Commission. The reason that the Council has not asked for an increase is not because of a lesser need but because the Church, while steadily improving in giving, has in no year of the past triennium met this objective. It seems to us wisdom, therefore, to meet the present goal before increasing the amount. Many dioceses, however, have met the quota. It is hoped that they will gladly realize that the quotas are merely minimum objectives and will move forward in the support of the advancing work throughout the world. The National Council finds two opinions throughout the Church: on the one hand those who say we ask too much; on the other those who state we ask too little. I would remind the first group of the changed value of the dollar which means this is actually a decreased budget over several budgets of other years in the face of greater resources in the Church as a whole. To the second group I would repeat this is a minimum figure. There is ample opportunity for greater sacrifice and high adventure.

It is not possible here to comment upon the Program in detail. But I can state confidently that we are making progress. Our program of Christian Education is moving steadily and wisely toward the ultimate goal. The foundation of the Seabury Press is an important step, some generations overdue. The Department of Promotion is a group serving every branch of the Church's work; the reorganization will make this Department more effective. In the areas of the Church's work in the fields, at home and abroad, we are grateful to God for the calibre and devotion of our clergy and lay workers and for the challenge of new opportunities. There will be differences of opinions as to emphases. But this Program is the considered judgment of those of us who live with this work continuously and who are forced to make decisions with limited resources in the service of the entire cause.

The important thing is to have a vision of God in Jesus Christ and to be deeply consecrated to the task of seeking His Kingdom. When that is true of us all, the Church will move forward to the fulfilment of His impelling task.

HENRY KNOX SHERRILL, Presiding Bishop.

THE CHURCH AT HOME

The Home Department's responsibility is a comprehensive one—that of supervising all phases of missionary work in the United States. Although the Episcopal Church has been active since the very beginnings of this country, it has never ceased its work of winning new people to Christ, whether they be in the backwoods of the Eastern mountain regions, the plateaus of Colorado, or in the tenements of large industrial cities. There are always new areas for developing parishes and missions, and new groups of people to whom the Church can speak. At the present moment these groups include the millions of Negroes in the South and in northern cities who are facing many problems in adjusting to the environment in which they find themselves. Speaking with understanding to these people, and meeting their pressing needs, poses a special challenge to the Church in our time. Then there are the Indians, who in many places would be completely isolated from the ministry of the Church, were it not for a devoted band of men and women who have gone deep into the Indian reservations and established missions and schools.

The large shifts in population due to the rise of defense industry have meant that many new overcrowded areas have only the minimum of church facilities. We must rectify this situation. In another vein, the rural church, which has always been faced with the difficulties of widely-spread congregations, continues to need guidance and assistance.

The young people both in the armed forces and in colleges need very special attention, for they are facing moral, physical, emotional, and intellectual problems which they have never faced before. They cannot be left alone in their dilemma. We must bring Christ's answer to bear on all their problems and make the Church an essential part of their lives.

These, then, are the fields in which missionary work in the United States is very much alive today. These are the people whose spiritual welfare must continue to be uppermost in our minds as we consider the Church's program for 1953.

The Home Department has divided its work among four divisions which function together as a team. They are the Division of Domestic Missions, the Division of Town and Country Work, the Division of College Work, and the Armed Forces Division.

DOMESTIC MISSIONS

On the Road to Self-Support

The Episcopal Church has at the present moment thirteen domestic missionary districts, each of which is in the process of becoming self-supporting, but each of which still needs extended aid from the whole Church. It is an encouraging fact that every dollar which is appropriated to these districts is not only a dollar well spent, but a dollar which is very soon repaid as the district proceeds more speedily toward self-support. When the whole Church gives to this work, it is "priming the pump" and paving the way toward a stronger Church in all areas. In 1940, thirty-two per cent of the resources of the districts were derived from the whole Church through National Council appropriations. In 1950 this aid was only thirteen per cent. The rest was provided by the districts themselves. The eventual aim is for every missionary district to become a self-sufficient diocese. In all probability, New Mexico will become a diocese this year with the Missionary Districts of Spokane, North Texas, San Joaquin, Arizona, and Wyoming following in the next few years.

In a more limited way, the National Council appropriates funds to twenty dioceses who need help for missionary work of a special character. They, too, are gradually relinquishing their appropriations as they gain strength to carry on the projects themselves. But in the next triennium they will still need continuing assistance, especially in the rural fields.

Indian Missions Continue to Need Help

Of what does the work in these missionary districts and aided dioceses consist? A large proportion, twenty-five per cent, is Indian work. These Americans, living on a bare subsistence level on reservations, are attempting slowly to contribute more to the support of their parishes and missions. Their effort is noble and is succeeding gradually, but in their isolation and with the limited resources they have at hand, they will continue to need all the help we can give them. We must continue to support the missionaries who are doing such fine work in such places as the Good Shepherd Mission in Arizona, which is a permanent home for some forty children brought up by the mission, and St. Andrew's Mission in the same missionary district, which ministers to the Havasupai Indians who live on the floor of the Grand Canyon. Extensive evangelistic and religious education work is being prosecuted by these and other missions, which are very literally being bearers of the Gospel in the most remote regions of our land.

Negro Work: A Prime Concern

The next three years should see an increase in the scope and effectiveness of the Church's Negro work. Negroes comprise almost ten per cent of the total population of the United States. They do not deserve to be neglected. In fact, the Church's ministry to them must be a prime concern, especially in these times when racial strife is claiming more and more attention. The American Church Institute for Negroes, an independent agency which is nevertheless closely related to the National Council, has been doing fine work in this field. Established to promote the education of Negroes in the Southern States, it sponsors and assists a small group of educational institutions for Negroes, composed of one college, four secondary schools, one student center, and one school of nursing. The Institute's relationship to the National Council has been strengthened by making the Director of the Home Department president of its board of trustees. Increasing educational costs are placing a great strain on the Institute's budget. To meet these rising costs, an additional $20,000 will be needed in 1953. Fortunately, The American Church Institute for Negroes pays its own administrative expense, enabling the total appropriation from the general Church to go right into the field to help the students themselves.

But more than educational work is needed. Many dioceses have started projects to evangelize larger numbers of Negroes and to help develop churches which have Negro congregations. Through its Unit of Racial Work, the Division of Domestic Missions provides funds to assist dioceses to see these projects through. Already sixty-two new church buildings have been erected, and thirty others repaired or restored. But the demand has been much greater than the funds available. An additional $5,000 in 1953 is a very minimum requirement for the continuation of this work.

Opportunities in New Areas

The past ten years have seen great shifts in population as new areas have been opened up first for war work, and later for defense work. In most places this sudden influx has meant inadequate housing, crowded schools, and a complete lack of adequate church facilities. The Federal Government has estimated that by the fall of 1952 there will be 8,500,000 civilian defense workers, and it has listed forty-two defense areas as "critical" because of congested conditions. In the past two years the National Council has made emergency grants and loans to some of the dioceses and missionary districts in which these critical areas are located. This outlay has meant that thousands of Church people who have broken home ties to move to new centers of employment will be able to find the Church still with them. But there are still thousands who will not be so fortunate. Many churches still need to be built. Many existing churches still need to be enlarged. The maintenance of this new work will be borne largely by the dioceses, but in the next three years they will continue to need the assistance of the national Church. It is a missionary opportunity that must not be lost.

TOWN AND COUNTRY

One of the most successful phases of the Department's work has been in the rural field. The work in the next triennium, as in 1952, will proceed along three lines.

The first will be clergy training, carried on through conferences and regional church institutes. At the National Town-Country Church Institute at Roanridge Farm in Missouri, many seminarians are introduced to town and country needs, and clergy come back for refresher courses in rural work. Grants will be given to seminaries so that they can offer special courses in new methods of rural ministry. More men are needed with the qualifications, the knowledge, and the experience to pursue the exacting task of building up the Church in large rural areas.

The second will be on-the-spot laboratory work. The area around the National Town-Country Church Institute at Roanridge is being used as a field laboratory in town and country church methods. The staff at Roanridge not only ministers to three congregations but also provides field supervision for the fifty to sixty seminarians enrolled in the rural training part of the Institute program. During 1953 the National Town-Country Church Institute will continue to pursue its fine work.

Thirdly, the Division will make grants to local fields where there is an excellent likelihood that the aid will give the necessary last boost toward self-support.

By means of this integrated program, people on farms and in isolated areas in all parts of the country will continue to share more and more in the benefits of a Church which is conscious of their needs.

COLLEGE WORK

It has often been said that Christians are either made or unmade on the college campus. In one sense, this means that the Church has a golden opportunity to reach and win new people who have had little or no previous experience in religion. In another sense, it means that the Church faces the prospect of losing some of the young people whom it has nurtured so carefully in childhood. Faced with new and sometimes startling philosophies, being asked to question all the beliefs they had formerly taken for granted, facing new problems of adjustment to the college community, and facing the serious choice of a lifetime vocation, is it any wonder that their ideas and attitudes are undergoing radical transformations? What this transformation will be is in a large sense up to us. More college workers are needed . . . at least one on each campus, who can give the students a Christian perspective on the education they are receiving, and who can satisfy each student's desire to know more about the Church to which he belongs. Ten per cent of the students are Episcopalians, and the Episcopal Church has an unusual appeal to the unchurched college students and faculty.

More College Workers on More Campuses

But the Church will never win new members by staying away from the campuses. Right now there are full-time college workers in only thirteen out of twenty-five of the largest colleges and universities and in only twenty-four of the forty-eight State universities. In some college towns, the rector of the Episcopal Church in that community, already spending his full time on parish work, assists on the campus in any way he can. He cannot shoulder the burden alone. We need more full-time college workers not only in undergraduate schools but also in law, medical, business, and other graduate centers, and in the tragically neglected State teachers' colleges.

Faculty Has a Leading Role

It also is sometimes forgotten that college faculties, who play a leading role in determining the temper of the campus, must be included in a realistic college work program. It is they who are providing the example for the student. It is they whom the Church needs and who need the Church. This year it is proposed to add a member to the staff of the Division who will assist in initiating a complete faculty program on the campuses.

Times are rapidly changing, and so are campus conditions. Clergy and college workers have asked for special guidance to cope with new problems. The Division proposes to establish summer schools for college workers, and special training sessions at the College of Preachers and other similar institutions throughout the year. It is expected that these, together with shorter conferences, will go a long way toward providing the training which clergy and college workers must have to do their job well.

ARMED FORCES

Ever since the outbreak of the Korean war, the Church has become increasingly conscious of its responsibility toward men and women in the service. At that time the Armed Forces Division had been operating on a small scale and on funds which it already had available. Now, with the urgency of the need created by the actual fighting, and with the tremendous increase of men under arms, a much larger budget has been envisaged, and new funds will need to be obtained. Since the United States Government pays only salaries, the Episcopal Church must pay for all the equipment which Episcopal chaplains must have, including vestments, portable altars, Communion vessels, Prayer Books and other literature. The Armed Forces Division must see that each chaplain, whether he is on an aircraft carrier, in the front lines in Korea, or on a training base in the United States, has all the things that he will need to minister effectively to his men. The Division also acts as liaison between each chaplain and the Office of the Chief of Chaplains, and through visitations and consultations in the field gives the chaplains assistance in meeting the problems of their specialized ministry.

But perhaps most important of all, the Division has been doing and will continue to do the tremendous task of recruiting men for the chaplaincy. It is impossible to foresee what the military situation will be in the next three years. If the Armed Forces increase, the call will come for many more chaplains. Everyone hopes that the opposite will be true, but whatever comes, Church men and women in uniform must have the benefit of the Church's ministry wherever they are.

The Home Department's program for the next triennium cannot be a mere repetition of its previous programs. It must take into account the new situations in which men live, and bring the Church to people in these new situations. In the next triennium the Home Department expects to:

1. Develop the Church's work on Indian reservations and in areas of great Negro populations.
2. Develop the Church's work in congested industrial areas, especially through the erection of new church buildings.
3. Continue to improve the rural ministry.
4. Bring more church workers to the country's colleges and universities.
5. Recruit, equip, and serve as many chaplains as our men and women in the Armed Forces will need.

The Episcopal Church must continue to be a missionary Church in every sense of the word, at home as well as overseas.

THE CHURCH OVERSEAS

The program of the Overseas Department is designed to do three things:

First, it is designed to enable missionary bishops overseas to stand fast where they are on every far-flung front around the world. At an hour when the Church faces such odds and such opportunities as she has never faced before in our time, we cannot, and must not, and will not falter or fall back on any front. Having done all, we must stand.

Secondly, it is designed to enable missionary bishops overseas to strengthen and extend the work in their several jurisdictions through the enlistment and training of a native leadership, and by increasing the measure of self-support in each field. In many areas where the Church is firmly planted, its future growth should be a natural growth nurtured and fed by the people who form its ranks and to whom it ministers.

Thirdly, it is designed to enable the Church to seize opportunities and to press forward the attack on those fronts and in those areas where there is every chance of success in winning men to Christ, and where the Church can be a tremendous force for righteousness. Japan and the Philippines stand as outposts and bastions of the Christian faith and of democratic institutions in the Far East. The future of the Christian missionary enterprise in all East Asia will depend in large measure upon the success of the Church's Mission in Japan and the Philippines. The Church must take advantage of the unprecedented opportunities for evangelism offered there today.

A Tremendous Task

The Overseas Department thus has a tremendous task before it, for in 1953 its work extends into nineteen different countries comprising twenty-five dioceses and missionary districts. In these countries, which have a total area equal to that of the United States, live 170,000,000 people, a population exceeding our own. These figures are challenging in themselves, but they do not tell the whole story. These 170,000,000 people represent many different racial, cultural, and economic backgrounds, and in each area the Church is faced with a totally different situation calling for special skill and understanding. This is what makes overseas work so rewarding for the loyal missionaries who undertake it, but it is also that which sometimes makes it so difficult.

The three over-all objectives of the Overseas Department for the next triennium have been given. Just how they can be accomplished may be better seen when reference is made to the particular fields in which the Church is active.

Alaska Mission To Be Strengthened

The work of the Church in Alaska includes ministries in cities such as Fairbanks and Anchorage where there is a large white population, and in Eskimo and Indian villages, from the panhandle of southeastern Alaska to the shores of the Arctic Ocean. One of the prides of the missionary district is the Hudson Stuck Memorial Hospital at Fort Yukon far in the interior just above the Arctic Circle. For the next triennium, no new missions are planned, but the program calls for strengthening existing work and reaching the unchurched within the area of the present stations.

Brazilian Church Nears Maturity

At the other end of the hemisphere, in Brazil, the Church's work has grown to such an extent that it now comprises three missionary districts, each with its own bishop. With the growth of this field, the pattern of aid provided through the Department has shifted. Now, instead of the Church in the United States supplying the bulk of support, with assistance from Brazil, it is expected that in increasing measure Brazil will support its own work, with assistance at strategic points from the mother Church. The day is not very far off when Brazil will have an independent Church. Special emphasis is therefore being placed on the training of Brazilian clergy. Two of the three bishops are Brazilians, and in the three missionary districts there are only six North American appointees. Brazil soon will be an example of what it is hoped all the present missionary fields will become—self-supporting autonomous Churches, themselves carrying on and extending Christianity to new frontiers.

Drastic Changes in Asia

In Asia the Church's Mission has undergone drastic changes. The tragedy of China needs no elaboration. Since the establishment of the Communist government, it has been necessary to recall all American personnel. We can only pray that the many Chinese priests and workers still in that country can continue in some way the work built up for so many years by so many people.

Japan: A Major Concern

It has become increasingly evident that Japan must now be a major concern. Never before have conditions been so favorable to the pursuit of missionary work in that country. We should take full advantage of the opportunity that is before us to give the Japanese Church all the help it will require to continue its work. The Nippon Seikokwai (the Holy Catholic Church in Japan) is an autonomous Church with ten dioceses covering all the islands of Japan. It has 235 bishops and other clergy, and, like the Episcopal Church in the United States, it has a Presiding Bishop and National Council. The three Churches which originally began the work in Japan, the Church of England, the Church of England in Canada, and the Church in the United States, are giving aid to the Japanese Church by supplying funds toward Japanese salaries, diocesan and institutional budgets, and reconstruction of war-damaged plants, and by filling key positions with missionary personnel when the Japanese Church has none available. The resources of the Overseas Department are being focused on this country, which may very well hold the answer to the future of the Church in all of East Asia.

Philippines: A Key Area

The Philippine Islands, the second key area in the Pacific, suffered much during the war. Many church buildings were damaged or demolished, and in the aftermath congregations were scattered. Nevertheless, the missionary district is well along on its program of reconstruction, and has substantially increased the number of its clergy, lay workers, and communicants. Rather than let this success make us grow complacent, we must press forward to reinforce the work, and to spread it to other parts of the Islands, for it is now concentrated on Luzon and Mindanao. The schools and seminary must be strengthened, and the services of the three hospitals extended.

Two other outposts of the Church in the Pacific deserve careful attention in the next few years, one because it has already achieved such encouraging progress, and the other because it is brand new.

Vigorous Church in Honolulu

The Missionary District of Honolulu is one of the most vigorous areas of the Church overseas. During the past ten years, while the population of the district has increased twenty per cent, the roll of communicants has increased more than one hundred per cent. Contributions have almost doubled, and are constantly being plowed back into the development of new work. Many races are represented in this missionary district, including Caucasian, Japanese, Hawaiian, Filipino, Chinese, Puerto Rican, and Korean. Here again is a field in which the Church can move forward successfully.

New Mission on Okinawa

Since the 1949 General Convention a new overseas mission has been opened on Okinawa. Though Okinawa formerly was ministered to by the Church in Japan, the years of war and destruction which preceded this new development mean that the Episcopal Church is starting almost from the beginning. The three missionaries already appointed are working primarily among the one million Okinawan people, since the large Army base there is cared for by military chaplains. An immediate and large response is greeting the Church's work, particularly among the children of the island.

Growth in the Caribbean Encouraging

Another section of the world where our Church is very active is Central America and the Caribbean. Our missionary efforts are being felt in Mexico, Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Puerto Rico, Haiti, the Panama Canal Zone, the Virgin Islands, and the Republics of Panama, Colombia, Costa Rica and Nicaragua.

The work in the Missionary District of Mexico is concentrated mainly in the central section of the Republic, to the north and west of Mexico City. In spite of many difficulties, and with the assistance of one American missionary and twenty-two native clerical and lay workers, Bishop Efrain Salinas y Velasco has succeeded in doubling in a year the number of baptized persons in the Church there. He should receive continued support and encouragement.

In Cuba, the Church also has undergone an amazing growth. In the past twelve years, the number of baptized persons has leaped from 18,277 to more than 52,800. There are fifty parishes, missions, and outstations serving a diversity of groups: Americans, English, Cubans, and West Indian Negroes. The next three years should show a strengthening of this work, for here is a field in which the Church can make real progress. The people in Cuba not only need the Church, but they also want the Church, and have shown excellent aptitudes for taking on leadership.

The Church's work in Puerto Rico is carried on largely by native priests and lay workers who travel to all parts of the island to minister to the congregations of the twenty-five parishes and missions. The Church has a special responsibility in Puerto Rico, since this is American soil, and these are American people. The same is true of the Virgin Islands. In this missionary district there is great emphasis on work with children. The church school enrollment for the four parishes has reached the amazing figure of 1,700. This work must be continued, for young people constitute the future of the Church and are the best guarantee of its permanent growth.

In the Dominican Republic, the aim of the Church at the present time is to strengthen the work already established, rather than to open new stations or institutions. In this and other Caribbean and Central American missionary districts the emphasis will continue to be on developing native leadership and strengthening our educational work.

Across the Atlantic: Liberia

On the other side of the Atlantic Ocean, in Liberia, the republic founded by Negro colonists from the United States, is to be found the Church's sole mission in Africa. Ours is the strongest Christian communion in the Republic. The Church's schools constitute the best educational system in the country. In the next few years the main emphasis will continue to be on educational work, not only to develop an adequate, well-trained clergy, but to provide the ideal way of building up loyal membership in the Church.

More Missionaries Essential

There are approximately 210 American missionaries serving in the Church overseas. They have worked long and hard to bring the Church to people in Africa, Asia, North, South and Central America. They have opened many new missions and brought thousands of new people into the Church. Now they need help to care for these new congregations. In the next triennium the Overseas Department therefore proposes to appoint twenty-five new missionaries to take over these new missions and to extend further the Gospel of Christ. This will make a total of 235 American missionaries who, joining the 540 nationals of the countries where the Church is now at work, and the 235 Japanese bishops and other clergy serving the Church in Japan, make a grand total of more than one thousand workers serving the Church overseas.

The budget needed to support this work in 1953 amounts to $2,150,000. Of this total, seventy-seven per cent will go directly overseas to support the work in the field. This includes the salaries of missionaries and missionary bishops, salary subsidies granted native workers in the field, and the support given to institutional work.

Another twenty per cent is set aside here at home base to take care of such items as the outfit allowance of missionary personnel, travel of missionaries to and from the field, medical and dental expenses, the payment of Church Pension Fund assessments against the salaries of ordained missionaries, and the retirement allowances of retired missionaries. These items, though paid in the United States, contribute directly to the work overseas.

The remaining three per cent covers the cost of maintaining the administrative staff of officers and secretaries at National Headquarters.

Opportunities and Needs Are Unlimited

This program and budget does not represent all the Overseas Department would like to do in the next triennium. The opportunities and needs of the work overseas go far beyond the scope of this document. There are other areas also, where the Church might be at work, if only the men and the means were available. But we have had to work with the means at hand. We have had to be realistic. Under such circumstances, we have felt that we ought not to ask for more. On the other hand, had we asked for less, it would have been reasonable and right to condemn us for failure to make proper provision for the overseas work of the Church.

Through this program and budget, every man, woman and child of the Church will have the privilege and joy of sharing in all the Church is doing around the world.

CHRISTIAN EDUCATION

Six years ago, in 1946, the lack of an adequate educational program in the Church was brought to the attention of the General Convention, which in that year authorized a new Department of Christian Education. From very modest beginnings that Department has grown to include six Divisions staffed by nineteen officers. It has grown not only in size, but in scope of activity, reaching out into new areas of adult work, leadership training, and curriculum development. The effect of the new program has been felt in every home whose library contains the volumes making up the CHURCH'S TEACHING SERIES, in every Sunday school benefiting from the suggestions offered in the Interim Curriculum, and in every parish which has been revitalized by the clergy training program of the College of Preachers, or a visit of one of the mobile units of the Leadership Training Division. What has been done is only a beginning. The next few years will witness the development of a dynamic curriculum growing out of the life of the Church itself and directed to the spiritual needs of Churchmen of all ages from the youngest to the oldest.

The task of Christian education as now understood goes far beyond the requirements of a Sunday school curriculum alone. Christian education is the process of growing in the Christian faith; growing in knowledge, participation, commitment. The scope of the work of the Department of Christian Education reflects this comprehensiveness, and from the outset it has tried to do justice to the many demands made upon it. A description of the part each division plays in the total work of the Department will help to show both its present range of activity and its future program.

CHILDREN'S WORK

While the new curriculum is being developed, the needs of young Churchmen of all ages, whether they are three years old or thirteen years old must not be neglected. The Children's Division tries to interpret curriculum in terms of Christian experience in home and parish family life. The tools for such a task are first of all the Bible and the Prayer Book. Each year a committee of experienced directors of Christian education works out a list of suggested educational tools to supplement and guide the use of these primary sources. Interim Church School Study Courses 1952-53 is the current product of that committee's work.

The stretching of children's ideas of Christian brotherhood through missionary study is an important part of the work of the Children's Division. The special offerings (Lenten, Birthday Thank Offering, and Christmas Boxes) can be valuable additional ventures in Christian stewardship if they are administered as part of the Christian experience of all children.

Approximately twelve thousand children are reached by the Church School by Mail. National and diocesan children's workers help provide this service. It falls into the category of mere instruction unless the homes of these children are visited, and opportunities for group sharing in worship, baptism, confirmation, and Holy Communion are provided for the isolated children.

Christian education is really a task for all year around. A recent survey, however, has shown that many church schools close and little is done for the Church's children in the summer. A committee of experienced workers in vacation church schools was recently formed. They discovered that they could not do their job adequately without including family worship services, special church school summer plans, and summer camps and conferences. Plan Now for Summer was the packet prepared for the summer of 1952 by this committee.

The training of teachers, the religious education of parents, encouraging worship in the home, counselling rectors and superintendents are some of the opportunities of the Children's Division.

YOUTH

In many ways young people between the ages of twelve and twenty-five are going through the most crucial years of their lives. It is at this time that they enter adolescence, with all the consequent feelings of insecurity which often surround that period. They begin to question beliefs they had formerly taken for granted. They are faced with the new problems of their relationship to the opposite sex and the choice of a lifetime vocation. And yet this is the time when they are most receptive to new ideas. What role will the Church play in their lives?

The specific job of the Division of Youth is to help each diocese of the Church find its necessary role in meeting this need. For many years youth work has received only a segment of parish interest, a segment which has sometimes had little relation to the basic teaching of the Church. In too many cases youth work has been segregated to a basement or an out-of-door place where the natural exuberance of youth would not upset the more sedate ways of their elders.

Diocesan Youth Work: A Basic Concern

The basic concern of the Division is that the work of a diocese with young people be an integrated part of its work in Christian education. The emphasis of the new curriculum on the place of decision in the life of a young Christian must become a basic element in the total life of young people living within the Church.

On a national level the Division of Youth works with the National Youth Commission and the Episcopal Youth Convention to assist representative leaders discover the true nature of their job. During the summer of 1952 the Division met with most of the diocesan departments of Christian education in every province of the Church as a further extension of its basic work.

The personnel of the present Division must give most of their time to such leadership training activity. More personnel are needed for the development of tools, guides, and other materials which may be placed in the hands of youth workers throughout the country.

The Division has yet to pull its full weight in the youth work of the National Council of Churches. A fertile field awaits the Division in the whole area of secular youth agencies such as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and many camp activities. Special exploratory work needs to be done with parents of junior high and senior high young people. Consultant committees for research in both rural and urban areas are needed. Neither the present nor the proposed budget will make it possible for the Division to expand into these areas as it should. Consequently the main emphasis of the Division will continue to be placed upon field work and leadership training with as much time as possible being given to the other important areas of need.

ADULT EDUCATION

Education, and especially Christian education, does not stop with arrival of adulthood, but continues through the whole life span. This principle has received increased emphasis in recent years during which time there has grown an enthusiastic demand for more and more adult materials for private study, group discussion, or formal courses. In spite of its almost complete lack of staff, the Adult Division has cooperated with the Division of Curriculum Development in putting out Family Study Courses and the now thoroughly familiar first three volumes in the CHURCH'S TEACHING SERIES, The Holy Scriptures, Chapters in Church History, and The Faith of the Church. The remaining three, The Worship of the Church, Christian Living, and The Church at Work, are in preparation. These basic books will be used for many years by parents, teachers, young people, and all inquiring Churchmen who seek a clear statement of the Christian culture which is our rich heritage.

The program for the Division in the next three years includes the completion of this series and its supplementation with study manuals and other aids. New titles in the popular Family Study Courses will be prepared. But the Church needs lay leaders who are willing and able to become resource people in guiding the process of adult education. It needs men and women to conduct courses and discussion groups on the parish level, to undertake leadership on a diocesan level, and who can themselves train other leaders. All this means field work, an activity which has up to now not been possible through lack of staff. A strong national Department, while it is very important, can never take the place of many strong local departments. Strengthening leadership in the field must be the goal if adult education is to progress from the initial methods and materials to the accomplished fact of informed and committed Churchmen.

CURRICULUM DEVELOPMENT

The Division of Curriculum Development is the key division of the Department, for it is responsible for developing the basic educational plan, philosophy, and methods of the whole Department, and for producing the resources which will bring the program to every church and home. It is the Division charged with the tremendous task of creating the materials needed for the total educational task in the Church. In any endeavor, good results can be obtained only when there has been careful preparation. The work of developing a curriculum for the whole Church is not a work of writing alone. It involves leadership education, research, consultation, experimentation, and testing. To employ any other kind of curriculum procedure would be to operate in a vacuum.

Meaning of Curriculum Must be Broadened

The most immediate task is that of broadening the meaning of curriculum for clerical and lay leaders, helping them to understand that educational materials are only tools, and must be fitted into a framework of education which reaches into every area of life. Toward this end, officers of the Division go to the College of Preachers in Washington to lead one-week conferences with groups of clergy in the educational philosophy and methods being developed by the Department. They also take part in leadership training conferences held in various parts of the country, and are doing some exploratory work with parish and diocesan groups. The response has been enthusiastic, and the only way to keep up with the demand is to train more leaders in each diocese who can carry on this work.

Curriculum development involves constant experimentation, not only to test methods, but also to help determine what kind of methods are needed. To help the Department do this, parishes have made available certain phases of their educational work, including Sunday schools, teacher-parent relations, and adult education for experimental purposes. Through this actual day-to-day work with people who are at work on the educational task in the parish, valuable experience is being collected which will in time be passed on to the whole Church.

The CHURCH'S TEACHING SERIES, described under the Adult Education Division, is a joint effort of the two Divisions, for in it is to be found, on the adult level, the resource materials for the total curriculum.

One need which is becoming more apparent as every day progresses, is that of having a Christian education magazine for the Church. Current church publications cannot devote enough space to the thorough consideration of educational problems, and secular education magazines, while often very helpful, are too broad in scope to treat the particular aspects of religious education. The budget requested for 1953 unfortunately cannot provide for an editor for such a magazine, but it is hoped that at some future date in the next triennium it will be possible to launch such a publication. By providing a constant flow of suggestions for courses and resource materials, ideas for more effective teaching, and articles on the organization of parish education programs, this magazine would render a tremendous service to the Church. It should be part of any realistic program of curriculum development.

LEADERSHIP TRAINING

Since the 1949 General Convention, there has been established within the Department of Christian Education a completely unique Division, one which never stays in one place, but which is continually travelling around the country, carrying the new program of Christian education to parishes in many widespread areas. It is composed of two mobile teams of three people each who go into dioceses for periods of four to six weeks to conduct area meetings lasting two to four days. Each team is equipped with a station wagon and a panel truck so that it can economically transport its members with a maximum range of mobility and bring to even the remote mission area a large amount of teaching material and visual aids.

This is Field Work

This is field work, but field work on a scale never before attempted by the Church. Through the lectures and discussions conducted by the teams in these parishes thousands of men and women are being awakened to their potentialities for being real Christians, and are finding that this education in their Christian vocation is a vital part of their everyday life. Since the program was launched a little more than a year ago, more than forty thousand people have been reached in this way. Realizing the chain reaction set off by these meetings it is safe to say that more than forty thousand people have increased their enthusiastic interest in the work of the Church.

Planning the Division's program for the next three years is a simple task, for the invitations which the Division has already received will book it until 1955. To date, it has covered Michigan, Florida, Louisiana, Georgia, portions of Massachusetts, North Carolina, Wisconsin, South Carolina, and three parts of Texas. A complete itinerary has been planned for the next three years which will take the Division to almost every State.

During the spring and the last summer of this triennium the Leadership Training Division has cooperated with other Divisions of the Department in providing provincial conferences attended by members of diocesan departments of Christian education. An inescapable and fundamental task of this Division is the development of diocesan leadership which will be able to supplement and extend the work of the Department. If the full development of the educational program of the Church depends upon the national Department alone, the work will never be accomplished, but if the Department is able to train and prepare diocesan departments and provincial commissions to work as partners with National Headquarters, then a national team will come into existence which can reach into the farthest corners of our land. The fifteen provincial conferences which extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific were a most encouraging step in this direction.

AUDIO-VISUAL EDUCATION

The Division of Audio-Visual Education is one of the most overworked, and one of the most essential Divisions of the Department, for it is responsible for maintaining and distributing audio-visual aids throughout the Church. Church groups throughout the country make use of its film rental service, which distributes such prize-winning films as Window on the Sky and Strength of the Hills. The Division assists in the production of these films and serves as a sales agent for all kinds of filmstrips and 2 x 2 Kodachrome slides produced by many church and commercial dealers.

The volume of demand for these aids is tremendous, for religious films and filmstrips are beginning to come into their own as a powerful medium for education and evangelism.

Another major responsibility of the Division, but one which due to size of staff has received a minimum of attention, is that of study and training in the use of audio-visual aids. The Division's research library of religious and secular films needs to be stocked with some of the new materials being produced for educational purposes. A larger staff is needed to maintain the library, and much more of the Division's attention should be directed to the study of these materials and to the training of Church's leaders in the most fruitful use of audio-visual aids. Everything must be done to make the Church's message as forceful and as widespread as possible, and in this modern day visual aids are one of the best answers to this need.

PARISH AND PREPARATORY SCHOOLS

The Episcopal Church is fortunate in having more than 250 preparatory and 125 parochial schools. These institutions render a tremendous service to the Church by providing a Christian atmosphere for the total educational life of their students. Leaders of these schools, however, need to have opportunities to come together to discuss their common problems and to find ways to integrate the study of religion with other courses in the curriculum. They must find more and better teachers and new methods of religious education.

Until the present time there has been no central agency in the Church which could deal with these problems. In 1949 the General Convention approved the establishment of a Division of Parish and Preparatory Schools, to be a part of the Department of Christian Education, but so far no budget has been provided. The need is even more urgent now than before, for the parochial school movement is gaining momentum, and the preparatory schools are facing new and pressing problems.

The new Division, when staffed, will be in a position to organize conferences for school directors, parents and teachers, and, through reports and publications, to make the results of these meetings available to the whole Church. It will help to recruit good teachers, and through training institutes, give these teachers special assistance in carrying on their work. The Division will be a clearinghouse for information and suggestions, and will undertake large-scale study of recurring problems, working with educational leaders throughout the Church to find solutions to these problems. It will assist the schools in making their services known to the whole Church, and especially to the seminaries, where more young men must be encouraged and trained for entry into the school chaplaincy.

Leadership must be provided for the growing parochial school movement, and the efforts of our fine preparatory schools must be united so that they do a better work in religious education.

CAMPS AND CONFERENCES

It has become increasingly evident that people find some of their deepest religious experiences at church camps and conferences where they are able to learn the real meaning of Christian fellowship by living, studying, and playing together in a Christ-centered atmosphere. There are at present more than three hundred camps and conferences held annually in the Episcopal Church, yet there is no national leadership given them. This means that they are often concentrated in one section of the country, leaving less active dioceses without the benefit of such activities. They often suffer from poor organization and promotion, and consequently do not accomplish their job as effectively as they could.

National leadership must be provided for this field of work so that the maximum benefit can be derived from these camps and conferences. There must be a central agency which can assist in scheduling, recruitment of leaders, and promotion, and provide a clearinghouse for suggestions and information. The number of camps and conferences held under the auspices of the Church today is only a fraction of the number that is actually needed. A division of the Department of Christian Education devoted to the development of these activities would be able to encourage certain dioceses to increase these facilities, and through regional meetings plan a united program of action.

The program of the Department of Christian Education for the next three years under the leadership of a new director is not a new program. It is a logical and necessary development of a work pushed forward during the past triennium which has awakened an enormous amount of interest and a most encouraging response throughout the Church. Men and women up and down the land have caught a vision of the meaning of Christian faith in terms of the redemptive life, a life which we live here and now with our fellow men and by the Grace of God. The budget which has been prepared to enable the Department to extend further this work is a minimum budget. One piece of work after another on the planning boards has been cut and limited to enable the total Department budget to stay within certain boundaries. If the boundaries are extended by a larger participation in the work of the Church on the part of its many members, the many extra opportunities for advancing the work of the Church noted in this description of the Department's program will be realized. In the meantime the tremendous tasks already undertaken can be pushed forward toward completion, and as this process involves more and more communicants of the Church, the support of the larger program will be forthcoming.

CHRISTIAN SOCIAL RELATIONS

Directly related to the Church's concern for man's relationship to God is its concern for man's relationship to his fellow men. The place of each individual and group in the total pattern of society is and must be a continuing source of study and action on the part of the whole Church. New and powerful world forces are arising, each making its own claims for loyalty, and each offering its own brand of solution for the political, economic, and social ills besieging man. In the midst of this, what has the Church to say, and what is the Church going to do?

What Has the Church to Say?

More and more people are asking this question, and the direct responsibility for assuring the answer rests with the Department of Christian Social Relations, which is the service and leadership agency of the National Council in promoting, coordinating, and prosecuting the Church's program of social service. This program leads the Department into many fields of action, ranging from meeting the immediate needs of the poor, the sick, and the aged, to promoting such long-range goals as world peace and the elimination of class and racial strife. It is the function of the Department not only to develop and coordinate the work done along these lines by the provinces, dioceses, parishes, and other church agencies and departments, but also to cooperate in this endeavor with other Churches and public and private agencies.

There are no ready-made solutions to these problems. If there were, the Department's job would be an easy one. But the problems are those of people and society at a time when great national and international changes are taking place. The Department has had to undertake large-scale research, counselling, leadership training, and promotional activities, all with a minimum budget and staff. More must be done to give adequate leadership to the Church's thinking and action on such subjects as child welfare and the care of the aging, race and industrial relations, alcoholism and drug addiction, world relief and world peace. The Church is demanding such leadership, together with materials to implement its program, and the Department must find some way of satisfying this demand. Moreover, the problems facing the downtown churches in great industrial cities are becoming so acute that the Church can no longer put off serious study and decisive action in bringing the masses of the urban and industrial population into the fellowship of the Church.

New Divisions Proposed

For these reasons it is proposed that the Department of Christian Social Relations be reorganized in the next triennium to comprise three divisions instead of one. These would include the now existing Division of Health and Welfare Services, to which would be added a Division of Social Education and Community Action and a Division of Urban-Industrial Church Work. In addition, the Department will continue to provide the executive staff for the programs of World Relief and Church Cooperation, including the resettlement of displaced persons and scholarship aid to overseas students.

HEALTH AND WELFARE SERVICES

One of the chief ways in which progress can be effected in the social field is through health and welfare agencies, each of which is designed to cope with a special area of social work. These agencies include hospitals, clinics, city missions, chaplaincy services, case work agencies for children and youth, settlements, convalescent homes, homes for the aged, and services for seamen. There are more than two hundred such organizations maintained under the auspices of the Episcopal Church, and annual operating expense exceeds thirty-five million dollars. It is the function of the Department of Christian Social Relations, through its Division of Health and Welfare Services, to assist them in developing and strengthening their programs. These agencies are today facing greater problems than ever before in adjusting to rapidly changing social situations. They cannot afford to operate with outworn methods nor with a limited view of their part in the total work of the Church. Many dioceses are developing, or should be developing, new agencies, especially in the field of care for the aging and neighborhood centers.

Guidance to Welfare Services

To meet their new and continuing problems, the welfare services turn to the Department of Christian Social Relations, a department which, because of its over-all perspective, can conduct surveys, provide agency counselling, recruit and train social workers, prepare literature for guidance and promotion, and generally coordinate and correlate the work of individual diocese and agencies. In the next triennium, these services must be continued and extended, so that the Church can remain in the forefront of the field of modern social work.

One of the most important and productive functions of this Division has been the conducting of complete and professional surveys of social service agencies by a staff of trained social workers, at the invitation of diocesan authorities. In a number of cases, such as in the Diocese of Los Angeles, recommendations which this Division made as a result of the surveys have brought about constructive changes in the whole operation of diocesan social service agencies. But the number of dioceses served in the past represents only a small percentage of those from whom urgent requests have been received. In September 1951, a special study of all the social welfare agencies of the Church was launched, and the information gathered in this survey must be transformed into useful tools for solving the current and future problems of these organizations. The conduct of further field surveys, together with the interpretation and dissemination of the information gathered will continue to be one of the major projects of the Division.

Personnel: An Acute Problem

One of the most acute problems facing social agencies today is finding the right executives to fill positions of leadership. It will be a continuing function of the Division to provide recruiting and training assistance to these agencies and to carry on its plan of scholarship grants to qualified students of social work.

As much field counselling as possible will be provided to diocesan and agency leaders, and this must be supplemented by the production and coordination of literature on current and recurring problems of social work, and by the organization of conferences for bishops, board members, staff executives, and diocesan departments of Christian social relations. The demand for these services has increased with the recognition of the far-reaching results such activities have effected in the past, and the Division and Department plan in the next triennium to devote a greater amount of their energies to this work.

SOCIAL EDUCATION AND COMMUNITY ACTION

The Church's work in creating better social relationships among people with widely differing economic, cultural, and social backgrounds must be the responsibility of every individual in the church community. An ever-growing number of parish leaders are becoming aware of this and are organizing discussion groups and planning parish programs designed to cope with some of the problems of immediate concern to their communities. In order to do the most effective job, however, these groups must have the proper leadership and materials, and must be given the opportunity to profit from the experience of others. For this assistance they have turned to the Department of Christian Social Relations which so far, because of its limited staff, has been able to devote only a minute portion of its time to this work.

Leadership on Social Problems

The Church now urgently needs a Division of Social Education and Community Action within this Department, whose chief responsibility will be to assist the parish and diocesan community groups in planning and carrying out their programs and stimulate further interest in social problems on the part of every man, woman and child in the Church. This new Division, when it is established, will carry out these responsibilities by pursuing the following program.

It will supply such parish groups as Woman's Auxiliaries, men's groups, and young people's groups with pamphlets, handbooks, and projects of various kinds to help them in their discussions and programs. Ever since the successful publication by the Department of study packets on Christian Citizenship, Intercultural Relations, Industrial Relations, and Family Relations, the demand for such materials has been increasing. The series, Parishioners are People, produced jointly with the Department of Christian Education, also has met with such marked success that further series have been requested as soon as the Department has enough staff to produce them.

Help Beyond a Planned Program

In addition to any planned program, there are always additional or new problems to which local groups want to give attention. Crucial subjects such as the problem of narcotic addiction in adolescents come to the National Council and diocesan departments, on which current and factual materials are needed. It will be the job of this Division to know where to turn for such materials, to cooperate with the Department of Research of the National Council of Churches, and with other similar bodies. In this way local groups, given the necessary materials, will be able to study and search for solutions to their own problems and thus do their part in the work of the Church.

It will attempt to strengthen diocesan departments of Christian social relations and through them develop larger numbers of active parish committees by planning field trips, meetings and conferences. The goal will be to have the entire Church working on a few vitally important general subjects and being alert for those subjects and actions which are of special local importance. These will include such topics as race relations, juvenile delinquency, housing, alcoholism, industrial relations, civil rights, family relations, and world peace.

It will render an important service to the Church by finding and training qualified speakers who can present current subjects at diocesan, clergy, and summer conferences, and at special provincial and regional conferences designed to aid parishes in developing common plans of study and action. There has been a great need for a central file of speakers on social topics of timely significance to which groups throughout the Church can refer, and, through this Division, the Department proposes to establish and maintain such a file in the next triennium.

The need for concerted action on certain major problems will lead the Department to plan for each year one universal topic for churchwide study and action. Leads for these topics will be sought in the actions and discussions of General Convention, and handbooks and leadership materials will be prepared for this study. This will be a major undertaking, but with an adequate staff, the division can help the Church set a course of active participation in matters of social concern.

To Encourage Thinking

Yet the emphasis, and the real justification for this Division, lies in the conviction that the most effective place to reach a solution for a social problem is where the problem originates—at the local level. It is there that the creative thought and significant decisions have to be made. In this field the Department's role is not to dictate attitudes, but rather to encourage wide interest and thinking on the part of the whole Church. This will continue to be the guiding principle of the Department, and particularly of the Division of Social Education and Community Action.

URBAN-INDUSTRIAL CHURCH WORK

It is an appalling and yet very real fact that there are in our cities today hundreds of thousands of people who have no church affiliations whatsoever, and who are leading lonely, aimless lives in an increasingly mechanized and impersonal environment. In the face of this problem, about four hundred city parishes, instead of increasing their congregations, are losing former members to suburban parishes, and are uncertain how to attract and serve the unchurched masses which surround them.

The Church has become more and more concerned about this problem, and at the General Convention of 1949 it took the first steps to remedy the situation by commissioning the Department of Christian Social Relations to develop and prosecute a program of urban-industrial church work "as best it could with its present staff and resources." "As best it could," the Department has responded to this demand by supplying leadership materials, setting up training programs and conferences, conducting surveys, and giving general coordinating assistance to all those groups and individuals engaged in this urgently needed missionary program. But what it has been able to do has answered only a small fraction of the demand. Because no budgetary provision was made at the General Convention for this work, no organized and effective program has been put into operation which could get at the root of the problem.

A Program for the Years Ahead

The Department has formulated such a program for the next triennium, and it is only waiting for the funds necessary to put it into effect. The Church has not ignored the need for decisive action. Will it now ignore the responsibilities stemming from that need? Believing that the Church does want to take on a real missionary program in the nation's cities, the Department proposes that in the next triennium a Division of Urban-Industrial Church Work be established whose full-time activities would be devoted to carrying out the following program.

A nationwide schedule of conferences and training institutes will be set up to arouse the clergy and laity in all parts of the country to the immediate importance of ministering to city populations, and to enlist more workers in the cause. At these gatherings basic courses in understanding the urban-industrial population will be given, field trips will be made, case studies discussed and experiences shared. With the establishment of a new Division, the Department will be in a position to render a substantial service by bringing together outstanding leaders in this field, and developing with them a concerted plan of citywide strategy which can be carried out in every diocese. In order to develop this program, case studies of successful experiments will be initiated and the results made available on a churchwide basis. The Division will continue to cooperate with the Unit of Research and Field Study in making surveys, and will "stay with" the local church or churches while they put the recommended programs into operation—a service which cannot be undertaken by the Unit of Research when it moves on to the next survey.

Demonstration Centers will be Basis of Program

Even when this preliminary education work has been done, however, the most difficult task of the Church in this field still remains to be undertaken: that is, the actual finding of practical ways to attract these urban and industrial populations. If the Church is to minister effectively to these people, it must understand their needs, their hopes and fears, and the social, economic, and cultural situations in which they live. The Department feels that this can be done through the establishment of several demonstration and training centers where, through concentrated study and experimentation, priests and lay workers can develop experience in meeting the needs of these groups. The results of their work will be the basis for enacting proven programs of urban evangelism in every city parish throughout the country.

The centers will be cooperative activities on the part of the diocese, the parish, and the National Council. In addition to their permanent staff, which should be sufficient to do a thorough job, a series of Fellows will be in training for periods of from one to six months. Each center will have an advisory committee which will help the staff in exploring new methods in preaching, teaching, conduct of worship, pastoral counselling, parish house activities, community action, and evangelism. Developing experience will be recorded and analyzed so that the whole Church may receive its benefits.

The Division of Urban-Industrial Church Work will have the responsibility of finding locations for these centers, recruiting their personnel, and subsidizing and supervising their programs. In order to bring the work of these training centers close to all members of the Church the Division will organize observational visits to them, arrange short institutes and conferences around them, and provide training fellowships for qualified clergy and lay workers. Finally, the Division will seek to coordinate and correlate the work of the several training centers, and organize and publish their findings.

This enlarged program for the Department of Christian Social Relations is demanded by the times. What the United States believes and does about matters of social justice, human welfare, race relations, community morals, and international relations is important in the farthest corners of the earth. In the social and spiritual field, as well as in the material, a nation cannot export what it does not have. The Episcopal Church has an important part to play in making our country's social relations more Christian.

WORLD RELIEF AND CHURCH COOPERATION

The relief needs of people in the war-torn countries and the support of desperately weakened Christian Churches and institutions continue to call for help. Never was it more important for the Christian Church to be strong in Germany, Japan, India, Greece, the Philippines, France, Yugoslavia, and in the Holy Land. Never was it more important for people in the deprived areas of the world to know that Christians of the West cared about their welfare.

And Christians do care. Churches in Canada, Great Britain, Sweden, Switzerland, Australia, New Zealand, and the United States have contributed substantial sums of money for the purchase of food, clothing, medicines, and farm instruments—material necessities needed by fellow-Christians who are struggling to survive in a world of confusion. The Episcopal Church makes its contribution through the budget item for World Relief and Church Cooperation on the basis of reports and requests from ecclesiastical authorities in all parts of the world. These requests are reviewed and appropriations recommended by a committee of National Council members whose chairman is the Presiding Bishop.

In the past ten years Episcopalians have contributed more than five million dollars for world relief and church cooperation purposes through special appeals and this budgetary item. The need will continue for the next triennium, and $450,000 is requested for 1953.

The area of greatest need is still the area in which the horror of the war and the privations of the postwar period have made their indelible mark. It is in these areas that Christian charity can mean the difference between life and death, and where Christianity can either be the sustaining faith or be submerged in the struggle for survival, depending upon the quality and quantity of help from other Christians. Through the World Council of Churches, Church World Service, and the National Christian Councils of Asia, the flow of relief and financial assistance provided by the cooperating Churches is coordinated and supervised so that around the world there is a growing network of Christian assistance.

Much has been done, but much remains to be done. These are the problems with which the Churches are now faced:

Refugees and Displaced Persons

New numbers of refugees escaping from behind the Iron Curtain are arriving daily in Germany, Austria, Italy, and Greece. These add to the already serious problems of shelter, feeding, and employment. The local churches and the World Council work among these people.

In Asia, war conditions continue to create new refugees and thousands of homeless people are to be found in Korea, India, Hong Kong, and Japan. A crucial situation prevails among the Arab refugees in the Holy Land where Anglicans, Orthodox, Lutherans, and others have now organized the Near East Christian Council for relief purposes.

What all these people need is food, clothing, medicine, education, and temporary employment, and Christians must supplement governmental and political programs. Above all, they need to know that they have Christian friends, and this can only be supplied by the Christian Churches.

In this country, by completing the project of resettling more than 1,200 families of displaced persons and by helping the Serbian and Russian Orthodox Churches to resettle their people, we have had first-hand experience with some of the refugees. But the problem continues.

Material Relief

Through Church World Service and its affiliate CROP (Christian Rural Overseas Project) the Episcopal Church helps to provide annually more than two million pounds of clothing, carloads of grain, cotton, and other necessities to Christian agencies in all parts of the world. The Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem uses these supplies in his soup kitchens and sewing centers. Christian schools and field stations in Korea and India provide special feedings for children, the sick, and young mothers. In Greece, agricultural projects are supplied with seeds, animals, and machinery. In Japan and Germany priests of the Anglican, Evangelical, and Eastern Orthodox Churches are supplied with clothing and vestments.

Church Cooperation

A focal point of the relief program is that of sustaining and reviving the Christian Churches in the wartorn countries. Through the coordinated program of the World Council of Churches, we have made annual appropriations to the Old Catholic churches in Germany, Austria, and Holland; to the Eastern Orthodox churches in Greece, Yugoslavia, Germany, and France; to the Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople; and to the Anglican Bishop in Jerusalem. In Asia we have made direct appropriations for relief purposes to the Holy Catholic Church in Japan; to Anglican churches in India, Malaya, and Indonesia; to the Church of South India and to some of the orphaned missions of European Churches.

These contributions have helped the Churches to operate their homes for orphans and the aged, to provide clothing and transportation for clergy and church workers, to develop youth movements and to reprint prayer books and hymnals.

A program of scholarship aid annually helps about twenty-five students to come to this country for graduate study in theology, medicine, education and social work. These students, recommended by their bishops, come from Japan, China, India, Greece, Germany, Turkey, Egypt, and Nigeria. Serbian and Russian Orthodox theological students are helped at St. Vladimir's in New York and St. Sergius in Paris. Candidates of the Philippine Independent Church are helped at St. Andrew's Seminary in the Philippines.

These funds also have made it possible for this Church to answer immediate needs in emergency situations without waiting for special appeals. When hurricanes swept over the island of Jamaica, we were able to send immediate assistance to the Anglican bishop, and similarly to the Bishop of Hokkaido in Japan, when typhoons struck his diocese. In the United States, assistance for rebuilding St. Paul's Church in Manhattan, Kansas, was given when this church and college chapel was destroyed by the flood of the Mississippi. In 1952 an initial annual grant of $8,000 was made for St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, to help open the training center for the Anglican Communion agreed upon at the Lambeth Conference.

The program of World Relief and Church Cooperation helps hundreds of thousands of people in dire distress, heals broken bodies, brings families together, feeds helpless children, aged people and young mothers, provides shelter and friends for refugees, and begins a program of recovery for devastated peoples and countries.

In this process the program strengthens the Christian Church in countries and lands where it was laid low by war and where it is today confronted by vigorous adversaries. In a world torn asunder by contending forces the Christian Church must present a united front.

We are learning that there are practical and spiritual values in cooperative effort. By relating our resources with those of other Churches we are helping to build a program of world-wide Christian relief and cooperation which we pray is part of God's purposes for us.

PROMOTION

The Department of Promotion, is, among other things, a service agency, upon which other Departments and Divisions of the National Council depend for publications, distribution of materials, and general promotion of their programs. When, for any reason, the Department cannot do an adequate job of promotion, then the entire Program of the Church suffers.

But in a broader sense, the Department promotes the Episcopal Church as a whole, apart from any special programs. It must make the Episcopal Church known, respected, and understood, not only by Episcopalians, but by as large a cross section of the unchurched as possible. New and effective means of communication have been developed, which, if properly used, mean that the Church can reach a much larger number of people more effectively than ever before.

The Promotion Department has welcomed these new opportunities, but until this year, its very limited organization and staff have prevented it from doing the job that the Church had a reason to expect it to do.

In view of this situation, the National Council early in 1952 approved a reorganization of the Department of Promotion. The Department is now made up of five divisions: the Publications Division, the Stewardship Division, the Division of Missionary Information, the Division of Public Relations, and the Division of Radio and Television. Thanks to this realistic enlargement, the Department will be able to put forth more and better publications and promote more thoroughly the Program of the Church. It will be able to use a variety of means of communication, including the religious and secular press, radio, television, and, through an enlarged Laymen's Training Program, informed laymen will be able to spread further the news of the Church's work.

How can all this be done? Here is how each Division, as it is now set up, functions as part of the promotion team, under the over-all leadership of the Director of the Department.

PUBLICATIONS

The Publications Division has multiple responsibilities. It is charged with all the layout, editing, and publishing of National Council materials, with the exception of those Christian education materials now being published by the Seabury Press. It also produces the materials for the Laymen's Training Program and all materials for special campaigns. In addition, it has complete responsibility for producing Forth magazine, soliciting advertising accounts for this publication, and conducting circulation campaigns. With the appointment of a full-time editor, more attention can be devoted to this important publication. In the next triennium an intensive campaign will be undertaken to increase its circulation, and to make it truly a magazine of the whole Church.

The Director of Publications will be able to devote his full-time energies to the important work of serving all those Departments whose programs require an increased output of readable, useful publications. A well-rounded and integrated schedule of literature is essential to undergird the program of each Department, and in fact of the Episcopal Church as a whole. The Division plans to expand this service, and through the continued preparation and distribution of Parish Helps (an illustrated catalog of these publications) will promote their use by every Churchman and Churchwoman.

STEWARDSHIP

The Stewardship Division is responsible for the year-round teaching of the principles of stewardship in all parts of the Church. The 1953 program calls for a continuation of the preparation of Every Member Canvass materials. The Every Member Canvass must not be thought of solely in terms of a theme, a poster, and a little literature, but rather in bringing the best education and the best techniques to every parish and mission in the Church. The Every Member Canvass should include the best we can devise, plus the values we find in the campaigns of other communions, the United Church Canvass, and in the secular field. It should include the application of diocesan plans which have had a widespread appeal, such as those of the Diocese of Michigan and the Diocese of West Texas. These will be the guiding principles of the Division as it helps the Church prepare for its annual campaign for the support of its work.

Canvass workshops will be conducted in every province of the Church. The purpose will be to have representatives from every diocese trained intensively in proper methods of organizing and conducting the Every Member Canvass at the parish level, and in the basic principles which underlie the Canvass itself. The ultimate goal is to have an effective plan of stewardship and an effective Every Member Canvass in every parish and mission of the Church.

MISSIONARY INFORMATION

The proposed new Division of Missionary Information is very badly needed. Missionary information is not centered in any Department. The Woman's Auxiliary, the Finance Department, and the Promotion Department, as well as the Overseas and Home Departments, are all concerned either in greater or lesser degrees. There is, however, no central agency responsible either for collecting the kind of missionary information the members of the Church should have as a regular service, or of disseminating such information on an organized plan. There is no one agency within the National Council specifically charged with the responsibility of preparing materials for parishes which want special missionary projects. There is no National Council agency promoting regularly the personalization of missions through such special projects. The proposed new Division, authorized in form, but not as to budget, by the National Council, would require the services of an Executive Secretary and two field workers. The field workers would collect material, both written and pictorial, at home and overseas, and it would be the responsibility of the Executive Secretary to transform the field materials into special study courses for whole parishes and groups within the parish. The Division would work closely with Forth magazine to secure the kind of materials so necessary to an effective presentation of our missionary program.

We need to know more about what our missionaries are doing. A thorough gathering and dissemination of missionary information will not only help us to understand better how the Church is at work, and to provide missionary study materials and courses, but it also will help the missionaries themselves. They will be able to have the interested support and specific assistance of the thousands of men, women, and children in the Church. Each home parish and parishioner will be able to assist a particular overseas mission or missionary in his special needs, whether it be for books, clothing, or just an exchange of ideas and friendly encouragement.

This can be done on the scale that it should be done only if the responsibility is centralized in one Division. Unfortunately, budget limitations make it impossible to proceed with the staffing of this Division during the next triennium. The Department, however, would like to keep the structure of this Division in its organizational chart as a reminder of the great unfilled need in its program.

PUBLIC RELATIONS

Much of the work of the Division of Public Relations is a continuing program of publicity to both the church and the secular press. The 1953 program of this Division calls for a great expansion of its responsibilities and areas of work. For 1953 the Division plans an intensive campaign to establish effective relationships with editors of both secular and church periodicals in the hope that this will produce much more widespread use of church news stories and feature articles by the press as a whole. During 1953 the Division plans regional conferences with the editors of all diocesan publications, not only for an exchange of ideas, but also to offer the facilities of the Division to diocesan editors in the interest of better church publications. During 1953 the Division plans to inaugurate a series of schools of journalism for diocesan representatives selected by their bishops, who in turn will teach other clergy proper methods of parish publicity and public relations.

This last phase, that of local press relations, is a field which has hitherto been completely neglected. Through the National Council we could do much to help our parishes throughout the Church take better advantage of press opportunities.

By these three steps, one at the national level, one at the diocesan level, and one at the parish level, the Division feels that it can during the next triennium greatly improve our press relationships and bring the Church much more forcefully to the attention of church people and to the country as a whole.

RADIO AND TELEVISION

The new Division of Radio and Television plans a very complete program for 1953. As a first step it will maintain direct and continuous close relationships with the Division of Radio and Television of the National Council of Churches, through which most of the free radio and television time given by the various networks is administered. By working closely with the National Council of Churches we not only shall have an effective voice in the programs which they themselves sponsor, but also shall be in a position to secure and to use effectively much time which will be made available directly to the Episcopal Church. The Division will maintain direct relationships with all radio and television networks and with key radio and television stations throughout the country. It will not only promote complete and more effective radio and television at the national level, but will also promote the use of these media at the parish level. During 1953 it will conduct radio and television workshops for the clergy and will cooperate completely with the National Council of Churches workshops. The Division will also maintain a reference library and a library of materials for use by parishes where free time is available at the local level.

The Division will be available for consultation and advice by any parish or diocese, and will be responsible for securing adequate broadcasting coverage for all such special events as General Convention, House of Bishops meetings, and visits by distinguished guests.

The Church cannot afford to let slip by one of the greatest opportunities it has ever had to make its influence felt in every home in the land. The full use of radio and television is not an end in itself, but is a means by which almost every phase of the Church's Program, whether it be devotional, educational, or evangelistic, can find new expression.

Supplementing the work of these five Divisions, the Director of the Department supervises the work of the Speakers Bureau. During the past two years the Speakers Bureau has shown a very marked improvement, both in the number of dioceses and parishes using the service, and in the quality of the speakers themselves. It is now the policy of this unit to bring outstanding speakers from various fields for the specific purpose of telling their stories throughout the Church. This is particularly effective when the missionary area from which a speaker is brought is the subject of special study by the whole Church. During the present triennium the Speakers Bureau has made a very fine beginning in establishing good relationships with various diocesan speakers bureaus. This policy will be continued in 1953, and the services offered by the Bureau will be expanded just as much as budget limitations will permit. Good speakers can bring renewed vitality and enthusiasm to any group or parish, and their services should be made available on a nationwide basis.

One more phase of the Department of Promotion's program for the next triennium needs to be mentioned, and that is the production of National Council films. Two recent films, Window on the Sky and Strength of the Hills, have received awards for their outstanding quality. This acclaim has heightened the demand for such films, and in the next triennium the Department will seek to produce more of them.

Promotion work has many facets, as may be seen by the varied responsibilities which the Department has been asked to undertake. In its general program, the Department seeks to make every Episcopalian aware of what his Church is doing, and what he as an Episcopalian can do to help. To the country as a whole, the Department seeks to give an understanding of what the Episcopal Church is, and what it stands for.

This is promotion in the highest sense of the word, and in the only sense in which it is being and will continue to be used by the National Council's Department of Promotion.

FINANCE

The Department of Finance advises the President of the National Council on the financial administration of all the work of the Church at national and international levels. It is directly responsible for the preparation (for the approval of the Council) of all budgets to be submitted to each General Convention. It examines and reports to the Council on all budgets, appropriations, apportionments, and allotments of funds, for the use of the general Church.

The Department invests and disburses the funds under the control of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society, except trust funds which are administered by a Committee on Trust Funds, elected by the National Council, of which the Treasurer is chairman. The Department safeguards all moneys and property, keeps full and accurate records, and makes reports and statements when required.

In addition, the Department of Finance supervises the personnel of the National Council, recommends salaries for officers and sets salaries for staff members. The Department is responsible for the purchase of supplies and equipment for all Departments and overseas missionary districts. These include such a variety of items as food, furniture, hospital supplies, and construction materials. All mailing and shipping, including clearance through customs of the personal effects of returned missionaries, is handled by the Department of Finance. The Department supervises the maintenance of the three buildings in New York City and Greenwich which house the National Council.

Since the Department of Finance is functional in nature, its budget is conditioned by the budgets of other Departments, and those increases which appear in it are the direct result of the general expansion of the Church's work.

General Administration

General Administration serves all Departments and Divisions of the National Council. Its account, which includes a multitude of miscellaneous administrative items, is divided into two sections, missionary work and administrative expense.

The largest item in this account is the one for the Unit of Research and Field Study which was organized at the mandate of the 1949 General Convention to meet demands from the Church at home for guidance, direction, and supervision of community and church studies. The survey facilities of the Unit are now available to all Departments. At the request of a Department, the Unit gathers information on population, housing, or other sociological data, makes visitations to all churches in an area being studied, and analyzes its administrative and executive policies on financial, personnel, and missionary operations. After careful evaluation the Unit of Research and Field Study submits an objective, factual basis on which to improve the Church's effectiveness in the area surveyed.

Other Appropriations

The National Council is not alone in carrying on the missionary, educational, and promotional work of the Church. Other cooperating and inter-church agencies, training centers, commissions, and movements are working hand in hand for the same purposes. For this reason the General Convention, in establishing the form of the General Church Program budget, set up an account in each section of the budget, into which are placed funds for distribution both to Church agencies and to interchurch organizations with which the Episcopal Church works closely.

This account includes an emergency fund, funds for the training and salaries of women workers appointed by the National Council; contributions to interchurch and cooperating agencies; part of the operating expenses of St. Margaret's House, Brent House, and Windham House, church conference and training centers; funds for raising the increased budget and the Laymen's Training Program; pensions for retired lay workers of the Society; and the operation of American churches in Europe.

A list of all the interchurch agencies to which the Episcopal Church contributes its support is too lengthy to be given here, but is to be found in the detailed budget. It includes the many departments of the National Council of Churches of Christ and the World Council of Churches, and such specialized agencies as the United Student Christian Council and the International Missionary Council. The two large interchurch bodies, the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches, are providing the means whereby Christians may pool their resources and work together to make the Christian message to the world a dynamic and united one, extending into all the areas of human life. These organizations must continue to have enthusiastic and generous support.

THE WOMAN'S AUXILIARY

The Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council unites the women of the Church in a program designed to stimulate the interest of every woman in the total Program of the Church and to enlist her active participation in that work. The scope of the program is worldwide, both in perspective and in operation. The Auxiliary shares in the work of each Department of the National Council with special emphasis upon missions, Christian education, and Christian social relations, and administers two special projects for women: the United Thank Offering and the national Supply Work. It helps promote the Church's Mission in every field of its activity.

The Executive Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary has general executive responsibility for the work of the Auxiliary. Each of the four associate secretaries is responsible for one or more phases of the work, acting in close cooperation with Departments of the National Council.

An All-Inclusive Program of Education

The Woman's Auxiliary presents to the women of the Church an all-inclusive program of education based on current emphases of the Departments of the Council supplemented by other appropriate material, and guides women in parishes and dioceses in program planning, leadership training, and the use of adult methods and techniques. It keeps professional women workers in the Church informed about and provided with adult educational materials. Occasionally, the Auxiliary undertakes the preparation of material for programs for adults. The Educational Secretary of the Woman's Auxiliary is currently the editor of Churchways.

Christian Social Relations and Supply Work

The Woman's Auxiliary cooperates with the Department of Christian Social Relations, interpreting the program of the Department to the women of the Church, and seeks to promote and develop leadership in this field. Through correspondence with the bishops and other missionaries and through occasional field trips, the Woman's Auxiliary discovers the need for material aid, such as clothing, hospital garments, and surgical dressings in the domestic and overseas mission fields. Assignments are then distributed to diocesan Woman's Auxiliaries for production and purchase by parish groups.

The United Thank Offering

Each triennium the women of the Church unite in presenting their own special offering of thanksgiving, known as the United Thank Offering. This offering supplies a large share of the salaries and pensions of women missionaries, in addition to contributing to many missionary projects. The expenditure of the United Thank Offering is determined by the Triennial Meeting upon recommendation of the National Executive Board. The offering is promoted and administered by the Woman's Auxiliary with the aid of the Promotion and Finance Departments.

Personnel

The Woman's Auxiliary is very closely related to the professional women workers in the Church. It is concerned with the training program and works closely with the training schools, helping to develop standards of training and work, including screening and testing procedures. It provides some scholarships for graduate students. Through vocational conferences and personal interviews by national and diocesan officers, more women are encouraged to enter into full-time church work as missionaries, directors of religious education, and college workers.

Plans are under consideration for integrating the staff of the Woman's Auxiliary into the structure of the National Council. Should this plan work out in 1953, some of the Woman's Auxiliary staff would be added to the Departments and Divisions of the Council and a skeleton staff on woman's work continued. The plans envisage a larger number of women on the staff of the Council, which accounts for the additional salary item in the Woman's Auxiliary budget.

LAYMEN'S WORK

The Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work began in 1943, and its purpose then as now is to encourage the development of organizations and programs which will enlist men in the work and worship of the Church. Through a program of evangelism it strives to bring men to a personal commitment to Jesus Christ and to the realization of the necessity of sharing this experience with others.

The Committee cooperates with the National Council, provinces, dioceses and missionary districts in programs in which the men may be of service, and is the central agency to give unity to all men's movements within the Church.

During the next triennium the proposed program of the Presiding Bishop's Committee includes these five major emphases:

Study Programs for Men's Groups

The Committee believes that any effective program of lay evangelism must be prefaced by a deeper and clearer knowledge of the Church and her teaching. For this reason the first emphasis of the 1953 program is concerned with study groups for men. Through the Department of Christian Education, and from other sources, much of the material already is available. The Committee intends to coordinate such study courses, and desires to promote their use among the men of the Church. This will be done first through a manual of nine programs for men's groups prepared by the Executive Director entitled What We Believe.

Through the chain of leadership now established, it is reasonable to hope that in the next three years there will be developed a group of consecrated laymen in every parish to help in a dynamic program of lay evangelism.

Visitation Evangelism

The Episcopal Church, unfortunately, has fewer than six thousand active clergy in a country with a population of at least 156 million. There can be little wonder that the Church has been able to reach so few outside her borders. Through a continuing program of laymen's work, there are now thousands of men within the Church eager to be trained for a program of visitation evangelism under the guidance of their clergy.

The Presiding Bishop's Committee assumes as its responsibility the launching of a plan to help reach the many unchurched and indifferent people throughout America. The program will be channeled through the clergy. Workshops will be conducted by the officers of the Committee in every province, to which each bishop will be asked to nominate two clergymen. At this conference the whole plan of lay evangelism will be discussed in complete detail. Proper methods of conducting study courses for men will be demonstrated and actual visitation techniques will be shown. Discussion periods will make it possible for worthwhile ideas from all parts of the Church to be incorporated into the over-all plan.

Every clergyman who attends will be asked to present the material he has received to the clergy of his own diocese. Through each clergyman every parish and mission will be able to develop laymen trained in proved methods of lay evangelism and will be qualified to use effectively all of their latent manpower.

The Advent Corporate Communion

The third major emphasis of the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work will be the expansion of the Men's Advent Corporate Communion. The goal of the Committee is to have a communion service for men on the First Sunday in Advent in every parish and mission throughout the Church. It is the responsibility of the Committee to prepare and provide posters, invitations, and offering envelopes to promote this special service for men. The conferences which the Committee plans to hold in 1953 should provide opportunities to reach many parishes which in the past have not shared in this service of dedication by the men of the Church.

The Lay Reader's Sermon Service

More than two thousand lay readers now use the Sermon Service. A carefully prepared sermon is provided for each Sunday of the Church year. All the sermons have been written by preachers of ability, and they have done much to improve the quality of the sermons delivered by our lay readers throughout the Church. The objective of the Presiding Bishop's Committee is to expand the coverage to such an extent that every lay reader of the Church may have the sermons for his use.

The Laymen's Training Program

During the past three years the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work has shared with the Department of Promotion in the Laymen's Training Program. In its first year fifty dioceses participated and approximately 1,200 laymen were given an understanding of the worldwide work of the Church. In its third year the Laymen's Training Program was accepted by eighty dioceses and about 2,500 men were instructed.

The fourth year, 1952, was the most encouraging of all. Eighty-three of the eighty-seven dioceses and missionary districts took part in the conferences, and 230 diocesan instructors (selected by their bishops) were trained—in contrast with the thirty national instructors of previous years. Parishes and missions will in turn choose their representatives, and the information gained through the conferences will be passed on to them. In this way four thousand men will gain firsthand knowledge of the Church and be made ready to inform others.

The training program in 1952 had the distinctly spiritual basis of stewardship, and three booklets on the Christian Stewardship of Time, Talents, and Treasure have been added to the available literature of the Committee. A film strip All That I Am was specially prepared for the training program and is also available.

The Laymen's Training Program has accomplished a two-fold purpose: it has given to thousands of laymen an intimate knowledge of the strategy and program of the whole Church; and it has qualified these trainees to visit other parishes and missions within their own dioceses to present the story to others.

REPORT OF THE TREASURER OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL

Most Reverend Chairman, Right Reverend Fathers in God, Members of the House of Deputies, Ladies and Gentlemen:

This is my first appearance before this eminent assembly. I wish to express my deep sensibility of the honor done me by the National Council in electing me Treasurer to fill the vacancy caused by the untimely death of Russell E. Dill.

I took over on the first of November of last year with the understanding that, for a number of personal reasons, I could not take the interim job on a full-time basis. However, Russell had organized so well and had surrounded himself with such competent lieutenants that it has been possible for me to operate on this part-time basis and I hope that it has been to your satisfaction.

My first official act was to ask our accounting firm, Price Waterhouse, if there was anything the Treasurer's Department was doing that could be done better, or anything that didn't need to be done at all—or if there was anything we weren't doing that should be done. After a careful study which included the preparation of their annual audit they gave us their judgment on these matters in considerable detail. I am happy to report to you that with comparatively minor administrative procedures—which we are working on now—they had no criticism.

I think you should be interested in this fact because, in the final analysis, we are only a service department for the National Church, and it is our duty to administer efficiently and economically, and to expend, according to your directions, the money entrusted to us. I believe that this is being done.

I will try not to dwell on figures and statistics more than I absolutely have to in this report to you. If you wish to examine our financial statement in detail you will find it in the Annual Report for 1951 which you may obtain in the foyer. That report includes the audited figures for both the National Council operations and those of the Committee on Trust Funds—this latter also being the subject of a separate detailed printed report.

In administering our trust funds the experienced group comprising the Committee on Trust Funds has the benefit of having the Bank of New York as its advisor and custodian.

If I may have the privilege of dignifying my report to you with a title I will call it "New Horizons," because it seems to me that our Church, under the inspiring leadership of our beloved Bishop Sherrill, has lifted its eyes to new goals and is moving toward new horizons.

What do I mean when I speak of new horizons? I will name a few:

There is Seabury House at Greenwich, Connecticut, which has become a spiritual center of our Church, a quiet spot where officers and members of the Church from all over the world can meet and make plans. Seabury House belongs to the whole Church and we hope to make it self-supporting as soon as possible so that it need no longer be dependent on grants from the General Convention.

Then there is the Episcopal Church Foundation, which for the first time provides our Church with a central laymen's organization to disburse the gifts and bequests it receives. It is a long range project. It may be a while before the full force of its power for good to the whole Church is felt. But our sights are set high. Our ideas are ambitious. They will ultimately be realized. Then we will have a really tremendous reservoir of Church capital—capital as distinguished from our current operations—accumulated without interfering with parishes or dioceses. The income and/or principal will be dedicated to the enlargement or extension of the Church's work—distinct from normal current operating requirements.

Another of these new horizons is Seabury Press, by which we have regained complete control of the large and varied publishing enterprises of our Church. The Seabury Press, which operates from Tucker House in Greenwich, is an efficient publishing business of which we can be proud. In due course it should produce considerable net income for the work of the Church.

There is one new horizon which it seems to me is one of our most inspiring achievements of the past three years. It was not voted by the General Convention nor will you find it provided for in the budget. It was the inspiration of our Presiding Bishop and to him should go the credit.

Most of you recall that six years ago the Church raised approximately $8,000,000 for reconstruction in the Far East and for advance work throughout the world. A considerable part of this sum was allocated for work in China which had suffered extremely through long years of war and destruction. But before this fund could be expended, the Communists started their march across China and it became necessary to delay work until the situation became brighter. Those funds are still being held for future use in China but Bishop Sherrill felt that the money should be put to work until it could be applied as it was originally intended.

There was a desperate need for new church building in areas at home where there had been a heavy influx of population in recent years. Our churches in those areas were crowded and inadequate to carry out the heavy demands on their facilities. And in some of the new communities there were no churches. And so today, because of our Presiding Bishop's vision, the Chinese fund is hard at work providing new church facilities in the domestic field.

There were one-and-one-half million dollars in the fund, and all of it is out on loan. The loans are made to dioceses without interest for a ten-year period, to be repaid in ten equal installments. The parish needing a new church is required to provide its fair share of the building fund, a requirement which is insurance against hasty and ill-thought out plans to build just because a loan can be had. So far 25 dioceses have received such loans, and I think it speaks for itself that not one of the 25 has defaulted on its payments. By lending this one-and-one-half million dollars it has been possible to stimulate the building of five million dollars worth of urgently needed new church construction. And this, remember, without diminishing the Chinese fund in any way; it will be ready to go to work as soon as it can safely be used in China.

Another in my list of new horizons is Tucker House which we have acquired in Greenwich, Connecticut. It has given us space which was badly needed, and has enabled us to move the vital and growing Department of Christian Education from old 281, at least partially, relieving the "Old Lady of Fourth Avenue" of overcrowding which was rapidly becoming intolerable. Tucker House also shelters the Seabury Press as I have already mentioned.

Before leaving this fascinating subject of new horizons I want to mention just one more, the new bookstore which was opened in the first floor of the Church Missions House under the aegis of the Seabury Press. The shop was set up only after much research had been done to determine the best possible layout, display and other aspects of a successful bookstore. It was formally opened on July 21 and has already been the subject of much favorable comment. The National Council spent $10,000.00 to create the store and we hope and believe that it will materially stimulate the sale of our Church literature as well as serving as a model for other bookstores of our Church throughout the nation.

The bookstore is only one of the changes you will find in the Missions House. In general, 281 has had its face lifted, and we hope that you will visit it at the first opportunity if you haven't recently done so. Why, it is even flying a new Church flag! We believe in general that it is symbolic of my title, "New Horizons."

These things I have just mentioned were done on the initiative of Bishop Sherrill with, of course, the approval of the National Council. In some cases Bishop Sherrill himself went out and obtained the money to bring them to life. We who have seen his activities in behalf of our own Church can understand easily why he was chosen as the first President of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the United States of America!

Now I want to report briefly on the accomplishments—and some of the shortcomings—of the program which was directed by the General Convention in San Francisco in 1949, just three years ago. I have already promised to avoid figures wherever possible and to concentrate on the meaning of what has happened in those three years, but I am going to have to go into figures for a moment now to give you a complete story.

At the 1949 Convention you approved a budget for the world work of the Church of $5,634,000 during each of the following three years. That budget had been carefully thought out. It provided only for essential and much-needed projects, and there was no fat on it. Each one of the items in that budget was something that needed to be done if our Church was completely to justify its mission.

But—and here is the part of this report I am not too happy to present — we fell short of providing the means to carry out that budget. The maximum amount available for our program in any of the three years was $5,190,000, which was received last year. During the previous two years our income was even less than that amount. This was the total from all sources, including donations from dioceses, gifts from Woman's Auxiliaries, and interest on our investments. It takes only a limited amount of arithmetic to show that we fell short by an average of almost half a million dollars during each of the past three years.

Why did we fall short? I can't tell you why quotas weren't reached, but I can say that a discouraging number of them were not. Many dioceses did meet their mathematical quotas or overpaid them by varying amounts. But a very large number fell far short.

When you fall half-a-million dollars short of the amount you need each year to carry out the instructions given to you, something has to give. The National Council is not permitted to work on credit. If the funds are not in sight, some phases of the program have to be given up or curtailed.

In our overseas work it has been necessary in almost all cases to follow a policy of hold-the-line. Tremendous possibilities for additional fruitful work opened in every direction but they had to be regretfully allowed to pass by.

The same was true here at home. The work of the Church was especially needed in areas where there had been big increases in population and on college campuses. Many of these opportunities had to be ignored.

The last budget provided for the full staffing of the new Department of Christian Education. Today two divisions of the Department exist only on paper and the work they were meant to do is still waiting to be done. There were no funds to staff those two divisions and bring them to life.

We fell short in our program of World Relief. At the last General Convention you instructed the National Council to carry out a world relief program costing $500,000 a year. We were unable to carry out those instructions completely because the program had to be cut down to $450,000.

And finally, we were forced to show our shortcomings to those outside our own Communion. We have agreed to pay a certain share to the operating expenses of the National Council of Churches of Christ but we have been able to contribute only a part of the share we agreed upon.

We would have fallen even further from our goal on some of these items except for the one thing I have already mentioned. It has been impossible to use the money allocated for work in China, and so those funds were used to take up some of the slack in other areas.

Now that I have listed our shortcomings, I am able to turn to a much happier part of this report. We have a list of accomplishments to be proud of, and I want to summarize briefly some of the things made possible by the budget you approved in San Francisco—or rather, by the portion of that amount which we actually received. I will touch only briefly on some of the high spots because you will hear complete reports from each of the Departments.

We have supplied American personnel to aid the Church in Japan. All of you know of the appointment of the Honorable Francis B. Sayre as Bishop Sherrill's personal representative to the Holy Catholic Church in Japan. This appointment is a strategic one which will strengthen relations between our Church and the Church in Japan, and will also greatly strengthen our entire position in the Far East where the influence of the Church is desperately needed.

We have also supplied help to the Japanese Church in another way, by providing some small subsidies for the native clergy there. This has enabled them to spend their full time in evangelical work instead of having to spend six days earning their daily bread and then trying on Sunday to summon up the energy to do all that needed to be done in their parishes.

We have gone into a completely new mission field, Okinawa. This instruction of the last General Convention has been faithfully carried out. We have made only a beginning in this important area but it is a strong beginning and we now have a vital, living Church in Okinawa with dedicated missionary personnel.

The single missionary district in Southern Brazil has now been divided into three districts. This is one measure of our success in this area; another measure is the formation of a National Council of the Church in Southern Brazil. This is a big step toward the day when the Church in Brazil will become, like the ones in Japan and China, independent Churches in the great family of the Anglican Communion.

In practically every overseas district the National Council has carefully followed its established policy of developing native Christian leaders. The wisdom of this policy is apparent today in China where the Church would be helpless if it still had to depend on American leadership.

At home, almost every American missionary district has shown great progress. A measure of that progress is the fact that one district is applying to this General Convention to be granted the status of a diocese, and I am told it is very probable that three additional districts will apply during the next six years.

In the Department of Christian Education the mandate of the 1949 Convention has been fully carried out with the exception I mentioned earlier — two divisions could not be staffed because of insufficient funds.

Another accomplishment is the enviable record of the Church in social relations. This is especially true of the health and welfare services which have more than justified every penny they have cost.

The record of successes I have outlined is by no means complete. For instance, there is an intangible that is imponderable. That is the atmosphere of greater enthusiasm that seems to me to pervade our whole organization. But it is impossible to mention all of the accomplishments in the brief span of time available to me; the best I can do is to hit a few high spots.

Now, what lies ahead of us during the next three years? In order to give you the picture I shall have to deal in figures again. The National Council is asking this General Convention to approve an annual budget of $5,805,000. As you remember, the annual budget for the past three years was $5,634,000. Hence, the budget being requested of this Convention is $171,000 greater. Actually, however, this provides for no increase in expenditures. This may seem like double-talk, but the explanation is very simple. During the past triennium the Armed Forces Division received only a very small appropriation because it was able to operate on a special fund left over from the last war. Now that fund is exhausted and the Division must request more money if it is to supply a special ministry to the men and women of the armed forces. I don't think that there is anyone among us who believes that this work should be allowed to lapse.

With this one exception, the budget is almost exactly the same as the one you approved three years back. There are small adjustments here and there but, item for item and dollar for dollar, you will find it little different from the one approved in San Francisco.

Some of you may be ready to object that a budget of the same size as the last one is actually a retrenchment. You will point out, and correctly so, that the cost of living has gone up and the same number of dollars will accomplish less today. Furthermore nobody wants a static organization—you go forward or else you are going backwards. However, you must remember that the annual budget of $5,634,000 which you approved three years ago turned out to be just a figure on paper. The National Council never had that much to spend; in fact, it fell short by an average of almost half-a-million dollars each year, or a total of almost $1,500,000 for the three years.

Thus, the budget being requested is actually some $650,000 greater each year than the amount actually spent in 1950, 1951 and 1952. That increase will cover the amount needed by the Armed Forces Division. It should also take care of the increase in costs, enabling us to accomplish the same things achieved in the triennium just ending. Unfortunately, it will not allow much slack for making use of special opportunities for fruitful Christian work which will appear from time to time. Only a significant increase in income above the mathematical quotas will allow us to do that.

We hope you will see fit to adopt the Budget that will be suggested for the next three years, and then will provide us with the money—all the money—so that we will have the necessary tools to work with to carry out your mandates.

Let us hope for more New Horizons and that one of them will be the elimination of the word "expectations" from our Church vocabulary.

To paraphrase a famous American of yesterday, Daniel Webster, let us hope that at the end of each year we shall have no such miserable interrogatory as "Why didn't we make good on what we undertook to do?" Instead, let us hope that we will have "spread all over, in characters of living light those other words so dear to the heart of every true American," "we have balanced our budget."

In the words of a famous American of today, General Eisenhower, in his inaugural address as President of Columbia University, let us never be "bogged down in sterile allegiance to the past." The Bible says "seek and ye shall find." May we ever continue seeking—seeking for new horizons!

SALARIES OF OFFICERS OF THE NATIONAL COUNCIL

Pursuant to Canon 4, Section 8, the National Council herewith reports the salaries being paid to its officers as of September 1, 1952. These figures represent the entire salary paid, as in no case is there any additional allowance for housing. The salary schedule of all other employees is on file in the Department of Finance.

APPENDIX 22

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMITTEE TO STUDY THE APPORTIONMENT OF QUOTAS

This committee was appointed under the resolution of the General Convention of 1949 reading as follows :

Resolved, "That a committee be appointed consisting of two Bishops, two Presbyters, and four laymen, who will study the subject of apportionment of quotas during the next triennium, conduct hearings, in a central location, draw up a plan or plans in order of priority, and submit the same for study to the National Council, Provinces, and Dioceses, at least one year prior to the next General Convention, and that the sum of $3,000.00 be appropriated from the funds of General Convention to defray the expenses of that committee."

The committee appointed under this resolution consists of the Bishop of Tennessee, the Bishop Coadjutor of Florida, the Rev. John H. Esquirol of Connecticut, the Rev. George H. Swift of Oregon, Mr. Lorren W. Garlich of West Missouri, Mr. John W. Gregg of Minnesota, Mr. Edward H. Miller of Southern Ohio, and Mr. H. L. Rust, Jr., of Washington.

The committee met at Seabury House on May 30-31, 1950, and organized by the election of the Bishop of Tennessee as chairman, Mr. Lorren W. Garlich as vice chairman, and the Rev. John H. Esquirol as secretary.

Prior to that meeting, Bishop Dandridge, acting as convener, wrote to the other members of the committee requesting suggestions as to the time and place of the first meeting. It was generally agreed that the committee should meet at Seabury House in order to have access to the officers of the National Council and to statistical and other matter available there.

The committee had before it for study a copy of the report and recommendations made to the National Council by Mr. Russell E. Dill in August, 1949, and a great amount of statistical data supplied, at the request of the committee, by Mr. James E. Whitney, Assistant Treasurer. This material included trends in giving, tables of apportionment worked out on many different bases, and summaries of the methods of apportionment used by other Communions. Mr. Whitney and Dr. Wieland were called in to answer many questions.

Dr. Lewis B. Franklin, former Treasurer of the National Council, was called in to advise with the committee and gave a detailed explanation of the present system of apportionment of quotas and a recitation of the history and operation of this system over the past thirty years or more.

Also prior to the first meeting, in February, 1950, the convener notified the Bishop and Treasurer of every Diocese of the appointment of the committee, its plans for meeting, its hope of receiving all possible comments and suggestions, and its readiness to hold hearings at the most convenient place for those who might desire to express their views to the committee in person. Nearly fifty replies, from all sections of the country, were received, including requests from eleven Dioceses for hearings—namely New York, Newark, Long Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine, Lexington, Pittsburgh, Western New York, Michigan and Ohio.

Some of the requests for hearings were eventually withdrawn, but due arrangements for scheduled hearings at the second meeting of the committee were made with representatives of the Dioceses of New York, Pittsburgh, Ohio, Newark and Long Island. Of these, last-minute cancellations were forced upon the representatives from Pittsburgh and Ohio, due to the snow-bound conditions of their home areas. Long reports from each of them, however, were received, read, and discussed. A total of six men from the Dioceses of New York, Newark and Long Island appeared before the committee.

The hearings were held at Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn., because, from earlier indications from those who planned to meet with the committee, it seemed to be a reasonably central location. Written reports were received from most of those who found it necessary to withdraw their original requests for hearings.

In presenting its report the committee wishes to record two convictions. The first is that the present budget and program are well within the ability of the Church, if our people were intelligently informed and interested. The second is that no change in the method of apportioning quotas can produce this result without three other things:

1. Definite and determined effort on the part of the Diocese to develop the interest of its people in giving to both diocesan and general Church work, and conscientious observance of the partnership principle in dividing available funds between the Diocese and the general Church.
2. Willingness on the part of the parishes to put diocesan and general Church necessities ahead of parochial luxuries.
3. Continuous effort by both parish and diocesan leaders to develop among the people a sense of stewardship and the habit of proportionate giving.

This committee has received agonized protests against the present system of apportionment from some of the largest and strongest Dioceses and from some of the smallest and weakest—urban and rural. It is also noteworthy that some large Dioceses, some small Dioceses, and some Dioceses of moderate size and strength, have fine records for consistent support of the General Church Program. We believe that the main difference between those who can and those who cannot meet their quotas is that the former have had a more continuous effort on the part of the Bishops and other leaders to stimulate information and interest, a more careful annual redistribution of the apportionment to parishes and missions, with recognition of changing ability, and a more successful effort to encourage the partnership principle between parish and Diocese and between Diocese and general Church.

In many Dioceses there are parishes which can and should contribute far more to the work of the Diocese and the Church than is indicated by a mathematical quota. They should be encouraged to do so. There are also many individuals who, in addition to bearing their full share of the parish budget, including its missionary quota, might well be called upon by diocesan authorities for special gifts for the wider work of the Church.

Bishops, parish clergy, and lay leaders need to be constantly reminded that the Diocese and the whole Church consist of congregations and must be supported by congregations if they are to be supported at all; that a congregation which fails in its support of the Diocese and the general Church is failing as a congregation of the Episcopal Church; and that the program of the Diocese and the Program of the General Convention are "our program" to all loyal Church people. For a congregation to spend lavishly, for example, on music, and grudgingly, or not at all, meet its missionary apportionment is both wrong and absurd from a Christian point of view. Thank God for the large and increasing number of parishes which do play fair with the Diocese and the general Church.

As, under God, the strength of the Church is in the Dioceses and the strength of the Dioceses is in the parishes, so is the strength of the parishes in their members. Many parishes are failing to develop that strength both financially and spiritually; and the financial and spiritual are often more closely related than the complacently pious like to suppose.

We should stop being timid and lazy about teaching our people both the stirring facts of the Church's mission at home and abroad and the duty and privilege of tithing and other forms of proportionate giving as the first expression of our stewardship. In one Diocese which has a consistently good record of giving more than its missionary quota, there is one congregation of another Communion which gives more to missions than the whole Episcopal Diocese! That congregation has more than fifteen hundred tithers. Is our Church less worthy of generous and sacrificial support?

At the first meeting of the committee the replies received from Bishops and diocesan treasurers in response to Bishop Dandridge's letter of February 28, 1950 were read in full and discussed at great length by the committee. The following questions were discussed:

1. Whether or not mathematical quotas should be apportioned to the Dioceses or Missionary Districts?
2. If we have mathematical quotas, is it practical to take into consideration factors other than those presently used?
3. Should such quotas be based on a six-year average of current expenses or a three-year average?
4. Should it be on a flat percentage basis or on a sliding scale as at present?
5. If on a sliding scale, what margin of variance should there be between the representative classifications?
6. Would it be helpful to devise a less complicated method of determining the percentage, particularly as to the step known as "weights"?
7. Should this committee offer any suggestions to the Dioceses as to how they may make their own apportionments to the parishes and missions?
8. Consideration of the recommendations of Mr. Russell E. Dill in his letter of August 24, 1949.
9. Should special appropriations made in certain Dioceses be included in statistical expense?
10. Should a cushion of perhaps 10% be placed in the apportionment of quotas?
11. Instead of using "current expenses" (Item K in parochial reports), should we use items 1 through 6 under Income?
12. Would it be wise to base apportionments on what a Diocese spends on itself rather than what the parishes and missions collectively spend on themselves—or should both of these matters be considered?
13. Should the missionary expenditures within the Diocese be included in such a consideration?
14. Why is it that there is only one Diocese (Los Angeles) in the group with quotas of over $100,000.00 that pays its quota in full?

Mr. Whitney was requested to furnish the members of the committee tables setting forth what the Diocese apportionments would be if based on a three-year average instead of a six-year average:

1. As presently determined.
2. If figured on a flat rate percentage basis.
3. If the "weights" factor were changed from 3 through 7 to 8 through 12.
4. If the "weights" factor were to be somewhere between these two.

The second meeting of the committee was held at Seabury House on November 28-30, 1950. All the members were present except Mr. Miller. Subcommittees appointed at the first meeting made their reports and many of the matters considered at the first meeting were reviewed. Communications were received and studied from Mr. B. C. Howard of Kansas City, Mo.; Mr. Foulkes of Milwaukee, Wis.; Bishop Quin of Texas; Bishop Loutitt of South Florida; Bishop Conkling of Chicago; Bishop Pardue of Pittsburgh; Bishop Quarterman of North Texas; Bishop Moody of Lexington; Rev. Elsom Eldridge of Nashua, N. H.; Archdeacon Stretch of Long Island; Mr. Norman A. Lilly of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Bishop Van Dyck of Vermont; Rev. Alanson C. Davis of Bradford, Pa.; and Canon Whipple of Portland, Maine.

Mr. Theodor Oxholm, assistant treasurer of the Diocese of New York, and Mr. Charles G. Proffitt, treasurer of Grace Church, New York, met with the committee and explained the various difficulties of the Diocese of New York in meeting its missionary quota and offered several suggestions.

The Rev. Eric M. Tasman of the Diocese of Newark appeared before the committee and discussed the problems of his Diocese, submitting a written report and suggestions.

Archdeacons Stretch, Saunders and McLean, of the Diocese of Long Island, met with the committee in a discussion of the problems of that Diocese.

After long and careful discussion the following resolutions were unanimously adopted as the recommendations of this committee:

1. That the plan of basing quotas on the current expenses of parishes and missions be continued.
2. That any consideration of parish endowments be dealt with on a diocesan and not a national level.
3. That no special consideration be given to heating expenses in computing current expenses, because of offsetting items in warmer areas and because of the impossibility of making such allowances accurately.
4. That a mathematical formula should be used in apportioning quotas.
5. That in using a mathematical quota, only factors accurately ascertainable and universally applicable should be employed.
6. That for the next triennium the "Current Expenses" of each Diocese and Missionary District for a three-year period (i.e., the last three years available), should be the primary basis for determining its apportionment under the system of mathematical calculation. At present a six-year average is used. The rapid changes that are taking place in many places seem to your committee to make a three-year average more equitable than a six-year average.

7. That the mathematical quota of each Diocese be based on a sliding scale and not a flat percentage basis.

8. That in the opinion of this committee the sliding scale at present in force makes too great a spread between percentage levied on Dioceses having small average parochial current expenses and those having large average parochial current expenses; therefore, the committee recommends that the "weights" used in making calculations should be 8-9-10-11-12 instead of the present 3-4-5-6-7. "Weights" are the device first worked out, we believe, by actuaries, and now used in determining the application of the sliding scale. The following table shows the mathematical quota of the present general Church budget assigned to each Diocese under the present system of computation and, in the second column, what would be the mathematical quota of each Diocese if the method we propose were used :

* Missionary District.

9. That adjusted quotas be assigned (for the coming triennium only) to Dioceses and Missionary Districts which were unable to meet their assigned quotas in 1950—the adjusted quotas to be as follows: For the first year of the triennium, the amount given in 1950 plus one-third of the difference between that amount and the amount of the new mathematical quota; for the second year of the triennium, an additional one-third of the difference between the amount given in 1950 and the new mathematical quota; and for the third year, the full amount of the new mathematical quota.

This recommendation is based on the conviction of the representatives of those Dioceses who appeared before the committee that such a procedure would greatly encourage their Dioceses to make additional efforts, which might during the triennium build them up to the acceptance of their full mathematical quota. The committee realizes that there will be slight variations each year due to altering apportionments.

10. This committee has no specific suggestions to offer to Dioceses concerning the distribution of apportionments to parishes and missions; except that we believe that the method of such distribution should be carefully studied in each Diocese at frequent intervals, consideration being given to local conditions and modifying factors, which can be much better known within the Diocese than anywhere else.

11. The committee had before it several suggestions that the Church should adopt, far more extensively than at present, the method of assignment to particular parishes or Dioceses of projects contained in the budget, with the idea that part of their missionary giving might be designated for the support of these projects, the object being to achieve a larger measure of personalizing missions.

The committee would point out that this plan has been available for many years and is used by several hundred parishes and organizations. The Department of Finance of the National Council stands ready to assign such projects to those who apply for them.

In the use of the project method, it is important that prospective donors be reminded that when they adopt a specific project contained in the General Church Program and give their money to that project, they are providing the money designated for that project in the general Church budget, not a gift in addition to the budget item. We suggest too, that whenever projects are accepted, it is well to change them for other projects after a few years.

Our missionary work can be personalized in the educational process which ought to be carried on with regularity and intensity in every parish. Material containing vivid stories of the experiences of individual missionaries is always available, and surely, almost every Diocese has at least one man or woman from its area in the missionary fields whose work, therefore, can be portrayed to the people in a personal way.

But, even so, no matter how much interest is aroused in individual missionaries, no effort should be spared in emphasizing to all people the mighty power of Christian Missions down through the ages and the particular need of our stricken world of today to hear and to obey Christ's Gospel of Love and Peace.

REPORT OF THE RECORDER

Herewith is presented the report of the Recorder listing occurrences in the calendar years 1949, 1950 and 1951. Occurrences in 1952 will be in the report to General Convention in 1955. The Canon requires reporting as of each year-end by the Bishops to the Recorder of events in their jurisdictions in the calendar year.

Below are compared the totals in the current report with those in the report made by the Recorder in 1949:

	1949 Report	1952 Report
Ordained Deacon in U. S. A.....	475	843
Ordained Deacon in Foreign Jurisdictions.....	26	32
Receptions from other Churches of Anglican Communion	96	98
Receptions from other than Anglican Churches.....	*	9
Restorations .....	10	11
Transfers to other Churches of Anglican Communion...	10	16
Depositions or Deprivations.....	38	54
Suspensions .....	15†	5†

† Of the Suspensions in the 1949 Report, four were later restored and seven deposed. Of the Suspensions in the 1952 Report, one was later restored and three were deposed.

The ordination data for years prior to about 25 years ago are incomplete and in some particulars inaccurate. The Recorder renews its suggestion of three years ago that considerable research should be undertaken among old records in view of the historical importance of completeness. This would require an appropriation of $3,000.00 by General Convention, to be used in the triennium for a competent research worker.

Respectfully submitted,

THE CHURCH PENSION FUND, RECORDER,

ROBERT WORTHINGTON, Executive Vice-President.

INDEX

N.B. All serial numbers prior to 17048 are to the Priesthood. The names of Bishops are in capitals, and the letters D and S after their serial numbers indicate that such number comes from the list as given by the Rev. Herman Cope Duncan or the Rev. Dr. William Samuel Slack. Capital letters before and after a serial number are used for those ordained in Foreign Jurisdictions. A number surrounded by brackets for those ordained since last Report, or no number following a name, signifies that such name may be found under the heading of Suspensions, Deprivations and Depositions, Restorations or Additions and Corrections.

THE EPISTLE

Acts 13:1-5

Now there were at Antioch, in the church that was there, prophets and teachers, Barnabas, and Symeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, the foster-brother of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. And as they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. Then, when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away. So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, went down to Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

THE GOSPEL

St. John 15:12-17

This is my commandment, that ye love one another, even as I have loved you. Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do the things which I command you. No longer do I call you servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth; but I have called you friends; for all things that I heard from my Father I have made known unto you. Ye did not choose me, but I chose you, and appointed you, that ye should go and bear fruit, and that your fruit should abide; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

The following Report of the Committee on Religious Services was adopted by the House of Bishops on October 14, 1919 (page 79 of the Journal):

MOTIONS AND THEIR ORDER

12. No member shall address the President while any other member has the floor, except to present a parliamentary inquiry, a point of order, or a question of privilege touching the character of the House or of one or more of its members.

13. Except by leave of the House, no member shall speak more than twice in the same debate, nor longer than ten minutes at one time.

14. Before being considered, all propositions involving expenses, except propositions to print, shall be referred to the Committee on Expenses.

15. All resolutions must be reduced to writing and must bear the name of the mover thereof, and the same shall appear in the Minutes of the House. No motion or resolution can be offered or shall be deemed to be before the House unless the maker has first been recognized by the President and the motion has been seconded.

16. If the question under debate contains several distinct propositions, at the request of any member the same shall be divided, and a separate vote shall be taken, but the motion to strike out and to insert shall be indivisible. When the voting is by Dioceses and Orders, the request for division must be made by the entire Clerical or Lay representation from any Diocese.

17. When a question is under consideration, no motion shall be received except (1) to adjourn, (2) to lay it upon the table, (3) to take a vote thereon immediately or a time certain, (4) to extend limits of debate, (5) to postpone to a time certain, (6) to commit or to recommit it, (7) to amend it, or (8) to postpone it indefinitely.

Motions for any of these purposes shall have precedence in the order herein named.

18. If a motion be carried to lay on the table an amendment or a substitute, the matter before the House shall be proceeded with as though such amendment or substitute had not been offered.

The following questions cannot be laid on the table, viz., the motion (1) to adjourn, (2) to lay on the table, (3) to take from the table, (4) to take a vote immediately or at a time certain, or any questions as to (5) the Order of the Day, or (6) the priority of business.

Upon the arrival of the time when a vote is to be taken pursuant to a previous vote, the main question (including all amendments then pending) shall be put, and no debate shall then be in order nor any motion except that to adjourn.

The motion to adjourn shall always be in order, provided that the same shall not be offered when another member has the floor.

19. When a motion is pending the following amendments shall be in order: (1) one amendment may be made to each independent or separable portion thereof, and (2) one motion to amend that amendment shall be in order; and it shall be in order also (3) to offer a further amendment by way of substitute to which may be offered (4) one amendment.

No proposition not germane to the subject under consideration shall be received under color of an amendment or a substitute.

Neither the substitute nor its amendment shall be voted on (except to lay on the table) until the original matter is perfected. An amendment or a substitute may be withdrawn by the mover with the consent of his seconder before amendment thereof or before decision is had thereon.

The amendment or the substitute shall be debatable only when the main question is debatable.

The adoption of an amendment by way of substitute or otherwise shall not displace the main resolution, which, after being so amended, shall be the question before the House.

The following questions cannot be amended, viz.:

(1) The call for the Order of the Day, (2) an appeal from the decision of the Chair, (3) an objection to consideration, or the motions (4) to adjourn, (5) to lay on the table, (6) to take from the table, (7) for leave to continue speaking, (8) to postpone indefinitely, (9) to reconsider, (10) to suspend rules, (11) to take up business out of order, or (12) for leave to withdraw a motion.

20. When a substitute is pending the motion to postpone indefinitely shall not be in order, but unless otherwise therein provided the motion, (1) to postpone to a certain time, (2) to commit or to recommit, (3) to take a vote immediately or at a certain time, or (4) to extend limits of debate shall cover both the substitute and the main question.

NON-DEBATABLE QUESTIONS

21. (a) There shall be no debate upon any of the following motions, viz.: (1) to refer any matter or resolution to a standing committee, (2) to recommit, without instructions, any pending committee report, (3) to lay on the table, (4) to take from the table, (5) to take a vote immediately or at a fixed time, (6) to adjourn unqualifiedly, (7) to extend limits of debate, (8) of an objection to consideration, (9) for a recess, (10) to permit a change of vote, (11) to permit the withdrawal of a motion.

(b) Any member may speak, not more than two minutes, on the following motions, (1) to adjourn to a time certain, (2) to fix a time at which to adjourn, (3) to postpone to a definite time, or (4) to take up a question out of its order, (5) to suspend the Rules.

22. All questions of order shall be decided by the President, without debate; but any member may appeal from such decision, and on such appeal any member may speak, but not for more than two minutes, nor more than once without express leave of the House. On such appeal the vote shall be upon the question, "Shall the decision of the Chair be sustained?"

CONSIDERATION OR REFERENCE OF MOTIONS

23. Every resolution offered for the immediate action of the House shall be considered at once unless reference be requested, or objection be made as next provided.

If, before consideration of the resolution be begun, reference thereof be requested by any member, such resolution shall be referred to the appropriate Standing Committee, or if, in the opinion of the President, there be no appropriate Standing Committee, then to a Special Committee of such number as shall be designated by the President.

If no reference be requested, but timely objection be made to immediate consideration, then without any reference, the resolution shall lie over, and come up the next day as unfinished business.

But by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, the House may at once consider the resolution.

24. When memorials or petitions are presented, their contents shall be stated concisely by the Deputy presenting them, and they shall be referred, unless by a majority vote the memorial or petition shall be ordered to be read.

25. Reports of Committees appointed to sit during the recess, if not acted upon at once, when presented, shall be made the Order of the Day for a time fixed.

MESSAGES FROM THE HOUSE OF BISHOPS

26. Messages from the House of Bishops shall be handed by the Secretary of this House to the President, to be laid before the House as early as may be convenient. All such messages communicating any legislative action on the part of the House of Bishops shall be referred without debate, to the proper Committee, unless without debate the House shall decide to consider such message without such reference. The report of the Committee upon any message so referred shall be entitled to consideration as of the date and priority of the original receipt of such message, and the question of its immediate consideration shall be submitted to the House as soon as the report is presented.

When either without reference, or after reference and report the consideration of such message shall have begun, it shall continue to be the Order of the Day until final action thereon, and shall not be subject to any motion to postpone or to lay on the table.

The final action of the House upon any such message shall be by vote upon the question, "Shall this House concur in the action of the House of Bishops as communicated by their Message No. —?" If amendments have been adopted, then shall be added the further words, "as amended." Upon the submission of such questions, all votes in the affirmative shall be counted in favor of such concurrence.

A Committee of Conference shall not be in order except in cases where the House of Bishops has concurred, with amendments, in action taken by this House or in cases where this House has concurred, with amendments, in action taken by the House of Bishops.

VOTING

27. Unless excused by the House, every member who shall be in the House when any question is put must vote on a division.

Unless he have leave, or be unable to attend, no member shall absent himself from the service of the House.

28. The vote upon any question shall be taken by Dioceses and Orders whenever required by the Constitution or by Canon, or whenever required by the entire Clerical or Lay Representation from any Diocese, before the voting begins. Whenever a vote shall be taken by Dioceses and Orders (except in the case of elections), the vote of each Order in each Diocese shall be stated by one member in each Order as "Aye" or "No" or "Divided." If so desired by the entire Deputation from such Diocese, the vote of the individuals of that Deputation shall be stated and recorded. Such record shall be made also in respect of the individual members of every Deputation, if so ordered, without debate, by a majority of the House.

29. Whenever a vote shall be taken by Orders (except in the case of elections), the Secretary of the House of Deputies shall audibly announce the vote in each Order in each Diocese, before announcing the result to the House; and the vote of each Order in each Diocese so announced shall be corrected before, but not after, the final announcement of the vote of the House.

Any member absent from the House when a vote is taken but coming in before the final announcement of the vote on any question may vote thereon if then permitted by the House, but not otherwise.

The election of President or of Secretary of the House or of Treasurer of the General Convention shall be by individual secret ballot; though by unanimous consent, and direction of the House, a single ballot may be cast by an officer of the House in its behalf.

RECONSIDERATION

30. (a) A question once determined may be reconsidered by the vote of two-thirds of those present in the House when motion for such reconsideration is duly made and hereinafter provided.

(b) Except as so reconsidered every determination of such question shall stand as the judgment of the House. Neither such question nor any question of like import shall be drawn again into debate or presented for action again during the same Convention except with the consent of two-thirds of the members of the House present and voting upon such motion to reconsider.

(c) Only one reconsideration of any matter shall be had. All motions to reconsider shall be made and be seconded on the day the vote is taken, or on the next succeeding day on which the House shall be in session.<sup>5</sup>

31. In all questions decided numerically, the motion to reconsider must be made by one Deputy, and seconded by another, who voted in the majority; or, in case of equal division, by those who voted in the negative. In case of a vote by Orders, where there is a concurrence of both Orders, the motion shall be made by a majority of a Deputation from any Diocese of either Order voting in the majority; and, in case of a non-concurrence of Orders, the motion shall come from a majority of a Deputation from a Diocese of that Order which gave the majority in the negative.

In either case, a motion to reconsider may be seconded by a majority of any Deputation of either side, without regard to its previous vote.

REPORT OF COMMITTEES

32. The reports of all Committees shall be in writing, and unless recommended by a vote of the House shall be received of course, and without motion for acceptance. All reports recommending or requiring any action or expression of opinion by the House shall be accompanied by a resolution for the action of the House thereon. Printed reports which contain no Resolutions and have been delivered to the members of the House in advance, shall be presented by title except that the spokesman for the report shall be allowed five minutes for summarizing the same.

No report of a Joint Committee or of a Joint Commission that contains resolutions that has been printed and distributed to the members of this House at least three weeks before a meeting of the Convention, shall be read at length to this House, but the Chairman or a member of that Committee may make an oral summary from such Committee.

Every report of a Joint Commission shall be referred to the appropriate Standing Committee of this House, if there be one, but otherwise to a Special Committee of this House. The House may at any time refer any report or resolution to the Committee on Amendments to the Constitution to draft a constitutional amendment or the Committee on Canons to draft a canon or canons which will carry into effect, if enacted, the report of resolution so referred.

33. Reports from the Committee on Memorials of Deceased Members shall embody simply the name, Diocese, date of birth and death, and time of service in General Convention, of deceased members of the current or any preceding General Convention, of whom memorials shall not have theretofore been made; and after suitable devotions such reports shall be received by the House standing.

COMMITTEE OF THE WHOLE

34. Whenever so ordered by a vote of a majority of the members present, the House may go into Committee of the Whole for the consideration of any matter.

The President shall designate some member of the House to act as Chairman of the Committee of the Whole, which, when in session, shall be governed by these rules as adapted by the Chairman, subject to appeal to the Committee, and also to the following provisions:

(a) A motion to rise and to report to the House, with or without request for leave to sit again, may be made at any time, and shall take precedence of all other motions, and shall be decided without debate. No such motion once made shall be renewed until after further proceeding shall have been had in the Committee of the Whole.

(b) A motion that a vote upon any pending proposition shall be taken at some designated time may be made and be disposed of without debate at any time, but as before provided a motion to report to the House shall take precedence.

No motion to lay on the table shall be entertained.

35. No debate shall be allowed in the House of any motion to permit the Committee of the Whole to sit again. Requests for such permission shall take precedence of all other business, and the motion thereof shall be put to vote immediately without reference.

3. The Secretaries of both Houses, in accordance with present practice shall, not later than the month of January following the meeting of General Convention, notify the members of the respective Houses who have appointments upon Joint Commissions and Joint Committees of such appointment and their duty to present a report to the next Convention; and shall remind them one year prior to the opening day of Convention of this duty.

5. Note—Practice as to Messages from the House of Bishops—Under Rule 26 a distinction is to be observed between the status of a House of Bishops Message before its consideration on its merits is actually begun and its status after it is placed before the House for its actual passage.

When a House of Bishops Message first reaches the House of Deputies it does not have immediate right of way over all other pending business, but is held by the President "to be laid before the House as early as may be convenient." Rule 26

When a Message Calling for legislation is first presented to the House of Deputies it has not been the practice to give it immediate consideration. It is handled like any other measure and Rule 26 itself provides that it shall be referred to the proper Committee, unless without debate the House on Motion shall otherwise order.

When so referred and even when the Committee report is presented the status is the same as that of any other measure and Committee report pending before the House, and is open to all the same motions, dilatory or otherwise, to which any other measure is subject.

It is only when a House of Bishops Message has actually been presented to the House for passage and has begun to be considered on its merits that the third paragraph of Rule 26 applies. The Message then becomes the Order of the Day and it not subject to any motion to postpone or lay on the table, and its consideration must continue until final action is had upon it. This does not mean that the House must remain in session until final action is had, for a debate may continue several days. What it means is that the Message becomes the continuing Order of the Day and must be so handled.

XVI. CONFERENCE COMMITTEES.

1. Motion for appointment of, or for reference of any matter to, is only in order when House of Bishops has amended a House of Deputies' measure, or when the House of Deputies has amended a House of Bishops' measure. Rule 26
2. Message from House of Bishops requesting Conference stands on same footing with any other Message and is in order as to any measure from them which requires concurrent action and which has been amended by House of Deputies.

XVII. PRIVILEGES OF FLOOR, ETC.

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON RURAL WORK

The Commission organized by the election of the Right Rev. William W. Horstick as Chairman and the Rev. Clifford L. Samuelson as Secretary.

The one resolution attached to this report will recommend that this Commission be discontinued. It is believed by a majority of the members that the essential purposes for which this Commission was established in 1928 have been achieved during these past 24 years. Distinct progress has been made in rural work, especially during the last decade. The Church now recognizes the important and strategic nature of rural work. This recognition is shown by the establishment of the Division of Town and Country Work in the National Council.

This Division was created by National Council in 1949. In organization, staff, program and budget it has proved its stability. By action of the Division there is also now organized and functioning a National Advisory Committee on Town and Country Work. This Committee, meeting annually, provides counsel and assistance to the officers and National Council members of the Division. A majority of the members of the Commission believe that the Division of Town and Country Work with its National Advisory Committee, provides the proper and permanent agency for continuing the promotion of the thinking, program and budget for the rural work of the Church.

This report of the Commission divides into three sections, felt appropriate to a final statement. First, a summary analysis of various emphases which have been made by the Commission which can well be titled "where we have been"; the second, a description and analysis of the present organization, policy and program of the Church for rural work, or "where we are now"; third, unfinished business and emphasis for the future, or "where we must go."

I

In the General Conventions of 1922 and 1925 resolutions were introduced both in the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies urging the Church "to take steps to consider the condition of the rural districts in relation to the Church, and to make such recommendations as may lead to the reconstruction of the Country Church so that it may reassume its ministry to the whole of rural life." Present study indicates that at no time has the Episcopal Church ever fully assumed a "ministry to the whole of rural life."

This awareness that added emphasis should be placed on rural work found concrete expression in specific recommendations brought to each House by its respective Committee on Rural Work in 1925 which led to the creation of the Joint Commission on Rural Work in 1928. Excerpts from the 1928 report of the Committee on Rural Work in the House of Bishops are the following:

"General Convention urges upon all diocesan and district authorities the spiritual and strategic importance of

1. Spreading the Church in Rural America.
2. Promoting the prestige of rural Church work.
3. Establishing and holding diocesan, regional and national conferences for clergy and women interested in the development of rural Church work.
4. Raising the standard of salaries for rural clergy.

"General Convention recommends the appointment of Commissions, or Committees on Rural Work in the provinces, dioceses and missionary districts of the Church.

"General Convention urges all seminaries of the Church to include rural work in their curricula and require at least three months village or country work before graduation."

It was to deal with such specific matters as these and to "foster the Church's work in village and country life" that the General Convention of 1928 appointed the Joint Commission on Rural Work.

The report presented to General Convention in 1931 revealed that the Commission members had taken the assignment seriously. This report was statesmanlike in its long-range vision and practical and inclusive in its detail of a projected national program for rural work. Several of the most significant phases of the current program for rural work found their first clearcut utterance in this statement made to General Convention 21 years ago.

Embodying as it did the corporate judgment of many bishops, priests and laymen of the Church who had been most active in rural church leadership during the preceding decade, it is accurate to state that this report of 1931 was truly a charter and a chart for rural church advance. It shows a broad grasp of the basic problems of rural America and the relation of the Church to them. That the foundations for a rural Church advance were not yet soundly laid in the thinking and convictions of the Church as a whole is revealed by the fact that within the triennium for which this report was prepared, the Church in a desperate economy drive eliminated almost entirely any budget for rural work. This policy of retrenchment characterized the next two reports.

By provision of a budget item for a National Council officer to be responsible for rural work, the General Convention of 1940 took a major forward step toward making real the aspiration of many who sought the advance of the Church's work in rural America. The Rev. Clifford L. Samuelson, priest in rural areas in the Diocese of Olympia, was called in 1941 to this position and has been administratively responsible for the creation of the Division of Town and Country Work and the program which is functioning today.

Reports of this Commission subsequent to 1940 show that the Church has moved beyond mere statements of the problem of the rural Church to finding and demonstrating specific answers to those problems. During this past decade, despite its dislocation of community life, there has steadily developed an organization, program and budget for rural work which puts the Episcopal Church in a position for steady advance toward clearly defined goals in its town and country work: By action of the Program and Budget Committee of General Convention in 1946, a reasonably adequate budget item was for the first time provided for rural work. With this financial support it has been possible to consolidate gains of the past and to move confidently toward new goals. To a real degree the Church has now responded to the plea of the Commission of 1931, which stated that: "An effective national program must be projected, guided and administered by an organization functioning continuously and nationally and so securing breadth and continuity of policy and unity of effort. It must have responsible and recognized representation in the organic life of the Church through the General Convention and its administrative body, the National Council."

II

In 1949 a Division of Town and Country Work was established by the National Council. This action was taken because the total activities and budget for rural work had developed to the stage where they properly required the full time of two officers and an office staff to administer and promote the extensive field program which was in operation. The function of the Division of Town and Country Work is to be "responsible for the advancement and strengthening of the work and service of the Episcopal Church in Town and Country, or rural, areas." This field includes the open country and the small towns, usually under 10,000 in population. More than one-half of the 7,000 congregations of the Episcopal Church are in this category. It is a startling fact that the Episcopal Church with its communicant strength preponderantly in cities has so many congregations in small towns. Herein, under the present critical shortage of clergy, we have one of the grave problems and weaknesses in our town and country church work. But, in this great number of congregations, the Church already has the asset of an established base of operation. These facts underlie much of the present emphases in the activities of the Division of Town and Country Work.

The Division of Town and Country Work has defined the primary aims for the rural work of the Episcopal Church. These seven goals, based on the corporate judgment of church leaders as found in the resolutions and findings of many reports and conferences on rural work, and officially adopted by the National Advisory Committee on Town and Country Work are:

1. To provide an effective, well-trained pastoral ministry and the Sacraments to Episcopal Church people in rural areas.
2. To provide a continuous Christian education to Church people of all ages in town and country.
3. To win to Christian conviction and Church membership the unchurched living in rural areas.
4. To establish, extend and strengthen the organized work of the Church in town and country areas.
5. To cooperate with other churches and other agencies to improve community life and the rural general welfare.
6. To awaken in seminarians and clergy a vocation for rural ministry.
7. To develop within the entire Church an understanding of rural people and of the need for a strong rural Church.

In its effort to be of service to the Church toward fulfilling these primary aims of town and country work the Division centers its activities on the following points.

More than 400 clergy are enrolled each year in town and country church work courses. This helps in improving both methods and morale of men who are now in rural work.

Seminarians are now being reached through regular courses on rural work in several theological schools. In addition, a field-related training program is maintained through the National Town-Country Church Institute and the regional rural church institutes which provide a constructive and supervised field experience in rural work for approximately 200 seminarians each year.

The National Town-Country Church Institute at Roanridge has developed into a rural church training center which has attracted nationwide attention and commendation. The Institute now has a resident staff of three clergymen, a woman worker in Christian education and a Church Army captain. It also has an associate faculty staff during the summer and for the short courses for clergy held throughout the year. It provides on-the-job training in basic techniques in the rural ministry for clergy, seminarians and women in training for church work. Through the Institute steady progress is being made in the development of materials and methods by which Christian education and the total ministry of the Church can be more effective in small communities.

The Division maintains an extensive and systematic program of study, research and field survey with a view steadily to define and make available to the entire Church criteria by which effective rural church work is to be measured. It is out of the local field study initiated and developed by the Division of Town and Country Work that the National Council has now organized a Unit of Research and Field Study.

Through production and distribution of literature, photographs, documentary films and addresses to provincial synods, diocesan conventions and local groups, the Division endeavors to bring to the entire Church an understanding of the opportunities and responsibilities of the Church in fulfilling an effective rural ministry.

The detailed operation of the Division of Town and Country Work has been carefully studied by the combined membership of the Joint Commission on Rural Work and the National Advisory Committee on Town and Country Work. Both in scope and balance of work the total program of the Division has been given wholehearted commendation by these bodies whose membership is representative of the informed rural leadership of the entire Church.

III

In its review of the past 30 years of rural work as a concern of General Convention your Commission rejoices in the accomplishments of the past and present generations. Yet we should be remiss were we not to view with sober concern the immensity and the immediacy of the opportunities and obligations before us. The Church has made a good beginning, but only a beginning, in comprehending and tackling this essential task of town and country work and in providing for its support.

The Commission is pleased with the seven clearly stated and specific goals for rural work. It views with satisfaction the increasing number of clergy who express a life vocation for the rural ministry. It is thankful that town and country work is firmly integrated in the total organization and operation of the Church. Your Commissions have rendered a service not only by their insistence on immediate undertaking of present responsibilities, but by their prophetic urge toward distant goals. In continuing to move forward the Church must constantly be guided by the seven primary goals in rural work. In pursuance thereof, and in addition to continued emphasis on activities now in process, the Commission wishes to leave as a matter of record that increased attention be given by the Church to the following undertakings:

1. Inform the Church about its rural work, and the strategic importance thereof in the life of the nation. This should be a weighty concern in each Commission report. The highly urban character of our Church communicant strength necessitates unceasing and systematic education on rural work.
2. Develop a rural laymen's movement. In conjunction with the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work develop a widespread movement to increase the participation by town and country laymen in the work of the Church.
3. Increase in the seminaries the number and scope of courses of study on the rural church and rural life. This has long been recognized as highly important for the adequate preparation of clergy for rural work.

4. Expand the rural field training of seminarians until it becomes required of all but a limited number in the middle year who have definitely elected urban or some other specialized field.

5. Complete the National Town-Country Church Institute and the Roanridge Rural Training Center.

a. Finish the physical plant.

b. Expand the all-year training program.

c. Relate Roanridge organically to four or five regional training Institutes, located to serve all sections of the country.

6. Increase Grants for Graduate Study. The number of grants to selected clergy for graduate study, at present limited to one or two persons, should be increased to at least four annually. The expansion of training for rural work will require more and better trained leaders, and graduate study is an essential part of their preparation.

7. Promote the organizing of diocesan and provincial departments or commissions for rural work, and assist them in developing conferences and programs to strengthen the rural Church.

8. Create a Publicity and Resource Unit at Roanridge, working with the Department of Promotion of National Council.

a. Edit and expand "Crossroads," the publication of the Rural Workers' Fellowship.

b. Aid provincial and diocesan rural work commissions in publicity.

c. Train rural clergy, seminarians and rural laymen in public relations through local papers, radio and other program publicity.

d. Assemble and make available to rural clergy and rural laymen's organizations, information in all fields related to rural life and the rural Church. A great deal of valuable practical information exists that at present is unknown to most persons.

9. Convey to the entire Church its urgent need for an increase of clergy. All available information indicates that to fill existing vacancies and to seize strategic opportunities in rural areas we must increase our active clergy by at least 1,000 men.

The preparation of this final report has involved the careful study of all past reports since 1922. It is a humbling and inspiring experience to see passing before one's eyes on the printed page the long procession of bishops, priests and laymen—both men and women—who have given their best efforts to strengthen the rural church. Theirs has been the task of leading the Church to express in winning service to those in small towns and open country the power and genius of our Anglican faith and practice. From them our rural work today has a heritage which gives momentum to our present outreach of Word and Sacrament to rural people.

The Commission regrets to report the death, during the triennium, of two valuable members: the Right Rev. Elwood L. Haines, Bishop of Iowa, and the Right Rev. Stephen C. Clark, Bishop of Utah.

We offer the following resolution:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Joint Commission on Rural Work be discontinued.

APPENDIX 28

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON
ASSISTANCE TO THE RUSSIAN CHURCH

THE ANGLICAN COMMUNION AND EASTERN ORTHODOX CHURCHES

The Eastern Orthodox Churches have had parishes and diocesan administrative organs in Western Europe and in America for many decades. The Russian Church was established in Alaska as a mission at the end of the eighteenth century, and moved across the continent from West to East. Even before World War I nearly all European capitals had both Russian and Greek churches representing the mother Churches architecturally, as well as in pastoral services for permanent Orthodox residents and visitors in these countries.

The last thirty years, however, have seen a great extension in the number and importance of these Churches in the West, accompanied by a greater awareness of their integral position alongside of the traditional Western Churches. Extension has been the result of family growth—already third and fourth generations—and of the influx of Russian refugees after the 1917 revolution and, more recently, as displaced persons, among whom a considerable proportion have been Orthodox.

At present therefore the net weight of Eastern Orthodox faithful as represented by their parishes, diocesan organizations, youth work, Student Movement, theological training institutions, chaplains in the United States Armed Forces and religious literature, has become of real significance in American religious life. Both the National Council of Churches in the U. S. A. and the World Council of Churches benefit from active participation of Eastern Orthodox resident in the United States.

The Joint Commission, which was first established to deal with assistance to the Russian Church, has found it increasingly desirable to extend its relationship to all of the Eastern Orthodox bodies, even though actual financial assistance continues to be restricted to the needs of the Russian Orthodox Church in Europe. A specific expression of this broadening of interest by the Joint Commission has been its publication of the list of "Parishes and Clergy of the Orthodox and other Eastern Churches in North America." In the second edition, April, 1952, there are listed thirty-seven Eastern Orthodox Archbishops, Metropolitans or Bishops and 1,692 parishes in the United States and Canada.

In this publication and in numerous national and local situations the Protestant Episcopal Church is continuing its tradition of friendship with the Orthodox thereby strengthening the combined work of all in the service of our common Lord.

RECOGNITION OF ANGLICAN ORDERS

A new phase in the formal relation of the Orthodox and Anglican Communions began with the inclusion of the topic of Anglican Ordinations on the Agenda of the Conference of Orthodox Churches held at Moscow in 1948. (The Patriarch of Constantinople and the Church of Greece did not participate.) Though the reserved position taken up was in some ways disappointing, the fact that Anglican Orders, on which several of the Orthodox Churches had expressed opinions, were for the first time discussed in a formal Conference of Orthodox church leaders is itself significant. The decision was, in effect, that the technical and historical aspects of the question were of less importance than the dogmatic, and that if "a formally expressed unity of faith and confession," especially on the relevant topics of Ordination and the Sacraments, were arrived at, Anglican Orders could be duly recognized by an official act of the whole Orthodox Church. The resolutions end by expressing the serious hope that this result may indeed be accomplished. (For more details we refer to the Proceedings of the Conference of Heads and Representatives of the Autocephalic Orthodox Churches, Held in Moscow, July, 1948, published by YMCA PRESS, Ltd., Paris, France, 1952, and to the summary of previous discussions in E. R. Hardy, Orthodox Statements on Anglican Orders, 1946.)

We would emphasize that every instance of informal friendly relations between Orthodox and Anglican Churches helps to create the atmosphere in which such formal questions can fruitfully be discussed. The Patriarch Alexei in his opening speech at the Moscow Conference observed that "We are all in fraternal relations with the Church of England," and all courtesies extended by bishops, clergy, and laity as from one sister Church to another, have a real value.

The members of the Commission are glad that their Chairman was able to represent the Episcopal Church at the Pauline Centenary celebrations organized by the Church of Greece in 1951, and note with pleasure the cautious but definite decision of that Church to continue its participation in the World Council of Churches, under the responsible leadership of such men as the Metropolitan Panteleimon of Thessalonica, who has close personal contacts with our Church as a graduate of the Philadelphia Divinity School.

CHARACTERIZATION OF THE NEEDS OF THE ORTHODOX CHURCHES

During the last six years the Episcopal Church has developed both direct and indirect cooperation with the Orthodox Churches of Europe and the Middle East. The Presiding Bishop has exchanged greetings with the heads of the Churches. Both the Chairman, Bishop Scaife, and the Secretary, Mr. Anderson, have visited a number of these Churches, including those in the Middle East. The Committee for Overseas Relief has contributed through the World Council to the needs of several of these Churches, which is in addition to the aid which the Good Friday Offering provides both for the work of the Church in Jerusalem and for the Russian Orthodox Church in Western Europe.

This cooperation will in all likelihood increase in the future. The need for assistance to the ravaged churches of Greece and Yugoslavia has yet to be met. Chiefly, however, there is need for assistance in the restoration of theological education, in the equipment for local churches and in helping the administration of the Churches to strengthen the body as a whole.

There is an increasing trend toward the exchange of students and theologians between the several Churches, and a desire to have some theological students attend both the St. Sergius Academy in Paris and St. Vladimir in New York.

THE RUSSIAN ORTHODOX CHURCH IN WESTERN EUROPE

The departure of a great many Orthodox from among the displaced persons in Germany and Austria has greatly modified the situation. It is now possible to discern the centers where the Orthodox will maintain parish life in these countries. The German Government has shown a friendly interest, and there is an indication that in future the Orthodox will be given such facilities for maintaining the life of parishes as come within the existing legislative provisions of the German State. The Protestant Church in Germany is also taking a friendly and understanding view of Orthodoxy. Unfortunately the jurisdictional problem still divides the Russian Orthodox, complicated still further by the rise of an Ukrainian national Orthodox Church administration and local parishes.

In France the Russian Orthodox Church life continues relatively unaffected by the movement in displaced persons, since very few settled in France. On the other hand, the Theological Seminary of St. Sergius in Paris has become increasingly a center for higher theological study both by Russians and by students coming from other national Orthodox Churches—Serbian, Greek, Finnish, Antiochian.

The displaced persons who went to America have partly been absorbed in the existing parishes, but they have also set up new parishes and monasteries. These newer establishments are generally related to the jurisdiction known as the "Russian Synod Abroad." It is possible that in due time, many of these parishes and perhaps even the administration will become unified with the jurisdiction of the Metropolitan Leonty, but this tendency is not yet strongly in evidence.

Of great significance is the fact that so many Orthodox have gone to Australia. Their number has been great enough really to affect the balance of Church distribution in the country. Many new parishes have been formed, and one may expect that there will be a growing influence of Orthodoxy within the Christian community in Australia.

SIGNIFICANCE OF THE GROWTH OF ORTHODOX CHURCH MEMBERSHIP
IN THE U. S. A.

Not only has there been an increase in the number of Orthodox in the United States, but an increase in vitality. The increased number of parishes and particularly the growing position of St. Vladimir Theological Seminary and Academy have created a sense of responsibility and a recognition of importance which was scarcely felt before. St. Vladimir is doing good work as a theological school, but it is also a symbol of what an American-trained Orthodox clergy and an Orthodox student body can do. With this stimulus and with the cooperation of the Chaplain at Columbia University, an Orthodox Student Movement has been formed. Already this is being taken as a model for Orthodox in other universities, where hundreds of Orthodox students appear in the student bodies. Thus American educational authorities are becoming aware of the fact that the Orthodox constitute a specific and relatively significant part of the population, along with the Roman Catholics and Protestants. The same recognition has already been accorded by the military authorities in the appointment of chaplains to the Armed Forces.

The Commission regrets to report the recent death of its Treasurer, Samuel F. Houston.

RESOLUTIONS

In light of experience of recent years, the Joint Commission feels that its scope should be officially altered to embrace relationships not only with the Russian Church, but with the other Eastern Churches, with functions clearly defined so as to coordinate its efforts with those of other relevant commissions of General Convention and with the administrative organs of the National Council. To this end, the Joint Commission at its meeting on March 24, 1952 passed the following resolutions:

1. To recommend to General Convention the continuance of the Joint Commission with its title changed to "Joint Commission on Relations with the Eastern Orthodox Churches."
2. To authorize the officers to prepare a recommendation defining the scope and task of the Joint Commission in light of its broadened responsibilities.
3. That the Joint Commission continue to receive 15 per cent of the Good Friday Offering, for use in giving assistance to the Russian Orthodox Church in Europe.

APPENDIX 29

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON SOCIAL RECONSTRUCTION

At General Convention in 1940 a resolution was introduced as follows:

Resolved, The House of Bishops concurring, that we urge our leaders to give all possible assistance to the Archbishop of York and his associates in marking certain essentials of the order of social and economic life for which we will be working during and after this war."

This resolution referred to the fact that Archbishop Temple, through his leadership at the Malvern Conference and other such meetings, had stirred the conscience of the Church in its responsibility for bringing Christian principles to bear on the social and economic life of the community. The foregoing resolution was referred to the Joint Committee on National, International and Social Problems which in turn submitted the following resolution:

"Inasmuch as the resolution . . . was re-committed to this committee for further consideration, we would recommend its adoption with the appointment of a Joint Commission to consist of three Bishops, three Presbyters and four laymen who would keep themselves informed on the work and study of the Archbishop of York and his associates, looking toward preservation and promotion of Christian essentials in the social and economic life when peace has come."

This resolution was adopted by both Houses and this Joint Commission was appointed.

The Commission held a number of sessions in Saint Louis and at the College of Preachers and presented its first report at the Cleveland General Convention in 1943. This report dealt with three main topics: religious convictions on international, interracial and economic problems. The report was unanimously adopted by the Convention and was published by the National Council, New York, and the Forward Movement, Cincinnati, under the title, "A Better World For All Peoples." In the meantime the Archbishop of York had become the Archbishop of Canterbury; so the name of the Commission was changed to the Joint Commission on Social Reconstruction.

During the next triennium, 1943 to 1946, the Commission held a number of conferences at which papers were read. From these papers a book was issued in the name of the Commission, entitled "Christianity Takes a Stand." This book had a sale of between fifty and sixty thousand copies and was made the basis for discussion groups in many parts of the Church.

During the triennium 1946 to 1949 the Commission held three regional conferences, one at Seabury House, Greenwich, Conn.; one at Saint Louis, Mo.; and a third in San Francisco. These conferences brought together representatives of management and labor, leaders in the field of international affairs and of race relations. As a result of these conferences a second book was published in the name of the Commission, entitled "The Christian Demand for Social Justice," which was presented as part of the report of the Commission at the 1949 General Convention in San Francisco. But the sale of this book was exceedingly disappointing though it was a much better book than the first. Several universities asked permission to reprint parts of it in their own publications. But the experience was discouraging and the Commission decided that books of this type were apparently not desired by the Church.

During the triennium 1950-52 the Commission, meeting in Cincinnati, adopted a two-fold program. First, a subcommittee under the chairmanship of Bishop Tucker of Ohio and Dr. Henry Lewis of Ann Arbor was set up to organize conferences to discuss the principles which should direct a Christian layman in his business and industrial activity; and secondly a subcommittee was created to publish tracts from time to time on current questions.

Under the first subcommittee two conferences have been held in Cleveland. In January, 1951, a conference was held at Trinity Cathedral, at which were present some fifteen Christian laymen who are leaders in industrial management, together with a small group of clergy. This seminar was in session for two days. The conference itself stressed the fact that the need for the understanding of the relationship between the Church and our economic system is of paramount importance, and suggestions were made as to how the discussion of this question might best be encouraged. The Commission was asked to sponsor similar gatherings in various parts of the Church.

The conference also decided to meet a second time and to ask a theologian to set forth the theological principles which should actuate a Christian layman in his business and industry. Accordingly a second seminar was held in Cleveland, January 15-16, 1952. The Bishop of Michigan was invited to set forth the theological premises. Nine prominent laymen representing six dioceses, together with a small group of clergy, were present. Bishop Emrich made a profound impression and was requested to put his addresses on "Christian Foundations" in pamphlet form, together with questions appended for seminar discussion. It was also agreed that the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Layman's Work be asked to bring together groups of laymen for a discussion of this whole question, using Bishop Emrich's pamphlet as a basis for the seminar. In this way it is hoped that these discussions may be brought to the parish level. While we have not yet succeeded in persuading Bishop Emrich to write his addresses out in full, yet we hope to have them briefed for distribution to those who conduct such seminars. The conference also urged that the laymen present at these two conferences seek the opportunity of presenting this subject on wider platforms before conventions, civic clubs, et cetera.

The subcommittee on tracts asked Dr. Lester B. Granger, Executive Secretary of the National Urban League of America and a devoted communicant of this Church, to write a paper on "The Church and Its Relation to our American Citizens of Negro Descent" which the Commission has published in its own name and offers as a basis for the discussion of this vital question.

Furthermore the Commission agreed to write to the clergy of the Church, urging them to arouse their people to an appreciation of the meaning, scope and opportunity of the great program of technical and financial assistance to the people of economically under-developed areas of the world. Consequently the following letter, together with a copy of the findings of the Buck Hill Falls Conference on this subject, was sent to the clergy of the Church.

"The Joint Commission on Social Reconstruction, appointed by last Convention, believes that one of the most important things which the clergy of our Church can do this year is to interpret to our people the meaning, scope and possibilities of the noble Fourth Point Concept.

"This program offers the people of the United States an unparalleled opportunity for service to the peoples of the economically under-developed areas of the world, an opportunity in line with the best in the great American tradition.

"This program has not as yet taken hold of the American people as it should, and it is here that the clergy can be of very great assistance.

"That we are in the midst of a worldwide revolt we all recognize. General Marshall, speaking in Honolulu some time ago, as quoted in the public press, put it succinctly: 'There is no doubt in my mind that we are in the midst of a world revolution and I don't mean Communism. They, the Communists, are like your surf riders here; they're just riding in on the crest of the wave. The revolution I'm talking about is that of the little people all over the world. They're beginning to learn what there is in life, and what they're missing.'

"At bottom this is a revolt against poverty, hunger, stagnation, frustration; against inequality of status and cruel inequality of circumstance. It is basically a revolt in the name of human dignity. It stems from the new conviction that man's misery is no longer inevitable; that mankind has now the knowledge and techniques with which on a grand scale to wage war successfully against poverty, hunger and disease, and to make social and economic progress possible not only for citizens of a few nations but for most of mankind.

"It is to this vast need that the Fourth Point Program, with its offer of technical and financial assistance, addresses itself. It thus seeks to do something about the world unrest and helps to make revolt unnecessary by removing or mitigating its causes. Also it opens up to the young men and young women of America magnificent opportunities in varied careers for service to the peoples of the world. It is not a Democratic project nor a Republican project. It is an opportunity for us as Americans working in cooperation with other nations to go to the assistance of peoples who now of necessity care more for bread than for freedom.

"We hope that during the coming year you will do all in your power to further the most enlightened and effective use by this country of this great tool, both in sermons and in study groups."

The Commission had arranged with the Division of Public Liaison of the State Department to send complete information regarding the way this Program is working out to any clergyman applying for it.

We believe that the Commission has opened up several new avenues which should be pursued vigorously and we, therefore, present to General Convention the following resolutions:

1. Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that a Joint Commission on Social Reconstruction be continued by the appointment by General Convention of five Bishops, five Presbyters and seven laymen; and that for the expenses of such Commission the sum of $5,000.00 is hereby appropriated for the triennium.

2. United Nations.

WHEREAS, Earlier world conditions, such as made for national isolation and the promotion of selfish national interests in many parts of the world, have now been eclipsed by new conditions resulting from modern commerce, revolutionized facilities for transportation and communication, and world-scale military activities, so that the most acute present day economic and social problems are worldwide in their impact and require solution on an international scale; and

WHEREAS, Under existing present day conditions the only possible pathway to world peace lies through collective security; and

WHEREAS, The United Nations system offers the only organized machinery in existence for the practical attainment of collective world security; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we, seeing in the developing and strengthening of the United Nations the hand of God, and recognizing that in spite of its faults and shortcomings it is the best hope of mankind today, pledge our support to the United Nations organization, correcting where possible its shortcomings and contributing all possible effort toward the strengthening and development of its work, and hoping for its future development into a world federation open to all peoples, with defined and limited power adequate to preserve peace and prevent aggression through the encouragement and enforcement of world law.

3. Preventive War.

WHEREAS, Believers in a God of justice and love as revealed in Christ cannot concede that war is inevitable; and

WHEREAS, Voices are frequently raised suggesting that a preventive war would afford a short cut through our present dilemma; and

WHEREAS, If this advice were accepted the United States would be placed in an utterly indefensible moral position before the world, as well as violate the fundamental teachings of Christ; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we unalterably oppose the idea of a so-called "preventive war."

4. The Problem of Under-developed Areas.

In the under-developed areas of the world today, particularly in Asia and Africa, shocking conditions exist, incompatible with a Christian civilization. Appalling human need grips these areas. In many sections life expectancy at birth is only 32 years. One out of every three babies dies before reaching its first birthday. Disease is rampant. More people in Asia and Africa are unable to read a word from a printed book or direction than inhabit the whole of Europe and the United States. Added to these conditions of desperate need and ignorance are embittering memories of cruel racial discrimination and exploitation which often accompanied nineteenth century colonialism. Many of these people are played upon by surging forces of nationalism. Asia and Africa today, emerging from the primitive conditions which have locked them in for centuries, are being confronted with twentieth century problems which they scarcely understand and for which they are quite unprepared. Millions of men and women living in these areas are more and more insistently asking why they should live as the disinherited people of the world.

Here is a problem which must be comprehended and met today if we are to have world peace. Even if the Soviet state collapsed tomorrow, there could be no assurance of world peace until this problem is mastered. For peace depends inescapably upon human freedom; and in the face of desperate hunger and need, of deep-rooted racial hatreds, of the sudden acquisition of power by peoples quite unprepared for its responsibilities, there can be no genuine freedom.

WHEREAS, The Western world now possesses the necessary resources, the scientific knowledge and the power of organized technological assistance effectively to elevate living standards, to reduce or eliminate preventable disease and to organize and establish widespread popular education in such areas both through the activities of the United Nations and through the coordinated efforts of separate governments administering such territories; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we earnestly urge the making of a determined attack upon this world problem of desperate need in all under-developed territories, and that we promote and support every practicable effort to build up in such areas the political, economic, social and educational foundations necessary for the achievement of human freedom: no Christian has a right to ignore this profound problem: existing conditions violate Christ's teaching of human brotherhood, and spell world catastrophe if allowed during the coming decades to go uncorrected.

5. Trade Barriers.

WHEREAS, There is a growing trend in this country to raise trade barriers against foreign goods, as manifested by such development as (a) the restrictive amendments to the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, (b) a sharp rise in applications under the "escape clause" provisions of the Trade Agreements Act by domestic producers to eliminate foreign competition, and (c) the passage of legislation, such as Section 104 of the Defense Production Act and other pending legislative proposals, directed to the erection of restrictive barriers against imports; and

WHEREAS, It is in the best interest of the United States to encourage increased production, better living standards and greater individual and social progress through the reduction of unnecessary barriers to trade; and

WHEREAS, A restrictive trade policy will prevent the efficient use of the manpower, skills and resources of the free world, impede the fulfillment of the Point IV program and impair the security objectives of the United States and the free world; and

WHEREAS, Seven countries allied with the United States in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization have already made formal representations to our Government protesting the prospective impact of restrictive trade measures on the joint defense effort; and

WHEREAS, A restrictive trade policy is discriminatory in its operation and tends to provoke retaliation and to undermine the unity of the free world and create obstacles to freedom, a stable peace, and a sound social order; and

WHEREAS, A stable world peace cannot be built upon economic discrimination and warfare; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that this Convention consistently opposes measures and legislation calculated to heighten trade barriers or to increase trade discrimination among the free peoples of the earth since these serve only to stimulate the building of economic warfare and thus to develop international hostilities between free nations and peoples who must make common cause and stand firmly together in the present world struggle against the enemies of human freedom.

6. Immigration.

WHEREAS, Thousands of men, women and children through no fault of their own, are today homeless, some displaced by the last World War and its terrible aftermath or more recently by military hostilities in Korea, the Middle East and elsewhere, other refugees driven from their homes by Nazi, Fascist and Communist tyranny, still others expellees forcibly ejected from their countries or escapees who seeking freedom have broken through the Iron Curtain; and

WHEREAS, The resulting suffering and inhumanity can be met only by nations acting collectively and separately, adopting policies based upon sound and statesmanlike solution in view of the complex and many-sided social, economic and political problems involved; and

WHEREAS, Beyond the emergency problem of displaced persons, refugees, expellees and escapees is the more fundamental long range problem of our American permanent immigration policy; and

WHEREAS, Whatever solutions are adopted will make for increased suffering, misunderstanding and international hostility unless they are based upon Christian fundamentals, such as freedom from racial or religious discrimination and from the injustice of absolute racial exclusion, generosity in the fixing of quota restrictions if these be employed and the unflinching and honest effort to alleviate human need and suffering wherever these may be found; and

WHEREAS, The adoption by Congress of enlightened and humanitarian immigration and naturalization laws would add immeasurably to the moral stature of the United States and would substantially strengthen our leadership in the present world struggle for human freedom; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that this Convention urges upon Congress the enactment of temporary immigration provisions, shaped in coordination with the United Nations and with the efforts of other states and contributing generously of American help and American resources, to meet intelligently the complex emergency problem of uprooted and homeless peoples compelled to live outside their own countries; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we also urge upon Congress the passage of a well-considered and basic immigration law and naturalization legislation based upon more generous quotas than those now existing and free from all discriminatory provisions.

7. Control of Armaments.

WHEREAS, Christian teaching is sharp and unequivocal that man must develop methods of settling differences and antagonisms other than physical conflict; and

WHEREAS, It is becoming ever clearer that in these days of atom bombs we cannot continue the way of war and survive; and

WHEREAS, Modern armament has become such a preposterous economic drain on every country forced to depend upon armed national defense that human progress in social, economic and educational fields is being seriously hindered or halted; and

WHEREAS, A balanced reduction of the world's armaments if shared proportionately by all would not increase the risk of any one nation but would immeasurably reduce the risk for all and at the same time open up to each immense avenues of social, economic and educational advance; and

WHEREAS, The goal of disarmament is not to regulate but to prevent war by relaxing the tensions and fears created by armaments; and

WHEREAS, The United States on many occasions has declared its readiness and desire to participate in arrangements to bring the armaments of the nations under international control; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church endorses the present efforts of the U. N. Disarmament Commission to achieve a balanced reduction of the armaments of the world and support every practicable effort to achieve that end.

8. Japanese Peace Treaty.

WHEREAS, There have come into force on April 28, 1952, a Treaty of Peace and a Security Treaty with Japan based upon reconciliation and constructive statesmanship; and

WHEREAS, The future of Asia is in large part dependent upon the spirit and the magnanimous understanding with which the provisions of the Peace Settlement are carried out on each side; and

WHEREAS, Japan today in the long view is in many respects one of the most strategic and critical spots of the world; and

WHEREAS, The Japanese people have by their words and deeds expressed their whole-hearted support of the principles of the United Nations; and

WHEREAS, There is insufficient arable land in Japan to support her population of some 85,000,000 people, and a substantial number of these people consequently must go hungry or starve unless they can find foreign markets in which to sell the goods which they produce; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we urge and work for the implementation of these treaties by rigorous Christian dealing with the people of Japan; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we resist the unilateral imposition by our country of heightened tariffs and trade barriers calculated to reduce the sale in the United States of Japanese goods.

9. Forward-looking Asian Policy.

WHEREAS, The living Church of Christ can be built only upon human brotherhood and recognition of the sanctity of each individual personality regardless of race or color or creed; and

WHEREAS, The white race constitutes only a minority of the people of the world, more than half of the world's population living in Asia; and

WHEREAS, American world leadership must be based upon the great kindling principles of Christianity if American leadership is to be maintained and made secure; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we urge upon our Government the pushing forward upon a constructive and liberal Asian policy, based upon the winning of the friendship and understanding of Indians, Japanese, Chinese, and all the peoples of Asia, recognizing that under future conditions without Asian friendship and understanding it will be impossible to go forward in the march of human progress and being convinced that in the great human brotherhood Asia is of equal importance with Europe and the Americas.

10. Racial Discrimination.

WHEREAS, Christ taught above all the Fatherhood of God, the consequent brotherhood of man and the oneness of the whole human family; and

WHEREAS, Present day developments, leading to an increasing interdependence of nations and peoples, are making ever clearer that the inescapable alternatives confronting us are either Christ's way of Brotherhood or the possibility of the destruction of our civilization; and

WHEREAS, Christ's teaching is utterly incompatible with every form of color or racial discrimination, both domestic and international; and

WHEREAS, Almost every country today, including our own, is guilty in greater or less degree of mass racial or color discrimination; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that we consistently oppose and combat racial and color discrimination in every form, both within the Church and without, in this country and internationally.

11. Human Rights.

WHEREAS, We believe that the nature and destiny of man by virtue of his creation, redemption and calling, and man's activities in family, state and culture establish limits beyond which a government cannot with impunity go; and

WHEREAS, We further believe that respect for an observance of human rights constitutes an essential cornerstone for building a world society where peace and justice can prevail; and

WHEREAS, The violation of human rights and fundamental freedoms in many parts of the world both degrade man and jeopardize world peace; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the members of this Convention (1) encourage and support full participation by the United States in international action through the United Nations to the end that the observance of human rights and fundamental freedoms for all men may be promoted, without distinction as to race, sex, language or religion; and (2) use every reasonable means to overcome long-standing discriminatory practices in our own land; and, particularly in these days when we seek to oppose the threat of totalitarianism from without, to guard against our own use of the methods which we condemn in others.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE STATE OF THE CHURCH

The Committee on the State of the Church has held six meetings during the Convention and has endeavored, by exchange of information and by the appointment of sub-committees with specific responsibilities, to assay the condition of the Church at the present time. The reports of these sub-committees have been made a part of this report and they merit the careful consideration of all Church people.

The statistics which were compiled from the reports sent in by the Secretaries of the dioceses and districts reveal a steady growth in virtually every category. In fact, the only figures which show a marked decrease during the triennium are:

1. The number of marriages.
2. The amounts given for special purposes outside the parish.

We again call attention to the magnificent work of the women of the Church. The United Thank Offering now approaches 2½ million dollars for the triennium, and this is but one tangible manifestation of the enthusiasm and leadership which the women are giving in the continuing life of the Church. We commend them and hope every member of the Church may be inspired to share some measure of their enthusiasm, devotion and service.

In the adoption of the budget for the coming triennium substantially as it was proposed by the National Council, this Convention has reflected the determination of our Church to continue its renewed concern for the necessity of resolutely moving forward on all fronts in the advancement of the Kingdom.

One area which the Committee did not consider, but which needs careful study, is that concerned with the Church's life in urban and industrial areas. It is hoped that this problem will be before the Church continually, so that the further decline of the Church's power in downtown and industrial areas may be prevented.

TOWN AND COUNTRY WORK

We highly recommend the Division of Town and Country Work on their splendid report of the last triennium and especially for the development which has taken place at Roanridge and the careful analysis of the State of the Church shown forth in their display at General Convention. A note of appreciation should also be made of the conferences conducted by the Division in various parts in the nation.

From the good report given by the Executive Secretary of this Division it is evident, however, that the two matters which plague this area of the Church are shortage of clergy and lack of funds. This committee would therefore urge the use of more lay readers in rural parishes and missions that greater regularity of services might be maintained.

We would indeed be most remiss if we failed at this point to express deep appreciation for the yeoman task done by the Joint Commission on Rural Work. We briefly list here nine undertakings which the Commission treats more fully in its report in the hope that more attention might be given to the report itself.

1. Inform the Church about its rural work.
2. Develop a rural layman's movement.
3. Increase in the seminaries the number and scope of courses of study on the rural church and rural life.
4. Expand the rural field training of seminarians until it becomes required of all but a limited number.
5. Complete the National Town-Country Church Institute and the Roanridge Rural Training Center.
6. Increase grants for Graduate Study.
7. Promote the organizing of diocesan and provincial departments or commissions for rural work.
8. Create a Publicity and Resource Unit at Roanridge.
9. Convey to the entire Church its urgent need for an increase of clergy.

The Committee feels that though we may launch into new fields of endeavor, this work, so well begun, must not be permitted to lag; that while we are organizing ourselves for an increased ministry we should not lose sight of the potential power of the layman. Laymen in the field might well be inspired to take the initiative in holding services of Morning Prayer, conducting Church Schools or Bible classes in places where only occasional services are now held, that no rural school or church be "sur-rendered to the cross-road tavern."

Nothing is impossible except as we think it to be. In this field as in all other fields of the Vineyard of the Lord, there is no time to take counsel of our fears, only of our faith. It is we who are here who must launch out into the deep if there is to be any expectation of leading the entire Church in the direction of the Kingdom.

STEWARDSHIP

The Episcopal Church is waking up to the place of Stewardship in a strong spiritual life. Three years ago the Committee on the State of the Church said, "We need more education in the practice of Christian Stewardship." Leadership and materials are being increasingly supplied and used. The training of laymen in special conferences by thoroughly informed leaders has borne fruit. Good materials have been provided. The three booklets, "All that I am," "My Time, My Talents, My Treasure," "A Study in Christian Stewardship," will help in educating our members. These may be obtained from the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Layman's Work.

Our giving has increased substantially, as you will see in the statistical report, but it is still small and unrealistic if Christ is truly "the hope of the world." Two consecrated laymen, completing terms of service on the National Council, Mr. Thomas Ringe and Dr. Clark Kuebler, spoke on this subject during General Convention. Mr. Ringe was pleading for increased support of the missionary and educational program of the Church. After telling how shocked and grieved he had been at times over the requests National Council has to deny, he said, "Stewardship is the underlying theme of our every member canvass; it is receiving special attention in the press and . . . is closely interwoven with the emphasis being given to the work our laity . . . a personal understanding of the meaning and practice of Christian stewardship is essential to what we are trying to do . . . in my mind nothing is more important than the use we make of the time, the talents, and the treasure which God has given to each one of us."

Dr. Kuebler in his deeply moving address said, "The Church is in partnership with our blessed Lord in the enterprise of redemption, and every missionary, every priest, every teacher is a partner with Christ—as are all of us as we support them . . . Unfortunately, too many of us do not live up to our partnership with God. Many want the profits without the investment, the booty without the battle, the crown without the cross. A real partner does not spend a dollar a week on movies or cigarettes and give fifty cents to God. A real partner does not drive an expensive car and give $100.00 a year to the Church's program. Our giving must be increasingly sacrificial and systematic, and we must give cheerfully and eagerly, realizing that to give is a privilege . . . and all that we are and have belong to God."

There is a growing awareness of the principle of the tithe. Several dioceses, notably Michigan, have created excellent plans and materials. Most recommend "The Modern Tithe" of 5 per cent directly to the work of God's Church and 5 per cent put to charitable and religious uses as we see and plan. The Forward Movement has an excellent paper on the subject. In all sections individual persons are beginning to tithe.

We give because God loves us and our love is drawn to him. He has made us stewards of all that we possess and we would properly administer our stewardship. We commend to the whole Church a thorough study of this subject. We urge upon each individual member a deep heart searching as to his share in this partnership with Christ.

LAYMEN'S MOVEMENT

One of the most encouraging and challenging aspects of the many reports made to the 57th General Convention is to be found in the report of the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Laymen's Work.

The report reveals a situation in the state of the Church which we feel is worthy of close scrutiny and heart-warming cooperation by the bishops, clergy and laity alike:—close scrutiny, that we may all keep abreast of its rapid progressive movement in the accomplishment of notable objectives; heart-warming cooperation that its future goals may the more readily be achieved to the glory of God and influence and growth of His Church.

While we rejoice in what has been accomplished through the Laymen's Movement since the beginning of its more recent development, we would point with keen interest to the objectives which constitute its program for the next triennium as set forth in the report to this General Convention; viz, the emphasis upon knowing the faith of the Church; the necessity for specific evangelism; and, the integration of new members into the full life and work of the Church.

We cannot urge too strongly participation in accomplishing these objectives in every parish and mission of this Church. We call upon clergy and laity alike to exercise diligent care that the men of the Church be fully informed of this vital movement and be given adequate opportunity to share in its program and work.

The state of the Church will be increasingly less a matter of anxious concern as the laymen of the Church progressively take their rightful places in her ranks of high minded working men and exercise their full stewardship with an enthusiasm that needs no apology.

YOUTH

The Committee recommends that the following propositions be given due consideration:

1. That meetings of the Youth of the Episcopal Church be held in the same city and at the same time as the General Convention since the experiment proved to be so successful in Boston 1952.

2. It is further proposed that the site of the Youth meetings continue to be held in a religious atmosphere.

3. It is recommended that Church leaders bear especially in mind the Youth of our Church who are in the Junior High School Group.

4. The Committee commends heartily the work done by the Department of Christian Education and urges the following:

- a. That the Department of Christian Education continue to stress the matter of leadership training.
- b. That the Department of Christian Education produce materials as quickly as possible but that speed of production be secondary to quality of materials produced.
- c. That the Department of Christian Education continue the educational Field Trips throughout the country.
- d. That the Department of Christian Education stress the work of the Youth Division with special emphasis upon Church camps and Youth Conferences for all ages of young people.

5. That the Parishes and Missions be advised of the facilities of Seabury Press in the selection and supply of publications and materials.

6. That essential appropriations be continued, and increased wherever possible, to expand and develop a Youth Program in every appropriate age group throughout the Church.

AMERICAN CHURCHES IN EUROPE

The last three years have seen a steady growth and strengthening of the work of the American Churches in Europe. Their witness to the spiritual side of our faith and freedom in countries which often think of America only in terms of wealth and power remains strong. This growth has gone hand in hand with the increasing numbers of Americans living, working, and traveling abroad. It seems reasonable to believe that there will be no decrease in these numbers as far ahead in the future as we can see. America's stake and interest in Europe seem to be permanent, as considerations of mutual security, commerce, cultural bonds, and tourism draw us closer together. The tides of isolationism in this country are on the ebb, even as the tides of travel, business, military and diplomatic relations with Europe are in fuller flow than ever. Carriers to Europe this summer were packed to capacity. The new tourist planes with their bargain rates have opened up Europe to whole new classes of American travelers. The American Express Company reports that some 750,000 Americans were in Europe this summer—the biggest tourist invasion in history. Our clergy in Europe are constantly told how much our Churches and their services mean to these traveling fellow citizens. They speak of the thrill they get when they come upon our Church in Paris, Nice, Geneva, Florence, or Rome, and find it "a home away from home," with a real welcome to greet and serve them and cheer them on their way. As one lady tourist, obviously a few weeks away from home, said to the clergy in Paris, "Thank godness, you speak English!" As a Church, we reap a rich reward in the appreciation and future interest of all sorts of American Christians traveling abroad.

But our services to tourists and travelers, of increasing importance as they are, are only one of several functions of the churches in Europe. The colonies of Americans resident in Europe have also greatly increased during the past triennium. Many more individuals and families have come over to serve agencies in which America is interested—Embassies, M.S.A.,

NATO, SHAPE, UNESCO, and others. These new residents are a typical cross-section of our countrymen. In Paris, Rome, and elsewhere, there are fair-sized American villages set down in the heart of these great capitals. The Church is as much a part of the lives of these temporary residents as it is in their home towns, and they look to it to baptize, confirm, marry, and bury, to educate their children, to bring them the beauty, strength, solace, and fellowship of Sunday worship and "coffee hour," and to keep fresh and real their ties of faith and fatherland.

Equally, our churches serve the still considerable numbers of permanent American residents in Paris, Rome, Florence, or elsewhere, who, for reasons of family, business, or preference, have roots deep in European soil. Some of their ties to our churches go back for decades, and even for generations, and they bring us a welcome sense of continuity and stability.

In view of this rising tide of American life in Europe, our churches have the greatest opportunity in their history to serve our fellows, to foster the cause of international and inter-Church understanding and unity, and to represent the Episcopal Church on the international scene and in the great centers of ecumenical activity. We delight that we are given the privilege, almost uniquely, of representing American Christianity on the continent. People from all kinds of denominational backgrounds are in our congregations and are grateful for our services. We trust that we do not keep the treasures of our Church, so rich and fruitful for the uniting of Christendom, hidden away in strong-boxes of a suspicious and exclusive denominationalism, but displayed in the show windows of worship and service that all may see them and share them. If, among all the American Churches at home, we have been given a unique privilege and opportunity in Europe, so we have been charged with a responsibility to serve and minister to all Americans. Nowhere does our Church have more of a chance to show what it has to offer the minds, souls, and sensibilities of men today, than to this parade of our fellow Americans passing through or staying a while in our churches in Europe. The result is that many become permanently attached to the faith and worship of our branch of Christ's Church and seek confirmation. Thus, Christian charity, hospitality, and service to all prove the best policy from the standpoint also of our own interests as a Church.

To report briefly on the individual Churches: The Pro-Cathedral Church of the Holy Trinity, Paris, the Very Rev. Sturgis Lee Riddle, Dean, is having its best year since the war. Paris today is the center of American and allied activities abroad. Because of our numerous agencies and personnel there, Paris has been called "Washington on the Seine." Strategically located in the heart of this critical capital, the American Cathedral is known as "the most beautiful example of English gothic on the continent," and "A House of Prayer for all people." Both attendance and giving have increased notably during the last triennium, enabling the Cathedral to contribute to the budget of the National Church as well as aid the work in Europe. The beauty and effectiveness of the Cathedral were enhanced this year by the gift of a memorial carillon. Due to the large numbers of families with children now living in the Paris area, the parish house proved too small for the enrollment in the Cathedral Sunday School, and this summer a third floor of class-rooms has been added. This growth in Sunday School is typical of our Churches which alone on the continent offer religious instruction to American families. Many special Services of community, international, and ecumenical interests are held in the Cathedral which, with its activities and organizations, is becoming an outstanding center of American life in Paris. Diplomatic and business leaders of the colony serve on the Vestry, as they do on all the European vestries, providing an unusually high standard of lay leadership.

The Church of the Holy Spirit, Nice, is fortunate in having secured this year an able and young new rector, the Rev. Charles Shreve. Rev. Mr. Shreve comes from San Marino, Calif., where he completed a beautiful new Church before taking up work in Nice. Our Church has an outstanding opportunity to serve Americans and others all up and down the Riviera. Its rector is active in the affairs of the American Hospital in Nice and affiliated Social Service work, and the church acts as navy chapel during the frequent visits of our Mediterranean fleet.

Emmanuel Church, Geneva, the Rev. Thomas L. Cox, rector, remains an active parish at the center of the ecumenical movement. It also touches the many international organizations with headquarters or offices in Geneva. The magnificent parish house, with its library, serves the community in many ways, and the large Woman's Auxiliary is active in works of charity and inter-Church fellowship. The cornerstone of Emmanuel Church was laid by President Grant. Always a center of student and cultural life, Geneva and our Church there play increasingly important roles in the whole picture of the Church and its labors toward unity.

In Italy, our two beautiful Churches are strongly staffed and vigorously alive. In Rome, St. Paul's "Within the Walls," ministers to perhaps the second largest American colony in Europe, increasing as more and more American writers, students, and artists succumb to the charms of the Eternal City. St. Paul's, with its energetic and scholarly rector, the Rev. Hillis Duggins, is at the center of American community life, especially with respect to schools and social services. Close contact is maintained with the native Protestant Churches, as well as with what is going on in the Vatican. St. Paul's, with its Burne-Jones mosaics, is a national Italian monument, and a credit to our Church and nation in the Capital of the Roman Catholic world. The new American Ambassador, Ellsworth Bunker, was recently elected Senior Warden.

St. James' Church, Florence, is served by a new young Rector, the Rev. Victor Stanley, formerly of Geneva. The small resident American colony has lately been augmented by personnel of the tactical air force headquarters located there, giving the Church greater opportunity than before to serve our fellow countrymen as well as the cause of Christian freedom. Florence is one of the showplaces of the world, and our handsome church there is in a position to represent American Christianity in its noblest and most attractive tradition to the many of every sort and condition who pass through this shrine city of the Medicis.

Thus, with the ever-widening American interests, responsibilities and residents in Europe, there is much more work for our Churches to do than ever before. The Bishop-in-Charge, the Right Rev. J. I. Blair Larned, D.D., has resumed work in Munich, cooperating with the Old Catholics, and is surveying the possibilities and requirements of new work in other places. Bishop Larned, in addition to his devoted and affectionate care of the Churches, and his ecumenical work in Geneva, has tirelessly visited the chaplains in Europe assigned to him, confirming and holding conferences. He is engaged in serious studies with the Anglican Church authorities looking toward increasing cooperation and sharing of the continental work. Due to circumstances with which we are all familiar, the work of the English Church on the continent has been gravely handicapped and many of its churches are closed.

A new day of increased service and importance has dawned for the Convocation of American Churches in Europe. We may be thankful for the far-sightedness which founded these Churches and gave them the honor of representing American Christianity abroad, and for the vision understanding, generosity, and enthusiasm which now sustain them.

THE SPIRITUAL LIFE OF THE CHURCH

As we look at the spiritual life of the Church, we see evidence of vitality that gives encouragement. We are aware, though, of signs that give us concern.

1. Through the Church we find among youth, both boys and girls of high school and college age, not merely a greater interest in the Church as an organization, but an increasing awareness of things of the Spirit. As evidence we note more active youth groups in parishes, increase of the number and vitality of camps and conferences, the growing movement of Canterbury Clubs on college campuses and the formation of the National Canterbury Association, and seminaries overcrowded by men entering the ministry.

2. We find from "281" down, an awakened concern for the religious education of people of all ages, and we pray that this concern may successfully filter down into the parishes and missions of the Church.

3. We believe also that more thorough instruction is being given by our clergy to parents and god-parents at Baptism, to boys and girls in Church School, for confirmation, to the bride and groom before the wedding, and in the growing adult study groups in parishes and dioceses. We hope that this instruction is more than the imparting of information, and is sinking down into the deep living of individuals.

But there are signs within the Church that give us cause for anxiety.

1. We note that for each year during the last triennium, giving to the General Church program has been a half million dollars short of the budget adopted by this body in San Francisco, with the result that some work was curtailed and only little new work envisioned by the National Council and Missionary Bishops was begun. At the same time, the parishes, by and large, throughout the Church have not hesitated to spend freely upon themselves.

2. We find that our Church, in proportion to the social and financial influence of its membership, has not assumed our full share of responsibility in the cooperative enterprises of the missionary imperative.

3. It is well known that, in numberless places from the Atlantic to the Pacific, building operations have provided thousands of homes for people "moving out" from crowded areas. But we find many instances where our Church has not been there to welcome them, nor has followed them after they have settled. We fear, too, that our failure to follow families who have "moved away" from their parishes, is responsible for the loss of hundreds of communicants, in spite of the fact that the statistics show an increase in our membership. Here is a sign of negligence on the part of the clergy and laity.

4. We are troubled to see, too often, how our Church members, both lay and clerical, show evidence of caring more for the material things of life than for the things of God; and how their daily living differs in no apparent way from that of those who profess no interest whatever in the Church.

RECOMMENDATION TO DIOCESES AND DISTRICTS

It is recommended that each diocese and district have a Committee on the State of the Church, which will be concerned with the Church within that jurisdiction. These committees are asked to send copies of their reports to this Committee and also to consider the report which this Committee makes for the National Church.

REPORT OF THE SUB-COMMITTEE ON CHURCH STATISTICS

ANALYSIS OF THE CHURCH'S VITAL AND FINANCIAL STATISTICS FOR THE YEARS 1949, 1950, AND 1951

In continuing the compilation of statistics begun by the Rev. Dr. Walter H. Stowe in 1943, the following figures for this triennium are listed in a manner similar to that employed by Dr. Stowe. It will be seen that there are increases noted with the preceding triennium in almost every category, so that from the point of church membership, as well as with relation to the other vital and financial statistics, there has been increasing growth.

CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES VITAL STATISTICS

Church Membership:

	1949	1950	1951
Baptized Persons .....	2,340,418	2,409,582	2,471,295
	1946	1947	1948
Baptized Persons .....	2,158,109	2,227,967	2,293,389

The net increase in Baptized Persons, 1951 over 1948, is 177,906 or 7.7%. This is a slightly smaller percentage of increase than that of the preceding triennium.

	1949	1950	1951
Communicants .....	1,619,667	1,638,377	1,667,841
	1946	1947	1948
Communicants .....	1,539,216	1,575,416	1,592,522

The net increase in Communicants, 1951 over 1948, is 75,319 or 4.7%. This is about 7,000 less than the increase during the preceding triennium.

The Clergy:

The increased number of clergy is a gratifying development, since for many years this figure was static:

	1949	1950	1951
Total Number .....	6,099	6,212	6,412
	1946	1947	1948
Total Number .....	5,837	5,842	5,830

The increase is almost exactly 10%. The number of non-parochial clergy has increased from 1,434 in 1948 to 1,651 in 1951. These are included in the figures above.

Postulants, Candidates, Ordinations, Lay Readers:

The number of postulants and candidates has also continued to increase steadily, each year's total setting a new record by surpassing the last, so that now the total of postulants is more than double the number recorded ten years ago and the number of candidates has very nearly doubled over the 1940 figure. This continues to augur well for the future of the Church.

	1949	1950	1951
Ordinations:
Deacons .....	244	249	311
Priests .....	214	269	290
Candidates .....	439	541	592
Postulants .....	1,046	1,137	1,159
Lay Readers .....	5,451	5,790	6,250

Baptisms:

The total number of baptisms recorded is several thousand less than that which obtained in 1947 when the highest peak was reached. The total number of baptisms for the triennium was 283,057, as compared with the previous triennial total of 273,550, a net increase of 3.5%.

	1949	1950	1951
Baptisms: (Infant and Adult).....	93,567	95,793	93,697
	1946	1947	1948
Baptisms: (Infant and Adult).....	83,944	96,993	92,613

Confirmations:

Confirmations continued to increase this year, the total for the triennium being 245,814, and the total for the previous triennium being 217,446, an increase of an average of 9,456 per year.

	1949	1950	1951
	1946	1947	1948

Marriages:

The number of marriages has declined considerably and in 1951 the number recorded is the lowest in the last nine years:

	1949	1950	1951
Marriages .....	27,693	29,217	27,187
	1946	1947	1948
Marriages .....	39,018	34,055	32,029
Total, 1949-1951 inclusive.....			84,097
Total, 1946-1948 inclusive.....			105,102
Total Net Decrease.....			21,005

Burials:

Burials have remained about the same as in the previous triennium with only a slight decline being reported.

	1949	1950	1951
	1946	1947	1948
Burials .....	54,208	53,088	55,147
Total, 1949-1952 inclusive.....			160,973
Total, 1946-1948 inclusive.....			162,443

Church Schools:

It is encouraging to note that the number of church schools has increased by more than 500 and the number of church school pupils has increased by nearly 100,000 since the last report was made:

	1949	1950	1951
Number .....	5,362	5,446	5,619
	1946	1947	1948
Number .....	4,857	4,981	5,107
	1949	1950	1951
Officers and Teachers.....	58,082	60,536	65,549
	1946	1947	1948
Officers and Teachers.....	49,357	51,447	54,538
	1949	1950	1951
Pupils .....	480,672	506,479	546,498
Pupils .....	361,930	373,429	370,826

On the financial side, receipts from all sources have continued to increase. In 1951, they were more than double the 1944 figure, and it would seem that this increase has more than kept pace with the inflationary trend in the finances of the country.

Receipts:

	1949	1950	1951
Total Receipts .....	$74,144,661.13	$83,566,037.77	$90,632,033.48
	1946	1947	1948

Disbursements:

Total disbursements have similarly increased, though the former figure of about $3,000,000 in cash balances has remained the same.

	1949	1950	1951
Total Disbursements .....	$71,224,962.53	$78,629,880.28	$87,813,035.56
	1946	1947	1948

Payment of Loans:

Payment of loans in 1951 amounts to about 3 1/3 million as compared with slightly less than two million in 1948:

	1949	1950	1951
Payment of Loans.....	$2,164,390.48	$2,689,707.40	$3,330,205.65
	1946	1947	1948

Indebtedness:

In the matter of indebtedness there has been a sharp increase so far as the parishes and missions are concerned. The diocesan indebtedness has remained about the same.

Church Debt: as of December 31, 1951:
Of Dioceses and Diocesan Institutions.....			$ 1,586,539.06
Of Parishes and Missions.....			18,767,672.64
Total Indebtedness .....			$20,354,211.70
Church Debt: as of December 31, 1948:
Of Dioceses and Diocesan Institutions.....			$ 1,527,395.51
Of Parishes and Missions.....			9,410,556.69
Total Indebtedness .....			$11,278,358.01

Diocesan Assessments:

Diocesan assessments have increased, as would be expected, and the figure for 1951 is about $1,000,000 more than the figure for 1943.

	1949	1950	1951
Assessments .....	$1,848,632.72	$2,036,098.72	$2,234,071.00
	1946	1947	1948

Payments for Diocesan and General Church Program:

While there are obvious discrepancies in the reports regarding specific disbursements, the total reported for the dioceses and the General Church Program increased by more than $2,000,000 in the triennium. The annual average in the preceding triennium was $4,776,864.24, while for the present one it is $6,866,205.12.

	1949	1950	1951
"The Quota" .....	$5,720,576.97	$7,109,416.29	$7,768,622.12
	1946	1947	1948

Special Offerings:

However, this increase is reflected by the decrease during the triennium in the Special Offerings for use outside the parish.

	1949	1950	1951
"Special Offerings for Outside Causes" .....	$2,086,775.57	$1,980,281.15	$1,758,539.76
"Special Offerings for Outside Causes" .....	$3,682,816.61	$2,057,677.85	$2,368,737.24

While there is every reason to believe the totals in the vital statistics are accurate, and while no doubt the totals received and disbursed are accurate, there is much to be desired so far as the other items of the report are concerned. For example, in the church property estimates, the number of buildings has increased by less than 300 and yet the estimated value of them by about $50,000,000. The insurance has increased by more than $100,000,000.00.

It would be helpful if, in some way, an accurate account could be made of all the real estate, church furniture, and buildings toward providing a more accurate picture of the position of the entire Church. This may well be put in the hands of the Provincial Synods and possibly could be gained through representatives of the Church Fire Insurance Corporation. Undoubtedly such accurate figures would be welcomed by the various dioceses, rather than being omitted or estimated wildly, which is the present case, and does not reflect any desire to be uncooperative.

It should be emphasized that all figures in this summary are totals of the churches in continental United States. It does not include either the overseas districts nor the extra continental districts which are members of the Second and Eighth Provinces respectively.

APPENDIX 31

REPORT OF THE JOINT STANDING COMMISSION ON THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION

I. THE TASK OF THE COMMISSION

This Commission reported to General Convention in 1949 that "There is need, in the next triennium, of a council of strategy implementing the critical concern of the Church for the future welfare of theological education. The Executive Committee of the Joint Commission on Theological Education has contemplated the advisability of suggesting to General Convention the formation of a specially appointed Commission for this important task. The help of laymen and clergy competent in finance and in institutional administration needs to be enlisted for the purpose of formulating wise corporate policy. A reference, however, to Canon 30, which establishes not only a large representative Commission on Theological Education, but also a separately appointed small Executive Committee, leads us to the conclusion that the need for a council of strategy can best be met by leaving the present canonical arrangement intact. The Executive Committee could itself serve as the canonically responsible nucleus of an enlarged commission. The Executive Committee proposes to enlist as advisers and consultants additional bishops, presbyters, and laymen to help the Committee in its task of further statistical study, of evaluation of present Seminary administration, and of formulation of corporate policy for the Church looking toward adequate financial support of theological education."

The Special Committee on Theological Seminaries of the House of Deputies approved this proposal, and to implement it proposed a resolution "that for the purpose of implementing the critical concern of the Church for the future welfare of theological education, the three-fold plan of the Executive Committee of the Theological Commission be approved. This plan calls for:

1. A complete statistical study to determine the actual needs of the Church in terms of the number of men needed for the ministry;
2. An evaluation of the present Seminary administration;
3. The formation of a corporate policy for the Church looking toward adequate financial support of Theological Education."

General Convention passed this Resolution, and authorized the enlarging of the Executive Committee of our Commission by the addition of six co-opted laymen to be appointed by the President of the House of Deputies. The Chairman and the clerical members of the Executive Committee record their appreciation of this action and of the great value of the contributions made by the laymen who have actively served on the Executive Committee. Dr. Theodore M. Greene of Connecticut unfortunately was unable to serve, and to our regret Dr. John M. Pomfret of Virginia recently resigned.

The Commission asked and was granted $5,000.00 for its expenses. This proved utterly inadequate for the execution of the program prescribed by General Convention, which necessitated securing at a very modest remuneration the valuable part-time services of Mr. Townsend Look as executive secretary of the Executive Committee. The task undertaken and the larger membership of the Executive Committee increased considerably the other expenses of the Committee. In view of this, and of the cost of the indispensable annual meetings of the Deans of the Seminaries, we were obliged to ask for additional help from the Presiding Bishop's Discretionary Fund, and gratefully received it. Mr. Gushee and Mr. Kahle, two of our lay members, were responsible for careful and indispensable statistical studies, made without charge to the Commission.

Despite all this additional aid, it was unfortunately out of the question because of expense to hold a meeting of the entire Commission of twenty four, plus the six co-opted members.

In several Provinces meetings of the Examining Chaplains have been held, and proposals discussed for improving the system of canonical examinations, and for changes in the pertinent canons. We urge that during the coming triennium more such meetings be held. A careful study will be made by the Joint Commission of this aspect of theological education.

IIA. THE NEED AND SUPPLY OF CLERGY

This Committee finds a present shortage of clergy of 688 men, and further finds that in spite of the expansion of our ten well-established Seminaries there will be a shortage of 915 men at the end of three years, with no allowance for either the Armed Forces requirements or for the overseas mission field.

These figures have been obtained by analysis of reports from 86 dioceses and districts to the Committee, in response to our questionnaire as to clergy requirements. The figures count only vacancies where funds are available for payment of clergy. These figures for the situation over the next three years take into consideration new projects for which funds are anticipated, and the curates and/or assistants needed in the next three years in parishes where growth is anticipated.

The three year figures take into consideration (1) losses through death, retirement and other causes; (2) a continuing expanded Seminary program; (3) the ordination of men from other sources than our Seminaries, i.e., transfers from other Churches, graduates from other Seminaries, foreign priests and men prepared by study directed by clergymen. These outside sources have over the past 20 years provided approximately 40 per cent of the new clergy.

The Committee feels that these figures are realistic and conservative. The reasonable accuracy of this appraisal of our need for additional clergy over and above the anticipated new men is borne out by study of the clergy vacancies as shown by diocesan journals. This study was made independently of our questionnaire.

These journal reports show that at the end of 1949 we had, in the dioceses only, 5,579 churches and missions with recorded communicants. This figure of 5,579 did not include preaching missions, summer churches with no resident members, etc. Of these 5,579 churches, 1,742 or 31 per cent had no resident clergy.

Some of these churches are very small churches. Assuming that one man could serve three of the 1,435 churches of under 100 communicants, now without resident clergy, we need 478 more clergy. Assuming further that a man should be provided for each vacancy in 307 churches of at least 100 communicants, and assuming that assistants should be provided for 300 of the 651 churches with at least 500 communicants and no assistant, a total of 1,085 clergy would today be required as against the bishops' estimate of 688 now needed.

The figures first given, showing a shortage of 688 men today, do not consider (1) the possible 100 additional men required for the Armed Forces and a substantial number needed in vacancies in the overseas mission field; nor (2) men needed for college work and for teaching staffs in our Seminaries.

This is not a new or temporary situation. The same situation has faced the Church for the last 30 years. During these years there has been a definite shortage of clergy. Our churches have been not fully manned, but un-manned and under-manned; and we have not had enough men to provide for the real growth of the Church.

It has been stated that at times during the last 20 years it has been difficult to find jobs for men graduating from the Seminaries. But if this has been the case, it does not mean that we had an adequate number of clergy. It means rather that our Church was not providing adequate ordained leadership, and was thus handicapping her own expansion. The shortage was not of jobs. We had at all times many sizable churches without resident clergy and at all times we have had many large churches inadequately served by one man.

No adequate provision was made in the planning of the past for the actual growth of the Church. This probably is one reason for its slow and unsatisfactory growth. It seems ridiculous to invest millions in mission fields and millions in evangelistic programs of the Church without making adequate provision for man-power, if these programs are to be successful.

The Church is growing, and a growing Church requires man-power. Indeed, properly equipped and dedicated man-power will alone produce growth, while a band of weak and ineffective clergy is cause for decline. The Church should not be afraid of a more realistic policy in dealing with her inefficient clergy. It is a mistake to sentimentalize the calling to the ministry. While the Church must avoid ruthless uprooting of inefficiency, she cannot afford to coddle it. The emergence of occasional clergy unemployment, even though this may place burdens on diocesan resources, may be for the good of the Church.

Much has been said of the necessity for maintaining quality in our clergy, that factor being considered more important than adequate quantity. But shortage of men and poor quality of man-power go hand in hand. When there is a shortage, men are educated, graduated and ordained both from the Seminaries and from outside sources who would not be acceptable as leaders in our Church if we had enough well-trained clergy of quality adequate for leadership.

IIB. NEW AND BETTER SEMINARIES

Our Church has in the past established many little Seminaries with faculties largely or entirely part-time, organized on a purely diocesan basis with the aim of supplying a few clergy for the needs of that diocese, relying on the faith and devotion of a bishop and a small group of clergy already carrying other responsibilities, with inadequate plant, library and financial support, whether currently or from endowment. Such Seminaries have not contributed and cannot today contribute substantially to meeting our Church's need for more and better clergy.

Yet in the light of the facts and judgments set forth in Sec. IIA, the ten Seminaries are not now able, nor can they by existing programs of expansion be expected, to meet the need we have outlined for many more clergy of high quality. New Seminaries are going to be needed, and these should be strategically placed and adequately supported, staffed and equipped, with autonomous boards of trustees, representing more than one diocese, and with a considerable number of students qualified for instruction on a level in accord with the Canons and with our established standards of theological learning.

There are in the United States two regions where population-growth, economic development, and the expansion of our Church call for Seminaries of this size and standard; namely, the Southwest and the Pacific Coast. In the latter region, the Church Divinity School of the Pacific at Berkeley, California is making progress in its endeavor to meet this need. It should enlist the support of the entire Eighth Province, modifying its still too largely diocesan character. It should have financial support from Episcopalians all over the United States, for the present and future welfare of the entire Church demands a large and strong Seminary on the Pacific Coast.

In the Southwest, there is a similar need. "The Seminary of the Diocese of Texas," also called "The Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest" opened for the academic year 1951-52 under the auspices of the Diocese of Texas, giving the usual first-year courses to seven married students, three of whom are older men preparing for ordination under Canons 26, Sec. 5 (c) and 29, Sec. 2. Some of the courses are taken at the University of Texas, some at Austin Presbyterian Seminary, some are given by the three clergymen who are part-time instructors, one being Dean. It is expected that second-year courses will be given next year, and that there will be three full-time instructors; further expansion is planned for the ensuing year. It is also planned that the Seminary shall become more than a merely diocesan institution in control and support. A hopeful beginning has been made. Large sums of money, provincial and regional organization and support are called for, if this undertaking is to contribute substantially to the Church's need. We urge that as soon as possible a Seminary adequately financed, staffed and equipped be established, with an autonomous board of trustees representing the region, and a student body qualified for graduate instruction.

During the triennium a number of dioceses have considered and a few have undertaken to establish small Seminaries or training-centers to meet their diocesan needs for more clergy. We appreciate the devotion and intention of the bishops and clergymen now engaged in these undertakings, and of the contributors who are helping support them. But we repeat that like such institutions in the past, these institutions cannot aid substantially to meet the Church's need, nor can they adequately maintain proper standards of theological learning.

IIC. SELECTIVE SERVICE AND CLERGY SUPPLY

During the triennium and in consequence of the establishment of Selective Service for young men, our Seminaries were faced with a new admissions-problem, for the Selective Service Act and the administrative regulations under it necessitated the establishing of both postulancy and admission to a Seminary prior to graduation from college, if a man was to be exempted or deferred to complete his theological education. The Deans of the Seminaries, at their meeting in December, 1950, agreed on a uniform policy, which the House of Bishops endorsed at El Paso on January 10, 1951. It was agreed that pre-enrollment should be granted only in exceptional cases under the following minimum conditions:

- (1) That the applicant be a postulant.
- (2) That the Seminary receive a letter from the applicant's bishop containing a positive request for pre-enrollment.
- (3) That the Seminary receive a transcript of the applicant's college work covering at least two academic years.
- (4) That the applicant should undertake to pursue in college under the direction of the Seminary faculty the course of studies recommended by the American Association of Theological Schools.

It was further agreed that such a Postulant should be certified to his Draft Board by both his bishop and by the Seminary, which also informs him that when he applies at a later date for admission in the ensuing academic year the Seminary is not bound to admit him unless he then satisfies the faculty of his general fitness to undertake preparation for the ministry.

This procedure has been approved by the Director of the Selective Service System, and Draft Boards are granting exemptions and deferments, so that the enrollments of our Seminaries continue high. Some of these men will eventually serve as chaplains in the Armed Forces, which have their own problems of clergy supply.

IID. RECRUITING FOR THE MINISTRY

We gladly recognize that during the triennium the Seminaries, their faculties and students, have been increasingly active in making known the Church's need for men for the ministry and in vigorous recruiting. Especially in connection both with the Third Sunday in Advent and with Theological Education Sunday the Church is being awakened to the critical situation, and the nature and purpose of theological education are being more widely and effectively explained to our people. Many vocational conferences have been held and many clergy have been busy as recruiting officers.

We express particular appreciation to the Presiding Bishop's Committee on Layman's Work, the Woman's Auxiliary, the National Council's Department of Promotion, and the College Work Division of the Home Department for their participation in this work of education, promotion and recruiting. In the provinces and dioceses much has been done. The Canterbury Clubs also have participated.

The findings in Section IIA of this report show how vital it is that all these endeavors be multiplied in the next triennium. "The Church needs men."

IIIA. SEMINARY ADMINISTRATION

An Appendix to this report shows the costs of operating each of the ten Seminaries, the sources of their income, their charges to students and scholarships, together with the number of students and of faculty, for the three years 1948-51. In this triennium each Seminary produced graduates as follows:

	1948-49	1949-50	1950-51	Total	Total Enrollment
Berkeley .....	11	15	20	46	78	94
Bexley .....	4	12	12	28	57	55
Cambridge .....	26	26	31	83	95	90

Virginia .....	35	40	42	117	180	186
	161	184	242	587	1,043	1,055
					Average per annum
Graduated from the Seminaries ..	1935-40			741	148
	1940-45			626	125
	1948-51			587	196

It is obvious that the state of the Seminaries can change and has changed very rapidly, so that judgment upon their operations must be constantly revised. The number of students reported in 1947-48, for example, was 508, and the capacity of the ten schools given in the 1949 Journal was 750-800. Yet in 1950-51 their enrollment soared to 1,043, of whom 112 were graduate students not preparing for ordination, and 931 were preparing. In 1951-52, there were 81 students in the former group, and 974 in the latter.

Over the past two decades, however, the ordinands trained by these Seminaries of our Church have been only about 60 per cent of the additions to our clergy. Since the average number of losses to the ministry per annum through death, retirement, or other terminations is about 190-200, only in 1950-51 did the Church reach the point where its Seminaries trained for our ministry a number even equal to that of the ministries terminating in that year. Even then they did not make good the shortages of many previous years, or provide for the growth of the Church. Moreover, the annual number of terminations is bound to increase.

In 1945-46 the Seminaries produced only 107 graduates. If the number of applicants can be held at its present level, soon these ten Seminaries can give to the Church upwards of 300 men a year; the number expected in 1952 is 289. But even 300 will not supply the needs of the Church.

The reports reveal that as recently as 1950-51 there were only 85 full-time faculty members in the ten schools, of whom about half held the rank of professor. Two of the Seminaries had only four full-time teachers each. In this triennium salaries for full professors ranged from $3,100 to $6,500. It is obvious that, according to the figures as submitted, the Seminaries had too few full-time faculty members, and paid them less than they could earn in other positions in the Church. To keep and attract men of the calibre to train its leadership, the Church must pay higher salaries to our Seminary teachers.

The libraries of the ten Seminaries in 1950-51 spent for administration and the purchase of books an average of $6,638, but the median figure was only $3,916. The cost of maintaining most of the comparable libraries of members of the American Association of Theological Schools is estimated at about $10,000.

At the beginning of the triennium six of the ten Seminaries had been accredited by that Association. In 1950 Bexley Hall also received this recognition, and the other three Seminaries, (Nashotah, Philadelphia, and Sewanee) have taken long strides toward it, so that further additions to the accredited list may be expected. It is imperative that every Seminary of the Church fully conform to this standard as soon as possible.

In 1950-51 all but one of the ten Seminaries balanced its budget, largely with the help of gifts totalling $363,444, or 25 per cent of their combined income of $1,483,006. Should the Seminaries be dependent on annual giving to this extent, and are they keeping solvent by curtailing the service they should properly render?

IIIB. FINANCIAL CONDITION OF SEMINARIES

The plain fact is that the Seminaries are not getting sufficient financial support to carry out thoroughly their responsibility to the Church for the education of our future clergy.

An appendix to this report shows the actual costs and income per student for each Seminary for 1950-51. All Seminaries incurred losses on their educational operations. The financial conditions differ greatly as between Seminaries due to the variation in tuition charges, educational costs and income from invested funds, gifts, etc. A comparison of the average for all Seminaries as shown in the appended report points out these facts very sharply.

Our studies, based on the averages for all the Seminaries for the school year 1950-51, disclosed the following financial conditions:

1. Payments from students for tuition, board and room, covered only 40 per cent of the average cost to educate a student per year.

2. Theological Education Sunday Offerings meet an additional 20 per cent of the costs of education per student. Although Theological Education Sunday Offerings increased in 1951, it was not in proportion to the increase in enrollment of students, with the result there was an actual decline from earlier years in the amount contributed per student.

3. All remaining costs came from income derived through invested funds and special gifts, and averaged approximately 40 per cent for all Seminaries. There is a wide variation between Seminaries in the amount of income derived from these sources. Some of the Seminaries are so close to a deficit that they are desperately in need of additional funds to carry on their operations.

4. G.I. assistance from the government amounted to $108 per student during the current period. If this source of revenue is no longer available, all Seminaries will operate at a loss, unless further support is forthcoming.

Moreover, receipts of all Seminaries from all sources have not yet begun to keep up with inflation.

These facts and figures conclusively show that additional financial assistance is desperately needed if the Seminaries are to increase their number of students, to pay even minimum salaries to adequate faculties, to increase their library facilities, and in general, to do the important job of preparing men for the task of leadership.

The financial situation, however, is improving, and is by no means hopeless. There are clear-cut, practical solutions, some of which we include among our recommendations later in this report.

IVA. FINANCIAL SUPPORT OF THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION

The proposal that the National Council assume direct financial responsibility for theological education in the Episcopal Church has received increasing attention in recent years. The simplest form of the proposal contemplates the inclusion of existing Seminaries in the National Council's budget.

The plan has much to commend it, and makes an immediate appeal to many who have the problems of clergy supply and of Seminary administration at heart. It is contended that—

1. Theological Education Sunday has failed, through 12 years of effort, to elicit a response from the whole Church. Although in 1951 approximately one-third of the parishes and missions have produced the support that has come to the Seminaries through this effort, it does not seem possible that a sufficient yield would be forthcoming in the future to solve the financial problem of theological education. There is, moreover, some objection in principle to the "special appeal" feature of Theological Education Sunday, as many vestries support the general Church Program only on condition that no special appeals be made to the people for projects outside the parish.

2. The preparation of men for the ministry is the concern of the whole Church. Lutherans and Presbyterians have recognized this, and have raised funds on a national scale for their Seminaries, and support their current operations out of national budgets.

3. The efforts of the ten Seminaries of our Church to raise funds, whether capital or current, seem competitive, and to many, confusing. Why should something so fundamental in the life of the Church be so neglected? Why should these separate institutions be forced to beg for support? Why should I be bothered first with one, then with another? One big coordinated program of theological education would seem likely to elicit more adequate support than ten separate ones.

4. Under the present lack of system the financial fortunes of a Seminary seem to depend too largely upon promotional ability. Central financing would promote a national, over-all strategy, and would distribute support among the Seminaries according to the best interests of the whole Church, rather than upon the basis of partisan, sectional or other promotional appeal.

5. Economic and political conditions indicate increasing difficulty ahead in financing private educational institutions either through capital gifts, fees from students, or current subscriptions.

These are weighty considerations, and the proposal deserves careful examination. General Convention of 1952 should either take steps to adopt it or should reject it in a manner which will tend to quiet further agitation.

That rejection is in the best interests of the Church and of theological education is indicated by the following considerations:

1. Chance of Success. Theological Education Sunday in 1951 yielded $262,204.00 for the Seminaries. To compensate for the loss of this income and to supplement Seminary budgets according to roughly but very conservatively estimated needs would require writing into the National Council's budget for the next triennium a minimum of $300,000 annually. Those who are familiar with the history of National Council financing cannot be hopeful that a sheer addition of this magnitude could be successfully accomplished. General Convention may vote its budget, but the pay-as-you-go policy forces National Council to prune expenses according to actual expectancies. Seminary costs are, in far larger proportion than most of the National Council's program, fixed charges. The expanded missionary and educational work of the Church would be jeopardized by assumption of the new burden, and in times of recession or depression, dependence upon subsidy for their more inflexible budgets would put the Seminaries in a precarious position.

2. Popular Appeal. The substitution of "theological education in general" for specific institutions and programs would mean an inevitable loss in promotional appeal. This has been the experience of the Church since the Nation-Wide Campaign in its promotion of the missionary program. There the gain has been greater than the loss because of the elimination of disastrous competition among the mission fields. Rivalry among the Seminaries for financial support is not a serious problem, and the work of the Joint Commission on Theological Education in promoting a cooperative spirit among the Seminaries is tending to reduce it still further.

3. Hazards of Control. Should the National Council assume direct financial responsibility for the Seminaries, a certain measure of control of Seminary operations would be inevitable. The mere decision as to apportionment of aid would involve judgment as to worth and effectiveness, and the inescapable necessity of discrimination. The National Council would be subject to pressures from the various Seminaries and its decision would amount to control of Seminary operations. In one Church which so finances its Seminaries, appointments to professorships are subject to debate in synod, whose approval or disapproval in such matters is related to appropriations.

It would not conduce to the health of the National Council, of the Church, nor of theological education to impose this necessity upon the Council. There has been waste in the history of theological education in our Church. Seminaries have been established and maintained irresponsibly and inefficiently; many have passed into oblivion. That the Seminaries have, moreover, contributed their share to partisanship and discord is too true. But the independence of the Seminaries and their freedom to represent various traditions and emphases in the life of the Church have contributed to richness and vitality to an extent that more than compensates for the waste. Bureaucratic direction might bring greater efficiency, but it would certainly put a premium upon colorless uniformity and lifelessness.

Two variants of the proposal considered above should be mentioned.

1. The Florida Plan (Journal of 1949 General Convention, p. 338) would require each Diocese to "subsidize a Divinity School" to which it sends a postulant in the amount of $600.00 per year per student in addition to the charges required.

Certainly the dioceses should assume more financial responsibility for theological education than they have in the past. But the proposed requirement of a tax on each diocese would penalize dioceses which are supplying large numbers, put obstacles in the way of weak dioceses where a supply of native clergy is important, and encourage the dangerous tendency to see men through to ordination without Seminary training.

2. The Delaware Plan (Journal of 1949 General Convention, p. 339) involves a per capita contribution by communicants of at least one dollar per year for theological education, to be administered by the "National Council, or some appropriate agency," and "distributed equitably among the several Seminaries on a per capita student-faculty basis." This is a variant from the direct subsidy proposal only in that it would earmark funds for the Seminaries and eliminate discretion as to total amount from the budgeting by National Council. The plan suffers all the defects described above, and adds some of its own.

We realize that our Seminaries need not only larger contributions to annual income, but also urgently require increased capital funds. Large sums for building renovation and modernization, for equipment, and for additional endowments are required by the already existing Seminaries, quite apart from plans for the expansion of these Seminaries and for additional Seminaries. Established Seminaries may well be in a position to undertake fund-raising activities for these purposes on their own account. But it is doubtful that those where the need is greatest, still less any new foundations, can achieve adequate standards of instruction, facilities and maintenance unless the Church at large recognizes its responsibility for these institutions and lends its support and the cooperation of its agencies to a Church-wide appeal for capital funds.

We note two other encouraging developments which affect current financing of our theological schools:

1. As some 50 replies from bishops to our questionnaire reveal, many dioceses and districts give financial aid to their postulants and candidates in various ways, such as bishops' discretionary funds, special items in diocesan budgets, Woman's Auxiliary and men's organizations, income from designated permanent funds, etc. The extent of such aid varies greatly, and should in our judgment be increased in a large proportion of the dioceses and missionary districts reporting. This would enable more theological students to meet without excessive effort the minimal charges made by the Seminaries, thus taking the pressure off scholarship funds and reducing the gap between cost per student and Seminary income from fees.

2. Parishes are increasingly accepting a similar responsibility towards their own young aspirants for the ministry.

IVB. OBSERVANCE OF THEOLOGICAL EDUCATION SUNDAY

Theological Education Sunday, established by the General Convention of 1940 for instruction on the ministry and offerings for the Seminaries throughout the Church, has proved to be increasingly significant in securing current support for the Church's program of theological education, as the table will show:

1948 .....	1,874	114,343.59
1949 .....	2,481	172,638.00
1950 .....	2,793	228,978.09
1951 .....	3,648	262,204.43

Distribution of the offerings among the Seminaries for the past three years is as follows:

Seminary	1949	1950	1951
Berkeley .....	$ 6,110.20	$ 12,705.18	$ 14,469.66
Bexley .....	22,093.54	16,352.12	21,003.15
Cambridge .....	12,061.29	14,997.39	18,949.28
General .....	36,727.20	51,459.40	49,341.04
Nashotah .....	18,522.29	15,579.83	16,305.39
Pacific .....	8,386.61	11,368.06	15,050.19
Philadelphia .....	11,736.95	14,935.00	14,477.74
Seabury .....	10,573.74	12,631.03	21,310.14
Sewanee .....	4,129.35	14,314.33	15,056.76
Virginia .....	42,297.31	64,635.75	76,241.08
Total .....	$ 172,638.48	$ 228,978.09	$ 262,204.43

The significance of these contributions in effective operation of the Seminaries is seen in the fact that they accounted, in 1950 for example, when enrollment was approaching its maximum, for 17 per cent of the total income of the 10 schools. The offering has become a major factor in the solvency of the Church's provision for training its clergy.

For the most part, these results have been achieved by the efforts of the Seminaries themselves, each promoting the observance of Theological Education Sunday by its alumni constituency. But alumni of the Seminaries account for only about two-thirds of the Church's clergy, and the record shows that a very large number of parishes and missions have been untouched by the Church's appeal for resources for theological education. With every Seminary facing rising costs, and most of them facing over-enrollment and a faculty deficiency, and with the vanishing of income secured under the G.I. Bill for veterans, ways and means of extending the promotion of Theological Education Sunday to the whole Church have been sought.

At the December, 1950 meeting of the National Council, in response to our appeal, authorization was granted to the Promotion Department of the Council to place its resources at the disposal of the Executive Committee in promotion of Theological Education Sunday for 1952.

The Department has assisted in the production and dissemination of literature on the ministry and the Seminaries, the preparation of offering envelopes and posters, and in the securing of publicity in national and diocesan church papers. The program of theological education was placed on the agenda of meetings of the National Council officers with bishops and diocesan promotion officials in all provinces concerned with the promotion of the Church's Program as a whole early in 1951. And the Laymen's Training Program in the autumn of 1951, looking towards the Every Member Canvass, adopted the Seminaries and the promotion of Theological Education Sunday for January, 1952, as their concern and responsibility. By this means the 2,500 laymen participating in the Program were instructed in the problems of recruiting, screening and training of men for the ministry, and in the operations of the ten Seminaries, and were prepared to address congregations throughout the country on theological education.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the National Council also adopted theological education as one of its projects, and disseminated widely a program entitled "The Church Needs Men" for use by its local branches.

Results of this expanded efforts will not be known this triennium, but the principle is established that theological education is a vital part of the Church's program and a responsibility of its national organization, and first efforts have been made to guarantee the bringing of the problems of supply and training of the clergy to the attention of the whole Church.

Theological Education Sunday has been proven a sound means of enlisting the cooperation of Church people in providing for the Church's ministry. The capacity of the Seminaries to finance their current operations has been materially increased as a result of General Convention's action in 1940. Church-wide observance ought to be striven for during the next triennium. Such an observance, including prayers and offerings and addresses, will express and stimulate the concern and responsibility of all our people for a due supply of true and faithful pastors and for their training. In addition, the Third Sunday in Advent, the Ember Days, and in each diocese the Sundays when ordinations are occurring, or the preceding Sundays, should without fail be marked by appropriate prayers.

V. SUMMARY

To sum up our findings—

1. To an unprecedented degree, our Church is now awake to the vital necessity of (1) more and better clergy, (2) an unceasing program of recruiting for the ministry, (3) greater financial support for our Seminaries, and (4) more and better Seminaries. But our people are not yet aware of the magnitude of the problem.

2. For decades, the shortage of clergy has handicapped the progress of our Church. The present clergy shortage is greater than had been realized. There is a present shortage of nearly 700, and we anticipate one of over 900 within three years. The need of more chaplains to the Armed Forces will increase this shortage. So will the need for more and better trained men for school and college ministries and for prisons, hospitals and other institutions.

3. Because of the shortage, the Seminaries, the Boards of Canonical Examiners, and the Bishops have been under pressure to lower the standards of education and of personal qualification for the ministry. Greater quantity and higher quality of clergy should go together.

4. Only approximately 60 per cent of the new clergy of the last 20 years have come from our own Seminaries. This means that our Church relies too largely on securing men from other branches of our Anglican Communion or from non-Anglican ministries, and on ordaining men of our own Church with inadequate general and theological education.

5. Our long-established Seminaries have in recent years considerably enlarged their student bodies. But these ten Seminaries are not now able, nor will their existing programs of continued expansion enable them, to meet our Church's need for many more clergy of high qualifications and adequate training. New programs and new Seminaries strategically placed are needed, and require increased and Church-wide support. The growth of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific in Berkeley, California, and of the newly established Seminary of the Southwest as regional and national, and not merely diocesan Seminaries, is of the highest importance for our whole Church.

6. All of our Seminaries need more money for current expenses and for expanding and/or improving their plants and facilities. In particular they need to pay better salaries to larger faculties, and most of them need greatly to improve their libraries. To do these things they rightly ask for larger gifts from more of our Church people for running expenses, capital expenditures and endowments.

7. Dioceses and parishes in many cases give financial aid to their men studying for Holy Orders. This relieves the strain on the scholarship funds of the Seminaries and on the men themselves. We urge the wider adoption of this policy.

8. Theological Education Sunday continues to be more widely observed as a fruitful means of arousing the laity to the need for more and better clergy and for greater current support for our Seminaries. But between two-thirds and one-half of our local churches do not yet make contributions to theological education as part of this observance. The Seminaries need the support of every contributor in every parish and mission. We call for Church-wide observance of Theological Education Sunday.

Resolution 1

WHEREAS, The very life of the Church depends upon an adequate supply of clergy and upon their being fully equipped for their high vocation, and consequently upon the Church's support of its Seminaries; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the General Convention expresses its approval of the Report of the Joint Commission on Theological Education, and recommends it to the attention of the trustees of the Church's Seminaries, to the National Council, and to the clergy and laity of the whole Church.

Resolution 2

WHEREAS, The Report of the Joint Commission on Theological Education convincingly presents the great need of the Church for an increase in the supply of clergy; and

WHEREAS, All our Seminaries need more money for current expenses and for expanding and/or improving their faculties, plants and facilities; and

WHEREAS, Major expansions of the facilities in most of the older Seminaries of the Church are at present deemed unwise or impractical; and

WHEREAS, The best judgment available encourages the establishment or expansion of Seminaries in strategic locations in areas of the country at a far distance from the older existing Seminaries, two such areas being the Far West and the Southwest; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the General Convention heartily endorses promotional efforts for the increased financial support for all our Seminaries and especially for the expansion of the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, and for the projected Seminary of the Southwest; and also endorses the extension of promotional campaigns in behalf of these two institutions both regionally and throughout the Church.

Resolution 3

WHEREAS, A survey of the financial condition of the Seminaries of the Church indicates a continued crucial need for financial support; and

WHEREAS, The offerings made for the support of the Seminaries in response to the appeal of Theological Education Sunday, though increasingly generous, are as yet helping to meet only minimal needs for current operational costs; and

WHEREAS, Many parishes and missions of the Church have as yet not shared in the Theological Education Sunday offering; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the General Convention calls upon every parish and mission of the Church to observe Theological Education Sunday, as well as to take an offering on that day, or a day locally designated as an alternate day, for the support of the Seminaries of the Church.

Resolution 4

WHEREAS, Scholarship funds of dioceses, societies and Seminaries are inadequate to the need, and too heavy a financial burden is often placed on theological students, particularly on married students and their wives; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that dioceses, missionary districts and local churches are urged to give more adequate aid to their postulants and candidates; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that dioceses and missionary districts are urged to raise special funds for this purpose.

Resolution 5

WHEREAS, The tasks laid upon the Joint Commission on Theological Education and its Executive Committee have been greatly increased by

1. The need for continued accurate surveys of the Church's clergy shortage and for awakening our Church to a greater awareness of the seriousness of the problem;

2. The necessity for conducting promotional activities for the support of theological education, particularly Church-wide promotion of Theological Education Sunday, by way of a corporate agency of the Church, to supplement the efforts of our Seminaries, and

3. The need for adequate secretarial assistance in continued studies of the clergy shortage and of ways to meet it, in administering corporate promotional activities, and in collecting and distributing the Theological Education Sunday offerings, particularly when undesignated; therefore be it

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that the Committee on Expenses be authorized to place on its budget the sum of $15,000.00 for the next triennium, to be applied on the expenses of the Joint Commission on Theological Education; and be it further

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that for the proper execution of its tasks, the authorization, voted at the General Convention of 1949, to enlarge the Executive Committee of the Joint Commission on Theological Education by the addition of six laymen to be appointed by the Presidents of the two Houses be continued for the coming triennium.

This report has the unanimous approval of the ten members of the Executive Committee, all of whom participated in producing it. APPENDIX 33

THE REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION ON APPROACHES TO UNITY

The Commission on Approaches to Unity begs leave to submit the following report.

I

ACTION ON RESOLUTION OF THE GENERAL CONVENTION OF 1949

In attempting to carry out the resolution adopted by the General Convention of 1949, the Commission has done the following things:

1. Copies of the Commission's Report to the General Convention of 1949, including the Statement on Faith and Order in harmony with the Lambeth Quadrilateral, and of the full text of Resolutions 56 through 59 of the 1948 Lambeth Conference, were sent to the authorities of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America and of the Methodist Church.

2. The Commission printed a "Brief" about the urgency of Church Unity, prepared by Canon Gilbert P. Symons and paid for by the Forward Movement. Approximately 52,000 copies of this Brief were printed and about 20,000 have been distributed. Other projected publications included a pamphlet for adult study groups which it was hoped would be prepared jointly by our Commission, the Department of Christian Education of the National Council, and the Joint Commission on Ecumenical Relations. Because other material for study groups was made available for the World Council of Churches by the Commission on Ecumenical Relations, our projected study course was held in abeyance.

3. The Commission also requested the Episcopal Inter-Seminary Conference to make Church Unity a major subject of one of its conferences, and this was done in February, 1952.

4. In attempting to further such cooperative activities between the Episcopal and other interested churches as were approved by the General Convention of 1949, the Commission asked the Bishops to promote joint services of Episcopal and Presbyterian and Methodist congregations, other than celebrations of the Holy Communion, according to the Prayer Book and the forms of the Presbyterian or Methodist Churches; recommended joint study groups of Episcopal and Presbyterian or Methodist Churches; recommended joint study groups of Episcopal and Presbyterian college faculty members and students; and asked our seminaries to conduct joint discussions with the faculty and students of neighboring seminaries of Presbyterian and Methodist foundation.

Responsibility for implementing meetings of this sort of necessity had to be left to the bishops and seminary deans. There have been occasional interchanges of lecturers, preachers and students on the seminary level, but the Commission has had reported to it very few instances of other joint meetings. Doubtless other meetings have been held about which we know nothing. It will facilitate the work of the Commission in the next triennium if the bishops and seminary deans will keep it advised of local developments.

INTER-CHURCH RELATIONS

During the triennium the Commission has engaged in inter-Church activities as follows:

1. "The Conference on Church Union"

Early in 1949 a meeting, sponsored by the Congregational-Christian and Disciples Church, invited all churches which recognized one another's ministries to confer on a possible major movement toward organic union. Seven churches—the Congregational-Christian Church, the Disciples of Christ, the Evangelical and Reformed Church, the Methodist Church, the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., the Presbyterian Church, U.S., and the International Council of Community Churches—sent official negotiators, and other Churches sent observers. The first meeting was held at Seabury House, December 14-15, 1949.

A second meeting occurred at Cincinnati, January 23-24, 1951, at which a plan of union was presented, discussed and referred back to the negotiators for further study. Being invited by the negotiating groups to be represented at the conference, our Commission sent observers only.

These negotiators are ready to report upon the results of this further study. A conference to receive their report has been called to meet at Buck Hill Falls, October 29-31, 1952. Two paragraphs in the call of this meeting will indicate the spirit and intent of those sponsoring it and the commendable caution with which they are proceeding.

"The steps that have led up to this conference are many. Those who have had a part in the planning of the conference believe that it will do much toward clarifying the thinking of all of us on the whole subject of Church Unity. Also, that it will help in arriving at a basis for further action.

"It should be made clear that there is no intention of asking the delegates to commit their denominations to any plan or course of action, but rather that they contribute their Church's viewpoint to the deliberations. The findings of the conference will be helpful to all denominations when and as they consider next steps for furthering the cause of Church Union."

It is important that your Commission be fully informed as to any findings of this proposed Buck Hill Falls Conference. While we have been invited by the negotiating group to be represented by delegates at this conference, we shall in all probability send observers only, because there is little indication at present that this movement has reached an understanding of the nature of the Church with which the Episcopal Church can make fruitful contact.

2. The Lutherans

Several informal conversations have been held by members of our Commission with representatives of the United Lutheran Church looking forward to the time when more formal conferences may be in order. Really very little by way of satisfactory conferences with the Lutherans can be accomplished until the several Lutheran Churches with Synods in the United States are in agreement among themselves as to liturgical faith and practice.

3. The Presbyterian Church and Its Approaches to Unity

Correspondence between the Rev. Ralph W. Lloyd, Chairman of the Permanent Commission on Inter-Church Relations of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., and the Chairman of our Commission produced an agreement that we would delay further discussions or conferences with the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., pending action of their General Assembly of 1952 in respect to plans for possible union between the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., the Presbyterian Church, U.S. (Southern), and the United Presbyterian Church of North America. The moderator of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church U.S.A., of 1952 and the Chairman of their Commission assured us that so far as that Church is concerned the door to further negotiations with our Commission is not closed. It did seem wise, however, to await the outcome of the conferences between the three great Presbyterian bodies before undertaking further negotiations between the Commissions of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., and the Protestant Episcopal Church.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., adjourned in late May, 1952, and the Chairman of its Commission on Unity has sent a statement which indicates how matters stand regarding the possibility of union between the three Presbyterian bodies. It has been thought wise to embody that statement in full in our report.

The 163rd General Assembly, in May, 1951, took the following action as to guiding principles for present procedures, and that the principle by which we are still guided is:

"In order that the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America may be free to give its undivided support to the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the United States of America, to the World Council of Churches, and to the Alliance of Reformed Churches throughout the World holding the Presbyterian System; and, believing that the most important immediate contribution that our denomination can make to the cause of church union in the United States, is to work toward the organic union of the members of the Presbyterian and Reformed family of Churches in this country, the Permanent Commission on Inter-Church Relations recommends to the General Assembly that we concentrate our present official efforts in behalf of church unity and church union upon the foregoing commitments."

B.

Since 1938, negotiations looking toward union have been in progress between the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. (Southern). In 1951, the United Presbyterian Church of North America accepted a joint invitation from these two Churches to join with them in an effort to achieve a three-way union.

The Permanent Commission on Inter-Church Relations of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. reported on May 23rd to the General Assembly, meeting in New York, that the work of reviewing and rewriting the two-way Plan into a three-way Plan of Union had been brought well toward completion.

The General Assembly then approved the recommendation "That the Permanent Commission be authorized to proceed in conjunction with the representatives of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and of the United Presbyterian Church to complete a Plan agreeable to the negotiating representatives of the three Churches; to make such recommendations concerning it to the 165th General Assembly (in 1953) as the Permanent Commission may deem wise; and to have the Plan printed and distributed in such quantity and at such time as the Permanent Commission may decide; and that expenditures necessary thereto be authorized."

C.

The General Assemblies in 1950, 1951 and 1952 have approved various "avenues of acquaintance and cooperation" between the negotiating Churches. These are variously on the General Assembly Level, Synod and Presbytery Level, and local congregation level. They represent voluntary activities which may from time to time be mutually agreed upon. They in no way involve any decision as to union. In scope and kind they range from exchange of official reports to joint meetings of presbyteries, synods and youth conferences to comity agreements to united programs of evangelism and stewardship. Some of these avenues have been in use for several years, some are still projected for the future.

D.

The 1952 General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church has just adjourned at Albany, Oregon, and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. is convening in Charleston, West Virginia, in early June, 1952. Their actions concerning our "Presbyterian family" negotiations are not yet known, but it is anticipated that they will be in harmony with those of our Presbyterian, U. S. A., General Assembly. No decision has been made as to a date for submitting Plan of Union for vote.

No specific action has been proposed or taken in the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A., concerning relations between that body and the Protestant Episcopal Church since the action of our General Convention in 1946. However, the Chairman of our respective Commissions are agreed that following action by the 1952 General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S., concerning Presbyterian family negotiations, we may be again in a position to undertake negotiations between the Presbyterian Church and the Protestant Episcopal Church.

4. Conversations with the Methodist Commission on Church Union

Some years before the Uniting Conference of Methodism in 1939 there were informal conversations between the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., and the Protestant Episcopal Church looking toward union. The Methodist Episcopal Church withdrew from these discussions to consummate Methodist Union at their General Conference of 1939.

In 1942 representatives of the Episcopal Church and the Methodist Church met in Cleveland, and it was decided to renew Episcopal-Methodist discussions. The 1948 Methodist General Conference in Boston received a proposal from the Commission of the Episcopal Church inviting further discussions, and this proposal had the hearty endorsement of two Episcopal Bishops who spoke at the Conference—the Right Rev. Henry K. Sherrill, Presiding Bishop, and the Right Rev. Norman B. Nash, Bishop of Massachusetts.

Within this present triennium several meetings have taken place as follows:

Some members of this Commission and the Methodist Commission on Church Unity met at Kenyon College, January 25, 1951; on May 8 and 9, 1951, an official meeting of the two Commissions was held again at Kenyon; on November 29 and 30, 1951, they met again in Chicago; and on January 31 and February 1, 1952, at Cincinnati.

Meetings with representatives of the Methodist Church were mainly devoted to a preliminary exploration of the possibilities of Intercommunion as an approach to organic union, in accordance with the Resolution of the General Convention of 1946. Our discussions included consideration of Faith, the Church, the Ministry, the Sacraments and the Relation of Intercommunion to Church Unity. Efforts were made to explicate the foregoing subjects as understood and interpreted within the two Churches. Other matters considered have included sociological and organizational differences, the relation of our respective Churches to their international connections and the constitutional, legal, and administrative problems involved in any church unity plan.

The Joint Commission is aware that this approach—Intercommunion—as recommended by 1946 General Convention, is a departure from recently considered proposals. It is by no means an easy solution of the Unity problem. We realize that it does not make less difficult any solution to the "hard core" of the problem, which is the Ministry. Nevertheless the consideration of "Intercommunion" as an approach to organic unity is recommended to General Convention and to the membership of the Episcopal Church as a possible solution to the problem of Unity and as worthy of careful study and discussion.

THE PUBLICATION OF CERTAIN SELECTED PAPERS

In order to have very definite material before us for discussion, certain papers dealing with such basic considerations as the Faith, the Church, the Ministry and the Sacraments were carefully prepared by chosen members of the two Commissions. Two papers on most of these subjects were written, one by an Episcopalian and one by a Methodist. These papers were fully and critically studied and discussed by the full membership of the two Commissions. Because these papers have been used chiefly to explain the positions of the two Churches, they are valuable for study by the whole membership of both Churches. These papers are to be considered an appendix to this report, with the understanding that they represent points of view which have been discussed rather than positions agreed upon by the Commissions.

These papers are being published under the title of "Approaches to Unity," under the joint editorship of the Rev. Nolan B. Harmon, D.D., editor of the Methodist Publishing House, and the Rev. Charles D. Kean, secretary of our Commission. The contributing authors are: From the Episcopal Church—the Rt. Rev. Robert F. Gibson, Jr., the Rev. Charles D. Kean, the Very Rev. Alden Drew Kelley, the Rev. Dr. Theodore O. Wedel and the Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie; and from the Methodist Church—the Rev. Rufus Baker, the Rev. Nolan B. Harmon, the Rev. Daniel L. Marsh and Mr. Charles C. Parlin.

It is the considered judgment of your Commission that its task can never be fulfilled adequately if its thinking is not shared widely with the Church at large. It is to be hoped, therefore, that this volume will be studied by both clergy and laity in order that the more significant issues involved in approaches toward unity with the Methodist Church may be understood before any concrete proposals are considered.

THE PREPARATION OF "A STUDY"

The joint conversations between our Commission on Approaches to Unity and the Methodist Commission on Church Union has been an encouraging and fruitful experience for all concerned with it. It is our conviction that we ought to share so far as possible these experiences and their fruits with the wider membership of the two Churches. To help in accomplishing this, we prepared "A Study," which reveals in a startling way the common liturgical heritage of our two Communion. This Study was designed for presentation at the 1952 General Conference of the Methodist Church as well as to our General Convention.

Beside the brief statement showing the heritage of the two Churches in the old Church of England, "A Study" sets forth in parallel columns the Sacraments, Rites and Ceremonies of the two Communion. This Study, prefaced by a foreword signed by the respective chairmen of the two Commissions, has been published and is available as an appendix to this report.

It was agreed by the Joint Commissions that when the Study was presented at the 1952 General Conference of the Methodist Church, the Chairman of our Commission should be invited to attend and to speak upon the significance of the Report, and to indicate the spirit and purpose of the fellowship of the two Commissions which produced it. It remains for the Commission to report the very gracious reception accorded our Chairman when he appeared before the General Conference of the Methodist Church. He was an interested observer of the splendid spirit and enthusiasm with which the delegates present at the Methodist Conference received the Report of their Commission on Church Union. Bishop Ivan Lee Holt, Chairman of the Methodist Commission on Church Union, has been invited to be present at the time the Study is presented to our General Convention.

In the main the newspaper correspondents gave an accurate report of the San Francisco meeting. However, no one can be responsible for the headlines that may have appeared in certain sections of the secular press. Nothing that was said by either chairman could justify such a comment as "Methodists and Episcopalians Face Last Hurdle Before Church Union." We made it very clear that the Study was designed simply to help people to a fuller realization of the common heritage of the two Churches, and the very great similarity so far as their Sacraments, Rites and Ceremonies are concerned. Our chairman closed his remarks with an appeal for the continuing confidence of the two Churches in the mutual efforts of the Joint Commissions, and the determination to undertake the next possible steps in the direction of inter-communion with great patience, a genuine forbearance for one another's points of view, and above all, the charity that should characterize such negotiations on the part of Christian brethren.

RESOLUTION

Your Commission would close its report with the following resolution:

Resolved, the House of . . . concurring, that the Joint Commission on Approaches to Unity be continued, and that it be directed to continue negotiations with the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America and the Methodist Church, and to initiate or further such conversations with representatives of such other Christian bodies as in its judgment may lead to closer fellowship with them; and that the Treasurer of General Convention be directed to provide the sum of $12,000.00 for the general expenses of the Commission on Approaches to Unity during the coming triennium.

The Right Rev. Benjamin M. Washburn, D.D., early resigned his membership on the Commission. The Presiding Bishop appointed in his place the Right Rev. Oliver J. Hart, D.D.

The Right Rev. Harold L. Bowen, D.D., resigned his membership on the Committee February 6, 1951.

When the Rev. Alexander C. Zabriskie, D.D. resigned the secretaryship of the Commission it elected the Rev. Charles D. Kean to succeed him.

APPENDIX 34

REPORT OF THE JOINT COMMISSION TO CONSIDER THE PROBLEM OF GIVING THE WOMEN OF THE CHURCH
A VOICE IN THE LEGISLATION OF THE GENERAL CONVENTION

The Joint Commission to Consider the Problem of Giving the Women of the Church a Voice in the Legislation of the General Convention was created by resolution of the 1949 Convention. It was the direct result of considerable discussion and debate about the seating of four women who had been chosen as deputies to the Convention.

In 1946, for the first time in its history, the General Convention had been asked to seat a woman deputy. Her credentials being in order, the Secretary of the House presented them with those of all other deputies, and made the customary inquiry as to whether there were objection to the seating of any of the deputies-elect. A question was raised as to a rule about seating women. In the ensuing discussion a distinguished jurist, himself a deputy, pointed out that in statutes the words "layman," "persons" and "men" are considered all inclusive, and moved that the deputy in question, Mrs. Randolph Dyer, be seated. Two motions, one suggesting referral to the Committee on Elections and the other to the Committee on Constitution and Canons, were defeated, and Mrs. Dyer was seated.

In 1949 four jurisdictions—Nebraska, Olympia, Missouri and Puerto Rico—sent women as deputies. The House refused to seat them as being "not eligible" under Article I, Section 4 of the Constitution. The debate was considerable, and included theological, sociological, historical and practical arguments, but the vote of 321 to 242 showed that the House interpreted the word "laymen" to exclude "laywomen." On the following day the House adopted a resolution providing for the seating of the women deputies, by courtesy, without a voice or vote. This the three deputies in attendance regretfully declined, pointing out that it was "irrelevant" to the question. They felt that what was involved was not a matter of courtesy to women, but "the right of women to represent, in its Councils, the Church they are proud to serve."

The Triennial Meeting of the Woman's Auxiliary forwarded to the Secretary of the House a resolution it had adopted after considerable debate, asking the House to interpret the word "laymen" in its Constitution, Canons, and other official documents so that it could include both laymen and laywomen. They stressed the importance of this so that women might prepare themselves for, and cooperate to the fullest extent in, all types of work open to the laity of the Church. This resolution, and an enabling one, the House sent to its Committee on Amendments to the Constitution, which reported favorably on a resolution substituting the words "lay persons" wherever "laymen" occurred in Article I, Section 4, but limiting to one the number of women deputies which any diocese or missionary district might have. This amendment was defeated by the House.

Subsequently resolutions were submitted for the establishment of a joint commission to study this problem. It is against this background that the commission has met and considered its task, and now makes its report, bespeaking the thoughtful and careful consideration which so vital and basic a matter demands.

THEOLOGICAL CONSIDERATIONS

Certain great doctrines of the Church are basic to discussions of this subject.

The Christian understanding of the nature of man, derived from the Holy Scriptures and verified by man's experience, is given its distinctive Christian quality in the fact of the Incarnation, which declares that Jesus Christ is not only God, but also Man. In Him the divine intention for human nature is made fully known.

From reflection on this doctrine Christian Theology has consistently made certain assertions: (1) that man is the creature and child of God, created for community with his fellow creatures; (2) that he is revealed in the union of his body and soul both as a spiritual and a physical being; (3) that, through the work of Christ, God's grace is available to enable man to fulfil his destiny and realize to the full his potentialities; (4) that no natural distinction of sex or race impedes the redemptive action of God; (5) that all women and all men are one in sin and grace and equal before God in both these respects.

Christian insights reveal diversities of gifts in men and women which equip them naturally for different and supplemental functions. The fact that neither can come to fulfillment without the other draws attention to their basic equality before God and their equal importance as contributors to the life of society and of the Church, within whose saving fellowship divine strength is made available to men and women alike.

Hence it becomes evident that the Church has a responsibility (1) to enable both men and women to realize to the full their capacities and potentialities, especially within its own life, and (2) to claim for itself the full contribution which each group can give. It is equally evident that to place any hindrance in the way of such fulfillment and such contribution is in Christian eyes both sinful and wrong, since it prevents the fulfilling of God's Purpose in each of his human creatures and children and deprives the Church of the total services that each can furnish.

HISTORICAL CONSIDERATIONS

It is obvious that the status of women has changed over the centuries, and that there is now almost no field of endeavor which they do not enter. This has been greatly accelerated by the draining off of manpower occasioned by two world wars. Even women who do not seek employment outside their homes find that their leisure activities have greatly widened their world. The community has become a familiar field to them.

The Church has always considered women as persons in their own right, who are not to be regarded as inferior to men. Its Gospel has been for the redemption of all, including women, and it has from the earliest days recognized the importance of women in its life. The names of many women are included in the Gospels, an unusual thing in a patriarchal society like that of the Jew. St. Paul, who did not consistently exalt women, frequently mentions their services to the churches, and, in the list of leaders in the last chapter of Romans, mentions eight women by name. Only in medieval days, when religious life centered in monasteries, did women cease to be thought of as persons. From this state women have moved a long way to their present inclusion in practically every sphere of endeavor. This inclusion has been as partners, not as servants. Today our question is not whether they shall be allowed to work for the Church, but whether they may be the Church. If they are the Church—and surely no one would bar women from God's redemption in Christ—then they must be the Church fully. It is an interesting fact, not sufficiently noted, that women have already become members of many legislative bodies, in our Anglican Communion and elsewhere.

PRACTICES OF THE ANGLICAN COMMUNION

The voice of Lambeth has long been clear in this matter. The 1920 Conference brought in a thorough report on it, much of which is relevant to the problems of this commission. The Conference adopted as Resolution 46 the following: "Women should be admitted to those Councils of the Church to which laymen are admitted, and on equal terms. Diocesan, provincial, or national synods may decide when or how this principle shall be brought into effect."

What has been the response of the various provinces?

The Church of England established in 1919 a House of Laity in its National Church Assembly. Under the terms of the Church of England Assembly (Powers) Act of 1919, the various assemblies—parochial, rural-decanal, diocesan, and National—there is the comprehensive directive: "All representatives may be of either sex." In 1929 the Church adopted the Representation of the Laity Measure, confirming the previous action and using the same words. The present Archbishop of Canterbury reports that the results have been good. After thirty years of eligibility for membership in the House of Laity, there were in 1950 82 women delegates of a total membership of 340.

The Church of England in Canada opened its governing House to women in 1943. This Church reports that the reason that compelled it to open its membership to women was their outstanding contributions to the life of the Church. It testifies that the women who have served have shown great competence. In the 1949 house there was only one woman member.

New Zealand, prompted by the Lambeth resolution, has permitted women to serve as voting delegates since 1922. In spite of this long-standing permission, the 1950 House of Laity was entirely masculine.

The Church of India, Pakistan, Burma, and Ceylon was constituted in 1927. The act which set up its legislative body made women eligible for membership. Ten served in this capacity in 1950.

In South Africa women have been made eligible for voting membership in the House of Laity only since 1950. A resolution to that end was adopted by the 1949 Synod and confirmed in 1950.<sup>1</sup>

In Wales women have been represented in the Church Councils since the 1920 disestablishment of the Church. In 1950, 88 women served in the House of Laity. Their leaders say that they are useful, that few of them speak in the meetings, but when they do, their contribution is helpful.

In The Episcopal Church in Scotland, there are no lay persons, male or female, in the Provincial Synod, but some women serve on appointed Councils.

In Australia for some years now women have been eligible for election to synods. So far, however, no woman has ever been elected to General Synod, though there is no hindrance to such a step.

SUMMARY OF PRACTICES IN THE ANGLICAN COMMUNION

The mother Church and five of our sister Churches admit women as members of the House of Laity. Neither one of the remaining two branches excludes women where laymen are permitted.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH IN AMERICA

Since General Convention is the parish meeting writ large, it is well to look at the facts as they exist in our own Church, particularly at the diocesan and parish levels. The difficulty of getting adequate information is complicated by ambiguity of terms, for in different parts of the country various terms are applied to bodies with similar functions. From the confusion of figures amassed, however, some stand out as significant.

Of 73 dioceses replying to a questionnaire, 38 had no women serving on vestries. On the other hand 34 had some 236 vestrywomen. One permitted them but had none. In Diocesan Conventions, 27 jurisdictions reported women members, while 44 said they had no women serving at present. In Diocesan Councils, the figures are reversed. Two-thirds have women members, while one-third have none.

These figures, however they may vary, produce two notable facts germane to our consideration. The first is that there is no area of our Church's lay activity, except General Convention, from which women are generally excluded. Whether on vestries, parish councils, diocesan councils, bishop's committees, or diocesan conventions, women are now serving in these varied capacities somewhere in this Church.

The second conclusion which emerges is that the more institutional forms, such as vestries and conventions, strongly entrenched in tradition and often operating under charters difficult to change, tend to have fewer women in them than do the freer bodies like diocesan councils.

THE GENERAL CONVENTION

From its inception the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States has been strongly democratic in nature and structure. In this it reflected the temper of its day rather than that of the Church which was its ancestor, for the 1789 Constitution far exceeded, in democratic structure, anything that the Church of England had ever known. The provision for two Houses was characteristic, but the division of the lower house into orders of clergy and laymen was without precedent. At a time when Convocations of the English Church contained no laity, and were not meeting at all, when the Church was being administered by the Crown, its Ministers, and its Bishops, the new American Church had decided to include laymen.

This democracy has always characterized the Church and has been consistently apparent in General Convention even when individual dioceses were much less truly democratic. Some of the early dioceses, bound more closely to the English tradition by clergy and bishops trained in the mother country, were run largely by the clergy. Laymen were rarely consulted. Yet the autonomy of these dioceses was respected by the General Convention, even while it insisted upon its own more democratic structure. One of the great moments of our national Church's history must surely have been the recognition by the General Convention, at a time of national disunity, of episcopal consecrations authorized by only one section of the Church. Nor has General Convention interfered with the right of the several jurisdictions to decide whether their councils and conventions shall include women. Such action, by autonomous dioceses, has been respected by General Convention throughout our history.

In 1946 and 1949 certain autonomous jurisdictions chose women deputies to the Convention. In one case the Convention respected diocesan autonomy; in the other it made a clear break with the past policy in this matter. The right of the House to constitute its own membership from duly elected deputies, properly accredited, was in 1949 interpreted to mean the right of the House to constitute its own membership from duly elected male deputies, properly accredited.

It is obvious that this last exclusion fails to respect the autonomy of certain dioceses.

SUMMARY AND CONCLUSION

The Commission has cited the figures that indicate the degree to which women already participate in the life as well as the work of the Church. It believes that these signify a slow but certain recognition on the Church's part of the fact that women are truly and wholly members of it. This seems inevitably to involve the right of individual dioceses to choose the deputies whom they wish to choose, whether they be men or women. In order to effect this, our report concludes with two recommendations, which are embodied in a resolution to the Houses of Convention:

1. Because of the theological and historical positions stated above, and after careful consideration of their practical implications, this Commission states that it believes there is no basis of distinction in principle between men and women as lay persons in the Church.

2. It recommends that the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies ask their committees on Constitutional Amendments to prepare legislation to amend Article I, Section 4 of the Constitution to read: "Lay deputies, men or women, communicants of this Church . . ." and "lay deputy, man or woman . . ." in the two places where the term "layman" or "laymen" now appears. This recommendation is embodied in the following formal resolution:

Resolved, The House of . . . concurring, that Article I, Section 4 of the Constitution be amended to read in place of the word "Laymen," "Lay Deputies, men or women," and in place of the word "Layman," "Lay Deputy, man or woman."

Note: While the majority of the members of the Commission are in agreement with the facts presented and the arguments based upon those facts, it is recognized that a minority of the members of the Commission do not grant the cogency of all the arguments so stated. The minority, nevertheless, agree to present the Resolution, since they believe that it clearly states the question on which General Convention must make its decision.

APPENDIX 35

NATIONAL COUNCIL COMMITTEE ON WORLD RELIEF AND CHURCH COOPERATION

During the triennium 1950-52 the Episcopal Church will have contributed at least $1,581,922.28 for world relief and cooperation.

This program, supervised by the Presiding Bishop and a committee of the National Council, has clothed, fed, healed, and ministered to the neediest countries in all parts of the world. Now supported chiefly by the Budget ($450,000.00 annually) this program continues the earlier program made possible by Churchmen's voluntary gifts to the annual appeal of the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief.

THE NATURE AND VALUES OF COOPERATION

Assistance has been given for the whole range of emergency relief needs through a wide spread of Churches and Christian agencies. Some times the grants are made directly to the Church or agency in answer to their direct appeal as in the cases of Anglican bishops. Other grants are made through an ecumenical agency such as the World Council of Churches and the International Missionary Council on the basis of requests which have been coordinated by them. Some grants are made to cooperative operations providing centralized services of benefit to several Churches such as the Displaced Persons Program and the Material Aid Program of Church World Service. A high degree of cooperation and coordination has been possible through these agencies with the result that duplication has been avoided, no area of need is slighted, and direct supervision has been provided.

Relief and inter-church aid have become the most tangible evidence of the ecumenical movement and in this we can believe that it was by God's Providence that the World Council of Churches came into being and works in close cooperation with the International Missionary Council. Thus the program of the Episcopal Church becomes part of a coordinated and co-operative program — joining forces with the Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Disciples, Congregational, Reformed and Eastern Orthodox Churches in the United States, and with the Churches in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Holland, and New Zealand, in helping their Christian brethren in Germany, France, Austria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Italy, the Holy Land, Burma, Japan, Korea and India. Some carefully supervised assistance has even gone to the Churches in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and other satellite countries.

In material terms the coordinating of resources takes on significant proportions. In 1951 the World Council of Churches alone was able to report over $9,000,000.00 in relief and interchurch aid given and received by Christian Churches through its program.

But who shall say that the spiritual and ecumenical values may not be of far greater value. Never before has it been so important for the Christian Churches to work together. Never before has it been so important for weakened and exhausted peoples to know that their Christian brothers knew of their needs and were ready to help. It has bolstered the morale of both givers and receivers to know that they are part of a world-wide cooperative Christian movement.

SERVICES TO PEOPLE

The heart of the program is people. Whether our assistance has been given in cash, contributed supplies, or material aid, and whether it is given directly or through coordinating Christian agencies, it serves the needs of men, women, and children of many races and creeds. Some examples are these:

Children and Aged People are Fed and Clothed

The Bishop in Jerusalem operates feeding stations and service centers.

In Korea, clothing and supplementary feedings are distributed under the supervision of the Military Command but supplied by Church World Service and American Relief for Korea (ARK), a church sponsored agency.

Carloads of cereals and clothing have gone to India, Germany, Japan and Greece.

Displaced Persons are Resettled

Episcopalians resettled over 2,500 DPs in the United States as part of the 60,000 resettled here by American Churches in cooperation through Church World Service.

The World Council in cooperation with the Churches in Canada, Australia and Brazil have resettled other thousands in these countries.

Your Contribution Welcomed and Cared for Refugees

Refugees, daily crossing hostile borders are sheltered and fed by church agencies in Germany, Austria, Italy, Greece and Hong Kong.

Recreational and educational equipment is supplied to still existing prisoners of war, and refugees, by the International Y.M.C.A.

In Germany, Austria, and Trieste the World Council of Churches assists the local churches in caring for and seeking employment for the "hard core" of refugees remaining in camps or finding their way into the local economy.

Because of You Sick and Aged People are Comforted

The Anglican hospital in Gaza is reopened in cooperation with the Near East Christian Council.

In Switzerland the World Council of Churches maintains a health program for exhausted clergy and church workers from all parts of Europe.

Homes for aged refugees in France, Germany and Finland are supplied with food, clothing and supplies.

Church World Service has shipped quantities of vitamins, medicaments, and hospital supplies to Europe and Asia.

The Budget Helped Train and Educate Orphans and Young People

At the request of Bishop Yashiro three schools in Japan were repaired and supplied.

Schools and orphanages of the Church in South India are assisted with supplies and teachers.

Youth camps and programs are in operation in Germany, France, Austria under the auspices of the World Council of Churches. In Berlin the World Y.W.C.A. maintains a hostel for women and girls.

The Orthodox Church in Greece has developed a much needed program for youth.

The Anglican Cathedrals in Malta and Singapore have developed centers for youth as war memorials.

Clergy and Church Workers are Trained

Sixty-nine graduate students, sponsored by their bishops, have come to the United States for further study in theology, medicine, nursing education and agriculture, from China, Japan, India, Germany, Greece, Norway, Turkey and West Africa.

Theological students of the Philippine Independent Church are assisted at St. Andrew's Seminary at the request of Bishop Binsted.

Serbian and Russian Orthodox theological students are studying at St. Sergius' Academy in Paris and at St. Vladimir's in New York.

Other grants for theological education went to St. Augustine's College, Canterbury, to Bishop's College, Calcutta, and to the Bishop of Hong Kong.

Episcopalians Support the Ministry of Other Churches

Supplementary salaries, provisions for travel and supplies went to the clergy of the Old Catholic Churches in Germany and Austria.

Vestments and supplies for worship went to Eastern Orthodox clergy in Greece, Yugoslavia, Germany and Finland.

Salary assistance for clergy and funds for simple offices for seven bishops were sent to the Presiding Bishop of the Church in Japan.

Prayer books, hymnals and Christian literature are published by the Churches in Japan, Greece and the Patriarch of Constantinople with our assistance.

Emergency Appeals are Met by Your Pledges

When hurricanes swept the island of Jamaica immediate assistance went to the Bishop of Jamaica.

The parish church and college chapel of St. Paul in Manhattan, Kansas, was helped to rebuild when destroyed by flood of the Missouri River.

Typhoon assistance was sent to Bishop Ueda of the Diocese of Hokkaido, Japan.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The attached statement gives details of the grants made by the Presiding Bishop and the Committee for the period January 1, 1950 through June 30, 1952. Some of the 1952 payments are not completed because payments are made on a monthly or quarterly basis. Some additional grants may still be made from the 1952 unappropriated balance.

In addition to the Annual Budget item of $450,000.00 the Committee has included the generous voluntary gifts which Churchmen continue to send to the Presiding Bishop's Fund for World Relief. These contributions are used as designated and they are an indication of the desire of Episcopalians to give to world relief through their Church.

Every grant is reviewed by the Committee and reported to the National Council. This is true whether the request comes directly or through one of the coordinating ecumenical bodies. Some requests call for a single grant in order to care for the need or to get the project going. Others, because of the continuing need, have been helped during each of the three years. There have been constant shifts in the program reflecting the realities in changing world conditions.

OUR CONTINUING OBLIGATION

Reports and letters of thanks to the Presiding Bishop show how the grants have been used and are evidence that the receivers know the source of the assistance. They are also evidence that the task of helping our fellow Christians must continue.

May God grant that we be such faithful stewards of His bounty and goodness to us that we be found not wanting in our duty to our fellow men!

ARTICLE I.

SECTION 1. There shall be a General Convention of this Church, consisting of the House of Bishops and the House of Deputies, which Houses shall sit and deliberate separately; and in all deliberations freedom of debate shall be allowed. Either House may originate and propose legislation, and all acts of the Convention shall be adopted and be authenticated by both Houses.

SEC. 3. At the General Convention next before the expiration of the term of office of the Presiding Bishop, it shall elect the Presiding Bishop of the Church. The House of Bishops shall choose one of the Bishops of this Church to be the Presiding Bishop of the Church by a vote of a majority of all Bishops, excluding retired Bishops not present, except that whenever two-thirds of the House of Bishops are

But if the Presiding Bishop of the Church shall resign his office as such, or if by reason of infirmity he shall become disabled, or in case of his death, the senior Bishop of this Church in the order of consecration, having jurisdiction within the United States, shall (unless the date of the next General Convention is within three months) immediately call a special meeting of the House of Bishops to be held within two months to elect a Bishop having jurisdiction in the United States to be the Presiding Bishop. In all cases of a vote by orders, the two orders shall vote separately, each Diocese having one vote in the Clerical order and one in the Lay order, and each Missionary District having a one-fourth vote in the Clerical order and a one-fourth vote in the Lay order; and the concurrence of the votes of the two orders shall be necessary to constitute a vote of the House. SEC. 7. The General Convention shall meet in every third year on the Wednesday after the first Sunday in October, unless a different day be appointed by the preceding Convention, and at the place designated by such Convention; but if there shall appear to the Presiding Bishop of the Church sufficient cause for changing the place so appointed, he may appoint another place for such meeting. Bishops so consecrated shall not be eligible to the office of Diocesan or of Bishop Coadjutor of any Diocese in the United States or be entitled to vote in the House of Bishops, nor shall they perform any act of the episcopal office in any Diocese or Missionary District of this Church, unless requested so to do by the Ecclesiastical Authority thereof. If a Bishop so consecrated shall be subsequently duly elected as a Missionary Bishop of this Church he shall then enjoy all the rights and privileges given in the Canons to Missionary Bishops.

ARTICLE IV.

In every Diocese a Standing Committee shall be appointed by the Convention thereof. When there is a Bishop in charge of the Diocese, the Standing Committee shall be his Council of Advice. In case the Episcopate of a Diocese be vacant, no proceedings toward its division shall be taken until the vacancy is filled. During a vacancy in a Missionary District, the consent of the Presiding Bishop must be had before proceedings to erect it into a Diocese are taken. When it shall appear to the satisfaction of the General Convention, by a certified copy of the proceedings and other documents and papers laid before it, that all the conditions for the formation of the new Diocese have been complied with and that it has acceded to the Constitution and Canons of this Church, such new Diocese shall thereupon be admitted to union with the General Convention.

Rights of the
the Bishop Coadjutor.

SEC. 2. In case one Diocese shall be divided into two or more Dioceses, the Bishop of the Diocese divided may elect the one to which he will be attached, and he shall thereupon become the Bishop thereof; and the Bishop Coadjutor, if there be one, may elect the one to which he shall be attached, and (if it be not the one elected by the Bishop) he shall be the Bishop thereof.

SEC. 3. In case a Diocese shall be formed out of parts of two or more Dioceses, each of the Bishops and Bishops Coadjutor of the several Dioceses out of which the new Diocese has been formed shall be entitled, in order of seniority of consecration, to the choice between his own Diocese and the new Diocese so formed. In case the new Diocese shall not be so chosen, it shall have the right to choose its own Bishop.

SEC. 4. Whenever a new Diocese is formed and erected out of an existing Diocese, it shall be subject to the Constitution and Canons of the Diocese out of which it was formed, except as local circumstances may prevent, until the same be altered in accordance with such Constitution and Canons by the Convention of the new Diocese. Whenever a Diocese is formed out of two or more existing Dioceses, it shall be subject to the Constitution and Canons of that one of the said existing Dioceses to which the greater number of clergymen shall have belonged prior to the erection of such new Diocese, except as local circumstances may prevent, until the same be altered in accordance with such Constitution and Canons by the Convention of the new Diocese.

Nor shall such new Diocese be formed if thereby any existing Diocese shall be so reduced as to contain fewer than twelve Parishes and twelve Presbyters who have been residing therein and settled and qualified as above provided.

jurisdiction.

SEC. 2. The General Convention may accept a cession of the territorial jurisdiction of a part of a Diocese when such cession shall have been proposed by the Bishop and the Convention of such Diocese, and consent thereto shall have been given by three-fourths of the Parishes in the ceded territory, and also by the same ratio of the Parishes within the remaining territory.

Retrocession
jurisdiction.

Any territorial jurisdiction or any part of the same, which may have been accepted from a Diocese by the General Convention under the foregoing provision, may be retroceded to the said Diocese by such joint action of all the several parties as is herein required for its cession, save that in the case of retrocession of territory the consent of parishes within the territory retroceded shall not be necessary; provided that such action of the General Convention, whether of cession or retrocession, shall be by a vote of two-thirds of all the Bishops present and voting and by a vote of two-thirds of the House of Deputies voting by orders.

Organization of Missionary Districts.

Of the Ordination of Deacons and Priests in Special Cases.

Of Ministers who have not received Episcopal ordination.

Sec. 1. In case any Minister who has not received episcopal ordination shall desire to receive such orders from a Bishop of this Church to the Diaconate and to the Priesthood without giving up or denying his fellowship or his ministry in the Communion to which he belongs, the Bishop of the Diocese or Missionary District in which he lives, with the advice and consent of the Standing Committee or the Council of Advice, may confirm and ordain him; Provided, also, that the congregation, if any, in which such Minister officiates, shall declare, through its proper representatives, its desire for such ordination on behalf of its Minister, and its purpose to receive in future the ministrations and the Sacraments of one who shall be ordained to the Priesthood by a Bishop.

Sec. 2. The Minister desiring to be so ordained shall satisfy the Bishop that he has resided in the United States at least one year; that he has been duly baptized with water in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; that he holds the historic faith of the Church as contained in the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed; that there is no sufficient objection on grounds physical, mental, moral or spiritual; that the Ecclesiastical Authority to which he is subject in the Communion to which he belongs consents to such ordination; that he will not knowingly admit to the Holy Communion any person who has not been baptized with water in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost; and further, the Bishop shall charge him that the Church hopefully anticipates the use of the Apostolic practice of Confirmation among his people.

Pre-ordination requirements.

Sec. 3. At the time of such ordination the person so to be ordained shall subscribe and make in the presence of the Bishop a declaration that he believes the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments to be the Word of God and to contain all things necessary to salvation; that in the ministration of Baptism he will unfailingly baptize with water in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. He shall also undertake that in the celebration of the Holy Communion he will invariably use the elements of bread and wine, and will include in the service (1) a Prayer of Consecration, embodying the words and acts of our Lord in the Institution of the Sacrament, an Offering, an Invocation of the Holy Spirit and a Thanksgiving, (2) the Lord's Prayer, and (3) the Apostles' Creed or the Nicene Creed as the symbol of the faith and unity of the Holy Catholic Church. He shall also agree that when thereto invited by the Bishop of this Church having jurisdiction in the place where he lives, he will (unless unavoidably prevented) meet with such Bishop for Holy Communion and for counsel and cooperation; and that he will hold himself answerable to the Bishop of this Church having jurisdiction in the place where he lives, or, if there be no such Bishop, to the Presiding Bishop of this Church, in case he be called in question with respect to error of faith or of conduct.

Procedure
of Trial.

Sec. 4. In case a person so ordained be charged with error of faith or of conduct he shall have reasonable notice of the charge and reasonable opportunity to be heard, and the procedure shall be similar to the procedure in the case of a Clergyman of this Church charged with the like offense. The sentence shall always be pronounced by the Bishop and shall be such as a Clergyman of this Church would be liable to. It shall be certified to the Ecclesiastical Authority to which the defendant is responsible in any other Communion. If he shall have been tried before a tribunal of the Communion in which he has exercised his ministry, the judgment of such tribunal proceeding in the due exercise of its jurisdiction shall be taken as conclusive evidence of facts thereby adjudged.

Conditions of

Sec. 5. A Minister so ordained may officiate according to the prescribed order of this Church, in a Diocese or Missionary District of this Church when licensed by the Ecclesiastical Authority thereof, but he shall not become the Rector or a Minister of any Parish or Congregation of this Church until he shall have subscribed and made to the Ordinary a declaration in writing, whereby he shall solemnly engage to conform to the Doctrine, Discipline and Worship of this Church. Upon his making such declaration and being duly elected Rector or Minister of a Parish or Congregation of this Church, and complying with the Canons of this Church and of the Diocese or Missionary District in that behalf, he shall become for all purposes a Minister of this Church.

Sec. 6 (a). If any Minister who has not received Episcopal ordination desires to be made a Deacon or to be ordered Priest in this Church, without giving up or denying his fellowship or his ministry in the Communion to which he belongs, after the Bishop of the Diocese is satisfied that he has resided in the United States at least one year; that he has been duly baptized with water in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; that he holds the historic faith of the Church as contained in the Apostles' Creed and the Nicene Creed; that there is no sufficient objection on grounds physical, mental, moral or spiritual; the Bishop with the consent of the Standing Committee or of the Council of Advice of the Missionary District obtained after the canonical requirements precedent to ordination as set forth in this Canon have been fulfilled may make him a Deacon or order him Priest. At the time of such ordination the Bishop may read this preface to the service:

A. B., who has already been ordained a minister of Christ, and desires to be a Deacon (or Priest) in this Church, has satisfied the Ecclesiastical Authority of this Diocese that he accepts the Doctrine, Discipline and Worship of this Church. We are about to confer upon him authority to minister in this Church.

(b). The letters of ordination in such cases may contain the words: Recognizing the ministry which he has already received and hereby adding to that commission the grace and authority of Holy Orders as required for the exercise of the ministry of this Church.

CANON 37

(c). If any minister who has been ordained to the Diaconate or to the Priesthood by a Bishop whose authority to convey such orders is open to question, shall desire to exercise his ministry in this Church, the Bishop of the Diocese in which he resides shall, if necessary, baptize him and confirm him, and with the advice and consent of the Standing Committee or of the Council of Advice of the Missionary District after all canonical requirements precedent to ordination have been fulfilled, may ordain him conditionally to the Diaconate and to the Priesthood. The Bishop at the time of such ordination shall read this preface to the service:

A. B., who was ordained by a Bishop whose authority is not recognized by this Church, has now satisfied the Bishop of the Diocese that he accepts the Doctrine, Discipline and Worship of this Church, and desires conditional ordination. We propose to give assurance that A. B. is qualified to minister in this Church.

Sec. 7. In this Canon the action to be taken by a Bishop is limited to that of the Bishop of a Diocese or Missionary District, having jurisdiction therein.

Testimonials of Bishop-elect to be sent to Secretary of House of Deputies.

Sec. 1 (a). Whenever the Church in any Diocese shall desire the ordination and consecration of a Bishop-elect, if the election shall have taken place within three months before a meeting of the General Convention, the Standing Committee of the said Diocese shall, by their President, or by some person or persons specially appointed, forward to the Secretary of the House of Deputies, evidence of the election of the Bishop-elect by the Convention of the Diocese, together with evidence of his having been duly ordered Deacon and Priest, and also a testimonial, signed by a constitutional majority of such Convention, in the following words, viz.:

We, whose names are hereunder written, fully sensible how important it is that the Sacred Order and Office of a Bishop should not be unworthily conferred, and firmly persuaded that it is our duty to bear testimony on this solemn occasion without partiality or affection, do, in the presence of Almighty God, testify that the Reverend A. B. is not, so far as we are informed, justly liable to evil report, either for error in religion or for viciousness of life; and that we know of no impediment on account of which he ought not to be ordained and consecrated to that Holy Office. We do, moreover, jointly and severally declare that we believe him to be of such sufficiency in good learning, of such soundness in the Faith, and of such virtuous and pure manners and godly conversation, that he is apt and meet to exercise the Office of a Bishop to the honour of God and the edifying of His Church, and to be a wholesome example to the flock of Christ.

(Signed)

The Secretary of such Convention shall certify upon this testimonial that it has been signed by a constitutional majority thereof.

There shall also be forwarded with the testimonial and other documents a certificate from two medical doctors, who shall be chosen by the Presiding Bishop, that they have thoroughly examined the Bishop-elect and have not discovered in his physical, mental or nervous condition any reason why it would not be wise for him to undertake the work for which he has been chosen.

(1). A person seeking to be ordained and consecrated a Bishop for a foreign land, within the purport of Article III. of the Constitution, must present to the Presiding Bishop of this Church a statement in writing subscribed by him setting forth his name, and the date and place of his birth; his Ecclesiastical and Civil status; whether he is in Priest's Orders, and, if so, the time and place and Episcopal source of his admission thereto, and to the Diaconate; the fact of his election or appointment, by a body of Christian people in a foreign land, to be, when duly ordained and consecrated, their Bishop; the corporate name under which such body is or desires and intends to be known as a distinct part of the Catholic Church of Christ; and the land wherein and the civil government under which it claims and purposes to exercise its jurisdiction as such; that the position of this body of Christian people in the land wherein they dwell is such as to justify its distinct organization as a Church therein; that the members of that body will receive the person consecrated for them by the Episcopate of this Church as a true and lawful Chief

Pastor, will suitably maintain him as such, and will render to him all due canonical obedience in the exercise of his proper Episcopal functions; that by the lawful authority recognized in the body applying through him for the Episcopate there has been prescribed for use in that body a Book of Offices containing the Creeds commonly called the Apostles' and Nicene Creeds, together with forms for the Administration of the Sacraments of Baptism and the Lord's Supper, an Ordinal, an Office for the Administration of Confirmation by the Laying on of Hands, and an Order for the public reading of the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testaments, in which Book the Faith and Order of the Church, as this Church hath received the same, are clearly set forth and established as the Faith and Order of the Church in which the Episcopate is as aforesaid desired to be settled and maintained; and that the person presenting himself for consecration is, in his life and teaching, in entire conformity with the principles of such Faith and Order, that he is not justly liable to evil report for error in religion or viciousness of life, and that he has no knowledge of any impediment on account of which he ought not to be consecrated to the Office of a Bishop.

(2). In case a Bishop should already have been consecrated for a foreign land under the provisions of Article III. of the Constitution, and application should be made for the consecration of a second or of a third Bishop for the same country; the judgment in writing of the Bishop or Bishops already exercising jurisdiction in that land concerning the proposed consecration shall be presented to the Presiding Bishop together with the papers required in the foregoing Clause.

Presiding Bishop to take order for the consecration.

Sec. 2. If after consideration of the statement and evidence so presented, and of any other evidence of which they may be cognizant, a majority of the Bishops of this Church entitled to vote in the House of Bishops shall consent to the proposed ordination and consecration under the provisions of Article III. of the Constitution, the Presiding Bishop shall take order therefor in the same manner as order is prescribed to be taken by him in the consecration of Bishops in this Church, the Order of Consecration being conformed, as nearly as may be in the judgment of the Bishops consecrating, to that used in this Church.

Sec. 3. Immediately after a consecration as herein provided shall have taken place, the Presiding Bishop shall lodge the original record of the statement and evidence above required, together with such other papers and documents as he may deem essential to the true and complete history of the proceedings, with the Registrar of the General Convention for preservation among the Archives of this Church.

Sec. 4. Whenever a Bishop shall have reason to believe that there are in circulation rumors, reports, or allegations affecting his personal or official character, he may, acting in conformity with the written advice and consent of any two Bishops of this Church, demand in writing of the Presiding Bishop that investigation of said rumors, reports and allegations be made.

The Board of Inquiry shall investigate such charges, or the said rumors or reports, as the case may be. If a majority of the whole Board shall determine that there is not sufficient ground to present the accused Bishop for trial, it shall forward the charges and a certificate of the finding thereon to the Presiding Bishop. He shall send the same to the Secretary of the House of Bishops, by him to be deposited in the archives of the House; and a true copy of these papers shall be given to the accused Bishop. If the Presiding Bishop shall be of opinion that the affidavit states grounds sufficient to justify reopening the case, he shall reconvene the Board, which shall determine, first, whether as a matter of fact the evidence set forth in such affidavit is really new evidence and not merely cumulative; and if the Board shall find that the evidence so tendered is new, it shall proceed to receive and to consider such evidence, and any further evidence that it may deem proper to receive; and in the light of all the evidence the Board shall determine whether there are sufficient grounds for presentment. Sec. 5. The decision of the Court, as to all the charges and specifications shall be reduced to writing, and signed by those who assent to it, and the Court shall also, if the accused is found guilty of any charge or specification, determine and embody in the written decision the penalty which it shall adjudge should be imposed upon the accused, which penalty may be admonition or suspension or deposition from the ministry, as shall be by the Court adjudged; and the decision so signed shall be recorded as the judgment

Of a Minister in any Diocese or Missionary District Chargeable with Offense in Another.

Sec. 1. If a Minister belonging to any Diocese or Missionary District shall have conducted himself in any other Diocese or Missionary District in such a way as to be liable to presentment under the provisions of Canon 53, the Ecclesiastical Authority thereof shall give notice of the same to the Ecclesiastical Authority where he is canonically resident, exhibiting, with the information given, reasonable ground for presuming its truth. If the Ecclesiastical Authority, after due notice given, shall omit, for the space of three months, to proceed against the offending Minister, or shall request the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary District in which the offense or offenses are alleged to have been committed, to proceed against him, it shall be within the power of the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary District, within which the offense or offenses are alleged to have been committed, to institute proceedings according to the mode provided by the said Diocese or Missionary District.

Sec. 2. ##### Of Renunciation of the Ministry.

Order of proceedings.

Sec. 1. If any Minister of this Church not under presentment shall declare, in writing, to the Ecclesiastical Authority of the Diocese or Missionary District in which he is canonically resident, his renunciation of the Ministry of this Church, and his desire to be removed therefrom, it shall be the duty of the Ecclesiastical Authority to record the declaration and request so made. The Bishop, being satisfied that the person so declaring is not amenable for any canonical offense, and that his renunciation of the Ministry is not occasioned by foregoing misconduct or irregularity, but is voluntary and for causes, assigned or known, which do not affect his moral character, shall defer formal action upon the declaration for three months, and meanwhile shall lay the matter before the clerical members of the Standing Committee (or of the Council of Advice), and with their advice and consent he may pronounce that such renunciation is accepted, and that the Minister is released from the obligations of the Ministerial office, and that he is deprived of the right to exercise the gifts and spiritual authority as a Minister of God's Word and Sacraments conferred on him in his Ordination. He shall also declare in pronouncing and recording such action that it was for causes which do not affect the man's moral character, and shall, if desired, give a certificate to this effect to the person so removed from the Ministry. In all other cases of Renunciation of the Ministry, where there may be a question of foregoing misconduct or irregularity, the Bishop shall not pronounce sentence of Deposition save with the consent of the Standing Committee of the Diocese or the Council of Advice of the Missionary District. The Bishop shall give due notice of every such Removal or Deposition from the Ministry, in the form in which the same is recorded, and in accordance with the provisions of Canon 64, Sec. 3 (b).

Sec. 2. If a Minister making the aforesaid declaration of renunciation of his Ministry be under presentment for any canonical offense, or if he shall have been placed on trial for the same, the Ecclesiastical Authority to whom such declaration is made, shall not consider or act upon such declaration until after the said presentment shall have been dismissed, or the said trial shall have been concluded and sentence, if any,

If a Bishop abandon the communion of this Church, either by an open renunciation of the Doctrine, Discipline, or Worship of the Church, or by formal admission into any religious body not in communion with the same, or in any other manner, it shall be the duty of the Standing Committee of the Diocese or the Council of Advice of the Missionary District of said Bishop to certify the fact to the Presiding Bishop, and with such certificate to send a statement of the acts or declarations which show such abandonment, which certificate and statement shall be recorded by the Presiding Bishop. The Presiding Bishop, with the consent of the three senior Bishops having jurisdiction in the United States, shall then suspend the said Bishop from the exercise of his Office and Ministry until such time as the House of Bishops shall investigate the matter.

Sec. 2. The Presiding Bishop shall forthwith give notice to the said Bishop of such suspension, and that unless he shall, within six months, make declaration that the facts alleged in said certificate are false, and shall demand a trial, he will be liable to deposition from the Ministry. And if such declaration be not made within six months, as aforesaid, it shall be the duty of the Presiding Bishop to convene the House of Bishops to consider the case; and if the said House, by a majority of the whole number of Bishops entitled to vote, shall give their consent, the Presiding Bishop shall depose the said Bishop from the Ministry, and pronounce and record in the presence of two or more Bishops, that he has been so deposed.

Of the Abandonment of the Communion of this Church by a Presbyter or Deacon.

Sec. 1. If any Presbyter or Deacon shall, without availing himself of the provisions of Canon 60, abandon the communion of this Church, by an open renunciation of the Doctrine, Discipline, or Worship of this Church, or by a formal admission into any religious body not in communion with the same, or in any other way, it shall be the duty of the Standing Committee of the Diocese or the Council of Advice of the Missionary District in which the said Presbyter or Deacon is canonically resident to certify the fact to the Bishop, or, if there be no Bishop, to the Bishop of an adjacent Diocese or Missionary District, and with such certificate to send a statement of the acts or declarations which show such abandonment; which certificate and statement shall be recorded, and shall be taken and deemed by the Ecclesiastical Authority as an equivalent to a renunciation of the Ministry by the Minister himself; and the said Bishop shall then suspend the said Minister for six months. Notice shall then be given by the said Bishop to the Minister so suspended that, unless he shall within six months transmit to the Bishop a retraction of such acts, or make declaration that the facts alleged in said certificate are false, he will be deposed from the Ministry.
